CALL ON N. KOREANS TO SURRENDER

Disease Threatens Million People Homeless, Hungry

SEOUL, Korea, Sept. 30 — (Reuters)—Famine and disease face Seoul's 1,000,000 inhabitants. Food stock in the war-battered South Korean capital are exhausted. The new crop of rice will not be harvested for several weeks.

One hundred and fifty tons of rice are being rushed to Seoul from Japan, United Nations officials said tonight. It was doubtful, however, if the food could be distributed for several days.

Meanwhile groups of civilians cluster around American soldiers in the streets of Seoul. They can say only one word over and over again "Chop chop" (food).

Soldiers give away most of their rations.

The accumulated filth and garbage of almost a week lies in heaps on the roads, in the muddy alleyways between rows of crowded shacks and in the houses themselves.

Bodies Unburied

Over all hangs the sickly smell of hundreds of bodies lying on the sidewalks. Some of them have been there for four of five days.

City officials said an emergency request had been made to the United Nations forces to spray the entire city with disinfectant. Marine spray trucks have used all their available stocks to disinfect their own camps.

The blazing buildings that lighted the city during the three-day battle of Seoul were replaced tonight by a thousand camp fires.

People in rags, camping out on heaps of rubble where their homes had once been, tried vainly to warm themselves by these fires as they huddled together in the chill wind.

Hundreds of the South Korean flags and "Welcome United Nations Forces" banners which bedecked Seoul when the battle was finally won vanished tonight. The shivering people had made clothes of them.

Dangerous Luncheon

BAY CITY., Tex., Sept. 30 —(AP)—Thirty-seven persons, including five "festival queen" candidates, were taken to a hospital Friday with what a doctor said was food poisoning. All were among 350 persons attending a luncheon which launched the Bay City rice festival today. A doctor said he believes all will recover.

50-Mill Rate Means $92,171 Revenue Jump

Assuming a rate of 50 mills for convenience and close approximation, the council of 1951 may expect an increase of $92,171 in collectible taxes.

That is an anticipation of additional revenue by way of taxation on property and business assessments.

The question members of the council are going to be pondering is whether this prospective amount will be sufficient to absorb an increase in municipal expenditure, and avoid ascending into the 50-mill column.

It is altogether likely that City Treasurer S. A. Couper and City Auditor Edward Humpage know right now the general answer to that query.

The taxable assessment property and business, on which the 1951 mill rate will be levied, is $39,310,870. as compared with the 1940 figure of $37,467,450. an increase of $1,843,420.

Not Too Happy

On that amount a 50-mill rate would raise the sum of $92,171. And the opinion may be ventured that the city fathers of next February could hardly be happy about the job of striking the tax rate if they had only that amount of new revenue to offset accumulating carrying charges on all the work that has to be done during these last two years.

That comment is based on the council's desire early this year to hold the rate at the 50-mill level.

They were forced to compromise at 50½ mills for Public School supporters and 49½ mills for Separate School supporters.

The receipts other than taxes this year were estimated at $252,-361. They were taken into the ultimate reckoning of the tax rate for this year.

Debenture Charges Up

It has been understood from treasury intimations now and then during the year that debenture charges for 1951 will be considerably higher than the corresponding total for 1950.

At any rate the item of $92,171 considered by itself is not a cheery access of new revenue for the council that takes over next January.

Say Dollar Likely Be Revalued

Foreign Exchange Ordered Frozen, Cabinet Has Session

OTTAWA, Sept. 30—(CP)—The government meets today to consider foreign exchange rates, and the general expectation is that the Canadian dollar will be returned to near-parity in terms of the United States dollar.

Trading in foreign exchange by authorized dealers was indefinitely suspended Friday night on instructions of the Foreign Exchange Control Board, an agency under the finance department which has controlled foreign exchange since the first week of the Second World War.

Finance Minister Abbott made the anouncement in a pres release. He made a similar announcement when the dollar was revalued at its present rate—9.1 per cent. discount—a year ago.

All signs and unofficial rumors have pointed for months to a revaluation of the dollar as Canada's exchange position has showed swift day-to-day improvement.

The brief announcement, without amplification or explanation, added that the Cabinet today would consider action with respect to exchange rates.

It said also that the matter was being discussed with the international monetary fund and that "it would be inadvisable for.... the public to form conclusions as to what action would be taken until an official announcement is made."

Likely Course

However, there seems little doubt that the announcement was a forewarning that the dollar would be revalued.

It is believed the announcement will come later today or Sunday so that normal trading may be resumed Tuesday at the latest.

Recent trading developments have piled up the Canadian balance of United States exchange in Canada to a figure believed to be around $1,500,000,000—more than what is considered a safe margin.

This is in comparison to the low mark of around $500,000,000 to which it fell when Canada embarked upon an austerity program in November, 1947, curtailing a large volume of imports from the United States.

The Canadian dollar was fixed at an arbitrary value of about 10 per cent discount in relation to the United States dollar at the start of the Second World War and held there throughout the war and after.

It was put back to one half of one per cent discount—virtual parity—July 1, 1946, and remained there until the action of a year ago when the pound sterling was drastically devalued and Canada dropped the Canadian dollar back to virtually the wartime level in terms of the United States dollar.

Putting the dollar back to virtual parity might mean a drop in the cost of what are considered living essentials, because it will cost less to buy in the United States. Some Canadian commodities exported now to the U. S. because of the enhanced value of the dollar may be made available to Canadian consumers at lower prices.

Were They Surprised

OTTAWA, Sept. 30—(CP)—City police cars raced through Ottawa's noon hour traffic Friday in answer to a general burglar alarm from the Bank of Canada. The police squad doubled through workers hurrying from the bank for lunch and found the five-man RCMP guard standing serenely in the bank. The alarm: A short circuit.

Propellor Gives Miss Canada Trouble Again

PICTON, Sept. 30 (CP)—Miss Canada's IV's scheduled assault on the world water speed record was delayed today because of propellor trouble.

Mechanics gave the sleek powerboat a trial spin and said they got her up to 3,000 revolutions a minute. But they said her English-made steel propellor was "unsuited" to the water.

They said they would replace the English prop with a Canadian made one and would give the craft another trial spin before making a run at the record later today.

Perfect Conditions

Observers said weather conditions were "almost perfect". There was a four-inch chop on the Bay of Quinte course, and a slight breeze was blowing across the course from the east.

The course — a measured mile — runs north and south on the bay. Miss Canada must take two runs in her record attempt — one south and another north.

This will be Miss Canada's last chance to prove she has what it takes to set a world mark.

The big, shark-nosed speedboat has just been a headache to owner-driver Harold Wilson of Ingersoll, in years of fruitless campaigns aimed at grabbing a chunk of international glory.

He has until Tuesday to make his attempt under American power boat association rules. If the weather stays bad over that period, he can apply for an extension.

Bad Cross-chop

Friday he was hampered by a cross-chop as he breezed to three trials at undisclosed speeds. Then he took the boat from the water to have her propellor shaved.

As Wilson moves onto the course for his last try, he and his boat have a long series of disappointments to live down.

Launched in June 1949, Miss Canada challenged for the Harmsworth Trophy a month later. She developed supercharger trouble, finishing third among the four starters in the first heat, fourth in the second.

Propellor trouble fouled up a shot at the record here in August, 1949, and an effort to win the silver cup at Detroit the following month.

In October Miss Canada set a North American mark at Picton, but broke a propellor shaft in her effort to smash the world mark.

This summer it was steering-shaft trouble that sent her wobbling to the sidelines with a smashed panel in her hull in the Harmsworth Trophy race.

Believe MacArthur's Terms Likely Strong, Unconditional Surrender

South Koreans Ask UN Forces Cross 38th Parallel At Once, Planes, Guns Hammer Red Territory

TOKYO, Sept. 30—(AP)—Authoritative sources said today Gen. Douglas MacArthur in a broadcast statement tomorrow will call upon the North Korean government to surrender. The broadcasts, in the Korean language, will be made in the General's name. They are scheduled to begin at noon and are to be repeated regularly. The sources did not reveal the terms which MacArthur would offer. Presumably they will be strong and broadcasts may call for unconditional surrender.

There is evidence that North Korean officials listen regularly to Tokyo broadcasts and it was expected they would hear the surrender broadcasts.

In addition, thousands of leaflets containing the surrender terms will be dropped over North Korea, the sources said.

Divisions Gather

MacArthur's reported demands for surrender will be made while four South Korean divisions gather along parallel 8 which divides North and South Korea, awaiting orders to cross the boundary.

There was general belief in informed circles that if the North Korean Reds refuse to surrender, South Korean forces will be permitted to cross the parallel and other troops will be kept south of the boundary unless they are needed.

All speakers in Seoul liberation ceremony Friday emphasized that North Korean soldiers could throw down their arms without fear of reprisal against themselves or their families.

The Pusan radio reported at 7 a.m. tonight that the South Korean assembly today unanimously approved a message requesting the United Nations forces to cross the 38th parallel.

Four-Point Message

The broadcast, monitored by the Korean informant press here, said the request was one of four agreed upon at the assembly meeting.

The four-point message requested:

1. Immediate realization of the eight proposals made to the U.N. General Assembly by the South Korean representative.

U.S. Destroyer Hits Mine, 19 Die, Missing

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (AP) —The navy reported Friday the the U.S. destroyer Brush, hit a floating mine in the Sea of Japan Wednesday. Nine men were killed and 10 injured by the explosion. Five others are missing.

A large underwater hole was torn in the left side of the 2,200-ton destroyer, but the ship made the Port of Sasebo, Japan, under her own power after emergency repairs at the scene.

The navy gave this account:

The destroyer hit the mine off shore from the City of Tanchon, North Korea.

A navy patrol plane dropped life rafts to three men in the water; several other men, knocked overboard by the explosion also were rescued from the water.

Others Rescued

One man swam to the nearby Island of Kei-to. Other men were picked up by the destroyer Maddox, which was accompanying the Brush.

Later, other destroyers and cruisers in the area took aboard some injured. The Brush reached Sasebo.

It was the first time since the Korean war began that there has been any mention of mines in reports on naval activities in those waters.

The navy's announcement said only that it was a floating mine, leaving unanswered the question whether it was North Korean. Mines from the Second World War still turn up occasionally.

Police Nab 2 Ontario Youths For Stealing, Wrecking Car

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Sept. 30—(AP)—Two Ontario youths who, police said, wrecked an automobile owned by a Lockport, N.Y., man, and later escaped in another car, were held in jail here today. Police Sgt. Elbert W. Lance identified the youths as Guy F. Simmons, 19, of North Bay and Gordon Melosh, 20, of Kingston.

Lance said both have been charged with larceny in connection with the theft of a car owned by Wilton E. Briggs, of Williamsport.

The policeman said the two were picked up south of here Thursday in the Briggs car after they wrecked a car, owned by Frederick N. Remick, of Lockport, N.Y.

Lance said police now are investigating a report that the Remick car also was stolen.

Overpowered Driver

The policeman said the two youths left the wrecked car and obtained a ride from Briggs who was passing. They later overpowered Briggs, Lance said, tied him up and dumped him out along a country lane, taking his pocketbook and car.

Lance said Briggs managed to free himself and notified police.

The two youths were picked up near Milton, about 15 miles from here.

Lance said further charges probably will be brought against the pair after completion of an investigation.

Barn Burned Damage $10,000

Fire on Friday destroyed a barn and threshing equipment on the farm of James Sweeney, RR 1, Douro. Damage to the barn and machinery was estimated at more than $10,000

Neighbors gathered quickly after the blaze started, and formed a bucket brigade, but could do nothing to halt the flames. The fire started about 9 a.m., and today the grain is still smouldering, although the bulk of the blaze was out by Friday evening.

"Everything went at once," said Mrs. Sweeney. "There wasn't much smoke, but the flames were pretty high."

All animals in the barn were removed, but milking equipment was destroyed. The threshing mill was owned by Thomas Heffernan, RR 1, Douro.

A driving shed between the house and the barn was slightly damaged. Mrs. Sweeney said that if the wind had been toward the house, all the buildings might have burned.

Dockland Leaflets Seen Strike Prelude

LONDON, Sept. 30 — (CP) — Leaflets were distributed today in London's dockland, inviting workers to a meeting which may be the prelude to strike action.

"Rally in your thousands," the leaflets urged. "Prepare to defend our wages and conditions against increased prices. Enough of procrastination."

It was suggested that an "important decision" may be taken at the meeting, scheduled for Sunday.

Leaflets were distributed by an unofficial organization called the London Port Workers' Committee. In a broadcast last Wednesday, Labor Minister George Isaacs linked this committee with what he called a "Communist conspiracy" to disrupt British industry.

Man 120 Gets Pension

PARIS, Sept. 30 —(Reuters)—Bereska Moktar, an Algerian who claims to be 120 years old, was granted an old-age pension Friday. Moktar says he joined the French army in 1848, fought in the Crimean War, defended Paris against the Prussians in 1871, took part in the Malagasy Campaign and retired at the beginning of the century. Moktar is blind and nearly deaf, but full of old soldier's tales.

Have Secret Meeting

TORONTO, Sept. 30 CP)—An arbitration board headed by Judge J. A. McGibbon of Lindsay, originally scheduled to discuss Toronto-area milk prices only, met behind closed doors Friday to study the wholesale price of milk in the rest of Ontario instead. No announcement was made on the deliberations.

Landslide Buries Town Bulldozers At Work

SURTE, Sweden, Sept. 30 (AP) —Bulldozers worked throughout the night to clear rubble spread Friday over this industrial town of 2,000 by a landslide which killed one woman, injured 75 other persons and made more than 300 homeless.

At least 30 houses were destroyed when a 1,500-foot-thick chunk of earth, loosened by weeks of rain, came roaring down on the town.

Communications throughout the area were paralyzed, and ship traffic was halted by the mass of clay which clogged the waters of the Goeta River, one of Sweden's most important transport lines.

The railroad station was almost swallowed up by the avalanche of earth. It took rescue workers nearly two hours to burrow through the roof and free Miss Ragnhild Ryda, the agent.

Elephant Takes Stroll Sets City In Furore

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30 (AP) — A runaway circus elephant went for a stroll Friday the busy express highway here.

A traffic snar resulted. The screech of police sirens mingled with cries of "he went thataway."

Louie—she's a four-ton female —broke down large sections of steel fences bordering the highway. It took roustabouts and police 15 minutes to capture the animal in Forest Park, across the highway from the Cole Brothers Circus' winter quarters.

"If there was a doghouse for elephants, Louie would be in it," said circus superintendent Paul Jones. "We've got to pay for those fences."

Man Kidnapped Trio Gets $1,600

TORONTO, Sept. 30—(CP) — Three gunmen escaped with $1,-600 in a daring kidnap-robbery on busy Queen St. in downtown Toronto Friday.

Seized and robbed was William Gold, 42, manager of the Barclay hotel, who lay bound with bailing wire in a deserted west-end alley for more than hour before he was able to free himself and report the robbery.

A suspect was picked up for questioning a few minutes later, but released.

Police said Gold was leaving the Queen and McCaul St. branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia after withdrawing the $1,600 when the three men, all well-dressed, forced him into his own car at gunpoint.

Train Strikes Truck Driver Badly Hurt

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 30 (CP). —Earl Fox, 28, of Belleville, a relief driver for Weston Bakeries Ltd., was critically injured today when his truck was hit by a train at the Ivanhoe crossing 17 miles north of here.

Doctors said Fox is not expected to live.

The accident happened in a dense fog, police said. Force of the impact by the CPR westbound through freight carried the truck half a mile.

George Norton, a section foreman, joined the train crew in pulling Fox from the wreckage.

Ottawa Raises Bacon Subsidy

OTTAWA, Sept. 30—(CP)—The government Friday night hoisted its bacon subsidy from 3½ cents to 4¾ cents a pound, in what appeared to be a new drive to fill the 1950 Anglo-Canadian bacon contract.

The subsidy increase goes into effect Monday. It will mean that bacon shippers to the government will get 33¾ cents a pound for all grades of Wiltshire sides, instead of the previous 32½ cents, bases delivery at seaboard.

Saves Two Children In Ottawa Blaze

OTTAWA, Sept. 30—(CP)—A young housewife Friday saved two young children from being burned to death when a two-alarm fire swept through a two-storey, four-door brick row at 846 to 854 Gladstone Ave., in Ottawa's westend district.

The blaze made 26 persons homeless and caused damage estimated at $25,000.

The fire started in a wooden shed at the rear of Mrs. Arthur Phillipe's home at 848 Gladstone Ave., raced through her home and then spread quickly to the remainder of the row.

Mrs. Philippe ran to the shed when she noticed the flames and saved three-year-old Susan Gervais and her 21-month-old sister, Lise, who were playing there.

Thinking someone else might be trapped upstairs in the shed, the young housewife turned to go back in but was overcome by the dense smoke and was dragged away by firemen.

Communist Shock Troops Plan Riots In Cologne

COLOGNE, Germany, Sept. 30. (AP) — Cologne police officials reported today that they have grabbed Communist plans for 10,-000 young Communists to crash through police barriers into Cologne Sunday.

Similar Communist outbreaks are expected in nearly a dozen cities throughout West Germany's big industrial Ruhr area.

It appears to be the climax of a mounting wave of Communist violence — part of the announced Communist program of "national resistance" against the western Allies and the West German government they sponsor.

German officials estimate that 20,000 trained Communist agitators from Eastern Germany have poured across the zonal border into West Germany to lead the weekend attack.

These young Communist shock troops are believed poised at a secret rendezvous somewhere in the Ruhr — waiting to explode Sunday in a series of violent public demonstrations.

The threatened West German cities have built seige-like defences against the attacks.

British troops recalled from military manoeuvres are standing by, ready to jump into the fight if it gets beyond the control of the German police.

Despite the prospect of bloody violence, Cologne appeared calm this morning.

Golden Jubilee Dinner Given For Churchill

LONDON, Sept. 30 (AP) — Fifty years ago Sunday, Winston Churchill was elected to the House of Commons for the first time, and Tuesday the Conservatives will give him a "golden jubilee" dinner.

Churchill first ran for the House of Commons in 1899 in the Oldham district but was defeated. He tried in the same district Oct. 1. 1900, and won.

Since then he has sought re-election 16 times and suffered defeat four times. He has served in the Commons continuously since 1924.

Charge Russian Inspectors Used To Learn UK Methods

LEEDS, Yorkshire, England, Sept. 30. (CP) — The propriety of admitting Russians into British factories to inspect goods ordered by the Soviet government has been challenged by two prominent machine-tool manufacturers in Yorkshire.

They charged that the presence of Russian inspectors is often a cunning manoeuvre to obtain inside information about British designs and methods of industrial operation.

W. Berry, chairman and managing-director of Henry Berry and Company, of Leeds, said:

"The Russian inspectors are very highly trained technically, but they lack the practical knowledge in the engineering field. When they are in a factory they go into every little detail of an order, often causing delays in manufacture and shipping.

"Then the inspectors are changed suddenly, which happens frequently. This seems proof sufficient that they are out to give their men practical experience and a good inside knowledge of our manufacturing methods and conditions."

Similar views were expressed by Charles Crabtree, former chairman of the east and west riding Regional Federation of British Industries. He said he had been informed by manufacturers that the Russians caused considerable difficulty in the factories by holding up exports of machinery for "exceedingly trival" reasons.

"It is possible," he said, "the Russians may place a comparatively small order with a company just to get their inspectors inside a plant."

4 Big Issues In Far East Face Canada

Prepare To Discuss Japanese Peace Conference Shortly

OTTAWA, Sept. 30—(CP)—At least four major issues are combining now to keep Canada's official attention focussed on Asia probably as never before in peacetime. They are:

1. The Korean war and its political, military and social ramifications.

2. Communist China's bid for recognition by western powers and her drive for a seat in the United Nations.

3. American steps—welcomed here—to discuss the calling of a Japanese peace conference with other powers, including Canada.

4. The commonwealth's program to build up the under-developed countries of Asia.

Korea affects and influences all of them.

Korea's impact on any final Japanese treaty remains to be seen, but it has certainly placed a new light on consideration of the question not only of Japanese security from aggression but of western military security in the Far East.

Spurs Drive

Korea has spurred and hastened the commonwealth drive to do something about the backward countries, to build them up and to try to stop the tide of Communism.

For Korea itself, external affairs minister Pearson has outlined to the U.N. a Canadian policy calling for democratic rule and for a primarily-Asiatic U.N. commission to chart the country's course in getting back on its feet.

For China's Communists, Canada still has not acted on the months-old Peiping bid for recognition by Ottawa. In the U.N. last week, Canada abstained from voting on an Indian resolution to seat the Reds.

Recognition of Peiping by Canada and by the U.N. are two separate things. But Canada's policy on the two could hardly long be divergent. Feeling here is that Ottawa won't act alone on recognition while the matter is before this U.N. assembly session but might not delay indefinitely if the session doesn't make a decision.

Good Step

The U.S. diplomatic moves to consult other countries about a Japanese treaty are welcomed here because Canada has been arguing for that for months. The commonwealth countries have discussed the possible contents of such a treaty but felt the initiative should come from Washington.

It is likely that it will be months yet before the present moves bring any definite results. But Ottawa, expecting to be consulted in the fairly near future, looks on them as a good step.

Anglicans Reject Move To Ban Lenten Marriage

LONDON, — (CP) — A move to impose restrictions on marriages during Lent has been rejected by the Lower House of Convocation of Canterbury, representing the clergy of the Church of England.

Defeated by a vote of 66 to 58, the resolution urged that marriages should not be celebrated on Ash Wednesday, or on the days between Palm Sunday and Easter Eve, except for "reasonable cause."

The Rev. W. J. Torrance, of Bath and Wells said it was necessary on occasions for the parish priest to marry couples during the Lenten season but it was not the wish of the church there should be "intrusion" for the purpose of marriage service.

The Rev. J. A. G Ainley London, disagreed The Saturday before Easter Sunday was exceedingly popular with young couples about to be married tI was part of their holiday and the only time they could hope to get any kind of honeymoon.

Good Friday Wedding

Pleading for the liberty of the individual priest to exercise his own discretion about the day he conducts a marriage service, Mr. Ainley said he had on one occasion married a couple on Good Friday.

The statement was greeted by a cry of "shame."

"That may shock some of you," Mr. Ainley said. "But that particular case occurred during the war. Had I not enjoyed the liberty of conducting the service I should have had to refuse to marry a man who was going abroad at very short notice. There are a great many cases like that."

Canon F. N. Didsbury, Coventry, agreed priests should have the freedom of marrying people when they liked. This year he had found a sudden rush of weddings before Easter.

"I began to inquire into the reason for this," he said. "I then learned that if these people were married before April 6, they would get income tax allowance for the whole year. We should be extremely unpopular if we made a man pay a fine by way of income tax by refusing to marry him on a certain day."

Second Walkout At Ford Plant

WINDSOR, Sept. 30 — (CP).—Assembly-line employees of Ford Motor Company of Canada walked off their jobs Friday evening to close down the big assembly plant for the second time in the day.

A company spokesman said the late shift in the assembly plant "just did not go back to their work" after the rest period about 630 p.m.

Their action was apparently taken in support of present wage-increase demands being made by the 11,000-member Ford Local 200 of the CIO United Automobile Workers Union.

Some late shift workers in the Ford machine shop also halted work after the rest period.

Both the machine shop and assembly plants were forced to close earlier in the day when men on the day shift staged demonstrations. The company spokesman said there were no demonstrations during the walkout this evening.

The next regular shift on the assembly lines starts Sunday night.

Sage Council Flex Muscles Go To Bat (Ball) For County

A challenge from the Northumberland-Durham county councils has been accepted by the Peterborough county council.

No, it's no quibble over money or anything so base or material as that. It's a challenge to a game of baseball (presumably the challenge read softball) at the Warkworth Fair, October 6.

The honor of the county is at stake, fellow ratepayers!

As the one-day session of council came to a close Friday afternoon the reeves huddled in the lobby of the county building discussing the lineup and game strategy.

Captain Smith

Reeve Ross Harrison of Smith was elected captain by unanimous decision. Reeve Harrison wields more votes in council than anybody else and it is rumored that, coming from a ball playing family, he also wields a heavy bat.

Sniffing possible foul play, Reeve William Grant of Lakefield rose to feet warning his colleagues to shun the convivial company of Northumberland-Durham tosspots before the match.

To a hushed council chamber he said: "Remember how the Russians outfuddled the Americans and the British at Yalta." Then with a knowing nod, he added: "Remember the advice of the WCTU; save your celebrating for after the game."

Centre Fielder Grant

Testing his own fitness Reeve Grant did a couple of deep knee bends announced that his leg muscles were in A-1 shape. This was immediately taken as a bid for the far-ranging position of centre field.

"What other vaudeville act have they lined up?" queried Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore. But just the same he put in his bid for a place on the team providing he wasn't threshing at game time.

Warden Norman Wilson also said he would like to come but preferred to play his ballgame in the bleachers. But the nine good men, still to be chosen, were assured of his not inconsiderable vocal support.

Recalling similar municipal capers, Reeve Rork Ferguson of Norwood told alarmed colleagues of his experiences playing donkey baseball. He fervently hoped their game was a more orthodox one. But his tone had the chilling quality of a warden saying goodbye to condemned men.

Too Much Valor?

Immediately afterwards one councillor questioned the wisdom of middle-aged men exerting themselves in this fashion. And another pointed to the fact that Northumberland-Durham council has 40 men to pick from, while Peterborough has less than half that number.

Jack Kean, county engineer, rallied the Peterburians with a speech rivalling that of King Henry V to his outnumbered troops before Harfleur. It went: "We'll murder the bums," or some suchlike.

Anyway, it should be quite a ballgame in Warkworth next Friday afternoon.

2. The crossing of the 38th parallel.

3. Support in "absolutely eliminating obstacles to national unification and independence and the establishment of an absolutely free and independent government."

4. Aid in the reconstruction of war-torn towns and cities and the relief of refugees.

Artillery and planes carried the fight today to an estimated 100,000 Reds massing for defence of North Korea. South Korean troops awaited orders to cross Parallel 38. One Republic division already was at the 38th Parallel on the east coast and three other South Korean divisions were within a quick march of it. Plans have been completed for a drive against the Red capital of Pyongyang, a South Korean Army spokesman said.

If the Republic's Army chief of staff gives the word, the war will be carried into Red-held territory for the first time since Communist aggressors left it in their June 25 invasion of South Korea.

AP Correspondent Leif Erickson, from a U.S. Air Force plane, watched South Korean artillery shells burst on Communist positions in hills along the artificial boundary.

Allied light bombers Saturday swept over the border to Chorwon, reported to be the headquarters of the Red army, to bomb and strafe an estimated 100,000 Communists believed concentrated there. Chorwon is 16 miles north of the border on the western side, 48 air miles north of liberated Seoul.

Clean Out Pockets

Northwest of Seoul, United States troops advanced within 24 miles of the 38th Parallel. The troops sought to clean out Reds in the Kimpo peninsula between the Han River and the Yellow Sea.

A U.S. navy summary said a party from the Royal Navy cruiser Ceylon landed more than 100 miles northwest of Seoul on the island of Taechong, within 10 miles of the 38th Parallel. British sources reported the Reds had evacuated the island.

To the south, new bombardments by the Canadian destroyer Athabaskan were reported at Kunsan.

A United States navy summary said today that the Athabaskan, one of the three Canadian warships with U.N. forces, was joined in the action Thursday night and Friday by the Australian destroyer Bataan. One mine was destroyed in the approaches to Kunsan.

There was no mention of casualties, and it is presumed the Canadian sailors have yet to suffer any.

Keep It A Secret

The Red radio withheld from North Koreans the news that the war is over in South Korea for the defeated Communist army. Instead, it reported "fierce street battles" in Seoul — where Gen. MacArthur Friday turned over civil control to the republic's president, Syngman Rhee. For the rest of Korea, the Red communique summarized:

"On all fronts, units of the People's Army continue to wage bitter battles against American troops."

The sound of battle still rang in the ears of Seoul's dazed citizens as they strove to resume normal living in the war-ravaged 500-year-old capital. AP correspondent O. H. P. King said the thunder of guns sounded close to the northeast for two hours Saturday morning.

In the capital building Friday, MacArthur officially turned over Seoul's civil control to President Rhee. Before he arrived for the ceremony, security guards discovered a dynamite cache capable of blowing up the whole front of the battle-scarred building.

After MacArthur departed, fires broke out in the building. They did not burn out until this morning. Korean officials believe arsonists set the fires.

Military Decision

Troops of the Southern Korean 3rd Division reached the 38th Parallel town of Ingo on the east coast Friday night. An army spokesman said the division would remain at the border at least until three other divisions were on the line. It was emphasized that the halt was a military and not a political decision.

He said an order from the South Korean chief of staff would send the troops into North Korea. The spokesman was unable to say whether the chief of staff would await such an order from the United Nations command or from the South Korean government.

MacArthur has given no public expression of what he intends to do about crossing the 38th Parallel.

It was strictly mop-up in South Korea, where 150,000 Korean Reds were on the offensive the first week of September. The U.S. Eighth Army didn't even issue a communique today.

Potato Weighs 2 Lbs.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 30 — (ENS)—Mrs. Alex McInroy, of Rannie St., Campbellford,, is an expert shower of large potatoes. Last week she dug some of them up to see if they were large enough and decided they were.

One specimen, a red potato the seed for which came from Victoria, weighed 2 lbs. Another smaller cobbler weighed 24 ounces.

The potatoes are on display in a local store window.

Hawley St. Site Proposed For New Firehall

The southwest corner of Monaghan Road and Hawley Street was proposed as the site for a fire department substation in a recommendation Thursday by the fire, water and light committee.

"Now that we have a location at our disposal we should put our stakes in right away," said Ald. T. D. Miller, chairman, broaching this subject again. The lot has been used as office headquarters by Reynolds Construction Co.

"We have had a resolution that this property be held for a substation," Mayor Swanston said. "It is an acre less the width of a roadway."

The dimensions are 150 feet frontage on Monaghan Road with a depth of 220 feet. This site is a fairly long block east of the lands on the west side of Erskine Ave. that were bought by the city for industrial expansion. That is one recommending factor. It is also within the housing development that has been built up on both sides of Monaghan Road, and within range of the industries north and south of Lansdowne St., and of the Cobourg Housing area and its older neighborhood on the rise of High St.

The proposal of the committee is that the building of the substation be recommended to the council of 1951.

Canada Lifts 11-Year Ban On Germans

Ex-Nazis Or Reds Not Included On Immigrant Quota

OTTAWA, Sept. 28—(CP)—Canada today lifted her 11-year immigration bar against German Nationals but said neither ex-Nazis nor Communists will be allowed to enter this country.

The ban will continue against Germans who fall under those two headings.

Otherwise Germans have been placed on the same basis as any other foreigners for purposes of emigration to Canada.

Immigration Minister Harris said that admittance of Germans has been restored to a peacetime basis for the first time since 1939.

Mr. Harris said in a statement that "the government has decided that, under present circumstances, it is appropriate to place immigration of German Nationals on a peacetime basis."

The ban against them and against other enemy peoples went into effect in 1939 when Canada went to war with Nazi Germany.

Shift In Policy

The shift in immigration policy came after Canada's External Affairs minister Pearson advocated the rearmament of Western Germany and its integration within the family of Western European powers.

Mr. Pearson's views were expressed to parliament earlier this month.

Mr. Harris said Germans now will be subject only "to general regulations governing the entry of immigrants of other nationalities."

The policy appears to be an effort to tap a great new source of population to bolster Canada's post-war immigration totals which recently have been falling.

The minister said an order-in-council dated Sept. 14 makes it possible for any German to emigrate here providing he or she can comply with federal regulations.

Farmer Hears Scream Finds His Son Killed

OAKVILE, Sept. 30—James Alger was plowing Friday in a field bordering No. 2 Highway when he heard a screech of brakes and the scream of a child.

He ran to the highway, found a car, a mangled bicycle and his son, James Alger, Jr., who had been killed.

The 10-year-old boy had been cycling home from Maplehurst School. He usually rode the bus, but Friday for the first time in several days he decided to use his bicycle.

Caretaker Resigns

Raymond Rogers, caretaker of the county's forest, has resigned. For the past month he has been on leave of absence, without salary. In his letter of resignation he stressed the high cost of living as a principal reason for wishing to get other employment. There has also been some criticism by county council because the forest area has not shown sufficient revenue. For the present he is living in the caretaker's house, without salary, but keeping an eye on things.

Fall Harvest Good As Last Year But Canadian Food Bills Higher

By The Canadian Press

The fall harvest is generally as good as last year's but Canadian shoppers are finding food bills considerably higher.

Western grain farmers, expecting one of the biggest wheat crops in history, got a bitter disappointment when frost, snow, wind and rain cut down their yield. But even at that, the crop was estimated by the Bureau of Statistics at 490,000,000 bushels—123,000,000 more than last year's.

A Canadian Press survey shows all common foods in good supply, with no particular surplus. Beside wheat, a few other crops were hard hit by the weather. There is some incidence of potato blight in scattered sections of Ontario. Prince Edward Island's potato crop is expected to be about 30 per cent below last year's all-time high of 9,000,000 bushels.

Flood Trouble

Manitoba floods hit some types of produce, reducing the yield of vegetables such as corn and spinach. Ontario's crop of tomatoes for processing is less than last year's. In British Columbia's Okanagan Valley the apple crop is estimated at 7,500,000 boxes, about 400,000 less than last year.

Ontario's fall harvest is generally bigger than last year's despite wet weather. Harvests of feed grain, with the exception of corn, are greater, indicating that milk production and quality of beef and pork should equal if not surpass those of last year. With the exception of tomatoes for processing, the vegetable crop is reduced about 20 to 30 per cent but quality — particularly of apples — is excellent.

Crops Outstanding

Quebec's grain and cereal crops are expected to be outstanding. Meat production is high and summer apples abundant.

Prince Edward Island reported one of the best grain harvests in its history New Brunswick potato and other root crops are good. Value of Nova Scotia's crops is estimated at $22,000,000, about the same as last year.

Although there is lots of food around, prices to the consumer are in many cases higher than last year. Meat seems to have taken the biggest jump with the increase ranging from about 20 per cent in Nova Scotia to 25 per cent in Ontario. Grocery prices in Ontario increased about four in its history. New Brunswick produce prices dropped an estimated 10 per cent. One Toronto merchandising export estimated the average food bill was up six to eight per cent.

New Power Shortage Saunders Announces

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Sept. 30 — (CP). — Chairman Robert H. Saunders of the Ontario Hydro Power Commission said Friday that a demand for power unforseeable even four months ago has led to another power shortage emergency.

He told directors of the Canadian Electrical Manufacturers' Association, in annual meeting here, that even had the increased demands been antiicipated, the current shortage could not have been prevented.

"This emergency has caused us to take advantage of the at-will and interrupting clauses in our contracts," he said. The cuts to some industries compared with those made during the last emergency in 1948.

Suffocates In Carriage

TORONTO, Sept. 30 — (CP) — Three-month-old William Patrick Myles suffocated in the folds of his carriage blankets Friday after being placed outdoors for a nap.

Traffic Snarled

KITCHENER, Sept. 30—(CP)—Rush-hour traffic in downtown Kitchener became snarled Friday as firemen battled a $5,000 blaze in an apartment above the King Street branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada. The fire started from sparks of an acetylene torch being used by a plumber in the apartment.

Numbering Campaign Nearing Success

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 30 (CP) —A house numbering campaign launched Wednesday by City Hall was an inch away from success today.

Mayor George A. Wenige dusted off an ancient by-law requiring owners to place address numbers on their homes and places of business under pain of a $50 fine, and announced that it would be enforced to the letter—or rather to the number.

Then, to his horror, he found the law permitted numbers as small as two inches.

"You'd need a monocle to read them," the Mayor said.

The by-law will be amended Monday to require numbers no smaller than three inches.

Offer Year's Extension

OTTAWA, Sept. 30—(CP)—The Air Force, because of its expansion program, has offered a one-year extension of service to the majority of 130 air crew officers eligible for release Oct. 1, 1951, it was announced Friday. Many of them normally would be discharged then on completion of five or six-year short-term engagements.

Lt. Governor's Sister Mrs. L. McArthur Dies

TORONTO, Sept. 30 — (CP)— Fay Lawson McArthur, sister of Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson of Ontario, and widow of a former Ontario Minister of Education, died in hospital here Friday after a brief illness.

Born in London, Ont., she lived for some years in Kingston, where her husband, Duncan McArthur, was a professor at Queen's University. She moved to Toronto 15 years ago on her husband's appointment as Deputy-Minister of Education. He became Minister of Education five years later. Mrs. McArthur leaves two daughters, Mrs. Duncan Fraser and Mrs. Patrick Hardy.

Light Plane Crashes In Farmer's Field

ANCASTER, Sept. 30 (CP). — A light plane crashed in a farmer's field near here Friday night after smashing through hydro-power lines and blacking out some 300 homes in the area. Its three occupants escaped injury.

Police said the craft was piloted by Robert Millson, RCAF veteran from nearby Hamilton, and his passengers were believed to be two members of Canada's Special Army Force.

Must Resist Impulses

WINDSOR, Sept. 30—(CP)—Windsor's Board of Control will have to resist charitable impulses when it comes to selling building sites for new churches. Its former policy was to sell such sites at half the assessed price. The rule has been changed. A letter from W. A. Orr, Deputy Minister of the Municipal Affairs Department, said "it is time Windsor commenced to sell all its assets at their full value."

Lumber Industry Expansion

try all along the Trent waterway. Sawlogs were floated down the Otonabee, Trent, Indian, Ouse, Scugog and Pigeon rivers to sawmills, while other sawmills began to appear north of the Kawarthas near the timber limits where the logs originated. The Fenelon Falls mill was rebuilt in 1851, and the first mill built at Coboconk the same year. The steamer "Woodman" of Port Perry made her first trip to Fenelon Falls to tow lumber rafts back south, and the next year (1852) Wallis built the "Ogemah" at Fenelon Falls for the same job. Boyd's mill at Bobcaygeon was enlarged several times, and by 1858 had a Yankee gang-saw (30 blades), a gate-saw (two blades), and several circulars for butting and edging, capable of cutting 20,000 feet a day. At Lindsay, McDermot & Walsh had two upright and four circular saws capable of 20,000 feet a day. In the area, smaller mills capable of cutting 800 to 5000 feet a day were: Cottingham at Omemee; Logie on Concession 4, Ops; Whitesides at Little Britain; Jacobs on concession 13, Mariposa; Bowes at Bald Point (steampower); Elliot at Cambray; Lawrence in Fenelon; Thurston and Sheriff in concession 3, Verulam. Except for Bowes Mill, they were all waterpower mills.

Other Mills

At Peterborough, Samuel Dickson by 1850 had limits in the Minden region from which he brought logs to sawmills at both ends of the London Street dam, each capable of cutting about 20,000 feet a day, and to his steam mill on Little Lake, built about 1855! This last mill had a slabber, a gang-saw, a muley-saw, beside circular saws and lathing machines, and was capable of cutting 50,000 feet a day. William Snyder in 1852 built a mill two miles north of Peterborough with 100 saws, capable of cutting 60,000 feet a day, and the same year James Bird built Blythe sawmill one mile north of Peterborough with 36 saws capable of 20,000 feet daily. (This last was burnt in 1863 and rebuilt by George Hilliard in 1864). At Nassau in 1854 Charles Perry built the largest mill in the district, with two Yankee gangs, a stock gang, a slabber, an English gate, totalling 130 saws, as well as circulars for butting and lathing, able to cut 90,000 feet in 12 hours. At this Red Mill in 1857 one of the lumberman's biggest problems was tackled—sawdust was burned to form a gas used to light 30 large lamps placed around the property; the fire hazard was too serious, however.

Other mills around Peterborough were: E. Perry two miles from Peterborough in Douro, 60,000 feet a day; Shaw at Lakefield, completed 1858, 60,000 feet a day; Ludgate and Austin in Ashburnham, 20,000 and 15,000 feet respectively; G. G. Boswell in Douro, 25,000 feet daily; Short at Allandale (steam and waterpower) 20,000 feet a day; Kelly and Scott at Bridgenorth, both steam mills, 2,000-3,000 feet daily; W. Boswell in Monaghan, 2,000 feet daily. To the southeast, the two largest mills were Ewing in Asphodel, built 1855, 15,000 feet daily and Feuld's at Hastings (the former Crooks mill rebuilt) 14,000 ft. daily. Small water-mills with one saw cutting 2,000-4,000 feet daily were; Belmont: P. Pearce, Thomas Seabright, J. Breakenridge, John Holcomb, John Holbrook; Dummer: Choate at Warsaw, Pyne, Richie, Buck, Carveth; Douro: Ferrier, Sawers; Otonabee: M. Burnham at Keene; Asphodel: Grover, two mills near Norwood; Ewing & Roxborough at Westwood.

By the 1851 census there were 31 sawmills in the Kawartha district: 25 in Peterborough County cutting 11,589,000 feet yearly, six in Victoria County cutting, 1,056,400 feet; all of them were waterpowered, but only 17 showed a profit. The 1858 Directory lists 44 mills in the district, but the 1861 census (probably incomplete) gave only 38 sawmills. There were 32 in Peterborough County, of which only 28 made returns: seven steam-driven, 21 waterpower, employing 526 men, cutting 238,250 logs valued at $112,700, producing annually 63,599,000 feet of lumber valued at $482,180 (on a capital investment of $258,550). Victoria County reported only six mills, two steam-driven, four waterpower, employing 25 men, cutting 5,900 logs valued at $3,360, producing annually 2,400,000 feet of lumber valued at $15,300 (on a capital investment of $20,200.)

The census figures show the expansion of the lumber industry by listing occupations:

	1851	1861
Axemakers:
Peterborough	0	15
Victoria	0	2
District total	0	17
Lumber dealers:
Peterborough	7	28
Victoria	0	20
District total	7	48
Lumbermen:
Peterborough	331	642
Victoria	6	463
District total	337	1105
Sawyers:
Peterborough	24	27
Victoria	8	10
District total	32	37

Although the sawmill owners and timber merchants were making fortunes, selling lumber at $6 to $8 per M through the decade, the lumbermen saw very little of this increased prosperity: in addition to board and lodging, monthly wages averaged — ordinary hewers $12 to $15, shanty clerks and timber skidders $20, broad-axemen $20 to $24, raftsmen $26, sawyers $30, blacksmiths $40, scalers and surveyors $50, shanty foremen $50 to $60. Very few of the men had any money after a summer layoff when the new season began in September. Until steam replaced waterpower, sawmill workers were just as unfortunate, as water-driven mills operated only from April or May until October.

Railway Booms Output

In the years 1850-53 only about 4,000,000 feet of lumber went each year down the Trent waterway, or by wagon from Rice Lake to Cobourg and Port Hope, or from Lake Scugog by wagon to Whitby and Bowmanville. Of this only about half went across Lake Ontario, sold for a few thousand dollars. In 1854, with the building of the southern part of the Cobourg Peterborough railway, and the signing of the Reciprocity Treaty with the United States, 20,000,000 feet of lumber went from Peterborough to Cobourg, and half as much by other routes to the lakefront; most of this went to the United States, where shrewd Yankees profited by selling it in the cities or exporting it from New York. In the next three years the railway transported the following amounts of lumber south: 1885, 11,142,479 feet; 1856, 15,946,158 feet; 1857, 13,365,503 feet; as much more was taken out by other routes, including the Port Hope-Millbrook-Lindsay railway. After 1857, exports on the Cobourg line fell rapidly and Cobourg itself went bankrupt, while Port Hope prospered on the backwoods trade from Lindsay and Peterborough regions. In 1860, about 60,000,000 feet of lumber left the Kawartha district, 50,000,000 feet of it by rail to Port Hope (48,000,000 feet from Peterborough, 2,000,000 feet from Lindsay), and the balance by steamer or wagon to lakeports from Trenton to Whitby. At current prices this brought over $400,000 revenue into the district, mostly to Peterobrough. For another thirty years, white pine was the "white gold" of the Kawarthas, and was "mined" just as ruthlessly as any new gold discovery, without any long-term plans for reforestation.

Judge Insists Jury Be Used

TORONTO, Sept. 30 — (CP)— Mr. Justice W. F. Spence, denying a defence motion to have a $61,369 damage suit heard before an Ontario Supreme Court judge without a jury, said Friday that "judges have more faith in the workings of a jury after they become judges than they had as barristers."

The Ford Motor Company of Canada and Donald Garfield Emerson, secretary to Health Minister Martin, are being sued by Joseph Kulchenski. He asks $11,369 for medical expenses and $50,000 general damages as the result of an accident at Windsor in April, 1949. A car driven by Emerson and owned by the Ford Company collided with a car in which Kulchenski was a passenger.

No 2nd Class Fares

MONTREAL, Sept. 30—(CP)— Second-class rail fares on the Canadian National Railways are being cancelled, effective Oct. 1. A company official said the second-class fares were a throwback to days when the CNR offered various classes of travel. Today the CNR had only first class accommodation available.

Get Final Payments

OTTAWA, Sept. 30 — (CP) — About $42,500,000 in Canadian Wreat Board funds will be distributed to Western Coast grain producers starting Monday, Oct. 16. Distribution was announced Friday by Trade Minister Howe. It represents the final payments on the 1949-50 Wheat Board oats and barley pools which ended July 31. New pools have been started since then.

Price Of Men's Suits To Be Raised $5-$10

TORONTO, Sept. 30 — (CP).— The National Council of Clothing Manufacturers of Canada said on Friday that the price of men's suits soon will be increased from $5 to $10 each.

In a letter to 6,250 retailers, the Council says this boost is for the cost of material only, and does not include rises which may result from higher costs of labor, linings and trimmings.

"Raw wool prices are now at an historic peak," the letter says, "due largely to world shortages and world demand in which Canada is an insignificant factor."

Civil Marriages On Monday

On Monday civil marriages will be possible and legal in the Province of Ontario for the first time. We do not suppose that they will be popular imediately, but after the strangeness wears off many couples will find their way to the proper authorities for the ratification of their marriage contract. We must not suppose that all couples married by civil ceremony are godless, or that they wish to exclude every trace of religious observance from their lives. But they may prefer to place their own religious interpretation upon their union, without troubling a clergyman whom they do not know, or entering a church with which they are not familiar. In these days of rapidly shifting population great numbers of people have no family church.

* * *

There will be some, also, who sincerely believe that their marriage is an honourable civil contract, and no more, and who do not want to be obliged to subscribe tacitly to religious professions which they abjure, in order to be legally united. Their feelings must be considered, as must also the feelings of clergy who do not wish to perform a religious ceremony in order to marry professed agnostics or atheists.

* * *

Civil marriage will save embarrassing situations for many clergy. Those who do not wish to marry persons who have been engaged in divorce proceedings will no longer be asked to do so. Those who do not wish to marry couples who, in their opinion, should not be united, will be able to refuse without having to pass the buck to a brother of the cloth. Civil marriage has been needed in Ontario for a long time, and on Monday it will be a reality. It is a necessity in a truly free country.

How People Save Money

Government bonds, annuities, insurance policies and other contractual means are sterling ways of salting money away, but in these hard, though monied times, they are somewhat grandiose. It is not to easy to find $10.42 each month, or $121.08 each half-year to keep such contracts going. Most people do manage it, but there is little left over for this and that. Even bank accounts lose their lure: one proudly enters the bank on pay-day with a nugget for the account; but at the end of the month the pass-book balance is pretty dull reading. There have been too many times in between when one has sneaked into the bank to draw cheques. The old sock method has its advantages, and it is capable of infinite variety.

The best practitioners of socking money away are housewives. They have so many places to hide it, and good housewives are canny about seizing on extra pennies for this or that pet project. A farmer's wife of our acquaintance gets all the egg money (and why not? she feeds the twenty birds). She keeps this in cash on a ledge behind the kitchen clock. Every three-month period she has a different, unspoken use for it. Miraculously new window drapes appear at the end of March—with no call on the husband's jeans. In June, it is garden chairs. She is now saving for an electric stove. (We heard about that project, because we noticed no new refinements at the beginning of September, the last three-month period, and she confessed to the major scheme.)

Ministers' wives set up funds from their husbands' marriage fees. One we know of converts the green-backs to ten-cent pieces and drops them into an empty whisky bottle hidden behind the roasting pan in the back kitchen. When it is full she intends taking her husband on a second honey-moon to Victoria—if the dimes last that long. An organist's wife less pretentiously uses her organ-grinder wedding fees to keep the house in flowers during the winter.

Most housewives have several caches mounting at once. The cent-a-day card for the church. A warped-coin fund for a baby daughter's wedding day. (That is in a cocoa tin behind the castor-oil bottle in the medicine cabinet.) A bridge winning (and losing) box in the drawer where the tea-cloths are kept. That is for a new bridge table set. The fund has been going five years and there hasn't been a new table yet! Another housewife has a secret store of all the coins she picks up from the chesterfield chair on which her husband has been lolling asleep the night before. The coins that have slipped from his pocket allow her to buy him a smashing good Christmas present every year.

It is a complicated method of saving and there is always the danger of forgetting where the separate caches are. But good housewives are especially good at remembering these petty details of household finance—not so petty when the family budget has slipped into the red for the month. They are also good at firmly keeping to the main objective of the hidden stores. They do not squander their hidden cash merely to get out on the blue side of the household ledger and the rosy side of the husband. He may have discovered the over-draft on the week's household expenses but not the old shin-plasters and newer dollar bills affixed to the pages of great-grandmother's Bible.

The Value Of A Cynic

Henry Louis Mencken, the great American journalist, was seventy on September 12, and he celebrated the occasion by giving a large present of his manuscripts and notes to the public library in his native city of Baltimore. The present is a valuable one, for H. L. Mencken has done fine scholarly work in preparation for his three large volumes called The American Language, and his notes should be a treasury of information and reference. His other manuscripts have the interest which attaches to the working papers of a writer of importance.

What interests us in the matter is that a number of newspapers, commenting on this gift, have tried to say that Mencken is not a writer of importance. We cannot accept this judgement. Mencken, since he became Chief Editor of the Baltimore Herald at the age of 25 until the present day, has been one of the most daring, able and clear-eyed journalists in the world. He has written millions of words, not all of which are of lasting value, but all of which were of wide interest when they were written, and some of which will be of interest to any future student of the history and development of the U.S.A. during the first fifty years of this century.

There is a tendency to sneer at Mencken now because many of his mistakes are easily seen. He was a severe critic of politicians and artists of all kinds, and his lambasting, rowdy style gave a violent impact to his attacks. It is widely asserted that he was a cynic and a destroyer. This is partly true. Mencken was cynical about many shams, and he destroyed many things which needed to be destroyed. If some of his blows fell upon the innocent and the deserving, the majority fell where they were truly merited.

What is a cynic? Roughly, a cynic is a man who is disposed to sneer at the sincerity and goodness of human motives. But very often a cynic is also a man who loves truth, and who cannot bear to see truth distorted by men who pretend to goodness and sincerity. A cynic is a man who questions every motive, and who accepts no profession of sincerity at its face value. Mencken was unquestionably a cynic of this superior order, and his services to the thought of his time were very great.

The world would be a poor place without cynics. Uproarious frauds like William Jennings Bryan are common enough in political life; there must also be the sharp-penned Menckens if the world is not to be dominated by mountebanks. Pompous claptrap about art is very common, and insincere, log-rolling criticism is commoner still. There must be a few Menckens to expose the frauds. Cynics may be uncomfortable people to have about, but we cannot manage without them.

Mencken served his country well. He cleared the air, even if the disinfectants which he sometimes used were hard on delicate skins. A great cynic—and we believe that Mencken deserves the adjective—is like a jeweller who puts every stone under his magnifying glass and examines it with an expert eye. The true stone has nothing to fear from such a man.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Emily Post says that it is all right for a man to get into the front seat of a car ahead of a woman. And the same applies, we presume, to back seat drivers.

"Flagpole Sitter Forced Down By Shortage Of Cash", says a head line. We have always wondered why they are not forced down by necessity to seek the sanitary arrangements.

American troops are rebuked for calling their Korean enemies "gooks". They are impartial, at least; don't they call their own sailors "gobs"? And their Marines "leathernecks"? And their officers bottlenecks?

An investigation in Columbus, Ohio, shows that the average man there marries a girl who lives within 13 blocks of his own home. After 35 the distance drops to seven blocks. Why did they name that city after an explorer?

The Marchbanks Correspondence

To Haubergeon Hydra, Esq.
Dear Mr. Hydra:

I address you in your capacity as Special Canadian Assistant to the Astronomer Royal, to complain about the muddle which exists in my part of Canada about time.

Last week-end most of Ontario set aside the comical pretence of Daylight Saving, and returned to Standard Time. But the city of Toronto has decided to continue with that nonsense until late in November. This will mean confusion for a good many people for a couple of months. I shall call people in Toronto on the phone when they are at lunch, and they will call me when I have left my office and returned to my home, where I do not wish to hear from them. Or will it be the other way around? Every time I go to Toronto I shall have to do little sums in my head to keep in touch with local customs, such as when the bars open. It will be a confounded nuisance.

We pride ourselves in this country on being a practical people. Every year there are agitations to have all our national holidays, including Christmas, Easter, Yom Kippur and Dominion Day, fall on Mondays, instead of the days upon which they do, historically and chronologically, fall. By subtle arts physicians can even arrange to have a child born upon a day chosen by its parents, within reasonable limits. I am sure it will not be long before we shall be able to choose the day upon which we shall die—although this will certainly lead to many unreasonable and unjustifiable postponements. We are tirelessly eager to monkey with time.

But in the very simple matter of arranging that we should all begin saving daylight on the same day, and that we should resume wasting it with equal unanimity, nothing is ever done. Why?

Yours in annoyance,
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS.

To Dr. Raymond Cataplasm, M.D., F.R.C.P.
Dear Dr. Cataplasm:

I have been conscious of approaching age for some time. I have known that I am well over the crest, and am on life's downhill grade. But this disagreeable realization was never more vivid to me than it became yesterday, when I unwisely ate a banana split.

I judge that it is fully twenty years since I devoured this particular dainty. In my hot youth I consumed many banana splits, though I was more partial to a confection called a Varsity Double Nut Fudge Super-Special. When I was a college youth we lived harder than the young people of today, and debauchery of the kind I describe was not uncommon. We were the Lost Generation—not the generation which got lost after the First Great War, but the one which lost itself between the two wars — and among other standards which we hurled to the winds were those of dietetics. I have seen young men, and girls too—the future mothers of the race—sitting for hours on end consuming quantities of sugar syrup, strange essences, cream, jam, meringue and tortured fruit which had been agitated and metagrobolized by devilishly skillful barmen until the original substances were unrecognizable. You have seen, no doubt, those debauchees in Parisian cafes, sitting with the pile of saucers in front of them which reveals how many absinthes they have drunk? Even so used the empty soda glasses and the dishonoured straws to accumulate before the tosspots of my youth. The foundation of many a costly ulcer was laid there, Cataplasm.

And so, yesterday, in an attempt to recapture the old magic, I ordered and ate a banana split. Something of the enchantment of yesteryear I did indeed regain, but alas, the digestion of yesteryear had fled. Could you let me have another bottle of that white stuff? I have almost finished the one I have, and I know that I shall need hourly doses for a week, at least.

Yours with a wan smile for vanished youth and the goat-like tripes that went with it.
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS.

To Samuel Marchbanks, Esq.
Dear Cousin:

I have your letter, and as someone left half a sheet of paper in the pawnshop yesterday when they were pledging their diamonds, I take my pen in hand at once to reply. You should not speak so lightly of the concertina, Cousin. Are you not aware that there is quite a little body of music composed especially for it? Tschaikowsky arranged his second orchestral suite so that it might be played on four concertinas. Molique wrote a concerto for the concertina, as well as a sonata for concertina and piano. Regondi, too, wrote a concerto for the instrument. Did you not know that the late Arthur Balfour was a most accomplished player upon this instrument, and that it was the solace of his few idle hours during his time in Parliament? I shall get a concertina for little Imoinda, of course, but I entreat you to see that the child realizes that she handles a sensitive instrument, and not a toy.

Your reproachful kinsman,
GENGHIS MARCHBANKS.

To Amyas Pilgarlic, Esq.
Dear Pil:

I was reading an interesting book the other day about the worship of the Bull-god, Minos, in early Crete. It appears that the High Priest had a golden head, like that of a bull, which he wore over his own head when greeting visitors. He then removed it, and carried on conversation face to face. When he thought that the interview had gone on long enough or that he wanted his visitor to go, he put the bull's head back on again, in sign that the talk was over.

Don't you think that something of this kind could be worked out for people like myself, who never know how to bring an interview to a close? Long after everything useful has been said I go on talking to people who have come to see me about this and that, simply because I lack the technique, and the strength of mind, to indicate to them that it is time to go.

I don't suppose a golden bull's head would really do. It might seem a little eccentric and ostentatious. But a simple brass head, made in the shape of my own face, but stern and impassive, might be just the thing. Or, on second thoughts, better make it bronze. Brass has such a nasty smell, as anyone can learn by sniffing the bell of an old bugle.

There are for sale in joke shops rubber masks, which give one the appearance of a gorilla. I think I shall get one and try it out. If it works I shall get a bronze job done. Do you know of any good, cheap foundry which would undertake such a commission?

Yours faithfully,
SAM.

Letters To The Editor

DEDICATE VICTORIA PARK FOUNTAIN

Sir: As a humble friend and great admirer of the late Mr. F. M. de la Fosse, may I suggest that the fountain soon to be replaced in Victoria Park—the fountain in which he took such an interest, be dedicated to his lasting memory?

Forever flow O Fountain strong and clear,
So was his life to all who held him dear.

NONSENSE IN THE FAR EAST

Sir: Will you allow me to congratulate you for the editorial reprinted in the Toronto Star? Would that there were more voices like yours raised more frequently. Your suggestion, "let us suppose the boot were on the other foot" and that the Russians were talking the same way as some of our most widely read publications, is a sensible and helpful way of causing people to see the danger of war hysteria.

I commend to your notice the Sept. 25 issue of Life Magazine. What are the people of Asia going to think of General MacArthur's political and military philosophy? The United States claims that she is only "neutralizing" Formosa. Yet here we have the Commander-in-Chief of the "United Nations Police Force", reported on reliable authority, as regarding Formosa as an unsinkable air-craft carrier from which he could destroy every capital and industrial centre held by what he calls "communists". It states boldly, "Today the largest anti-communist forces in Asia are, of course, the Nationalist armies of Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa. MacArthur assesses them at high value. He believes the U.S. should assist openly and fully, in building them to their maximum strength. He also believes that the U.S. should anticipate their return to the mainland". We must remember that MacArthur is in more or less dictatorial command in Japan and Formosa. Is there any reason why the Chinese should not consider that the United States is planning an attack on them, using Chiang Kai-shek with American money and equipment?

That is exactly how the Chinese and all their Asiatic friends are feeling at this moment. Their intelligence in Japan is excellent and complete. They know that what MacArthur says, goes. Can they be blamed if they refuse to allow General MacArthur to establish military bases on their Manchurian border as well as in Formosa. We talk glibly over here about Mao Tse-tung being a "puppet" of Moscow, but if you were a responsible statesman in China, charged with the care of national security, how would you feel in the face of American moves in Asia?

The Western world is paying little attention to the very strong and determined pronouncements of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in Peking. We do not recognize this government, an attitude which the British Conservative press has called "ostrichism". But the fact that we do not recognize the government does not change the situation in Asia. We have been given plenty of warning that China will act militarily in full force just as soon as she feels that her security is endangered. China has served clear and proper warning that she will consider any ruling by the United Nations or the Security Council as null and void if it is made in her absence. China has repudiated the United Nations ruling regarding the Korean civil war.

There is surely something childish in the American claim to act for the United Nations, and to be interested solely in peace and independence in Korea, and at the same time allow the Commander-in-Chief to announce and be reported as preparing an attack on the mainland. MacArthur has stated bluntly that he intends to "repair the damage done" by neglecting Chiang Kai-shek. He has labelled as "sterile" the concept of neutralizing the conflict "between the mainland Communists and the Formosa anti-communists". He has stated that he intends to support a war against the Chinese government in Peking. It must be obvious to anyone that such an attack on the mainland as is planned by MacArthur will be the start of a general war. It is time to call off this nonsense, admit China to the United Nations and negotiate the Korean struggle so that it will not spread.

Yours faithfully,
JAMES G. ENDICOTT,
Editor, The Canadian Fareastern Newsletter.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations. Before the mountains were brought forth, or even thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God....For a thousand years in thy sight are but as yesterday when it is past, and as a watch in the night. (Ps. 90: 1, 2, 4.)

✧ ✧ ✧

As for man, his days are as grass: as a flower of the field, so he flourisheth. For the wind passeth over it, and it is gone; and the place thereof shall know it no more. But the mercy of the Lord is from everlasting to everlasting upon them that fear him, and his righteousness unto children's children. (Ps. 103: 15-17.)

✧ ✧ ✧

For thus saith the high and lofty One that inhabiteth eternity, whose name is Holy; I dwell in the high and holy place, with him also that is of contrite and humble spirit, to revive the spirit of the humble, and to revive the heart of the contrite ones. (Isa. 57: 15.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And I saw another mighty angel come down from heaven, clothed with a cloud: and a rainbow was upon his head, and his face was as it were the sun, and his feet as pillars of fire....And the angel which I saw stand upon the sea and upon the earth lifted up his hand to heaven, and sware by him that liveth for ever and ever, who created heaven, and the things that therein are, and the earth, and the things that therein are, and the sea, and the things which are therein, that there should be time no longer. (Rev. 10: 1, 5, 6.)

Do You Remember Those Days Too?

(Montreal Star)

McGill deans, we read, propose to take no nonsense from gay and idle students. Our reporter says they propose to "crack down" on them, though surely so vulgar a phrase has never passed a dean's lips. At all events, McGill is to be a hive and not a playground. There is to be no repetition of that Flaming Youth epoch which, say the deans, marred the years after World War I.

We remember those days, the days of the coon coat and the pocket flask, the days when the motor car first passed into youthful hands, the gay, giddy, wicked days when organized society was all but tossed from its firm foundations. Doubtless the McGill deans of that day were perplexed and angry. Doubtless the deans' fears today are amply justified.

What puzzles us, however, is that, as we look around us, we discover that the gay, giddy, wanton boys and girls all seem now to have become completely transformed. They are now, most of them, fathers or mothers, raising their families with skill apparently equal to that shown by earlier generations. They go to church of a Sunday, and on weekdays they earn their livings and spend much of their spare time helping along great community projects. That joint hospital campaign this spring, for instance,—who were the organizers and canvassers? Bless our souls if they weren't (most of them) the product of that awful Flaming Youth period at college when we all went to the dogs.

We are all in favour of this stern 1950 pronouncement by the deans. Make no mistake about that. But, somehow or other we have a sneaking feeling that this new crop of college boys and girls is going to come out all right.

Alberta's Prosperity

(Edmonton Journal)

No Albertan will be surprised to learn that provincial revenues during the first three months of the fiscal year, which ended on June 30 last, have set an all-time record. They amounted to $38,211,000. Total expenditures, including those made on public works of a permanent nature, came to $24,065,000, leaving an overall cash surplus of $14,156,000.

The total revenue from oil, including sales of leases, royalties on production and rentals, amounted to approximately $18,000,000. This figure compares with some $6,000,000 from the same source during the corresponding three months [illegible] st year.

Spotlight on the muskie fishing arenas goes out on Sunday night with a bit of a disappointing flicker. Experts and observers alike have forecasted a smashing finish this week now that water has cooled off and lunkers have risen to shallower water. But things didn't work out that way,—no big bruisers coming to gaff, no press pictures, no undue excitement. For all that, it has been a great fishing year which will wind up for good at the close of bass and pickerel on Oct. 15th.

To brag again about the wonderful fishing year in the Kawarthas, listen to what quick-freeze locker operators have to say. From Bobcaygeon to Hastings on the Trent, they tell me that an unbelievable total of 25 tons of game fish have passed in and out of their cold rooms since early in May from tourist customers.

This comparatively new business has already shown a change in trend from large centres to the village hearts of fishing areas. The latter are the establishments that do the bulk of the business, naturally. The change in tourist family fishing licenses, providing that holders this year may take home only one day's legal catch, instead of two as in the past, has caused some reduction in their overall picture.

DLF Conservation Officers have found locker operators to be very alert about customer offerings of under-sized fish and over-sized catches and in reporting them. The Government feels little need of making deputy game wardens of them inasmuch as they are all doing an excellent job without the official badge.

The Quills Got Up And . . .

Wherever motorists travel they see increasing evidence of wild animals killed on highways, chiefly, skunks, porcupines, woodchucks and the occasional raccoon. Heavy week-end traffic takes an especially heavy toll with few, if any, amusing incidents involved. Cliff Vincent has one, however. Last Sunday as he was tooling southbound on Highway 28 north of Maynooth from Barry's Bay he slowed down the family car to avoid hitting, what he first thought was a small bear cub. It was a porcupine. Son Jerry, 11, wanted some quills for some purpose or other and demanded a quick stop to go back and investigate. As Jerry came within four or five feet of the stricken animal, it staggered to its feet and made off into the bush. Jerry yelped in surprise and high-tailed for the car. He got no quills.

Looking Into, Through, Glass Skis

With glass fishing rods the whole rage for the past three years, I have been waiting to see the material put to other sporting uses and, sure enough, it is. Glass skis, yet. A firm in the heart of the Appalachian ski district of New Hampshire have combined glass fibres with resins moulded under heat and pressure giving the correct camber and finish practically in one operation. Experts have used them down that way for the past three years and found them to have great elastic properties and resistance to twisting as well as providing a smooth and uniform glide. Conventional ski bindings can be installed as easily on the glass product as on the common wooden models. An item of interest to Peterborough, the largest wooden ski building centre in the Dominion.

Former Alderman Fred Tuggey and friend decided to mark some rocks with buoys near his cottage at Lovesick last week-end. To their delight, they found two plug baits tangled around one obstruction. "There was one dandy that was worth all of three bucks," crowed Fred. The other was a homemade one of his own that he had lost last season. To press Lady Luck to the limit, the fortunate finders took a whirl with the lures in a marsh that they knew, lost both of them in less than half an hour.

Bear Facts of Survival

Kawartha bred F/O John Greatrix, now home on leave from his 421 RCAF Fighter Squadron based in Chatham, N.B., has a tale to tell of a recent summer bush survival course near Fort Nelson, B.C. He and three others were trucked into the Tetsa River country, 100 miles south of the Yukon border, and left to fend for themselves for eight days. They lived well, chiefly from a large black bear that they shot at the beginning as well as spruce hens, squirrels and a rabbit, to say nothing of the Dolly Varden trout from the Tetsa River. As far as the airmen were concerned, the jaunt was uneventful and they all came to civilization a few pounds heavier, pounds that did not come off under the Air Force showers.

This week-end and the next are the ones that families should set aside for autumn drives. There is nothing quite like the Fall blaze in the Kawarthas, providing you drive leisurely on the byways. How about a Sunday trip down the Keene Road to Hastings and back via the south shore of Rice Lake to meet highway 28 at Bewdley? The same highway north to Bancroft is just another of many choices. Or, if you would like to travel in a 37-place bus to Algonquin Park via Lindsay and return via Bancroft, see what the DeNure Travel Agency have to offer. The individual fare, $6.25, includes evening dinner at White Pine Lodge, Apsley. Get out and see the sights while the getting is good, no matter how or where you go.

Barrister John Currelly will go any distance, it seems, to find virgin fishing waters, but, after an aimless jaunt last week-end to "a good spot" recommended by lumberman Art Peeling, with Peeling for a guide, he's become cagey. After driving wilderness roads the best part of Sunday, they arrived near this particular Shangri-La about dark. "Had we been mountain goats we might have finally reached the lake," said John. On being asked WHERE they got to, he was too bewildered to untangle the route but is satisfied that it is at least above the 49th Parallel.

N.B. Repeating again, 'lunge fishing closes Sunday evening, Oct. 1st.

Ladle In A Pot Of Gold

Nor Certitude, Nor Peace

The sea of faith
Was once, too, at the full, and the round earth's shore
Lay like the folds of a bright girdle furl'd;
But now I only hear
Its melancholy, long, withdrawing roar,
Retreating to the breath
Of the night-wind down the vast edges drear
And naked shingles of the world.

Ah, love, let us be true
To one another! for the world, which seems
To lie before us like a land of dreams,
So various, so beautiful, so new,
Hath really neither joy, nor love, nor light,
Nor certitude, nor peace, nor help for pain;
And we are here as on a darkling plain
Swept with confused alarms of struggle and flight,
Where ignorant armies clash by night.

Lumber Industry's Sensational Expansion Following Civil War and Railway Laying

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

With the ending of colonial preference duties in the British timber market and the signing of the Reciprocity Treaty between Canada and the United States in 1854, a great change came over the the timber industry of Canada West (Ontario), accelerated in the Kawartha district by the opening of railways north to Lindsay and Peterborough. The square timber trade to Britain was kept alive until 1856 by the Crimean War, but as iron steamships replaced wooden sailing ships there was a gradual decline in the sale of square timbers and masts to Britain. At the same time, the American Civil War 1860-65 resulted in high demand at peak prices for sawn lumber across Lake Ontario, a closer more profitable market for Kawartha timber operators and merchants. Finally, timber shipped to Britain was not paid for until it reached that country, sometimes a year after it was first cut, while American buyers paid cash for lumber piled on the docks at Cobourg, Port Hope, Rochester and Oswego. As a result, Peterborough and Victoria Counties produced two million feet of square timber in 1851 and four million feet in 1861, while producing 12½ million feet of sawn lumber in 1851 and 66 million feet in 1861. (Census Returns).

Three leading producers of square timber in the 1850s were Mossom Boyd of Bobcaygeon, and Samuel Dickson and Charles Perry of Peterborough; all of these sent rafts of square timber to Quebec, and also produced a great deal of sawn lumber. Others producing square timber were Messrs. Kempt, McAuley, Townsend, Platt, Cockburn, Fowlds, Caldwell. Dennistoun, Strickland, Leeper, Short, Scott, Buck, Stone, Smith and Thompson. Boyd had an agreement with the Youngs of Quebec City from 1854 by which they advanced £3,400 and Boyd agreed to bring to Quebec within a year 76,000 feet of square elm timber, 30,000 feet of square white pine 40-foot average, and 100 white pine masts averaging 80 feet long and 26 inches in diameter at the butt. In some revealing letters to a friend in Ireland Boyd gave a vivid picture of the square timber operations:

"Dec. 9, 1857: I have 100 men in my employ. One branch of my business is cutting pine into boards at my sawmill for New York and Albany markets, another that of sending large rafts of pine timber squared to Quebec for the British market, also masts, oak and elm for shipbuilding, and I have to go to Quebec to make sales. The steamboats run into the town of Lindsay from whence there is a railroad connecting with the GTR at Port Hope . . . also the river is navigable from Bobcaygeon to this place (Peterborough) and a railroad to Cobourg, so that from Bobcaygeon we have two outlets for our timber. April 8, 1858: The rafts are about to start on their long tedious voyage, but the travelling is now so easy by rail and steam that I can visit my rafts at any place on their route.

May 26, 1858: My rafts are getting on unusually well. We have not yet got into the great waters of the St. Lawrence. I expect to get my rafts to Quebec about the first of July. I have then to send large quantities of sawn lumber from the mill to Troy, Albany and New York, which is taken across Lake Ontario in schooners and then in Erie Canal boats. I have now on hand in all about £13,000 worth. I hope to realize a handsome profit this year.

June 23, 1858 (Trenton): My last raft is here and I am paying off a portion of the crews as we do not require so many men from this on down. A part of the way from here we are towed by steamers and at the head of the St. Lawrence rapids are reinforced by a strong force of French Canadians who assist in running the rapids. This raft will arrive in Quebec in about three weeks. I leave here by the GTR tonight at 8 and get to Peterborough at 12; formerly it used to take me five days on the road to come here and return. Sept. 19, 1859: I arrived in Quebec 22 hours after leaving Peterborough."

Sorrow and the scarlet leaf,
Sad thoughts and sunny weather;
Ah me, this glory and this grief
Agree not well together!
T. W. PARSONS (1819-1892)

Various Timber Uses

The longest, straightest timbers were reserved as masts, carefully preserved and selling at the highest price. Shorter trees with less than three knots, and no other blemishes, were made into squared timber or waney, with about a quarter of the tree cut off in squaring the sides. The other white pine and elm over 12" diameter was cut into sawlogs twelve to eighteen feet long and floated down as far as the sawmill, where they were cut into deals 3" thick, planks 2" thick, and boards less that 2" thick. From 1853 on, the timber was sent down the Otonabee in cribs, after the company's mark had been placed on the butt. Cribs raced down the rapids from Lakefield, over the slides (wooden chutes beside the dams) with the lumbermen aboard, until they were tied up in Little Lake. It was one of the local entertainments to walk up to Dickson's Dam at London street to watch the cribs go through in spring, with the French Canadian lumbermen singing merry chansons. When the cribs were safely secured in Little Lake, the foreman by custom treated the men in a nearby tavern, before they walked back to Lakefield. Strickland described the lumbermen in his 1853 book as "a lighthearted set of daredevils and the greatest rascals and thieves withal that ever a peaceable country was tormented with." For miles on each side of the waterways, when the log drives were going through, all hens, pigs and movable edibles were guarded under lock and key, and skirmishes between lumbermen and farmers were common on moonlit nights!

The Trent rapids below Rice Lake were the most dangerous, even after timber slides were built at Crooks Rapids, Healy Falls, Chisholm Rapids, etc. Sir Richard Bonnycastle wrote shortly before 1850, after nearly drowning at Healy's Falls: "Had the Trent Canal been finished, instead of the miserable decaying timberslides which now encumber that noble river, another million inhabitants would in ten years more have filled up the forests. At the Healy Falls sluiceway or timber-dam was a sort of bridge composed of parallel pieces of heavy square joists about two feet apart . . . Under our feet was the water of the slide running on an inclined plane of woodwork . . . with enormous power and velocity, into a pitch or cauldron far below . . . " Samuel Strickland wrote about a Douro neighbour, Tom Burke, who was "assisting with a number of others to break a jamb of square timber at the head of Healy Falls; he was on the jamb with his handspike trying to loose the timber when the stick he was standing on suddenly moved off, and by the jerk he was thrown into the rapids. He had only just time to seize one of the floating timbers when he was hurried down the raging falls. The chances against the poor fellow were a thousand to one; yet strange as it may appear, he escaped almost without injury."

The Board of Works which controlled the Canadian canals was hostile to completion of the Trent Canal, and favoured building timber slides to take cribs of logs around the rough water. In 1855 they turned the Trent slides over to a Trent Slide Committee which was to keep the slides in repair in return for a toll of $1 per crib. Farther north, at Bobcaygeon in 1857 the wooden lock was replaced by a larger stone lock, and by Boyd's influence two timber slides were built nearby, one for square timber and the other (on Little Bob River) for sawlogs. In 1859 the lock at Lindsay was made into a 54-foot timber slide by removing the lower gates; this also stopped steamer traffic from the upper lakes to Lake Scugog, and is only one indication of the continuous war between steamship companies and lumber companies up and down the Trent waterway. W. S. Conger, former sheriff of Peterborough County, who was elected to the Dominion Parliament in 1856, campaigned vigorously but unsuccessfully to have the government continue with the Trent Canal; in that year of depression 1857 the estimated cost of $3,000,000 for the project proved prohibitive, and in December, 1857, Conger was defeated by Thomas Short. No doubt John Langton, former Member of Parliament and ardent advocate of the Trent Canal, was after 1855, as Auditor-General of Canada, required to give a negative reply to such expenditures.

The advance of the railways into the Kawarthas, coupled with the introduction of steampower and new circular and multiple saws, brought a sensational expansion of the lumbering indus-

THIS HISTORIC SITES AND MONUMENTS BOARD plaque tells its own story: "TRENT VALLEY CANAL Commemorating the construction in 1833 of the first Bobcaygeon lock by the Inland Water Commission appointed by Sir John Colborne. The beginning of the improvement of the natural waterway connecting Lake Ontario with Georgian Bay." Here Miss Ruth Poole reads the inscription which thousands of motorists and tourists pass every summer. The plaque is similar in design and purpose to one which it was hoped the Historic Sites and Monuments Board might put up in Peterborough this year to commemorate the Irish Immigration of 1825.

Broom Factory Operating In City Since 80's Still Supplies Clean Sweep For Kitchens

By BOB HATTON

You probably don't know it, but a broom factory has been operating in Peterborough 65 or 70 years supplying city housewives and factories with ordinary house brooms and whisks.

Known as the Thomas McQuillan broom factory, the plant operates in a small two-storey brick building behind the houses on Simcoe St. just east of Aylmer St. You get to it through a lane off Aylmer St.

It is now run by George Rutherford who took over from his uncle, Thomas McQuillan when he died in 1926. Since then the factory has been operating steadily except for two years when Mr. Rutherford closed down during the depression because he wasn't "making them for nothing."

Mr. Rutherford learned the trade from his uncle when he was a boy about 13 years old. He has been at is ever since.

Not What It Was

"The broom business isn't what it used to be," he commented. At one time he had three men opefating machines for him. Now he does most of the work himself except for a man who comes in to help out when work piles up.

Vacuum cleaners, hardwood floors and linoleum have all combined to oust brooms from their time-honored role of keeping homes clean.

"There's still probably a broom in every house in Peterborough, but they aren't used as much," Mr. Rutherford explained.

As in every other manufacturing plant, cost of materials has gone up. Corn broom, the straw from which brooms are made, and handles have both gone up in price. Corn broom costs 25 cents a pound and the amount of wastage has gone up from about 33 per cent to about 50 per cent he said.

Reason teaches us that what is good is good for something, and that what is good for nothing is not good at all.
F. H. BRADLEY:
Ethical Studies, 1876

Mr. Rutherford finds it is sometimes difficult to get as much good quality corn broom as he wants. The best comes from the United States, from Illinois south to Texas. There is some imported from Italy and Hungary as well, but it isn't the best quality.

Quality of Corn Broom

In Europe, Mr. Rutherford has been told, growers let the corn broom ripen too much because they also use the grain that grows on it to make gin. Mr. Rutherford is not sure that is right because there seems to be a good deal of grain on the broom that comes to his factory.

Some of the broom is grown in Canada, but in this country a rust attacks the stalks, discoloring the light golden shade.

First step in the manufacturing process is dyeing the broom to the familiar light green color. When the broom is almost dry it is ready to be worked.

It is then put through power-driven scraper, a sort of thrasher, which cleans out the grain. Then it is sorted and cut to size.

Fastening Straw

Key operation in the manufacture is fastening the straw to handles, which are not manufactured here. The job is done on a foot-operated tying machine on which the broom is wrapped around the handle and fastened in place with wire.

The broom is then sewn by a machine which also flattens it out in the familiar shape. Brooms used by factories are shaped and fastened with a metal ring by a press, which is a hand operated clamp.

After that all there is to be done is to trim off the loose ends and fasten on the labels.

A lot of people think the number of rows of sewing on a broom determine whether it is a good one or not, but that is no indication said Mr. Rutherford. It's the weight of the broom that counts. In other words it is the amount of straw in the brooms that matters.

IRISH PROVERB
God is not as severe as He is said to be.

Despite a certain pessimism about the state of the broom market, Mr. Rutherford said it is still quite a good business for the little man who knows what he is doing. It is one of the few occupations, in any case, in which it pays to clutch at straws.

Lock of Million Different Combinations Ten Ton Doors Safeguard Crown Jewels

By S. GORDON COLLER

Among the few things in the world which are literally without price are the State jewels of the nations, chief among them the historic British Crown Jewels and those legendary treasures which make up the Crown Jewels of Persia. No one, as far as is known, has ever even attempted to put a value upon the crowns, orbs, swords and sceptres, whose very description reads like a page from the Arabian Nights.

Less well-known but almost equally fabulous are the steps which are taken to protect this regalia against burglary. Some of these secrets have just been revealed to a party of London bankers who visited the works of a world-famous British firm of locksmiths and safe equipment manufacturers, which is making complete new equipment to protect the Crown Jewels of Persia. They were shown the massive strong-room doors soon to be despatched from this factory at Wolverhampton to the new buildings of the Bank Melli Iran, at Teheran, where the crown jewels will be stored.

One of these strong rooms where the famous Peacock Throne and other treasures will be displayed, is about 115 feet long and 52 feet wide. The main entrance is controlled by a door weighing ten tons, 20 inches thick, complete with steel vestibule and folding gates. When closed, the door is secured by two key-locks and one keyless combinations lock capable of no less than 100 million different combinations. A would-be thief, without any clue to the correct combination and taking less than one minute to set each one, would have to live to be 200 years of age to work through the lot. Even then he would find that a time-lock prevented the door from being opened except at a predetermined time.

The firm making this remarkable equipment for Persia—the contract is one of the largest of its kind received since the war and includes a safe deposit strong room for the bank with over 4,000 lockers—has been entrusted with the equally responsible task of safeguarding Britain's royal jewellery for many generations. Its records contain an invoice to the Duke of Wellington, alongside a "testimonial" from a nineteenth century "cracksman" and historical correspondence from most of the Kings, Queens and Emperors of the world in the past 150 years.

In Grim Old Tower

The British Crown Jewels have always been kept in the grim old Tower of London, the fortress, where in the Middle Ages, the Sovereign lived and wore his crown and jewels constantly. When the Kings and Queens of England ceased to live there, the Tower remained the official repository for the jewels. And it was thence that they were stolen by Colonel Blood during the reign of Charles II. Sir Gilbert Talbot, the Keeper in those days, had obtained the King's permission to show the jewels to the public and he assigned the profits from the exhibition, to an old servant named Edwards, who had charge of the jewels at the time of the robbery. An official account of the theft was printed in the London Gazette on the 9th May, 1671, but the exact story has never been revealed. When the culprit was captured and the jewels recovered, the King sent for Colonel Blood, saying he would deal with him himself. What passed at this interview we do not know, but its result was that, in place of punishment, Colonel Blood received an appointment at Court. Some say that the robbery was planned to settle a bet; others that the King attempted to steal his own crown to settle debts he had contracted while in exile.

Since that day, the Jewel House in the Tower of London has been under armed guard day and night for nearly 300 years. For one week, every year, the store rooms are closed and two or three days spent on inspection of the steel shutters and other burglar-proof equipment.

Wooden Cabinets Better

Not only does this firm make safe equipment for these royal stones, for over 130 of the world's leading banks, for the United Nations at Lake Success and many other organizations, but it makes fireproof and burglar-proof equipment for office records in all parts of the world. Few people would think of a wooden filing cabinet as offering better protection against fire than the usual thin steel cabinet—yet this is one of the many lessons of experience which was emphasized by war. The reason is that wood is often only charred by fire, while metal conducts heat to the papers in the cabinet. When the floors collapse, however, neither type offers adequate protection, and a special range of fire protection safes, files and cabinets has been designed to solve this problem.

Cabinets are built of steel as thin as is consistent with strength. Their walls are double thickness and between the two layers of steel are packed the fireproof skeletons of a sea water plant deposited millions of years ago in the Pacific Ocean, locked in special cement, reinforced with wire mesh. So complete is the insulating quality of this lining that a cabinet placed in a furnace reaching 2170 degrees Fahrenheit for 2½ hours never exceeded 270 degrees inside—30 degrees less than the temperature of which paper disintegrates. Indeed, records were preserved intact in a cabinet which was fired for two hours in a furnace 1850 degrees Fahrenheit, dropped when white hot on a concrete floor 20 feet below and replaced in a furnace for a further 25 minutes at a temperature of 1900 degrees.

In this way the unique experience and workmanship which now protect the world's greatest material treasures have been made available for the protection of vital office records by commercial firms throughout the world.

PCVS 'Davids' Downed 62-6 As Goliaths Sprout Wings

By DON GRANT

Even sling-shots wouldn't have helped the PCVS "Davids" cause Friday night as they were smeared, not too gently, by the East York Collegiate Goliaths of Toronto. This snozzle, a 62-6 pasting, was the worst ever tasted by a PCVS under Coach Bev Goulding.

Goliath of biblical fame was far from an angel but the East York Goliaths took to wing anyway. Finding the PCVS line difficult to penetrate the Torontos blasted the PCVS weak spot, a poor passing defence.

After a seesaw start which netted both teams a major score, the Goliaths began to throw everything but the kitchen sink which came later in the fourth. They sent nine passes forward and six were completed, two for touchdowns to make the quarter score 17-6. The East York line began to roll in the second and the attack changed to the ground with the half score jumped to 28-6.

PCVS, through the kicking of Al Northcott, a solid line which punched holes, and plunges by Bob Gandy, Warren Brown and Roy Armstrong enjoyed a rushing spell in the third which ended abruptly when East York cashed in on a fumble for the only major score.

Norm Dyson's throwing arm featured in the fourth quarter as the Toronto collegians rolled for four majors over a crippled and disheartened Peterborough group.

Injuries Suffered

Injuries suffered in this game will have their effect on the results of games next week. At least two may be sitting out the games with Trinity College and Western Tech of Toronto. PCVS' 270-pound lineman, Bob Howe, was carried out of the game in the second by six St. John Brigade men with torn ligaments in the knee and a sprained ankle. Quarterback Bryan Young left in the fourth with slight concussion. Along the line Coach Goulding was flocked with injuries as the light PCVS boys took a pounding from the heavy Goliaths who average 200 pounds along the front wall.

Already sitting out games before East York were Jim Galoska and Art Harrison. Galoska, with a cracked vertebra, will be out for the season, while Harrison was out with a charley horse.

Peterborough's major came shortly after Gerry Killham passed to Bob Kimoff for the first East York major. Jensen grabbed a fumble by East York at the 35-yard line. Plunges by Jensen and McIlraith ended in Jensen scoring with Young converting.

Goliaths Rolling

From the kickoff the Goliaths rolled. Killham flipped to Surphlis and then Banks to place the ball well up. Kimoff, on a reverse, carried to the PCVS 6. After a penalty to East York Killham passed to Banks again for a major, Killham converting. Well in East York territory late in the quarter Killham tossed a short pass to Bill Surphlis who tore loose from several tacklers to race 73 yards for the final major of the first.

Prior to the whistle in the first, Killham set up a scoring play in the second by passing to Surphlis for 17 yards. On the first play in the second Kimoff swept around the end to make the score 22-6. East York hemmed in the PCI'ers minutes later when Phil Hamilton, Kimoff and Don Harrison plunged to the one-yard line. Harrison went through centre for the major, Dyson converting.

East York grabbed a fumble by PCVS at the 18-yard line in the third and made it into a score when Dyson threw to Larry Yule, Dyson converting.

Scoring Parade

The East York scoring parade started early in the fourth. Northcott's blocked kick was grabbed by Len Rutledge at the three-yard line to go across easily. Dyson converted. Dyson put the East Yorkers in motion with passes to Don Harrison and Banks. Banks and Hamilton carried for yards until Kimoff zipped around the end. Dyson again converted to make the score 45-6.

Don Harrison popped up in the passing role with a 20-yard flip to Jim Davidson in the clear for a major. Dyson later, after a blocked kick at the 10-yard line recovered by East York, passed to Don McCrae for the 56th point. On the last plays of the game Don Harrison again tossed to Davidson over the line for a major, Dyson converting.

An incident in Flatbush Friday gave some indication of how touchy a baseball player can get whidle waiting nervously to see if his team is going to play in the world series

Russ Meyer of Philadelphia Phillies took a couple of punches at a photographer while the Brooklyn Dodgers were rallying for five runs to defeat Boston in the first game of a doubleheader in which they kept their National League pennant hopes alive.

The Philly pitcher who was watching the game with a number of teammates from a box near the Boston dugout became annoyed when Bert Brandt of Acme insisted upon snapping him during the Dodgers' big eighth inning rally.

He and the other Phillies, it seems, were displaying considerable emotion, as a Bocton victory would have assured them the pennant.

Meyer warned the photographer to desist. When another bulb fent off he leaped up and got in two blows before a spectator pulled him off.

Doug Grimston, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said in New Westminster Friday he had suspended indefinitely Guyle Fielder of Lethbridge Alta., voted most valuable player in the Western Canada Junior Hockey League last season.

Grimston said Fielder, 19, has been suspended from organized hockey for failing to sign a professional contract with Milwaukee of the United States Hockey League.

Fielder signed a "C" contract with Chicago Black Hawks, owners of Milwaukee club, when he turned 18. This means he gets $100 and must report to that club when called.

He would get $1,000 to sign a pro contract and another $3,500 for his first season with Milwaukee. Grimston said.

Grimston quoted Fielder as saying he thought he had signed to play with Chicago.

James Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, and Jack Solomons, London promoter, conferred Friday on the possibility of arranging an Ezzard Charles-Lee Savold heavyweight title boxing bout in London next summer.

No decision was reached Charles is recognized by the National Boxing Association as the world champion while Savold holds the British version.

Art Houtteman, Detroit Tiger pitcher, was sued for $105,000 on Friday by a truck driver who had a collision with the baseball player's car in 1949.

Avril B. Muse, alleged in his circuit court suit at Bartow, Fla., that he was injured so seriously he cannot drive a truck, any more. He contended the accident was Houtteman's fault.

Houtteman was hurt badly in the accident which occurred in Lakeland, Fla., during the 1949 spring training season. He was in hospital for several weeks but made a complete recovery.

Houtteman and a passenger in his car. Arthur J. Falls, have suits pending for $100,000 each against the Pasco Packing Company, whose truck Muse was driving.

An unusual pro matman makes his debut here Tuesday night to headline the grapple card at the Brock Arena. He is Timothy Geohagen (pronounced Geohagen) fresh over from Ireland a few months ago. Has been stealing the shows in Toronto programs. Tim is a big broth of a man, a weight-lifter, a hypnotist and has an university degree. In fact he'll give a short demonstration of his strength in the ring at 8.30, ere the prelim starts between Toar Morgan and Al Korman. Semi-final has Pat Flanagan facing Jack Moore, and then comes the final. It's hypnotical Timothy against huge Hi Lee. A mat card worthy of a hefty crowd, indeed.

Results of last night's high school grid games are in elsewhere, and the junior PCI-ers are off today for Oshawa in a schedule opener. The ORFU senior "B" Orfuns trek to Orillia today for a most important melee, though the "piece de resistance" for local fans is the Cobourg-Orfuns' match here next Wednesday eve. Regardless of what they do the rest of their schedule, the Orfuns want to trim the cocky and powerful Galloping Ghosts of Cobourg. They vow they'll do it here that night, and we rather think they will. It'll be a grand grid game, anyway.

Too Much Television?

There was a disappointingly small crowd at the recent Louis-Charles fight in Yankee Stadium. Television had much to do with it—even a number of folks here viewing the scrap via air waves. Of course, they wouldn't have attended, in any case, but thousands more in the New York City area likely would have. And, incidentally, here's an item from Al Rose of Brantford re radio: "Saturday a funeral procession was wending its way to the cemetery. The driver of the pallbearers' car had the radio on and was listening to the Argo-Ottawa football game. As the procession turned into the cemetery, the driver clicked off the radio—leaving the Argos high and dry on their own 20-yard line."

* * * * * *

Harking back to the fight, which we listened to partly at the Orillia-Orfuns' game and later at the office, Joe Louis did not disappoint his many well-wishers too much. He lost it, of course, but he went down fighting. Charles was younger and proved a good boxer and a fairly hard hitter. Wasn't afraid of Joe, either. Yet he couldn't deck the former champ, though Charles is seven years younger and quite a bit faster. Joe worked himself into good condition, fought hard all the way—nearly tagging his opponent twice with that kayo right—and offered no alibis after. The Detroit Negro has been a credit to the ring ever since he came out of obscurity to win the world's title. He has a lot of friends now as he quits the ring for good.

* * * * * *

But That Was Murder

Back in '38, we also listened to a Louis' fight on the air. That was just a year before a screwball named Hitler plunged the world into war. Max Schmeling, a Nazi through and through, had given Louis his only pro loss a year before. He was acclaimed in Hitlerite Germany as an example of the super-race of—well, we suppose, Heinies. Max sneered at Joe' color and his ability and he is the only ring opponent Joe ever actually hated. They got together in the early summer of 1938 again and what happened to Max shouldn't happen to a crooner. Joe nearly murdered him in one round and Max, after quite a spell in hospital, was carried on board ship to return to Germany disgraced. Super-race, hah!

* * * * * *

While on the subject of heavyweight boxers, we'd like to quote from a clipping on Bugs Baer. Of all the big-time fight writers, Bugs was the greatest wit and his New York American column was widely read. In a preamble to the Carpenter-Dempsey fight, he wrote: "The first guy in the arena was a Jersey City cop. So was the next, and the next. Eleven hundred of them flat-arched in before the monotony was broken by a Newark fireman. At 10 bells, the official gloves were sent for. They arrived in taxicabs, one glove to a cab. The ring is padded with imported sofa spinach. The canvas was made by Newark silk works. Nothing is lacking to make Carpenter's nap an enjoyable one."

* * * * * *

Bugs Came For Fun

He adds: "Five hundred more Jersey City cops wheeled in to preserve law and disorder. It is raining—we hope Carp saved something for a rainy day. A thousand more Jersey patrolmen marched in. At 11.30, society started to stagger in. Another thousand Jersey cops crashed the gates. Soft drink agents are chirping like crickets with asthma. A newspaper man refused gingerale and asked for a little salary tonic. The cops cleared the aisles and took refuge in the best sight-seeing spots. Jack Dempsey jogged down the aisle. Then Carpenter waltzed forth, followed by his royal retinue. The crowd settled in their seats to make a round or a day of it. It turned out to be four rounds. Dempsey by a kayo in the fourth." Bugs apparently didn't worry about the fight details—someone else would look after that. He just came for fun.

St. Mike's Take St. Peter's 22-0 Win In Thrill Game

Oakwood Stadium was the scene of a colorful spectacle last night as St. Michael's College opened their senior O.C.A.C. football season against Fred Allore's S.P.S. squad while uwards of 2,500 fans cheered each thrilling move of the boys to the echo.

St. Michael's emerged victorious 22-0, finishing strongly with two major scores in the final quarter but only after a hard battle and some lucky breaks thrown in as S.P.S.—all decked out in their new gold and black uniforms—fought tooth and nail from start to finish, short in manpower but long in courage.

Fast, Clean Play

Play was fast and clean in the first quarter with neither team holding much advantage till the 12 minute mark when S.P.S. lost on downs on the home 40 and the boys in blue plunged to centre on succesive downs. John Torella, who proved a tower of strength of the Blues' halfline, then wheeued around left end for 20 to the vistiors' 35. Two Jacks clicked next as Caffery shot a short forward to Reid, who skirted right end for a major, just at quarter time. A pass to convert failed.

S.P.S. came strongly in the second quarter to outplay Lew Barnes' crew as John Armstrong—a standout performer throughout—Carl Brioux, Frank Farley, Gerry O'Reilly and the Jones boys led the way in a determined effort to score, as all hands dug in Fate cheated their best efforts, however, as time ran out of pay dirt in their nostrils, just at half time. It was a tough break for the Allore crew.

Another Break

Another break cost S.P.S. five points in the third for the only score as Brioux's kick struck Morrissey behind his own goal line and the homesters chose possession on S.P.S. 10 rather than a single point as Referee Gurney ruled a dead ball on the play, one not to common in football. Pat Nealon carried over for a major on next down but a pass to convert failed again. The fourth quarter found S.P.S. fighting hard against an equally determined foe Bob O'Leary carled the mail in this session, knifing through for two majors, both converted. Arbuthnot, Torella, Reid, Caffery, O'Leary, Dodds, Wood, Cafery and McGravey were outstanding for St. Mike's on a well balanced squad. For St. Peter's every man, in addition to those mentioned above gave his best. St. Michael's "A" team defeated St. Jerome's 12-6 in the second game of the twin bill on St. Mike's three with the smell

When the referee, no one's friend, waves his arms during a play or after, he is not attracting a lost friend's attention but signalling to all that an infraction of the rules has been made by one of the teams.

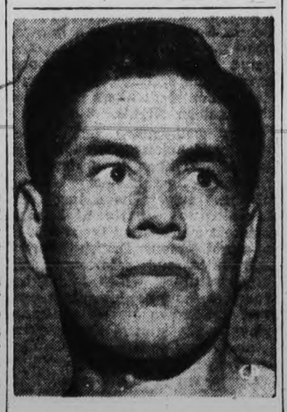
Ten signals are included in this year's rules for Canadian football. The first for rough play and its variation for "too long putting the ball in play" will be discussed today.

The first signal is for rough play and is indicated by either arm straight out from the body. The roughing rule is in two sections, the first for using abusive, profane, obscene or insulting language, deliberate charging of the kicker, forward passer or opponent attempting to catch the ball. The penalty is disqualification of the player or players and the loss of 25 yards to the offending team from where the offence was made or from the point where the ball became dead on the play. Disqualification consists of banishment from the game with a substitute allowed immediately.

The second section of the rule includes rough play such as piling on, scragging, tripping, tackling out-of-bounds, contacting a kicker resulting in the kicker being knocked to the ground or any other act of unnecessary roughness.

The penalty in this case is the loss of 15 yards from the point where the offence occurred or from the point where the ball became dead or from the point of the last scrimmage The offending player or players may receive a penalty for not less than three minutes. During that time no substitution will be allowed.

A variation of the first signal, arm rotated in a circular motion, indicates that the offensive team has taken too long to put the ball in play.



When the ball becomes dead or after an official has placed the ball after a play, the attacking team has 20 seconds to put the ball in play. The referee usually allows the teams reasonable time to lineup before beginning to count For the violation of this rule the attacking team loses a down and if on the third down, the loss of 10 yards, the same down repeated once and is followed by the loss of ball if an offence occurs on the repeated down

Tuesday's signals will include those for offside ball and holding.

Top Comedy Pair Finding Television Exciting Work

By JOHN PATERSON

TORONTO — (CP) — Unlike their namesakes in the barroom ballad, Canadian Radio's Frankie and Johnny get along well together and now are looking forward to a new world—television—to conquer.

Generally conceded to be Canada's top comedy team, John Wayne and Frank Shuster starred twice this summer on big-budget United States television shows and were asked to return.

"We had several offers," Frank Shuster said in an interview, "but we decided to come back to this country. It's more relaxing here. There's more money in the United States and we had some nice offers, but we like it in Canada. We didn't exactly close the door, though, to further guest shows in the States."

Now starting their fifth year with with the CBC, the two have their sights set on Canadian television, scheduled for programming next year.

"We actually prefer television to radio," Shuster continued. "There is more movement. For comedy it's much better. You can work visual gags, bring in a lot of stuff not possible in radio.

Tougher Medium

"It can be tougher of course. It isn't possible to read a script. The show has to rehearse a week or more. You have to remember the location of the various cameras and which one is turned on at the moment.

"With three, four or even five cameras for each show, and only one turned on at any given moment, you have to remember what the producer plotted in rehearsal.

"Of course, the fact that a little red light is turned on over whichever camera is live helps too."

Wayne and Shuster have their own ideas about television techniques. While it has some of the features of motion pictures, radio and stage work, it has its own idiom.

"It's a brand new medium, we can use new ideas. That's one of the things I like about it," Shuster said.

Canadians, he added are rated highly in radio circles in the US. Many are doing well down there, headed of course by Vancouver's Allan Young, one of the top stars in television. But Wayne and Shuster are happy to stay in Canada.

"Here you can have some time to yourself and see grass and trees. New York is the asphalt jungle."

Yanks 'In' In World Series Brooks Trying Desperately To Make Grade

By RALPH RODEN, Associated Press Sports Writer

The Yankees are "in" and the Brooklyn Dodgers are trying desperately to make it a greater New York world series. Casey Stengel's Yankees are celebrating the winning of their 17th American League pennant today while the Dodgers close in fast on the jittery Philadelphia Phillies, National League leaders. The Yanks, who were idle, backed into their second straight championship as the Cleveland Indians trounced Detroit 12-2 Friday to eliminate the runner-up Tigers. But the dauntless Dodgers are the talk of the baseball world.

Faced with sudden death, the Brooks came from behind in both ends of a doubleheader and beat Boston Braves 7-5 and 7-6 to prolong their pennant chances.

A loss in either game, and that familiar cry wait unail next year would have resounded throughout Flatbush. But instead, the faithful are shouting the praises of a team that refused to quit.

Meet Phils

The Dodgers now meet the Phils, who have lost seven of their last nine games, in a two-game series that opens at Ebbets Field today. The Brooks trail the Whiz Kids by two games and must sweep the series to stay "alive." If the Brooks lose either today or Sunday the Phils will win their first pennant since 1915.

Should the Dodgers take both games from the Phils they will wind up the regular season Sunday in a tie. In that event, a best of three playoff series will be staged to decide the Yanks' world series foe.

League president Ford Frick said Friday night that no playoff announcement regarding sites and dates will be made until after today's game, and then only if Brooklyn wins.

Dodger manager Burt Shotton has selected Fay Palica (12-8) to go after the Phils today. Eddie Sawyer of the leaders will not decide until shortly before game time. It will either be Bob Miller (11-5), Bubba Church (8-6), or Russ Meyer (9-11), with Miller looming as the best bet. In Sunday's finale, Don Newcombe will pitch for Brooklyn and Robin Roberts for Philadelphia.

Late Inning Rallies

The Dodgers appeared on the way to oblivion in both games Friday, but pulled each one out with late-inning rallies.

In the opener, Max Surkont had the Dodgers beaten 5-2 going into the eighth when his infield collapsed and permitted Brooklyn to score five unearned runs and win the game. An error by Earl Torgeson with two out and the bases loaded opened the floodgates.

The Dodgers also spotted the Braves an early lead in the finale and entered the sixth inning trailing 6-3. But they climbed on Vern Bickford for failed for the sixth to win his 20th game, for three runs and tied the score.

Jackie Robinson led off the seventh with his 14th home run to knock out Bickford and win the game.

St. Louis Cardinals downed the Chicago Cubs 5-1 in a night game. The other National League clubs were idle. Al Brazle, who took over from Cloyd Boyer in the first inning after Boyer complained of a sore elbow, granted only four hits the rest of the way to win his 11th game.

Stops Detroit

Bob Lemon snuffed the life out of the Tigers. The big righthander stopped Detroit on six hits to post his 23rd victory, top output in the major leagues.

Ted Gray opened for Detroit and was pounded out in the fifth when the Indians scored three runs to take a 5-1 lead. The Indians added two more in the eighth and one in the ninth.

The Yanks spent an off day in Boston listening to the Indian-Tiger clash. When the game was over, the Bombers tossed Stengel up in the air in a joyous celebration. The New Yorkers close out the season against the Red Sox with single games today and Sunday.

In the only other gmae, the Red Sox, survived a four-homer blast to edge Washington Senators 7-6. Walt Dropo tripled home Vern Stephens in the ninth with the winning run.

Holiness, Honesty, Truth Said Marks Of Christian

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, DD.

"If any man have not the spirit of Christ, he is none of His." That is the clear, explicit statement, as revealed in Romans 8:9, of what it means to be a Christian.

But what is the spirit of Christ? And what does it mean to have it?

The spirit of any man is evidenced in his life and character and in his words and deeds. This was true of the Christ. It is in Jesus of Sazareth, in all that he said and did, in all the records of that wonderful life that we must know and understand the spirit of Christ.

We see that spirit revealed in what Jesus repeatedly said concerning Himself, His mission, and His purpose. That is the very essence of a true Christian—to have a mission and purpose.

A Christian is not a drifter, living haphazardly from day to day. In the Lord's Prayer he prays for daily bread, and that daily bread is for the sustenance of a well-directed life, devoted to the will of God, to be done in earth as in heaven.

It was in that will of the Father that the spirit of Christ, the mission and purpose of Jesus, centred. He came to give life, and to give it more abundantly. He came with a gospel of God's grace, to seek and save the lost. He came to bear witness unto truth, to proclaim the truth that would set men free.

Holiness, honesty, truth, love, and grace—these are the marks of the spirit of Christ. For the true Christian they are elaborated and listed as the fruits of the Spirit, in Galatians 5:22, "The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance: against such there is no law."

We are in a world of war; suspicions, jealousies, hatreds are rife, not only in indivviduals, but in organizations and nations. Crime and violence, drunkenness and debauchery, are in almost every community. The law that is, or ought to be, against these things is powerless in some of our largest, and what ought to be our finest and most progressive, cities, often because of the corruption and dishonesty of the very officials who have sworn to enforce the law.

We are living in a complex, confused, difficult, and in many respects a corrupt time. But the fruits of the spirit, the qualities of the true Christian, are essential to good living, safety, happiness, and true prosperity in society. There is no true way of life, but God's way, made manifest in the life and spirit of the Christ.

The greatest need of the world, as it has ever been, is for true Christians, who will follow that way, and live in that spirit.

Norwood Church Fronting Wall Is Dangerous

The county should "do something" about the high cement retaining wall in front of the United Church in Norwood, Reeve Rork Ferguson told county council Friday afternoon.

He told his not-too-impressed colleagues that the 10-foot wall was dangerous as it had a bad lean and might fall anytime. The wall, about 100 feet long, borders the "connecting link" between the village of Norwood and the road to Warsaw.

The connecting link is kept up by the county and Reeve Ferguson said io was the county's job to make sure there were no hazards to traffic along that stretch.

If the retaining wall fell it would damage the roadway and cause possible injury to travellers.

"The village of Norwood and the United Church feel it is the county's responsibility," he said. "And I think so too."

Reeve James Humphries, of Asphodel, said he doubted the county's responsibility.

"The United Church owns the property there and I assume they built it. What has the wall to do with us?" he asked.

"Maybe you'd like the county to look after the upkeep of the sidewalk on the other side of the street," chaffed Reeve Ernest Leeson from the neighboring village of Havelock.

Everybody joined in the laugh, including Reeve Ferguson. The county will investigate to find out just what its obligations are.

Women Fliers Organize

OTTAWA, Sept. 30 — (CP). — Feminine interest in flying will get a boost here next Saturday when the first foreign chapter of "The 99s" — the international organization of licensed women pilots — will receive its charter in Ottawa.

A group of 20 members of the organization, formally set up now only in the United States, will come to Ottawa next Friday to install the new chapter.

Most of the visiting women pilots will fly their own planes to Ottawa, where a round of entertainment has been arranged for the week-end.

The first Canadian chapter will have its headquarters in Ottawa, and five of the seven charter members are capital residents. The others are Mrs. Kay Harvey of Trenton, and Miss Marjorie Lawes of Moncton.

Members-At-Large

The Ottawa chapter expects to have members-at-large from other parts of Canada and eventually to see additional chapters set up across the country among the more than 350 Canadian women holding pilot licences. Five charter members are required to organize a chapter.

The movement had its start in 1929 when a group of licensed women flyers met to organize a flying club. There were 26 girls at the meeting. They sent out a call to other ferminine air enthusiasts in the United States, Canada and abroad, and got 99 charter members. Thus the unusual name of the organization.

The organization's aim is to maintain a close relationship among women pilots all over the world, to advance the cause of aviation generally, and to serve their countries in time of need.

Poor Fund Doled "Hit and Miss" Reeve Charges

County Council is dissatisfied with the method of distributing the Foley Estate fund for "the poor and needy."

The annual interest on the estate of the late Elmira Grover Foley is $1,500. This is divided, three-eighths to the city and five-eighths to the county. And the county passes along its share to the various municipalities.

The city puts its share of the estate into its welfare fund.

James Gifford, reeve of Ennismore, described the present system of allocating the fund as "hit and miss." A needy person who can comply with the requirements must be approved by the Foley Estate committee and the money is then sent to him through his municipal treasurer.

Transfers Made

In several instances the beneficiary has died and the municipality, without consulting the special Foley committee, has transferred the money to another "deserving" person.

Moreover some municipalities have received nothing from the estate at all.

Reeve Gifford Friday recommended that the money be distributed similar to that of the Dr. Caldwell will: That is each municipality receive so much in proportion to its population. The recommendation is to be considered by the Foley Estate committee.

Following an accident at 4:50 a.m. today in which a taxi he was driving hit a parked car and then a house, Fred C. LaPlante, 22, 293 Westcott St., was charged with careless driving in police court today.

Geoffrey (Gip) Feeley, owner of the taxi, today charged LaPlante with taking the cab without the owner's consent. Feeley said LePlante had no permission to take the taxi.

A passenger in the car Maureen Kelly, 22, YWCA, received a cut lip and was dazed when her head apparently hit the windshield which was cracked. She was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, and was reported this morning to be in good condition.

Police said LaPlante had no permit to drive a taxi. LaPlante was driving west on Romaine St. and hit a car owned by Herb Payne, 273 Romaine St., parked at the south curb. Although the car had its hand brake on, it was driven 62 feet by the impact.

After hitting the car, the taxi turned sharply south, ran over the sidewalk, through a fence and hit the front wall of a house with "considerable force," 27 feet from the curb.

Car Scraped

The Payne car was scraped along the entire left side where it had rubbed along a tree as it was driven forward. The rear right fender, trunk door and body were also dented.

The taxi had a smashed steering wheel, cracked right windshield, smashed grill, a dented hood, a crumpled left front fender, the radiator was punctured and the left front tire flat.

1950 Rolls Show Increase Of 1,034; Assessment Up Nearing $50 Million Mark

Peterborough's population totals 36,716, a year's gain of 1,034, in the assessment roll for 1950 which Assessment Commissioner J. E. Davis transferred today to City Clerk Outram. Increases are confined to Claraday ward, south of Lansdowne St., and Ashburnham. Decreases in the other wards reflected the movement of people from central rooming and apartment quarters to new houses in the east and south. These sectional gains were: Claraday 1,116 and Ashburnham 285, amounting to 1,401, which is reduced by the losses: 191 in South Ward, 102 in Centre, 67 in West and 7 in North, totalling 366, and leaving the net gain at 1,034.

The total population figures for three years are:

1948—35,065.
1949—35,682, gain 617.
1950—36,716-gain 1034.

The increase in two years has been 1,651.

Mr. Davis remarked to the Examiner that the number of persons reported to the assessors was not vouched for as an actual census.

Population by wards for those three years was:

	1948	1949	1950
Claraday	5392	4266	3644
South	8853	9044	9085
Centre	2314	2416	2560
West	7218	7285	7315
North	7546	7553	7541
Ashburnham	5403	5118	4920
Total	36,716	36,682	35,065

This phase of the assessment roll of 1950, which has been prepared for the purpose of 1951 taxation, shows a substantial gain in population, and indicates a considerable relief in housing by the centrifugal shift to Claraday and Ashburnham wards where housing development has been most active.

Total taxable assessment for 1951, combination of land, buildings and business, amounts to $39,310,870 as compared with $37,467,450 for 1950. This is an increase of $1,843,420, and this sum is made up of the increase of $1,584,585 on property, that is on both lands and buildings, plus $258,835 increase in the business assessment.

With the reference to the accompanying table of assessments, probably explanation is not required. However, the taxable property assessment is obtained by subtracting the exemptions from the total of land and buildings. Add to that the business tax, and that total is the entire taxable assessment. With the further addition of the exemptions the grand total assessment emerges.

The total assessment of the city for all purposes is $45,717,330 for 1951 as compared with $42,414,215 for 1950, an increase of $3,303,115.

But, to repeat, the increase in total taxable assessment is $1,843,420. The difference is the increase in the assessment of exempted property.

The statement received from Mr. Davis follows:

Land	$ 8,567,925	$ 8,468,440
Buildings	31,896,180	28,951,385
Totals	40,464,105	37,419,825
Exemptions	6,406,460	4,946,765
Taxable property	34,057,645	32,473,060
Business	5,253,225	4,994,390
Total tax. ass'ment	39,310,870	37,467,450
Total ass'ment	45,717,330	42,414,215

Junior Farmers Come In 2 Lots

Two groups of Junior Farmers from western Ontario, 80 girls and boys, are visiting Peterborough on separate tours next week.

An Elgin county party of 37 arrive Wednesday, will have lunch at Hooper's, and then go to the Quaker Oats plant. Their itinerary takes them to the Lift Lock and Armour Hill, leaving for Ottawa around three.

The other group is composed of 43 boys and girls from eleven counties in western Ontario who will be here Friday on their way home from a week's outing into New York and Quebec.

They are spending Thursday night at Kemptville and will be registered here at the Empress Hotel until Saturday morning when they set out for Galt, the dispersal point. They intend to visit Friday the De Laval and Quaker Oats plants, and in the evening they will be social guests of the Peterborough Junior Farmers at Normal School.

Robert E. Bell, assistant agricultural representative in Peterborough will be in charge of this part of their six days' trip.

Samaritans In City For 3-Day Meet

The Ancient Mystic Order of Samaritans, tasselled fezes and all, are in town for the 34th semi-annual convention for the northern division and district.

Hosts to the Samaritans and their wives — the Ladies Of The Orient — are the members of Cyzicus Sanctorum No. 24 and Cairo Zuanna No. 110 of Peterborough. Publicity chairman William Bull of Peterborough expects about 400 of them in town for the two-and-a-half-day convention.

Friday afternoon a brief business meeting was held, and the visiting Samaritans were taken on a tour of several city industries. A dance at night wound up Friday ofr them.

Today at 2 p.m. is a street parade of all the visiting Samaritans and from 3 to 5 p.m. various lodges will compete for prizes in patrol drills at the Armouries.

This evening there will be a civic reception and banquet, and on Sunday the visitors will take a brief trip through the Lift Lock.

Grace and Comedy Feature International Ice Review

A near-capacity crowd Friday night saw the Peterborough opening of the International Ice Review, an all-professional show of Canadian and United States ice skating artists. The Friday night crowd was enthused by the entertainment offered by the two-dozen skaters. Capacity houses are anticipated at today's matinee and evening performances.

A fast-moving program combined some attractive group-skating numbers, good comedy and novelty acts, and a top-flight acro-adagio team — Bob and Peggy White.

Main interest focussed on the star of the International Ice Revue, Eileen Seigh, an attractive blonde who was a member of the United States 1948 Olympic team, and a runner-up to petite Barbara Ann Scott for the North American championship.

Leading Lady

She whirled through her repertoire of fancy steps, spins and spectacular leaps with grace and ease. And all the time with the poise of a confident artist.

For two years Miss Seigh was leading lady in the Sonja Henie-Arthur Wirtz production, "Howdy Mr. Ice." Recently she starred with Barbara Ann Scott in "Ice Capades."

High point of the night for many was the acro-adagio team of Bob and Peggy White giving their interpretation of Danse Rituelle de Feu. The gaily costumed couple received rounds of applause with the finale to a number called "Gipsy Revelry," that saw all 24 skaters participating.

The show had its "world premiere" in Cobourg this week. The cast did their rehearsing under the direction of Dorothie Littlefield. It is sponsored by Bob White and Jerry Rehfield, both stars in the newly-formed revue Peterborough was the second stop on the coast-to-coast tour.

There was none of this one-app e arance-by - the - star - and-that's - all - folks sort of business. Miss Seigh made four major appearances on the ice and each time seemed as eager to please as though the applauding crowd were Olympic judges.

Civic Numbers

Making his debut in the Revue, Friday night, was comedian Johnny Flanagan from Escanaba, Mich. He rocked the house with laughter as he took the role of a more than full-bosomed charlady with delusions of skating grandeur.

The comedy was all slapstick, but fun.

Eddie Brandstetter and Leonard Furnas were in most of comedy acts and took their full share in the straight skating scenes as well.

Also a crowd pleaser was Nicholas Dantos, a young man who started out to study dramatic art in New York and switched to novelty skating. He has a specially built pair of "ice stilts" 18 inches above the ice.

Master of ceremonies for the program was Del Crary. An orchestra accompanied the skating program. Gershwin music was tops.

Centre Ward Tops Assessment

Centre Ward still leads the municipal sections of the city in assessment of land and buildings, without counting the business levy.

Ward totals in the 1950 assessment roll, which Assessment Commissioner J. E. Davis and his staff have just completed are:

Centre, $9,211,235; South, $8,955,165; West, $7,693,605; North, $6,088,515; Ashburnham, $4,297,865; Claraday, $4,217,720.

These amounts are the assessed value of land and buildings, including assessment of properties exempt from taxation, but leaving out business assessment.

Assessment trends in the last three years were also obtained from Mr. Davis. The following amounts are, in each instance, in the order of 1950, 1949 and 1948:

Centre, $9,211,235; $8,843,795; $8,552,013.
South: $8,955,165; $8,471,185; $8,395,220.
West: $7,693,605; $6,603,565; $6,580,570.
North: $6,088,515; $5,974,255; $5,882,860.
East: $4,297,865; $3,738,305; $3,536,930.
Claraday: $4,217,720; $3,788,720; $3,027,305.

Resort Owner Jailed On Liquor Charge

BANCROFT, Sept. 30 (ENS).—Raymond Lush, 44, of Baptiste Lake, has been sentenced to three months' imprisonment upon conviction of keeping liquor for sale at his home.

Magistrate E. J. Garvin, Kingston, levied costs of $68, or an additional month in jail.

Corporal Archie Grayling of Bancroft testified that Lush, a resort owner, had been doing a roaring business selling liquor during the Baptiste Lake regatta, August 26.

Charged With Break-In

Brought to Peterborough from Windsor on a warrant, John D. McIntosh, who gives a Windsor address, was charged in police court today with breaking, entry and theft Feb. 9 from the home of John Sinclair, 618 Walkerfield Ave. He was remanded on $2,000 bail to Thursday.

Vagrant Remanded

A Barrie man, Gorman Ritchie, was remanded on $500 bail to Thursday on a charge of vagrancy in police court today. Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw intimated another charge may be laid against the man when police complete their investigations.

County Council Expropriates Land For Road

County council Friday afternoon gave third reading to two by-laws expropriating one and a third acres of land, the property of Edwin Hamblin and his son Gordon, in Dummer township.

Purpose of the expropriation is to round what is now a dangerous right-angle turn at Hamblin's Corners on the McCracken Landing road. A year ago there was a fatal accident there and county council, despite a year of austerity in road spending, decided they would undertake that project at least.

The county has already acquired deeds to two small pieces of land: the property of Mrs. Margaret Martin, .3 acres, purchased for $325; and Lawrence E. and Ida J. McCracken, .02 acres, $25.

Negotiations between the two Mr. Hamolins and the county have been going on all summer without satisfaction to either party. It is understood that Edwin Hamblin wants $2,000 for the two properties: the third-of-an-acre property he owns outright, and the acre property owned jointly with his son Gordon.

F. D. Kerr, KC, county solicitor, said the two parties were far apart in their evaluations of the land and expropriation proceedings should begin. He felt that the county offer (not disclosed) was generous.

PREPARING BYLAW

If city council follows the Brantford example of shuffling mobile sales wagons to the market property, and the market is transferred to George St., opposite Little Lake, that would remove any such selling units, including potato chips from the central area of the city. Whatever the new by-law provides, it should be known probably next week, when it is expected to be ready for the council.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

ANOTHER LILY

For the second time this year, an Easter Lily at the home of Mrs. J. Rosebush, 215 Hunter St. is blooming. The plant withered after its spring blooms had died, but at the same time, a young shoot continued to grow and today bears two full blooms and two buds. The plant was a gift from Mrs. Rosebush's family last Easter.

WORKING OVERTIME

If May is moving month, then September rates a mention as runner-up in this respect. Transfer companies here have been working overtime the past four weeks as families moved from one place to another in or out of the city before winter sets in. Many apartment dwellers have bought new houses and are moving in as soon as they are finished.

PREMIER AT WARKWORTH

Premier Leslie Frost will open the 100th anniversary fair at Warkworth, Friday, Oct. 6. This is another of the oldest agricultural societies and fairs in Central Ontario. The directors are planning a luncheon in the council chamber at noon as hosts to Hon. Mr. Frost. Northumberland Holstein Association holds its Black and White Day at Warkworth Fair, and altogether it should be an occasion in keeping with the centenary event.

B.C. Mission Ships Cover Coastal Area

VANCOUVER —(CP)— Four small ships of the Columbia Coast Mission, one of the frontier missionary enterprises of the Church of England in Canada, have a big job to do each year.

Mission ships in the last year travelled 26,276 miles in coastal waters, conducted 552 church services, 140 baptisms, 13 marriages and 14 burials.

The fleet includes the Columbia, a hospital-mission ship which travelled hundreds of miles answering calls to aid sick and injured in isolated coastal districts. Aid is taken to both whites and Indians.

The Rev. Allan Green, mission superintendent, told of the work of the fleet in his recent annual report.

B.C. Fire Engines May Change Color

VANCOUVER —(CP)— The gleaming red of the fire engine may soon be a thing of the past in British Columbia A softer maroon may take its place.

In Victoria and suburban Oak Bay, fire chiefs have already adopted the new color for their cars.

The reason for the change is that there are so many trucks on the roads today that nobody recognizes the fire wagons.

Fire chiefs tried to get a provincial law passed prohibiting the old color for vehicles other than fire engines. No action was taken, however. It was felt that the situation did not justify interfering with a basic privilege such as being able to paint a truck any color a person might wish.

Teck Receives Bill For Fire

KIRKLAND LAKE, Sept. 30—(CP).—After a controversy highlighted by demands from Timmins municipal officials that Teck Township be made financially responsible for a forest fire here last spring, township officials have received a bill from the Ontario Lands and Forests Department.

Reeve Ann Shipley refused to divulge the amount of the bill. She said arrangements are being made to meet with Lands Minister Scott to discuss it and the legislation which makes the township responsible for forest fires in its area.

F. J. Dawson, chief of the lands and forests office here, reported earlier that he estimated the cost of fighting the fire at $23,000. Township Clerk J. W. McBain estimated that if this had to be paid it would mean a tax increase of 2½ mills.

Timmins complained that Teck Township should pay the bill, because it had been compelled to pay one for $99.

Apsley Legion Honors Chaplain Spence

APSLEY, Sept. 30 — At the September meeting of No. 381 Apsley branch of the Canadian Legion the Hon. Chaplain the Rev. C. A. G. Spence was presented with a framed "Expression of Appreciation" from the Ontario Command signed by the Provincial President, for "zealously upholding the traditions of our organization and his devotion to the furtherance of the Legion's ideals and activities."

President Walter Nelson made the presentation.

It was decided to hold the quarterly church parade on October 1 to St. George's Church at 7:30 p.m. and a special rally meeting will be held in the Legion hall on Oct. 5 at which nominations for next year's officers will be received.

UK Liberal Party Fights Any Merger

SCARBOROUGH, Yorkshire, England, Sept. 30—(Repters)—Britain's Liberal party is holding out against any merger with the Conservative party, it was announced today.

Frank Byers, chairman of the party executive, made clear at the Liberals' annual conference here that desire for a Socialist defeat in the next general election would not lead the party into union with the Tories.

"No negotiations are going on with the Conservative party or any other party, and no offer has been made to us," Byers said, denying Conservative newspaper speculation that a Liberal-Conservative election deal was in prospect.

Frosted Wheat Can Be Used To Make Flour

WINNIPEG, Sept. 30—(CP)—A considerable portion of western Canada's frosted wheat—the first heavily-frosted crop in 22 years—is good enough for flour, it was reported today in a statement from the committee on western grain standards.

The 24-member committee met here Thursday to set standard samples governing the grading of No. 4 Manitoba Northern, No. 5 wheat and No. 6 wheat for the 1950-51 crop year.

Dr. J. A. Anderson, chief chemist of the Board of Grain Commissioners, reported to the committee that in spite of some frost damage No. 4 Northern should prove satisfactory for milling.

Some No. 5 might also be milled if markets can be found for low-grade flour of darker color and reduced baking strength.

No. 6, more heavily frosted and containing more green and immature kernels, would be fit only for feed.

(The Canadian Wheat Board has estimated the proportion in this year's crop of No. 3 Northern wheat and higher—the good milling grades—will be only 34 per cent compared with 85 per cent last year; No. 4 Northern will be 17 per cent against only four per cent last year and No. 5 and lower will be 45 per cent compared with seven per cent last year).

Dr. Anderson said any Canadian baker who attempted to sell bread made from No. 5 and No. 6 wheat would be out of business in a week.

Order Reduces City Hall Cost

Change order number six in the contract for the building of the city hall provides a credit, or reduction, of $1,273.50, as approved by the committee of the whole council Friday. It provides for the omission of certain weeping tiles, sumps and drains.

Reference of such orders was transferred to the committee of whole from the building committee on the proposal of Mayor Swanston at the meeting of the board of works Monday. The first five orders, including credits and extras, came to the board at that meeting from the executive committee. The net of the extras was reported at some $4,000.

Review Orders

In the discussion, Mayor Swanston suggested that future orders be reviewed by all the members of the council in committee of the whole for the advantage of direct and complete information.

Change order No. 7 from the architects, Marani and Morris, listed 42 items, with the notation "these are not expected to alter your contract amount".

To indicate their scope and detail some of them may be quoted, such as: south wall of boiler room straightened and steps moved north; column E-4 detailed; dimension at chimney and column D-1A revised and length of boiler room corrected; dimension of stair changed; west wall of vault revised. Those were some changes in the basement.

Second floor framing plan. Item No. 29, for instance, structural steel sizes, elevations and dimensions revised in accordance with substitutions requested by, and details from, Central Bridge Co., Ltd., and Dominion Structural Steel Co. Ltd.

Detail No. 41: south elevation of beam 35 added; No. 42-truss diagram revised.

These examples indicate in a general way the revisory nature of most of the items in change order No. 7, which was also approved by the committee.

WPTB Closes Office Goes In With Toronto

The Peterborough office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board is winding up its business this week as it has been amalgamated with the Toronto office.

Ross Payne, WTPB investigator here, said today that it has been the policy of the board since the end of the war to centralize the board's offices gradually.

Removal of the office from Peterborough does not indicate any change in rent controls, Mr. Payne said. Enquiries should be directed in future to the WTPB, 21 Lombard St., Toronto.

Halifax People Sensitive To Impressions Of Visitors

By JACK SCOTT

HALIFAX, N.S.—With the possible exception of grey, young Toronto (and I have contributed my share on that score) no Canadian city is as thoroughly maligned as grey old Halifax, "Warden of the North," as Kipling, the darling of so many Canadian chambers of commerce, called it.

Toronto is a big brute of a town. It merely shrugs in an oafish way when we foreigners hurl our tiny, poisoned barbs in its direction. But Halifax, being considerably smaller and more sensitive, bleeds easily from such wounds and is conscious of the high disregard with which it is held in many quarters.

Since our arrival we have noticed this touchiness. On learning that we are sending out occasional character analyses of Canadian burgs, Haligonians have been grasping us by the lapels and saying earnestly, "Be sure to stress the hospitality of Halifax."

This, I suspect, is a natural reflex intended to counteract the canard spread far and wide by veterans of the Royal Canadian Navy who served some of their sentence in these parts. Ask most such Navy men for an opinion on Halifax and they may wordlessly clasp a hand to their brow (officers) or openly sob (other ranks).

The natives of Halifax are painfully aware of this, I now discover, and are still smarting, too, from the manner in which the armed forces here at the time celebrated the war's end, which, as you'll recall, consisted largely of busting up the town. Halifax, I gather, is not yet willing to write this off merely as high spirits, but persist in thinging of it, and perhaps rightly, as ingratitude.

Cities, like people, crave to be loved and it seems to me it's time we let bygones be bygones and had a good hard look as the charms of Halifax.

An Atmosphere

My previous contact with Halifax consisted of leaving here on a troop ship, enough in itself to leave an unreasoning and lifelong hatred for the port, and arriving back a thousand years later by another troop ship, on which occasion a small band huddled on the pier and played a damp version of "Here Comes the Bride," since I returned not as a hero, but as an escort for several hundred war brides, all violently seasick. Thus, Halifax was forever associated in my mind with nausea.

Now, after two days of exploring the city by car and by foot, I am pleased and surprised to find it has an atmosphere all its own. It reminds me, at every turn, of the east end of London.

I never wandered down by the London docks without expecting some wild press gang to crash out through a pub door, led by a ruffian with a wooden leg, bearing away some lad to the sea.

Many parts of Halifax invite you to this kind of romanticizing for much of it looks like a set for a period movie and you will feel a faint chill at the gaunt buildings, at the graveyards with black and jumbled tombstones, at the whole rather stark facade of the waterfront where old, embalmed sailors lean against the chipping plaster walls, waiting for God knows what.

There has been no attempt to exploit the color or charm of the place as a port as, for example, you find in San Francisco. Not a single sea food restaurant adorns this shabby and grimy efficient harbor front.

And yet this, in itself, gives it a deep-sea shipping atmosphere that I, personally, find picturesque. True, in today's bright sunshine all this ugliness was a mild depressant,but I would love to wander along there in a good grey drizzle, say just before dusk when every wet shadow would speak of the days of sail when the Atlantic, just out there at the harbor mouth, was a sea of adventure and not merely an intercontinental shipping highway.

This is an acquired taste, of course, but the very aspects of Halifax which might give the shudders to one visito will give the next a springboard for his imagination.

And Contrast

Halifax last year celebrated its 200th anniversary (it was the first town in Canada primarily settled by the English) and so it's interesting to compare it with Quebec City. The difference, it seems to me, is that Quebec has grown beautiful with age and Halifax has not.

Quebec is a grand old lady with snow-blue hair and lace at her cuffs and a black velvet band about her withered throat. Halifax is more the Tugboat Annie type, still full of vitality, but looking pretty awful in a strong light.

Take old buildings. In Quebec City they are revered, patched up and restored. Why, the old Jesuit house in Quebec which is said to be the oldest home in Canada, is in better shape than the house we live in.

But in Halifax the Charles Addams remnants of the early days (and they make up a large chunk of the town) are run down at the heels and often merely eyesores. The grimed slums of Halifax, notably the Negro section, are enough to give you the creeps and in the down-town district itself, nine out of every ten buildings desperately need a steam-cleaning job.

Contrast, too, the citadels which dominate these cities. In Quebec the visitor finds a summit of beautiful lawn with fine roads and lookouts for enjoying the spectacular view. Halifax's Citadel, with an equally commanding vista of the harbor and the ocean beyond, is an untidy overgrown weed patch which merely adds an extra fillip of inelegance to a town in which, as one of my unromantic Navy friends put it, "you expect to see giant cobwebs hanging from building to building."

People say the darndest things about Halifax.

Athabaskan Crew Destroys 5 Mines Off Korean Port

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A press dispatch from Tokyo Thursday reported briefly that a Canadian destroyer, HMCS Athabaskan, had destroyed a mine in the vicinity of Kunsan, on the west coast of Korea. Here is a detailed, eyewitness account of how the operation was carried out.)

By LIEUT. ALBERT J. PLOZ
Royal Canadian Navy Information Officer

Aboard HMCS Athabaskan off west coast of Korea, Sept. 30 (Delayed)—(CP) Demolition parties from the Athabaskan destroyed 5 mines—one Tuesday, three Wednesday, and one Thursday—after this Canadian destroyer spotted a mine field in th approaches to the enemy-held port of Kunsan, on the west coast of Korea.

Tuesday's trip was called "operation whoomps" by the Athabaskan's commanding officer, Cndr. Robert P. Welland of McCreary, Man., and Victoria. A party of 20 officers and men left the destroyer in two motor cutters.

The boats were under the charge of Lieut. Paul McCulloch of Victoria. Commissioned Officer David Hurl of Winnipeg was in charge of the demolition party.

Two mines were sighted. Commissioned Officer Hurl and a four-man demolition party transferred from the first cutter to a dinghy, which had been towed astern of the cutter, and headed for one of the mines.

The party included Able Seaman Edward Dalton of Fort Frances, Ont., Petty Officer Tom Shields of Calgary and Able Seaman David Kidd of Winnipeg.

Grabs It

As the dinghy drew alongside the bobbing, wicked - looking mine, Dalton calmly but carefully reached out and grabbed it.

Hurl, an expert in this kind of thing, examined the mine to determine its type. The scrutiny over, he and his men fastened demolition charges fitted with a five-minute fuse.

This was no time for the dinghy to stick around and as soon as Hurl gave the word, they bent to the oars.

The motor cutter then swung in, took the dinghy in tow and headed away from the mine at full speed.

Giant Explosion

It moved away about 300 yards when there was a giant explosion. That mine threat was no more.

Returning to ship—there was no time left in which to set off any more mines that morning—the demolition party received a "well done" from Cmdr. Welland. Four other mines discoverd and marked by Lieut. McCulloch's party were destroyed in the same manner on Wednesday and Thursday.

Mine location and destruction was only one of the ship's activities during the last four days. On Monday a landing party of 30 men, under Lieut.-Cmdr. Stewart Peacock of Quebec City, executive officer of the Athabaskan, landed in support of South Korean marines on enemy-occupied Orang Island, near Kunsan, after the destroyer had carried out a bombardment of Communist positions. The landing force over-ran the island in two hours.

On Wednesday the ship carried out a long-range bombardment of another island in the same group.

Norwood WA Meets At Mrs. Nixons Home

NORWOOD, Sept. 30—(ENS)—The Woman's Association of the United Church met at the home of Mrs. David Nixon on Thursday. The president, Mrs. Weir, reported on the work done in the kitchen and work which still has to be done.

It was decided that inquiries would be made to see if overseas boxes were still needed before any more are sent.

The financial secretary, Mrs. Gordon Manley, reported a balance of $273.77 in the bank. It was decided by vote that the WA would have a booth at Norwood Fair to serve tea, coffee, hot dogs, sandwiches and pie.

Mrs. Nixon and her group then took charge of the program. Prayer by Mrs. Nixon, scripture reading, Mrs. Ross Legge; lesson thoughts by Mrs. Arnold Baptie. Mrs. Leonard Hannon and Mrs. Wesley Chamberlain sang a duet, with Mrs. Hannon playing the accompaniment on the guitar and Mrs. Alfred McMillan gave a reading. Bible contest was held by Miss Carter.

Producer Says Japanese Great Actors

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 30—(AP)—The Japanese are the greatest actors in the world. So says a film man who has made the first Japanese-American picture.

He is Dorrell McGowan, who, with his brother Stuart and a former child actor, George Breakstone, has just returned from producing "Tokyo File 212" in Japan. The picture was made with the permission of Gen. MacArthur and with the co-operation of the occupation forces, the Japanese government and film industry.

"I have never seen such actors," said McGowan, veteran Hollywood film-maker. "In Japan, everyone can act. When we asked for two Generals for the picture, we didn't get actors; we got real Generals.

"The trouble is that the Japanese take their acting so seriously they don't know how to fake. When you tell one of them to slug another actor, he doesn't swing wide. He cracks the other fellow's chin open.

Cheap Brawl

"We staged a big brawl in the railroad yards with dozens of fights and falls. When we finished, there was blood all over. They put on real fights for $1.50 a day. Here a stunt man would charge a couple of hundred dollars.

The producer was also amazed at set-building. It is all done by Japanese artists who paint scenes on paper. Hundreds of pieces of newspaper glued together make the set. McGowan said the effects are amazingly real.

"The Japanese are catching on to the western custom of kissing," he added, "although they still don't do it in public. They were fascinated with the love scenes our star, Florence Marley, did. All of them stood around and giggled."

Mark St. Mothers Serve 300 At Harvest Tea

The largest event yet handled by the Baby Band Mothers of Mark St. United Church was their "harvest tea," held this week in the church parlors, and attended by more than 300 ladies.

It was an outstanding occasion also for the decorative background arranged by Mrs. D. Hopcroft to symbolize the harvest season, using grain, fall apples, and garden vegetables.

Tea convener Mrs. H. Guppy arranged her serving table in keeping with green tapers in crystal holders, flanking a crystal basket with yellow and white 'mums and had ivy tendrils falling to the table from an overhanging basket.

President Mrs. R. Wood was assisted in receiving by WMS president Mrs. E. DeNure and hostesses were Mrs. S. Lang and Mrs. E. Reid.

There was a display of 10 layettes which are ready for distribution when needed and various tables of articles for sale. Mrs. H. Green and Mrs. K. Armstrong attended the bazaar table, Mrs. J. Southgate and Mrs. G. Hopcroft were selling candy and Christmas cards and Mrs. C. Ferguson and Mrs. M. Spears had charge of the bake table. Mrs. E. Downer and Mrs. B. Pammett were showing the layettes.

Mrs. B. Morwood, Mrs. E. Rowland, Mrs. E. Alton and Mrs. W. Parnell were filling the tea cups and Mrs. Guppy's assistants in the team room were Mrs. E. Smith, Mrs. R. Parnall, Mrs. S. Craig, Mrs. M. Green, Mrs. H. Bromley, Mrs. T. Cooper. Quartette tables were set up for convenience of the guests. Supplies from the kitchen were looked after by Mrs. M. Pomeroy and Mrs. A. Roberts.

Ticket receipts which made a pleasing total were taken by Mrs. A. Worsencroft and Mrs. W. Beggs.

Mrs. G. Lathangue and Miss K. Hill took charge of children during the tea hours.

Feather Bonnet Given Band At Pipers' 3rd Tartan Ball

CGE Pipe Band has been acclaimed on every public appearance since its formation, but most tangible evidence of the bagpipes strong appeal is the popularity of the Tartan Ball.

Tickets for their third dance, limited to 300, were sold out two weeks prior to the event which on Friday evening at Club Aragon, opened Peterborough's season of formals. The crowd carried through in well-ordered fashion but became loudly enthusiastic each time the kilted hosts took the floor.

A handsome feather bonnet added distinction and an "old world" flavor as tall stalwart Drum Major A. N. (Nobby) Clark, mace in hand, led the pipers in their stirring marches. The bonnet was a gift to the band from Mr. Gordon K. Fraser MP, who with Mrs. Fraser, gives patronage to the ball each year, often travelling some distance to be present.

The floor show was sparked by Miss Elsie Hill who donned pleated tartan skirt and shawl, soft-toe slippers and tam o'shanter to dance the highland fling, accompanied on the pipes by Angus Munro, and later the sword dance, piped by Alec Milne.

Other patrons and patronesses of the dance were Mayor M. J. Swanston and Mrs. Swanston and assistant CGE works manager Mr. J. E. Girven and Mrs. Girven who officiated in drawing for the lucky door prize which went to Miss Lilly Dack.

Three lucky couples were picked by the pipers and received nice gifts, but each lady attending also received a nice gift—a plaid hankie. Admission tickets for this ball find their way into many souvenir chests too for they are distinctive "tartan" labels, and though Scotsmen are generous givers, it is said they always keep what they get.

The guests were:

Misses Helen Fitzgerald, Mary Fitzgerald, Lois Tolton, Ruth Carter, Joe MacDonald, Shirley Milburn, Gloria Heath, Marilyn McCulloch, Shirley McQuaig, Shirley Oakley, Dorothy Field, Lily Dack, Elsie Hill, Shirley Brown, Rayma Brown, Amy Aiken, Audrey Hamilton, Isabel Fairbairn, Rosemary Meraw, Shirley Hutton, Mollie Jay, Jean Munro, Grace Stewart, Margaret Minicola, Lois Enborg, Hilda Sullivan, Bev. YW Country Fair Promise of Fun

Ever been to a county fair?

Most everyone has and most everyone associates the event with midway stands, popcorn and peanut vendors, vaudeville acts, a portrait artist, fortune teller's and possibly some old time dancing in the evening attraction.

All of these will be included in the YWCA's "Country Fair" of next Thursday evening, which commences at seven thirty o'clock.

An in addition there will be a fashion show of fall pieces and accessories, a water show, a home baking sale, the curiosity shop, and a "matrimonial tea party."

This exciting evening is planned as an introduction to the activities of the Y for those who have not been enjoying them, and is taking the place of the open house of former years.

Everyone is invited to come and see what goes on. Proceeds will go to the World Service Fund.

Registry's Service Explained To Soroptimists

Head of a staff of four professional women serving the 36,000 people within Peterborough's city limits, a large number without and also the travelling public, Mrs. M. B. Pringle, on Friday evening addressed the only women's service club in this city at the monthly dinner meeting.

Soroptimists were informed of the facts concerning organization, structure and objectives of the Community Nursing Registry of which Mrs. Pringle is registrar. "There are many citizens who are only now becoming aware that this service exists for their benefit," Mrs. Pringle said, "but I can't help but feel our service is becoming known because our record of calls per month shows a total of 1,500 for July."

The Registry handles many calls not involving nurses, doctors or nursing assistants who are the present subscribers. Mrs. Pringle and her staff often give consultation and advice to people in distress and find ways of overcoming financial and other difficulties. They work very closely with the 35 doctors now on their files and with the Victorian Order of Nurses she explained.

Use of the Registry to get nursing service eliminates the risk of having an unqualified person, for credentials are thoroughly evaluated in every instance. Records provide a history showing the type of cases that have been handled, often most useful in securing help in emergency.

"Nursing assistants" is the name now used instead of "practical nurse" and these women can be secured to give up to 20 hour duty at scheduled rates of pay Mrs. Pringle advised.

The local Registry is one of 28 now operating in this province, all on a similar basis she said. It is governed by a Board of Directors on which there are doctors, nurses and two laymen. The chairman Mrs. Eva Brackenridge organized the present effort to secure funds from the public to offset a financial deficit and in this regard it was pointed out that the service is for the community not for the doctors or nurses.

A telephone call for help entails an average of five calls by the registry staff to place a nurse or doctor on the case she said. This extra effort and worry would be borne by the person making the first call were it not for the service. Anyone who has had experience with illness quickly realizes what this means.

Mrs. Pringle was introduced by her professional colleague Mrs. Brackenridge, a member of the Soroptimist Club, and Mrs. Isabel Hewson expressed appreciation to her.

New president Miss Florence Scott presided for the meeting.

Hospital Library Well Supplied WA to Supervise

The Ladies' Auxiliary of St. Joseph's Hospital resumed activities for the fall season on Thursday evening. The meeting, held in the nurses' residence, was well attended and was conducted by president Mrs. J. V. Gallivan.

A library for the use of patients in the hospital is now completed and ready for operation. Sufficient books and magazines to give every patient reading material have been purchased and the library will be under supervision of Miss B. Malane and Mrs. W. J. Hickey, assisted by workers from the different parishes. It is hoped to have it open every afternoon and evening.

The Auxiliary plans to open a tuck shop on the first floor of the hospital. Mrs. W. A. Richardson is in charge of this project and has been authorized to have necessary work done for the early commencement of the shop.

Mrs. D. Emery reported that the sewing committee is meeting once a week with each parish co-operating, and Miss L. Hurley and her committee have recommenced visits to the hospital. Other reports were given by Mrs. J. E. Sullivan for St. Joseph's cupboard and Mrs. J. J. Crowley for nurses-in-training.

Membership committee, under convenership of Mrs. F. J. Lynch, showed excellent returns from mite boxes sent out and an increase of members for 1950.

Dates of the Women's Hospital Aids Association convention were announced as of October 30, 31 and November 1. Two delegates will be sent to this convention which will be held in Toronto.

A community bridge for the purpose of raising funds will be held later in the fall.

At conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served by the Sisters of the Hospital.

There were also 26,225 visits to cancer patients during the first six months of this year, an increase of 8.2 per cent over the same period of 1949.

The chief superintendent said there now are 534 Victorian Order Nurses, all graduate registered nurses with post-graduate training or experience in public health nursing.

The meeting, attended by about 25 members, decided on Ottawa as the site for its 1951 annual meeting April 25-26.

No Outside Interests Make Woman Dull, Boring Wife

The ideal wife of tradition has always been the woman who, like the snail, carries her house on her back. Even today the most opprobrious epithet you can apply to a married woman is to call her a gadabout.

Somehow the belief has always persisted that there is some peculiar virtue in a wife and mother being so altogether wife and mother that she is scarcely human, and that she acquires further merit by having no interest outside of the four walls of her home. Nothing is more common than to hear people speak applaudingly of Mrs. So and So being such a homebody that she never goes anywhere or does anything except look after her family. And for women to boast that since they have married they have given up all the clubs they used to belong to; that they have dropped out of their old social set and never go to parties; that they never read anything anymore except the baby book and the cooking recipes in the newspapers.

Dorothy Dix

Wife's Job

Of course, inasmuch as keeping the home fires burning and making her family comfortable is the woman's part in the domestic partnership, it is obvious that she must necessarily give most of her time and attention to her job. But the theory that she must let this absorb her to the exclusion of everything else, that she must have no interest outside of her home, no individual life of her own outside of her husband's and children's, is false and misleading propaganda that is responsible for half of women's faults and has wrecked innumerable women's lives.

The chief trouble with women is that they have not enough interests in life, and that is what makes them wear the few that they have threadbare. They haven't enough things to think about and that keeps their minds in a rut. They haven't enough things to amuse and divert them and that makes them melancholy and lachrymose.

Consider how many of the weaknesses of the feminine character are attributable solely to women's lack of outside interests. Their lack of philosophy. Their inability to take it. Their passion for making mountains out of molehills. Their threshing over of old straw.

You see the effect of this narrow range of interests in women's lives illustrated in a thousand ways. In their inability to get over a sorrow, for instance. When by death a man loses some one he loves, his heart is just as much torn with anguish as a woman's, but he has his work that he is bound to concentrate upon; strangers to whom he has to turn a smiling face; a thousand things that take his mind off of his sorrow, and so he adjusts himself to what must be borne. But the woman, as she goes about the round of domestic duties, which she does automatically, has nothing to keep her from dwelling upon her loss and so her thoughts go their weary round and round until her grief becomes an obsession.

Can't Adjust To Marriage

It is because women make their homes the centre of the universe that they take marriage so badly. If a wife doesn't come up to all her husband's fondest fancy painted, he generally shrugs his shoulders and makes the best of Mary being a good cook, or a thrifty manager, or what not, and he takes up golf in a serious way, or gets so absorbed in making money that nothing else counts much. But when a husband proves not to be a Prince Charming, the wife just sits down and bemoans her fate, and the only consolation she gets is in appealing for pity as a misunderstood woman who is all soul while her husband is all clod.

And what's nagging except the result of a woman having so few outside interests that she has nothing to think about but managing her family and seeing that it does exactly as she wants it to do? She has nothing to divert her mind from some mistake her husband made twenty years ago, or from Johnny's diet and Mary's dates, so she hounds them about them until they flee from home to get away from the sound of her voice.

One of the tragic figures in life is the middle-aged woman whose children have grown up, got married and gone about the business of life for themselves. Generally, she has been so absorbed in her children that she has lost all touch with her husband and there is no companionship between them. She has no interests of her own. No friends. No occupation when her job of raising a family is over. And she is the loneliest and most forlorn of all creatures.

Often such women, who have lived their children's lives so completely that they have no lives of their own, break up their homes and go to live with their children, where they invariably make trouble. The moral of all of which is that every woman should cultivate as many outside interests as possible. It is good for her own soul and for her husband's and children's.

British Shoppers Told To Be Tough

By MURIAL NARRAWAY

WELWYN, Hertfordshire, England—(CP)—Be more courageous. This was the advice given women shoppers at a complaints section set up by the City Development Corporation here.

A representative body of 200 women shoppers, invited to give complaints and criticism on today's shopping problems, were told to be more militant.

'Don't be afraid of your shopkeepers—demand the best quality and the manufacturers will have to supply it," said Roger Diplock of the Retail Trading Standard Association.

"Now, if only you knew it, you've got the upper hand. Every retail store in the country wants to be choosy."

In future, when you can't get what you want, see the manager and find out why there isn't anything more sutiable in stock, advised Diplock.

Variety of Complaints

Complaints from the women covered everything from inefficient cookers to a demand for teaspots that do not drip.

General laments were the continued absence of pretty, patterned china and the constant supplies of clumsy, badly-designed pots and pans.

Among other things, women want to know why furnishing fabrics are still scarce, expensive and badly designed: Why there aren't more crease-resisting dress materials and why stockings don't last longer.

Queries were direct and succinct. Replies, however, were not always enlightening.

Given the old query on the difference between utility (government controlled) and non-utility clothing, the committee answered:

Mary Moore's Column For Examiner's Readers

QUESTION: Would you be kind enough to send me your very excellent tomato soup recipe which unfortunately I have lost?

Add directions for canning same, also for tomato juice. I have a fair crop of tomatoes in the garden, and would like to make use of them. I have enjoyed many recipes from your column.

Beatrice C.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER:

Tomato Cream Soup

Two and one-half cups tomatoes—canned or fresh, 1 tablespoon minced onion ¼ teaspoon celery seed or 1 stalk celery, 1 teaspoon sugar, ¼ bay leaf, 1 whole clove, ⅛ teaspoon baking soda, 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, 3 tablespoons flour, 2 teaspoons salt, shake of pepper, 2 cups milk (or use 1 cup water and 1 cup evaporated milk). Cook together the tomatoes, onion celery seed or stalk cut, ½ teaspoon of the salt, the sugar, bay leaf and clove for 5 minutes. Strain and add the soda. Meanwhile melt the butter or margarine in top of double boiler, stir in the flour, 1½ teaspoons salt and the pepper and blend. Stir in the milk or milk and water until thick.

When ready to serve have both mixtures hot and pour the tomato mixture into the milk mixture, stirring, and serve at once.

To Can Tomato Cream Soup

Follow all of the above steps, but omit the milk, using only one-half quantity of water instead. Bottle boiling hot in sterile jars. When ready to use dilute by adding the soup to hot milk or cream or evaporated milk. Do not pour the milk into the soup, or it may curdle.

Canned Tomato Juice

Use fresh, fully ripe, sound tomatoes—do not use culls for tomato juice. Wash, remove cores, cut into quarters, but do not peel. Do not handle more than 1 gallon at a time. Precook tomatoes at simmering point (about 180 degrees Fahr.) until soft. Do not boil. Put through fine sieve—the cone-shapd type of strainer is best because it permits the least air to come in contact with pulp. Add 1 teaspoon salt to each quart. Reheat to 190 deg. Fahr. (just below boiling point) and pour into glass sterile jars and seal at once with sterile tops. No further processing is necessary if you have handled all equipment with care. Invert bottles to cool. Do not leave headspace at top of jars—fill jars almost to overflowing.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: Please print when you have space that wonderful recipe for Applesauce cake. I think at this time of year lots of people would like to make it. It is one cake you can have for dessert without having to get something else like fruit or ice cream too. TONY.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I'm glad you thought of it Tony.

Applesauce Cake

One and three-quarters cups sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon baking soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon each allspice and nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon cloves, ½ cup best quality shortening or butter or margarine, 1 cup sugar, 1 beaten egg, 1 cup strained unsweetened applesauce. Sift flour, soda, salt and spices together three times. Cream shortening with sugar until fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with the applesauce, about one-third of each at a time. Pour into square greased pan and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 50 minutes. Spices may be reduced.

Canadian Girls Aid Production Of Unesco Book

OTTAWA —(CP)— A new field in which Canada is aiding under-developed countries is revealed by the Canadian Library Association.

Two Canadian librarians have returned from Europe after helping prepare a handbook on how to take the benefits of a library into lands whose people cannot read or write. They also discovered how little they know of their own country.

The two are Miss L. Roberta Wilson of Hamilton, Wentworth county librarian, and Miss Adele Languedoc of Montreal.

They recently returned from a UNECSO-sponsored, month-long seminar on the role of the library in adult education. It was held in Malmo, Sweden.

To them, says Miss Wilson, fell part of the task of projecting the library system into "over-populated tropical countries with great problems of illiteracy, poor educational systems and no libraries."

Hard Pioneer Job

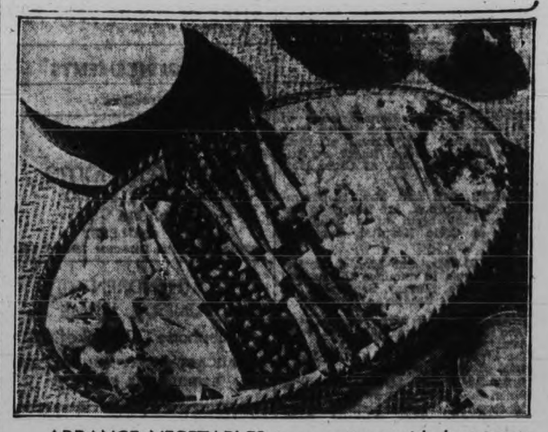
These, she found, are countries where the librarian "has the hard pioneer job of helping teach adults to read and write as well as providing books and establishing the first libraries."

The group, which included Indians, Britons, Egyptians, Australians and a former member of the French underground, as well as the Canadians, finally came up with a 38-page report which will be published by UNESCO as a handbook on library planning and practice in under-developed countries.

The Canadian girls learned one thing from their trip, said Miss Wilson. People of other countries have only the vaguest ideas about Canada—its regions and its cities—but they want to know more.

It is a wise Canadian, she said, who goes to such conferences armed with a map of his country and with reference books with an abundance of facts and figures. Even a librarian, they found, soon exhausts her fund of Canadian knowledge in the face of international curiosity.

Making Pottery For UK Export



LONDON —(Reuters)— In a basement close to London's busy shopping business centre, five girls are turning out lovely specimens of pottery to earn valuable dollars for Britain.

Two London girls started this small private enterprise which now appears to be developing into a flourishing concern. Much of the export work is for the United States, large decorated dishes being most popular.

The girls redecorated the basement, formerly the servant's quarters of a large house with ancient kitchen ranges, and bought a second-hand kiln and pottery wheel. Now they have several more.

The original two were soon joined by a girl from Dover and another from Birmingham—the latter with experience at a famous Swedish factory. Latest addition to the group is an 18-year-old art student.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Use Sauces When Serving Fresh Vegetables at Dinner

"250 Ways to Serve Fresh Vegetables," the eleventh in a series of twenty-four cookbooks being released a book a week to readers of the Examiner, is, like its predecessors, Snacks, Leftovers, Cakes, Poultry, Pies, Soups, Salads, Meats, Fish, Eggs, a cookbook devoted completely to one single phase of cookery.

All the basic principles in the preparation of the vegetables are contained in this cookbook, and there are a host of recipes besides for plain and tasty vegetables, and meal-in-a-dish vegetable recipes. Finally there are many sauces suggested to bring out the best possible flavor in vegetable dishes. The numerous photographic illustrations depict many unusual but simple ways to serve vegetables. Although appearance is important, the finishing touch must be the right sauce. Here is one sauce with a number of possible variations.

What's Right

There are a number of out-of-town guests at a party given by an organization of which you are a member.

WRONG: Get off in a corner with your own friends and don't worry about the guests.

RIGHT: Assume the duties of a hostess toward the out-of-town guests. Make it a point to go up to any guest standing alone and introduce yourself and then introduce the guest to several other persons.

6—In Memoriams

EASTON — In loving memory of mother, Mrs. William Easton, who passed away September 30, 1947.
We mourn for her in silence,
No eyes can see us weep,
But many a silent tear is shed
While others are asleep.
—Sadly missed by daughter Mildred, Jack and grandchildren.

EASTON—In memory of Mary Catherine Easton, who died September 30, 1947.
The depths of sorrow we cannot tell,
Of the loss of one we loved so well,
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep,
Her memory we shall always keep.
—Ever remembered by husband and family.

MILLAR—In loving memory of Mrs. Sarah Ann Millar, who passed away two years ago today, Oct. 1, 1948.
God took her home,
It was His will,
But in our hearts
She liveth still.
—Ever remembered by her family.

OGDEN—In loving memory of James Ogden, who passed away one year ago to-day.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear;
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.
—Ever remembered by his Wife and Family.

RENOUF—In loving memory of my father, Edward Renouf, who passed October 2, 1948.
They say time heals all sorrow and helps us to forget
But time has only proven how much
I miss you yet.
God gave me strength to fight it and courage to bear the blow,
But what it meant to lose you no one will ever know.
—Ever lovingly remembered by his wife.

REOUF—In loving memory of my father, Edward Renouf, who passed away October 2, 1948.
God saw that he was suffering,
That the hills were hard to climb;
And gently closed his eyelids
And whispered "Peace be thine."
—Ever lovingly remembered by daughter Gladys and grandson Teddy.

STEVENSON—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Thomas H. Stevenson, who passed away September 30, 1949.
Gone from us, but leaving memories
Death can never take away,
Memories that will always linger,
While upon this earth we stay.
—Ever remembered by wife and family.

Conference Told Films Dramatic Aid To Education

"Films are a dramatic aid to education and should be used with a full understanding of their potentialities," said Kenneth Young, guest speaker at the Friday night session of the annual meeting and fall conference of the Federation of Film Councils of Eastern Ontario in the Public Library.

Mr. Young is assistant director of community programs, Department of Education. Topic of his address was "Films in the Community."

"Our department is interested in the leisure time of people in communities and the value to which it is put," staated Mr. Young. "This is due to the great influence this factor has on the mental health, its social adjustments and the continuation of education in the community. Films as mediums of visual education provide one more interest value and one more psychological aid to learning."

The speaker broke down his address into a practical discussion of three main tasks of film councils—knowledge of available supplies, stimulating people to use films and training in the use of films.

"The first duty of councils is to know where all available films are, when they can be procured, and the cost. In this way councils can magnify the usefulness of supply," argued the speaker.

Stimulate Interest

"Stimulation of people to use films is the job of the members of a film council in a community," Mr. Young explained. He remarked that members should know how to use films to utilize all their potentialities. This involved not only evaluation but the knowledge of how best to present a film with discussion and background effects.

"There should be trained operators in every organization and club in a community that uses films," Mr. Young contended. This could be accomplished by zonal training courses for persons selected by their own community for their ability to teach, speak and to get along with people, he added. Training would be provided by experts.

Must Take Initiative

"The initiative in these matters must be taken by the film councils. They have the job of missionaries," Mr. Young concluded.

Mr. Young was introduced by Librarian William Graff.

The Rev. W. H. Kibblewhite, president of the Peterborough Film Council, welcomed the federation. Civic welcome was extended by Alderman A. B. Burrows.

Egypt's Wealthy Classes Invitation To Communism

By ZEIN NAGATI.

CAIRO (AP).—Egypt's lavish living class is chiefly responsible for the growth of Communism in the Nile kingdom, says Egypt's most widely read weekly magazine.

The independent Akhbar El Yom (News of the Day) said in an editorial that Egypt is known abroad not for its rich history, but for sexy dancers and the open spending of wealthy Egyptians on trips abroad.

The editorial, written by publisher Moustapha Bey Amin, is the most forthright comment seen in the Egyptian press in recent months.

News stories about Egyptian personalities on holiday in Europe and elsewhere usually are carefully screened by censors before distribution to local newspapers. But Radio Tel Aviv in Israel and stations in nearby Arab countries, not subject to Egyptian censorship, don't pull any punches in their stories of free spending Pashas on holiday.

Gossip In Bazaars

All you have to do is sit around a Cairo coffee shop to find that out. It's the gossip in the bazaars.

The wide spread between Egypt's rich and poor long has been one of Communism's chief talking points. The rich own most of the land. The Fellaheen (peasants) who till the rich Nile soil work for incredibly small pay. The average income in Egypt is less than $45 yearly. That's according to official statistics.

The sharp social and economic class distinction, the extreme poverty of the masses, is an open invitation to Communist propagandists.

That's why observers attach significance to the Akhbar El Yom editorial at this time.

Swimming Honors

Except for Egypt's recent English Channel swimming victory, the magazine said, an Egyptian in Paris or London today "couldn't walk with his head up."

It said that pictures of Samia Gamal, Egypt's most famous dancer, appeared on front pages of the world's press with the title "Official Dancer of the Egyptian Government." This was after Samia danced at Deauville, France. (Egypt's King Farouk has been holidaying on the French "Gold Coast.")

"It's ridiculous," the magazine said, to attribute the gossip abroad about Egypt to Zionist propaganda, "unless the Zionists now control everything in Europe including the tongues of hairdressers, waiters and street boys."

Wealthy Invite Trouble

It is ridiculous, too, the magazine added, to say that workers and students are the ones spreading Communism in Egypt.

"The real leaders of Communism are Egypt's wealthy men and Egypt's upper class. Their bad behavior is the most efficient propaganda for Communism. If you want to stop Communism you must put some restrictions on the upper class."

The Akhbar El Yom editorial said American and British diplomats here are disturbed over the "wave of frustration" affecting the common people of the country.

The writer quoted one British official as saying "the real fifth column in Egypt is not your poor, hungry lower class but your lavish upper class."

Practical Work Education Basis For Ontario's Ryerson Institute

TORONTO, (CP)— One of the fastes-growing schools in Canada is the Ryerson Institute of Technology.

Only started in 1948, the institute has about 3,000 students enrolled this year. This, the largest poly-technical school in Canada, has students from every province and the Bahamas. Inquiries have been made from as far away as Pakistan and West Africa.

Backbone of the school is the series of two-year diploma courses on a junior college level. There are some 600 first-year students enrolled in the 23 courses. These include such subjects as journalism, radio broadcasting, home economics, furniture and interior design, food administration and jewelry design.

In addition to these, there are more than 80 night courses offered on the curriculum.

The institute was started two years ago by the Ontario Department of Education. It was designed to train personnel for Canada's business and industry from the ranks of high school graduates.

Unique Institution

Historic Ryerson Hall, the main building of the institute, was built a century ago and has served Ontario education in several capacities. It was first a normal school for the training of teachers, then an art museum, a private school and a rehabilitation school for Second World War veterans. Today it is unique in providing technical schooling on a junior college level.

Every course is modelled as closely as possible to actual working conditions in industry, with a wealth of equipment on hand. For example, the journalism classes publish the school's paper on the school's presses. Students in the home economics course plan, cook and serve the lunches in the school's cafeteria.

This practical note is carried on in the close co-operation between the education department and business organizations.

For each of the diploma courses, there is an advisory committee made up of key men in industry who advise on courses of study and assist in the placing of graduates. When Ryerson held its first graduation last May, more than 90 per cent of the students already had found positions in their chosen fields.

Principal H. H. Kerr describes the growth of the institute as "phenomenal."

"It has proven to us beyond a shadow of a doubt," he said, "that the school is filling a very definite need in Canadian education."

Church Group At Weiner Roast

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 30 — (ENS)—St. John's Young Adults Club resumed activities Thursday, when about 40 members met at Bradley Bay.

The group met round a camp fire and the president of the club, Mrs. Ruth Thompson, called upon the Rev. Dr. D. M. Smith, who, besides conducting a short devotional period, told of the importance of young people in the church and of the splendid success of the religious convention of young church workers in Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, in mid-August.

Business included a suggestion received from St. Andrew's that joint evening services be held during the fall and winter with a rotating system, under the auspices of the various clubs. The report was favourably received.

The Young Adults Club members have not forgotten the outstanding success of their Minstrel Show presented more than a year ago, and the question of undertaking a full program on similar lines this fall was discussed. The decision was finally reached that George Nicholls be asked if a suitable show could be presented by the Young Adults in January. A meeting of members will be held at the church on October 12, when a report will be submitted on the progress of this venture.

It was decided to invite the U. R. Welcome Club of St. Andrew's and the Chi Rho Club of Christ Church to the Hallowe'en party Oct. 26.

Cozette Archer played her piano accordion for a sing-song and games were introduced by June Bennett and Everett Steele. The party concluded with a weiner roast.

HOW TOOTH DECAY CAN BE CONTROLLED

IN BRUSHING TEETH it's when that counts. Always use your toothbrush or rinse your mouth within ten minutes after eating.

PROPER DIET is most important. Milk, fruits, vegetables, whole-grain cereals, meat, cheese and eggs help form good teeth.

See the DENTIST every six months from the age of three. Tooth decay starts early. So catch it and check it early, too.

Avoid SUGAR AND SWEETS, especially between meals. Tooth decay is caused by acids produced by bacteria feeding on sugar in the mouth.

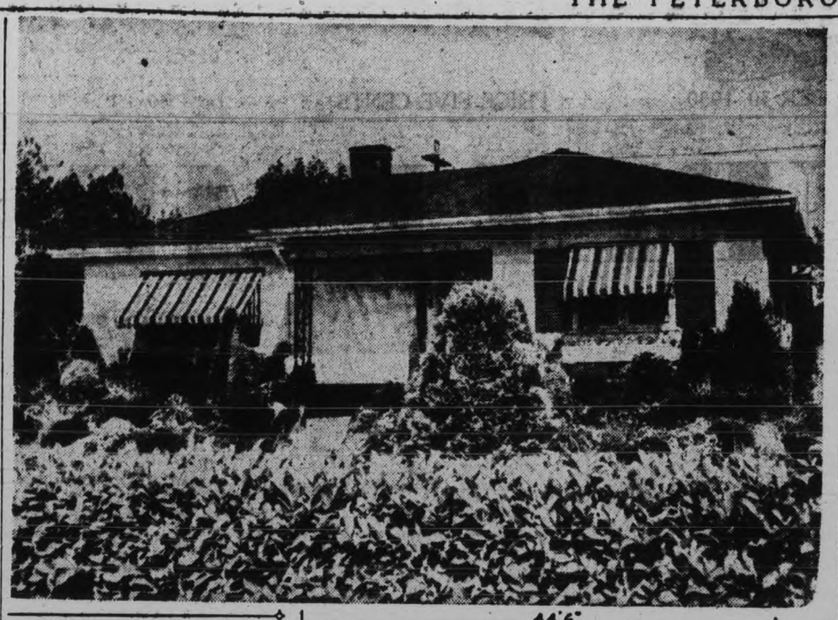
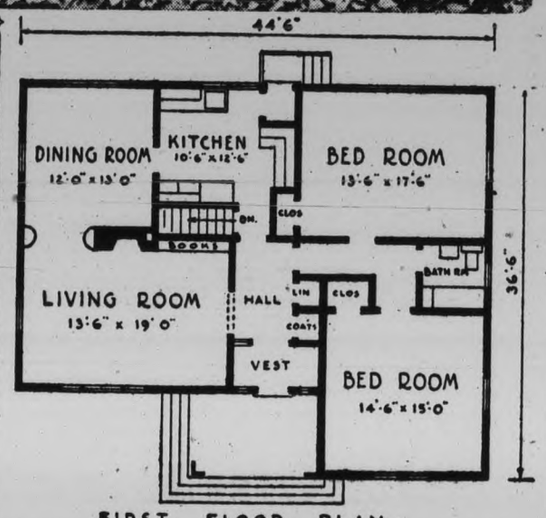
Storekeeper Has Many Jobs

WOLLASTON LAKE, Sask. — (CP)— Edward Melville used to be one of those city fellers—Toronto was his home—but now he is the manager of a "country store." He likes the change.



His store is practically "out of this world." It is on the shore of Wollaston Lake, 370 air miles north of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan's northern-most city. The nearest highway or railway is 300 miles away.



About 100 families of Chipewyan Indians, Metis and whites depend on the Saskatchewan government trading company store for their supplies. Melville provides them with everything from a baby's bottle to steel traps. Fresh fruits and vegetables are brought in by plane.

He has become versatile—and mighty busy. Besides his store duties, he issues trapping and fishing licences, runs the post office, acts as Saskatchewan government airways' agent, operates a first-aid station, buys furs for the Saskatchewan fur marketing service and operates the resources department radio.

In his "off" hours he acts as adviser, letter-writer and interpreter for the Indians and Metis and keeps them informed on coming church services.

It's a long way from Yonge Street and its rush, but he has the odd visitor. This summer American tourists discovered the place. Melville supplied them with canoes, complete outfit and a guide—and good fishing.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN

HOUSE No. 33—Some people like a bungalow—and some don't, but about everyone will admit that this one has enticing qualities. Walls are sparkling white stucco, while roof and shutters are dark red. The concrete flood and steps of the porch are red too. Wrought iron work is painted black. It is obvious that the owner of this property is a rock garden enthusiast. Most of the front garden is devoted to this hobby, and the great variety of colours which meet the eye when looking over this picturesque hedge seen in the foreground will long be remembered. Using the plan shown, there would be five large rooms in the house. Two bedrooms, living room, dining room and kitchen. This room arrangement gives unusual privacy to the sleeping part of the house. The tiny but adequate bathroom is handed to each of the big bedrooms. Plenty of fresh air is assured with cross ventilation available in every room but the kitchen. For building plans write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

When Planning New House Build Room For Children

What about the children? Should you consider their requirements in the planning of your home? From the time a child first creeps until he reaches the age of four or five, his play needs constant overseeing. Generally, this falls on the kitchen worker.

Ideally, the child should have a separate room for his play, for he is bound to be noisy and strenuous at times. If you can make this possible in your new home you will never regret it. After its use as a child's play room has been served, it can keep step with the growing child and eventually grow into a rumpus room (which is really just a grown-up's play room).

Of course, it goes without saying that the room should have the maximum sunlight and air. Decorators in the nursery field, who know their children as well as their art, are now advocating a room that is uncluttered and airy, with plenty of sunlight, a hard-surfaced floor, simple sturdy furniture, and fabrics and wallpaper in keeping with the same practical, attractive spirit.

For play, the natural place is the floor. Hardwood painted or stained, linoleum, composition and cork are good choices. Such attractive patterns are available that they are often a decorative asset as well as a play surface and play source.

Rugs are usually used over these surfaces as they prevent the cold feeling of a hard floor. Materials that are easily washed are available and the patterns match the general nursery spirit. As mother or dad spend considerable time in the nursery an adult chair is a practical necessity. This chair should have a low back and should be carefully designed so as not to dwarf the other pieces and throw the whole room out of proportion.

In the section of wall coverings there is a imaginative and interesting variety from which to choose. There are abstract plaids and cheerful stripes, droll zoo animals, fresh farmyard scenes and comic characters on textured or plain backgrounds that will delight any child's imagination.

Many house budgets, however, will not stand the extra room devoted simply to play and the child's play room must share space. One practical solution is to make the dining room larger and make it serve as both dining room and child's play space. Because the dining room is the least used it affords the kitchen worker a chance for easy supervision it seems a fine solution to the problem in many smaller homes.

Plans should, of course, be made for the bedrooms of the children, for as they grow older they are going to require separate sleeping rooms. In many smaller houses, attics are so planned that they can be made into attractive sleeping quarters at a minimum of trouble or expense when the need arises.

HOUSE NO. 302—Single, straightforward lines are the first attraction when passing this house. It has dignity, with an unmistakable touch of Regency about it. The hip roof is red, shutters are black, and the walls are grey cedar-grain shingles. An examination of the plan reveals that the house is basically almost square, having a depth only 2' 6" more than its width. Although the stairs to the second floor are centred, the entrance is off-centre, overcoming the objection many have to looking up a long flight of stairs when entering a house. There is a good vestibule with coat closet. Many will like the big living room with its open fireplace in the middle of the long inside wall. French doors lead to the screened porch at the side. The kitchen arrangement is broken by doors, but this work room is bright, and has a good service entrance. There is easy access to the front door as well. On the second floor are four bedrooms and a well-placed bathroom. For building plans write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Large Rooms Popular In New Home

Dwelling space is too often provided by dividing a box into a group of smaller boxes. In elaborate houses such subdivision has been carried to the extreme of providing a special room for nearly every activity. The newer approach to house design aims at flexibility by combining related activity areas in spacious rooms with as few separations as possible.

With the freedom of informal living, tight compartments are giving way to open planning and the multi-use of rooms. Space is being used for as many of the twenty-four hours as possible. Rooms of combined use are larger, more interesting and combat that claustrophobia that made the family seek escape in the family car or in the village movie. Natural divisions of room use are brought about by furniture arrangement, built-in features, low and useful cases and cabinets, or by curtains and draperies, and in some instances by variations in ceiling levels within the room itself. Space is given a flow rather than being rigidly confined. Large windows grouped to take advantage of what view there may be are replacing the rigid symmetry of the openings of the past. Access to terraces and living porches is made as effortless as possible, and there are attempts to break down the rigid barrier between indoor and out by introducing plants indoors, and by glazing almost completely from floor to ceiling.

Can Make Housework Harder

Although planning rooms for multiple use is to be encouraged, it is well to recall that there is a point beyond which a multiple use of space makes housework harder and not easier. As a rule, the need for greater separations of activity spaces and room specialization increases with the number of persons in the household.

In order to plan for the needs of the family, the most reasonable basis for standards is an analysis of essential activities: sleeping, and dressing; personal cleanliness and sanitation; food preparation and preservation; serving food and dining; family recreation and self-improvement; extra-familial association; housekeeping activities; care of infants or the sick; circulation between various areas of the dwelling; operation of utilities. The sum of the spaces needed for these activities, with due allowance for overlap, should establish the minimum size of the dwelling as a whole. Each area, its relation to other areas and convenient circulation from one area to another may then be planned to make the best use of total space.

HOUSE No. 367—Although this house appears large—due to its 56' frontage—in reality it contains only five rooms! The basic structure has about 15,300 cubic feet. Rooms have been arranged very well, with complete avoidance of cross traffic. Not only is the living room impressive in appearance, but it is private. Closets are plentiful and large. The designer has produced a kitchen which is a pleasure to work in — evidence of his long experience in building fine homes. Exterior walls are red brick, roof is green, with all millwork painted white. For building plans, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Chimneys To Be Efficient Must Be Of Correct Design

A chimney is an integral piece of masonry from its foundation to top and may contain one or more flues and fireplaces. A flue is a space or passage in a chimney provided for the purpose of conducting smoke, fumes or gases to the outside air. The fireplace is the opening built into a chimney to contain an open fire and so designed that it will radiate heat ito the room and deliver all smoke into its flue.

The effective operation or draft of a flue is influenced by its size, height and freedom from leaks and obstructions. The minimum height of a chimney is established by its relation to nearby structures and, therefore, the top of a chimney should extend at least 3 feet above an adjoining flat roof or parapet wall and at least 2 feet above the highest ridge of a pitched roof, unless otherwise required by the local building ordinance This is to prevent down drafts resulting from air currents curling over walls and roofs. Nearby trees will produce the same results and consideration should be given to this condition.

Chimneys located entirely inside a building are more efficient because they do not become chilled by outside air but retain their heat and consequently give a better draft. For this reason, chimneys built in exterior walls may be made more efficient by increasing the thickness of the flue walls to retain as much heat as possible. No change in size or shape of the chimney should be made within 6 inches above or below the roof construction where they intersect.

Flues should be built as straight as possible, since offsets increase friction, collect soot and may create a fire hazard. If offsets are necessary, their slope should not exceed an angle of 30 degrees from the vertical and the full area of the flue should be maintained throughout. For the safest and most efficient operation, flues should be smooth and contain as few joints as possible. Fireclay flue lining is excellent and is required in many building ordinances. It produces smooth, inside surfaces, few joints, is highly fire resistive and simplifies the construction of the chimney.

Not more than two flues should be built in the same chimney space and additional flues should be separated by a smoketight dividing wall of brick, 4 inches thick. When two linings are set together, their joints must be staggered at least 7 inches apart. With flue serving a heating boiler, furnace or fireplace should be separated or surrounded by at least 4 inches of brick masonry. The best chimney design provides for the separation or surrounding of every flue with 4 inches of brick, which provides more satisfactory draft, greater fire safety and increased stability of construction.

Careful consideration should be given to the size of fireplace best suited to the room in which it is located, not only from the viewpoint of its appearance but of its operation as well. If it is too small, it may function properly, but will not produce a sufficient amount of heat. If to large, a fire that would fill the combustion chamber would be entirely too hot for the room. Moreover, it would require a larger chimney and induce an abnormal infiltration of air through doors and windows to supply the needs for combustion and so waste fuel.

A room with 300 square feet of floor area is well served by a fireplace with an opening 30 inches to 36 inches wide. For larger or smaller rooms the width may be increased proportionately.

The building of a fireplace that will perform properly and satisfactorily is not a mysterious operation nor dependent upon luck. On the contrary, the essentials of correct design are but few and simple. The principal results to be achieved are:

1. Proper combustion of the fuel.
2. Delivery of all smoke and other products of combustion up the chimney.
3. Radiation of the maximum amount of heat into the room.
4. Simplicity and fire-safeness in construction.

Fireplace openings should not be too high; for the usual width of opening, the height above the hearth is seldom more than 32 inches. This dimension may be varied slightly to meet regular brick courses and joints, especially where the facing or trim is of brick.

Unique Hobby Sends Good Cheer Around World

By LOUNDON KELLY

DENVER— (AP)— George W. Olinger is a man who is almost literally wrapped up in his work.

In suburban Lakewood his small office bulges with stack upon stack of gay-colored cards, orderly piles of magazines and regiments of brown mailing envelopes.

Ever since Olinger, now 68, retired from the mortuary business a few years ago, he has steadily expanded his hobby—begun when he was a young man—of mailing out words of good cheer and high spirit. This has got to the point where he spends most of his waking hours and thousands of dollars yearly in keeping neat packets flowing from his office.

He says his mailing list now stands at 20,000 in all parts of the world—the Arctic, India, Shetland Islands, New Zealand, Africa. Every six weeks he mails out his packets, containing back issues of magazines and sheaves of bright-hued cards, to friends and acquaintances, to high school boys and girls and to invalids.

These cards bear words that are challenging and cheerful—"fight one more round—Jim Corbet," or "a man is just as big as the thing that makes him angry," or "I had no shoes and complained . . . until I met a man who had no feet."

Started In 1916

Olinger receives no money in return for the thousands of packets he mails out as the months go by. He says the letters of thanks and the clippings of other cheering and inspiring slogans that come to him are payment enough.

This hobby, which keeps him and a boy and a woman helper busy, dates back to 1916 when he started the Highlander Boys Organization. This group, still functioning, offers a mild form of voluntary military training for Denver boys of nine to 14. Membership is limited to 650. So far about 11,000 youngsters have marched through Highland Boy ranks. About 6,000 were in World War II, Olinger said.

The organization began 34 years ago as a kid baseball team. Then it switched to a drilling and marching organization with uniforms and make-believe rifles for 50 boys. Olinger soon decided the youngsters needed a band, so 25 more boys with horns and drums were added.

Olinger fell into the habit of dropping notes to his boys and to prospective recruits. These included some little thought provoking message, such as "don't wait until you're a man to be great—be a great boy."

From these letters have grown the packets he mails from his crowded office to his international mailing list.

Finnish Taxes

HELSINKI —(CP)— Finland is probably the most taxed nation in the world, according to a report of a special committee appointed to study financial questions. State expenses have increased about 200 per cent since 1938, while national income has grown only 10 per cent.

ENCOURAGE NEW INDUSTRY

To encourage new industries, the Indian government has exempted new industrial undertakings from income tax for the first five years up to a limit of six per cent of their capital.

TULIP TALKS by Sorenson

TULIP PLANTING TIME is here again . . . once again it is time to think of your springtime garden . . . and HOW TO PLANT THIS FALL for the best results with your tulips. TULIPS SHOULD BE PLANTED BEFORE FROST hardens the ground . . . planting time usually extends to the middle of November, but in warmer climates planting should be delayed until Thanksgiving or even later. TULIPS LIKE A PLACE IN THE SUN in a rich, loamy, well-drained soil . . . some prepared compost should be dug in deeply . . . manure should never be in contact with the bulbs . . . Best method of planting is to take out the top five inches of soil and set it aside . . . dig compost into the area below to a depth of six to eight inches . . . level surface with a rake after sprinkling bone meal or superphosphate . . . set bulbs on this surface FROM FIVE TO SIX INCHES APART and cover with top soil that was originally removed . . . In many regions TULIPS NEED NO FURTHER PROTECTION during winter . . . but IF A MULCH IS CONSIDERED NECESSARY is should be withheld until the surface soil is frozen solid . . . for more complete planting information . . . or special assistance on planting problems . . . COME TO SORENSON . . . we are always glad to help out.

HOUSE NO. 144—One would guess, seeing the exterior of his white stucco house, that it is much larger than it really is. There are only six rooms; none very large, yet each one of good proportions. Largest of all, of course, is the living room, which has an open fireplace on the wall opposite the entrance. This room has three exposures. The kitchen is efficient, bright, and well placed between the dining room and breakfast alcove. Two of the bedrooms upstairs are of identical size, each with cross ventilation and well separated for privacy. The master bedroom, situated directly over the living room, has a private bathroom. It too has cross ventilation. For building plans write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Missionaries Go Welsh Coalfields

RHONDDA, South Africa (CP) "Missionaries" in the South Wales coalfields are not emissaries of religion, they are miners who will seek to "convert" their workmates to volunteer for Saturday shifts.

Two missionaries will be assigned to each mine after they have pledged never to dodge a Saturday shift themselves.

"The scheme has been tried and is working well," said D. D. Evans of the National Union of Mineworkers.

Wire Your Home For Comfort Without Extravagance

When electric wiring is installed make certain the cables are adequate to care for the varying loads for each circuit. Otherwise you will pay for more electricity than you actually benefit from. The fact that there are minimum code requirements does not mean that electric wiring should be held down to those limits.

Your home should be wired for convenience without extravagance. The use of Romax insulated twin or triple cable with an outside insulation, making a double-covered wiring system, is assurance of safety.

In living-rooms, you should have convenience outlets every ten feet with a switch to control one or two outlets. The inclusion of a radio plug with ground and aerial equipment though not required is a definite quality feature in a home. Dining rooms should have a centre light, switch and convenience outlets for every ten feet.

Kitchens should have a centre light, switch and two convenience outlets, and a sink light with switch. The bedrooms should have a centre light, switch and convenience outlet every 15 feet. Bathroom should have one or two lights as required. In basements there should be a light for every 200 square feet and an additional light if there is a fruit cellar or closet; also convenience outlets for electrical apparatus or any special equipment.

It is general practice on the part of a custom-builder to permit the buyer to make his own selection of lighting fixtures.

Doors

When you come to the doors, there are two distinct kinds that must be considered, exterior and interior. All outside doors should be at least 1¾ inches thick. Front doors should be 3 feet wide; grade or rear doors usually 2 feet 6 inches wide, and should have solid white pine stiles and rails. It is well to remember that should you desire a special door the cost is approximately double that of a standard stock door of like quality.

In lower priced homes, two-panel inside doors are installed. This type of door is strong and serviceable due to the wide centre rail which holds it rigid. The stiles and rails should be of solid white pine and the panels ¼-inch plywood.

Because beautiful hardware adds distinctive charm to your home it should be in keeping with design of your home in addition to being modern and efficient in operation. The hardware in a home gets extreme usage and hence its quality is of the utmost importance. Cheap hardware requires early replacement, whereas good hardware will last as long as the house. There are many points at which you can check quality in finish hardware and expert workmanship in installation. For example, the butts with which the doors are hung should be sufficiently heavy to carry weight and withstand constant swinging. Outside doors should have three 3½ x 3½ butts; inside doors two 3½ x 3½ butts, and be nickle-plated for kitchens and bathrooms.

Wants Farmers Be Professionals

BIRMINGHAM, England (CP).—Elevation of farming to the status of a chartered profession, was advocated at the annual meeting here of the British Association for Advancement of Science by Prof. H. D. Kay of Reading.

Addressing the agricultural section of the organization, Prof. Kay said that anyone interested in entering the field of farming should be required to possess a certificate of competence, except where it was on a small scale. Merely to have enough capital to buy a farm or become a tenant, should not be the deciding factor.

"There should be a nationally-accepted qualification after two years' training in agricultural science, followed by two years' practical experience," he said. A party seeking to rent a farm should have a recent history of successful farming good enough to satisfy a central registration authority.

"We should earnestly consider how to introduce to our farms the new knowledge that agricultural science has made available," he added. "If we earnestly follow that policy the less hard it will go with us as a nation when in 1952, or possibly a little later, the highly artificial and somewhat inglorious receipt of aid from abroad comes to an end."

120 Valuable Acres Reclaimed By Pigs

HEADLEY, Hampshire, England—(CP)—Major L. L. T. Whitaker's formula for reclaiming marginal land is—pigs.

He has turned 120 sandy, gorse-covered acres on his farm into fine agricultural ground—with the help of a pig population of 300.

First, the ground is cleared and kale—a rough cabbage used for cattle feed—is planted. Pigs are then turned loose in the field, where they eat the weeds and ignore the kale.

By this means the ground is cleared and fertilized, at the same time producing cattle feed for winter. Next step is the planting of potatoes, corn, vegetables or grass.

"Our yearly output in hogs represents a week's bacon ration for nearly a million people," said the major.

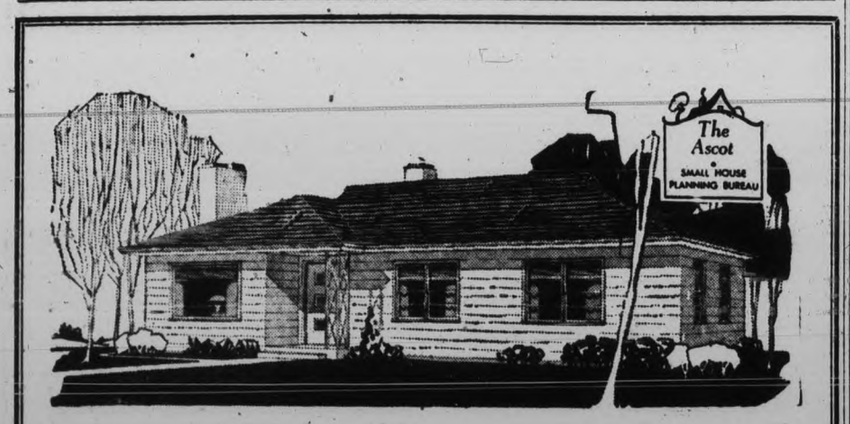
NO SUNRISE.

In northern Norway there is no apparent sunrise between Nov. 18 and Jan. 23.

Find Stone Age Relics In Natal

PIETERMARITZBURG, South Africa—(CP)—A wave of interest in archaeology is sweeping Natal. Ever since the Natal branch of the South African Archaeological Association was formed some months ago in Pietermaritzburg hundreds of stone age implements have been found, and several expeditions have yielded interesting data on early man.

The latest discovery consists of two sets of rock painting near the Isandhlwana mountain in the Dundee area drawn by the immediate descendants of stone age man.



The party, led by Prof. O. Davies, of the University of Natal, and D. Harland-Bowden, inspector of mines and chairman of the Natal branch of the Society, visited ravines in the Malonjeni area where many relics were found.

Mr. Bowden said that the paintings were of a rhinoceros hunt, with one of the hunters in the act of being tossed.

"There are two sets of paintings on two different shelter faces, and others near the St. Augustine's Mission across the Buffalo River," he added.

Proper Methods Make Easy Refinishing Wooden Floors

Where floors have become badly discolored and worn by neglect or improper maintenance, the most practicable procedure (and often the only one) to restore them to their original beauty is to have the old finish removed and the floor reconditioned by power sanding. However, if the floor has been reasonably well looked after but has become dingy with age, then refinishing by hand may be quite practicable. The method of removal of the old finish depends upon the original kind of finish used.

Refinishing Oil Finish Floors

An old oil finish, since it is embedded thoroughly in the wood, may cause some difficulties. An attempt might be made to clean the floor with a steel-wool buffing machine. If this is not feasible or proves ineffective, a chemical treatment will be necessary.

Through the action of mild alkalies, the oil in the wood may be changed to soap. The alkali used may be a water solution of trisodium phosphate, washing soda or a commercial cleanser. Extreme care must be taken if lye is used, for if it is used in too strong a solution it will swell and soften the wood. If the oil contained mineral oil, there may be no practicable way of removing it, since alkalies do not saponify mineral oil.

Allow To Stand

In applying the alkali, flush a small area of the floor at a time and allow to stand for a few minutes, then scrub with a stiff brush or No. 1 steel wool. Next flush with clean water and scrub to remove the soap that has been formed, and finally remove all the water possible by mopping and let the floor dry thoroughly.

If the floor turns grey in color as a result of the action of the alkali and water, it may be necessary to bleach it with a saturated solution of oxalic acid in water (oxalic acid is poisonous and must be handled with great care). Rinse off the oxalic acid thoroughly with clean water, mop and let the floor dry completely.

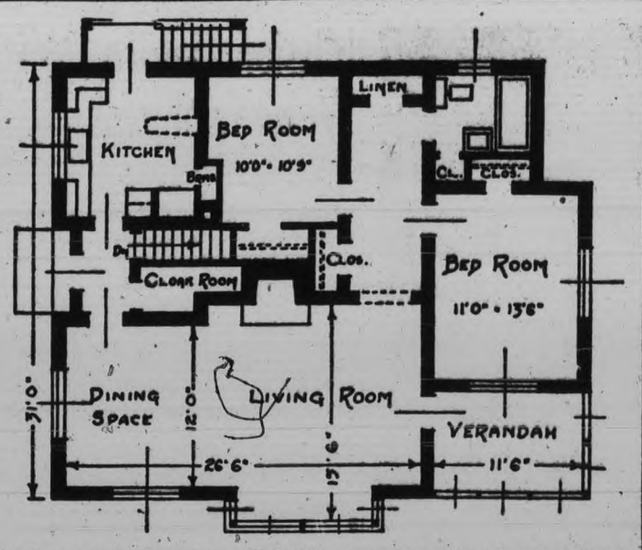
Any raised grain or roughening of the surface of the boards as a result of the drastic treatments should be smoothed with sandpaper or steel wool before new finish is applied.

Power Sanding Best For Varnish.

Old, discolored varnish finish is usually removed most easily by power sanding but if desired it can be done with liquid varnish remover. Alkaline solutions in water and removers sold in powder form to be dissolved in water should not be used. The directions for using the liquid remover should be followed carefully.

Since some old, discolored varnish remains embedded in the wood, complete restoration of the natural wood color should not be expected. Traffic channels where the old varnish has long been worn through and dirt ground into the wood should be cleaned by sanding.

Use Steel Wool



Old shellac and wax finishes that have merely become soiled by dirt clinging in the coating of wax may be cleaned by going over the floor with steel wool saturated with clean turpentine. Any white spots in the shellac caused by contact with water may be taken out by rubbing lightly with a soft cloth moistened with denatured alcohol diluted half and half with water, but the alcohol must be used with care to avoid cutting the shellac coating.

On floors where the dirt is ground into the shellac itself or white spots penetrate all the way through the coating, more drastic treatment is necessary. First, wash the floor with neutral or mildly alkaline soap solution followed by clear water, using as little water as possible in each operation. Then scour the floor with No. 3 steel wool and denatured alcohol diluted half and half with water.

If the floor boards are level and are not warped or cupped, the scouring can be done to advantage with a floor-polishing machine fitted with a wire brush to which a pad of No. 3 steel wool is attached. After scouring, the floor should be rinsed with a minimum amount of clean water and allowed to dry thoroughly before refinishing with shellac.

Wood floors with fine finishes should never be scrubbed with water or unnecessarily brought into contact with water except in refinishing as already described.

'Mutt' Useless Dog Saves Girl, 3

RAYMORE, Sask. (CP) — District farmers are advising never to write off the value of a dog.

'Mutt" was a pooch that no one thought much of. He failed as a watch dog and for driving cattle. His owners decided to get rid of him.

But that was before. Trudy Orthner, 3, wandered from her farm home near here. A general search was organized. The father making a final check through a ravine, found Mutt' standing on a knoll at the bottom. His tail was wagging furiously.

The dog led the father into some bushes and to the little girl. The child's clothes had caught on some willows and she couldn't free herself.

Mutt now is permanent guardian of the Orthner home.

White Pine and Cedar Best For Outside Finish of Home

If you have chosen wood for the exterior finish of your home you should know that the siding being used is one that will not require costly replacements in a few short years. The finest woods for outside trim and siding are white pine and cedar which are of a decay-resisting species that will hold tight at the joints and take and hold paint reasonably well; stain is more lasting and gives greater satisfaction than paint. Inspect all exposed corners or cornice and trim and assure yourself that they are mitred; a point that is indicative of quality building. Be sure, that spliced joints are absolutely tight to prevent infiltration of moisture; that joints are not directly over each other; and that nailing is done directly into each stud. A check of your home under construction will serve to illustrate the care taken in adhering to these points of superior construction.

If your home is to be built of brick there are several important points of quality you should know. The first requisite of good brickwork is good brick. The second essential is good mortar with the proper mixture of cement and sand and lime. The third vital factor is expert workmanship. The brick should be laid level with uniform mortar joints. Careful pointing or tooling of the joint helps prevent moisture penetration and in chimneys stop air leaks. This also adds to the appearance. With reference to appearance, the proper selection of the type of brick and color is important. There are a large number of blends and finishes from which to choose.

The header course consists of brick laid at right angles to the other course and tends to bind the inner and outer layers of brick together making the wall act as a solid mass. Brick veneer is made secure with wall ties. Each course of brick is carefully buttered with mortar.

Tinning

Inspection of sheet metal work in a home will quickly determine whether or not good workmanship has been made a considering factor in its building.. This is important for it is at points where sheet metal is used that most of the roof leaks occur that can be so annoying and costly. In the joints between dormers and the roof, openings for vent stacks and chimneys and valleys are downspouts should have proper connection with the soil pipe. Special care must be exercised around chimneys and all other vents to prevent water seepage into the home and consequent costly redecoration and deterioration.

Plumbing code requirements costs vary in different cities. Careful inspections are made by city sanitary engineers to assure conformance on the part of the builder. One thing to remember however, is the placement of your fixtures. They must be within a limit of 8 feet from a vent stack to the roof. If you should want a future toilet in the basement, for example, and the rough plumbing work is installed be sure it is within the present stack limit of 8 feet or a considerable additional expenditure will be necessary.

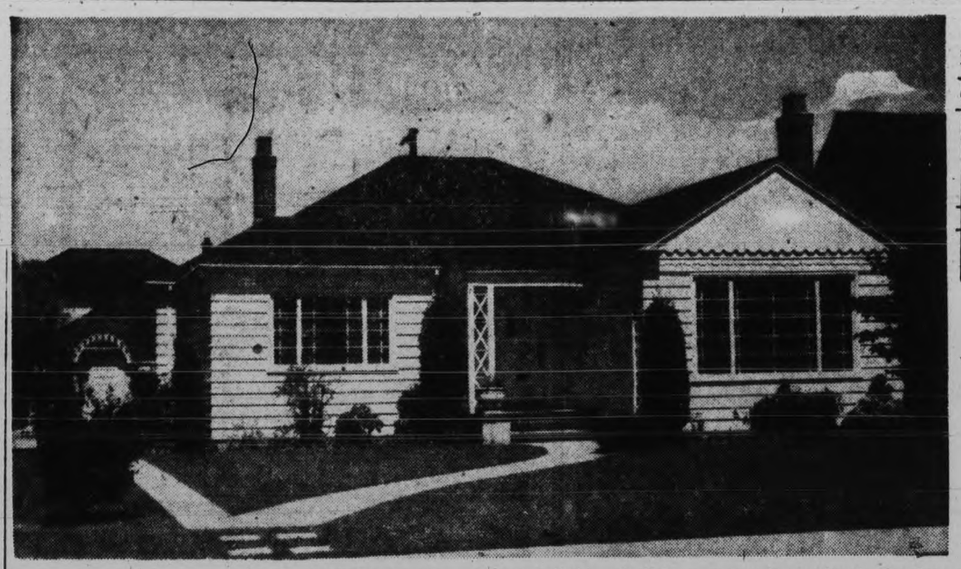
Also provide a window if you plan a future toilet. The cost of plumbing fixtures installed depends generally upon the type of home you build, but assure yourself they will give you satisfactory service.

25th Anniversary For Jewish Paper

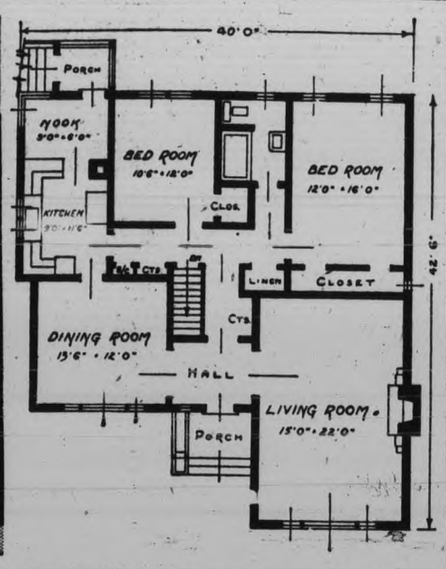
WINNIPEG —(CP)— The Jewish Post of Winnipeg is celebrating its 25th year of publication.

In an anniversary issue, it tells the story of Jewish settlement on the prairies.

Adolph Coblentz is believed to have been the first Jew to come to Western Canada. He arrived in Winnipeg in 1876.



Six years later, Jews began arriving in considerable numbers. Many of them were driven out of Russia by Czarist pogroms.



Mrs. Fanny Hoffer of Hoffer, Sask., is the author of an article on Jewish homesteaders. She tells of Jewish farm colonies established a Sonnenfeld, Sask., which are still prospering.

B. M. Cohen is publisher, and Melvin Fenson, editor of the Jewish Post.

REINDEER BIG BUSINESS

Second most important occupation in Lapland is the raising of reindeer for meat, hides, horns, beasts of burden and even milk in some areas.

HOUSE No. 59 — Every feature of this house, whether inside or outside, seems to be just right. In spite of the fact that all of the rooms have their attractions, we remember best our first glimpse of the kitchen and breakfast room. No mere floor plan can begin to do justice for this part of the house! Don't miss the master bedroom with its private bathroom and "husband and wife" closets. Actually closet space throughout the house is plentiful. The covered area connecting the house with the garage is a treat. Notice the almost-square living-room is unusually private, and has an open fireplace in the centre of the wall opposite the hall. Turning to the dining-room, we find it is 14' square and has twin built-in- corner cupboards for china. For building plans write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Choirboys' Comics Receive Vicar's O.K.

MARGATE, Kent, England —(CP)— It is no longer ncessary for choirboys at St. John's Church to creep furtively to their places with "thrillers" concealed beneath cassocks.

For the vicar, the Rev. S. A. Odom, has given them permission to read "suitable books" while he preaches his sermons.

Says Mr. Odom: "I can't see how we can expect them to listen to sermons I preach primarily for adults."

How do the boys interpret "suitable books?"

"I see the books as they carry them in," said the vicar, "and most of them are, shall we say, of the lighter type."

Parson-Watchman

SOUTHEND, England —(CP)— The Rev. E. C. Fremont, 54-year-old vicar of the village of Darling, has taken the job of night watchman at the amusement park here to supplement his income from the church. He says his fellow watchmen are "terribly careful about their language."

Minister Wants Free Education For All Egyptians

CAIRO —(CP)— Egypt's blind minister of education, Dr. Taha Hussein Bey, is leading a crusade to stamp out illiteracy and raise the general standard of education. He has issued a new appeal for free education for all Egyptians.

"Egypt, by decreeing free education, has reached the level of advanced nations and is following in the wake of modern progress," Dr. Taha Hussein said recently.

"What we must see is that every citizen has a chance to get all the education he wants."

Dr. Taha Hussein knows what he is talking about.

He was born in the midst of Egypt's three plagues—poverty, ignorance and disease. Having overcome them all himself, he is anxious to raise the educational standard of his fellow-countrymen, 85 per cent of whom are still illiterate.

Need More Schools

"This task is not easy," he declared. "It can only be done by building more and more schools. They should either be built by the state, which will entail slow progress and a large section of the national budget, or be built by the public themselves."

Calling for more public expenditure on building schools, Dr. Taha Hussein promised full support and co-operation from the ministry of education.

"What the government refuses to accept and I, too, refuse to accept," he said, "is the state of affaris where a student is turned away from any government school."

Ridiculing the fears of certain sections of the population that free education will lead Egyptians to send their children to foreign schools, the minister added:

"I have already said in parliament that the ministry is increasing its supervision of foreign schools which will have to teach Arabic, Egyptian history and civics, just like the government schools. There is no harm, therefore, if Egyptian students study at foreign schools."

Lit Porch Lights Invite Canvassers

VICTORIA, BC —(CP)— Plans for a novel campaign system—new in Canada—have been announced by the Greater Victoria Community Chest and council.

It's the "lights on" system, and this is the way it works:

The house-to-house drive will last only one night—Oct. 2—when 2,000 canvassers will aim for a quota of $181,000.

Residents will be asked to stay home that night and put on porch lights as the invitation for canvassers to call.

The idea was first tried last year in Omaha, Neb.

Says Columbus Did't Find America At All

BIRMINGHAM, England —(Reuters)— An English professor claims Christoper Columbus didn't discover America in 1492. He says that was done five years earlier by a Portuguese explorer named Dualmo.

Prof. A. Davies of Exeter University said Columbus "cooked" his ship's log.

He told scientists of the British Association there were "several features" about Columbus's first voyage suggesting that he knew land was there before he set out.

He said Columbus's brother, a map maker in Portugal, had told him about Dualmo's discoveries. He knew, therefore, that he would find land 750 leagues west of the Canary Islands and he maintained a course due west from the Canaries to do so.

He added that as soon as the ships left the islands Columbus began to falsify the log and by the time the vessel had reached the West Indies it showed the ships had covered 900 miles more than they really had.

When Columbus landed in Cuba he recorded the latitude as 42 degrees north instead of 21.

The falsifications were deliberate so that he could claim a new discovery, the professor added.

He said that from 1500 onwards world maps began to appear based on Portuguese charts which showed the coastline of North America in detail. That was years before the Spaniards began to explore the coast of the United States.

Keep House Free From Cracks

Q. How can I be sure that tiles on my bathroom walls will not loosen and fall out?

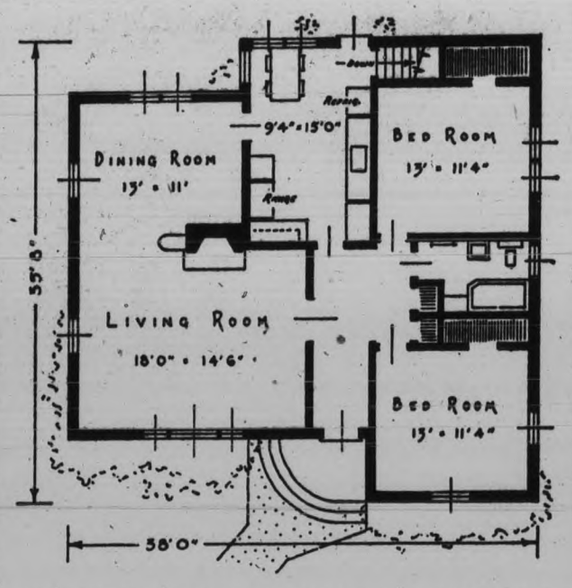
A. See that the ties are applied with a special binder of pure cement and water atop a firm well-scratched coat of cement plaster and metal lathing. The sandless plaster will hold the tiles firmly in place.

Q. What can one do to prevent unsightly cracks from marring the appearance of plastered walls?

A. Cracks often result from settling of a foundation where poor drainage is causing the ground to soften. The immediate areas around the house should always be so grated that surface drainage will not seep into the basement. Whether the home is on a hill or in a valley, the pitch must be sufficient to drain all water away from the foundation.

Q. I would like to know some material other than tile that I can use to cover my bathroom?

A. If you want a tile effect, there are a number of good wallboards made in imitation of tile that are attractive and serviceable. If you do not insist on having that appearance there are waterproof wall boards with plain surfaces that you can use. These can be painted. You should use at least one coat of high gloss enamel as a finish. Only the best grades of enamel and paint should be used as steam and hot water vapor are very hard on these surfaces.



Q. When wood starts to rot is there anything that can be done to check it?

A. The remaining wood can be saved by the complete removal of the rotted wood. If decays is caused by dry rot, which is a fungus that will spread, the infected wood must be cut out completely and destroyed. When decay is caused by dampness, the wood that has rotted should be removed and replaced, and the new woodwork protected from future dampness in order to prevent a recurrence of decay. When wood is affected by termites means must be taken to destroy their tunnels and to prevent them from reaching any moisture in the ground.

Exciting Work

LONDON, Ont.—(CP)—Walter Albert Stevens is wondering whether he took the right job. One day he had to chase two men for several blocks after they refused to pay for their breakfast. The next day he was knocked out when a customer punched him in the stomach when refused a free cup of coffee.

HOUSE NO. 130—This little home has much to recommend it. Clean, simple lines greet the eye from any angle you see it. And the interior is equally attractive too! To the left on entering is the good-sized living room, with its open fireplace and chimney forming part of the wall separating it from the dining room. See the splendid windows in these two rooms. Both equal-sized bedrooms are well separated by the bathroom. Closet accommodation is good. Although there is no window over the sink in the kitchen, arrangement of equipment is efficient and the room is bright. A convenient breakfast area is provided. House contains approximately 24,450 cubic feet, and has a 38' frontage. For building plans, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Find Corn Borer In Saskatchewan

ESTEVAN, Sask. —(CP)— The European corn borer, a worm that attacks and destroys corn, has been found in six garden plots in southern Saskatchewan.

The borer also has been reported in southern Manitoba, where there is a corn-canning industry.

The worm destroys the corn by boring into the stalks and ears. It was first reported in Western Canada in 1949.

P. C. Brown, entomologist with the Estevan Plane - Inspection Office of the Federal Department of Agriculture, said the pest can probably be kept under control if gardeners are careful to clean up and burn all corn refuse in the fall.

"While corn is not a large commercial crop in Saskatchewan, nevertheless a great number of people appreciate a few ears of corn in season," said Mr. Brown.

The corn borer is similar to a small caterpillar with a brownish back and head and with a flesh-colored belly. It was first observed in Canada in 1930 at St. Thomas.

Canadian Voices Prompt Reunion

BRAEMAR, Aberdeenshire, Scotland —(CP)— At this year's Braemar Gathering — the Highland games held each year during the Royal visit to Balmoral Castle—a special tent for overseas visitors brought a surprise reunion of two Toronto neighbors.

They were Aberdeenshire-born James Gibson, a native of Peterhead who has been in Toronto for 30 years, and Mrs. J. J. Kilgour, spending her first holiday in Britain for 20 years. They recognized each other's voices.

Highlight of the games occurred immediately the Royal Party entered the pavilion. Piper George McLennan, of Aberdeen, mounted the dancing platform and played a march, "The Braemar Gathering."

It was the first time the tune had been played in public. Pipe-major McLennan composed it in France during the First World War and submitted it to the Braemar Royal Highland Society in a competition for new pipe tunes.

McLennan received a prize from the King.

Customs Duties Hit Aussie Vine-Growers

LONDON —(CP)— Britain's high customs duties are exerting a serious setback to Australian vine-growers, says Colin R. Mackay, overseas representative of the Australian Wine Board.

Stocks of Australian wine in bond are the highest in the history of the industry," Mr. Mackay said, "and Australian wine-makers are being forced to curtail forward harvest commitments."

Unless relief in the form of reduced British customs duties was forthcoming, he foreshadowed mass evacuation from the country's vineyard areas. That, he added, would prove a serious blow to the Commonwealth's economy as vine-growing represented its fourth largest industry.

School Reopens

EAST KILDONAN, Man. (CP) —Salisbury School number one reopened this year for the first time in nearly 20 years. The school was built in 1915, but closed down during the depression when it was found there was insufficient enrolment for two schools.

South Africans Enjoying Gold, Wool, Fish Boom

CAPETOWN —(CP)— South Africa, the country where something always "turns up," is enjoying a gold boom in the Orange Free State, and a wool boom and a less-publicized fishing boom on the Cape's western coast.

The tin shanties that used to make up the little Cape Province fishing hamlet of Velddrift are being shouldered aside by modern houses, garages and factories. Neon lights flash where candles used to gutter.

Velddrift has stuck it rich in the waters of the Atlantic and swarming fish shoals have rocketed fishermen's income from $124 to $6,200 a year.

The fishermen are buying new boats, new cars, and new houses and are allowing themselves the unheard of luxury of trips to Cape Town.

But they have sounded a warning note to the authorities. Unless the shoals are protected during the spawning season, they say, the boom will turn into a bust.

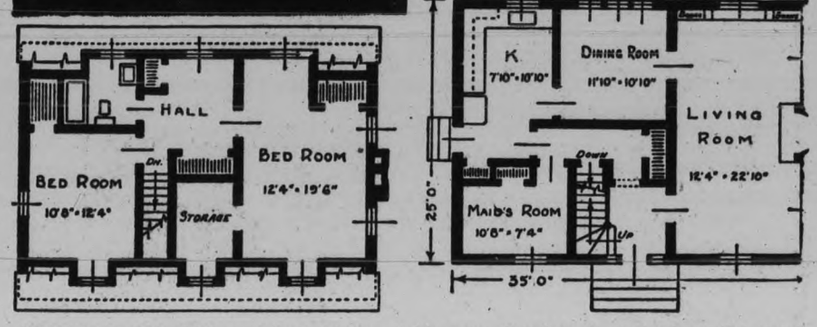
Garden Walk Adds Color To Your Lawn

Designers appreciate the importance of gardens as an essential part of home. The walks in these gardens need good construction and generous proportions, not only to fill their purely utilitarian functions but to form a pleasing part of garden composition.

Large quarrie-tiles or flagstones can be laid direcly on the ground. Use any stone which can easily be cut into inch and one-half or two-inch slabs. To make your walk, remove the sod and level the ground undr it. If the large stones are not placed on a perfectly level base they will fracture. It is always advisable to set slabs in a permanent base. The distance between stones will be determined by the fill you intend to use between joints; cement, sand, moss, herbs, or gravel. For pieces larger than 18 inches square, provide a concrete base.

Old red quarrie-tiles make a handsome walk. The old style tiles were larger, 8 to 10 inches across, and one to one and one-half inches thick. They make the best walks. Most quarrie-tiles now being made are smaller but have a pleasing glazed finish on one side. Their rich red color provides fine contrast for garden greenry. Few other types of tiles are durable enough for use in walks.



Brick-Paved Walk

A brick-paved walk is not only one of the most beautiful but about the most satisfactory. Contrary of general opinion, they are not unduly expensive. If you can lay the walk yourself, you'll find it pleasant work and the only cost of your walk and remove all soil for a depth of 12 inches. Fill in with 6 inches of firmly tamped cinders. On top of this spread three inchs of sand. Lay the bricks on in the pattern of your choice, then sweep sand into the space between bricks. If you want to make sure that frost won't lift the brick, substitute a three-inch layer of concrete for the sand, allow it to set 24 hours. Spread on one inch of mortar, (one part cement to three parts sand) and lay the bricks on this damp base. When the mortar has set sweep a mixture of dry cement and sand into the joints with loam and moss.

Random stones have long been the pets of landscape architects. The stones found in old-world gardens were originally neat rectangles but edges have been chipped off, resulting in stones of varied sizes and shapes. They were unually set on the unsodded ground, a comfortable stride's distance apart, much in the manner of stepping stones. However, since a garden walk should above all things be comfortable to the feet, you will probably choose to set your stones closer together and perhaps embed them just flush in cement.

You may decide on an unpaved walk of grass or gravel. Grass walks are the least expensive and easiest to make but require constant attention. They will not stand heavy traffic and can not be used after rain or heavy dew. Sand or gravel walks should have a good foundation. Excavate to 8 or 10 inches, fill with 6 inches of cinders and finish with gravel well rolled. A border will be necessary to keep the fill from spreading.

HOUSE No. 306—This architect-designed Colonial home of gleaming white clapboard encloses a simple rectangular plan of good proportions. While it has a centre hall the stairs to the second floor rise at one side of the entrance, rather than directly in front of the door. This overcomes a common objection to the centre hall plan. It will be noticed that the living room is spacious and has four fine windows. The big open fireplace is centred on the long outside wall. Most housewives will like the roomy "L" shaped kitchen, with the window directly over the sink. The service entrance and broom closet are close by. Upstairs are two family bedrooms. The largest has a front closet marked "storage". This big area is actually used as a nursery at the moment—and a very good nursery it makes too! Build Own Cruiser With Hammer, Saw HALIFAX — (CP) — G. B. Isner, a druggist, and Milton Todd, a chef, both of Halifax, wanted a boat to sail along Nova Scotia's shores, but didn't like the prices quoted by boat builders.

So they built their own—a 23-foot cabin cruiser—despite the fact neither had ever built anything before. Armed with only a hammer and saw, the amateur boat builders set up a workshop in the back of Isner's drug store. When the cruiser first slapped the water she'd cost them $1,600.

Says Isner: "We've been offered $4,000 for her since then."

Chef Todd says boat building is easy. "Anybody can do it who can follow rules and hold a hammer."

The boat owners now have one worry. Since they completed the cabin cruiser they find they have nothing to do with their spare time. So they plan to start another pleasure craft, which will be bigger than their initial effort.

1-Room School Holds Its Place

TORONTO —(CP)— Is the little red school house here to stay?

Ontario's Deputy Education Minister, J. G. Althouse, thinks it may be. He says the one-roomed rural school has "a lot to be said for it," despite the gradual trend to more modern, flexible and fancier central schools.

And many residents of Nelson township, near Hamilton, will agree with him. Groups of parents there recently protested against sending their children by bus to a new central school built to replace several one-roomers scattered throughout the township.

The shift to central schools has usually been made only after strong local demand has sprung up, Mr. Althouse said. The Nelson township trouble was purely local, and no attempt is made to force central schools on unwilling municipalities.

Sturdy Buildings

Besides, Mr. Althouse pointed out, "some of these old one-room school buildings are pretty durable, and in these times of high building costs a new modern central school is not undertaken lightly if adequate buildings are already available."

"And there are areas where there is strong feeling against the establishment of central schools. We are asking them to form township administrative units, but it is then up to the township board whether or not a central school is established."

The central school was "more flexible" and offered "a wider range of instruction," but there were some features which made the one-room school unique.

"It may not develop students as rapidly, but it certainly develops there initiative," he said. "The pupils in a one-room school are certainly not spoon-fed."

"There'll be plenty of little school houses for many years to come," Mr. Althouse said.

Special Constables Take Over Odd Jobs

MONTRETAL —(CP)— Earl Edward McClintock, 39, has one of the most interesting but least publicized jobs on the Montreal police force.

He is one of about 100 special duty constables who make a specialty of handling everything that does not come within the direct range of the criminal investigators or the regular policemen.

In the course of his 14 years as a special constable he has been on hundreds of cases, many of them requiring him to assume different poses in the line of duty.

A few years ago when the city was overrun with gypsies he spent three weeks dressed as a lumberjack getting his fortune told and nabbing the gypsies when they picked pockets.

Sometimes he dresses up like a sporty tourist nabbing swindling visitors.

FIRST FLOOR

SECON DFLOOR

HOUSE No. 1006—Here is proof that beauty need not be sacrificed in our quest for economy. Here the clever use of brickwork by the builder has added a pleasing air of refinement, without degrading the design with frills. Basically the design is good, and has many features to offer families searching for the well-designed small house which uses every inch of floor space to advantage. Since an attractive dining area is provided in the kitchen, many families could use the room marked "dining room" as a third bedroom. Placement of furniture, as revealed in the floor plans, indicates that while no room in the house could be called large each is carefully designed for satisfactory arrangement of all necessary pieces. The cosy fireplace at the end of the living room will be appreciated. The stout chimney enchances the exterior appearance of the house. For building plans write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Three Types of Lighting For Modern Living Room

The most important room in the house is very appropriately named the living room . . . and because it is here that members of the family gather in the evenings lighting must be adequate, at enough places, and flexible enough to fill the wide range of living room requirements.

There are three types of lighting used in the living room; ceiling fixtures, wall brackets, and floor and table lamps.

Ceiling Fixtures

Ceiling Fixtures: It has been said that the ceiling fixture is a thing of the past. There is nothing further from the truth. However, many a home is labelled "old-fashioned" because the lighting fixtures are outmoded extravagances of the past. Often fixtures are not lighted because the bare bulb is annoying and glaring.

Modern ceiling fixtures employ in most every case indirect or semi-indirect lighting. They are not only decorative in themselves but produce soft, glowing illumination which adds to the colour of the room.

Whether a pendant or close-fitting ceiling fixture is used depends upon the ceiling height. For the modern room with a low ceiling, the fixture may be built in or hung close to the ceiling. Always remember that the duty of a ceiling fixture, regardless of style or type, is essentially to provide general illumination.

The most modern of all ceiling illumination is that provided by built-in cove lighting. The cove may extend around the room, or at each end of the room, or in sections over windows or doors. The lamp bulbs or tubes are placed in a trough, thus giving soft light that is novel and decorative.

Floor And Table Lamps

Floor and Table Lamps: Rarely are living room ceiling fixtures designed to provide adequate local light for any of the various chairs. To meet the individual needs of every member of the family, floor and table lamps are necessary at every point where one sits to read, sew or work. These lamps must be chosen to blend with the decoration of the interior, but, more important they must be chosen for their ability to provide proper light for any eye task.

Before you purchase a new table lamp for reading, see it meets these specifications.

Base: The lamp complete with shade should be at least 21" in height. Lamps shorter than this concentrate the light over a very limited area and necessitate uncomfortable reading positions.

Lamp Shades

Shades: The shades must be deep enough to completely hide the bare lamp from the range of vision. It must be wide enough at the bottom to permit a wide distribution of light, and it must be open at the top so that light may be directed to the ceiling and walls. In this way light is reflected back into the room providing general room illumination.

Choose only a shade with a cream, ivory or preferably a white lining. Dark linings absorb great amounts of light, while white linings reflect the light. On the outside of the shade bands, binding, flowers, etc., may be used for decoration . . and to accent the furnishings in the room. Finally, the shade must be of sufficient density so that the burning lamp bulbs are not visible "hot" spots.

Wall Brackets: Wall brackets should be considered for their decorative value only, and not as a source of light when reading, working or entertaining. The most important thing to remember about these lighting fixtures is that the lamp bulbs must be shaded.

Planting Oak Wise Choice

By HENRY PREE
Written for NEA Service

More and more sorrowful home owners are reportnig that their elm tree has fallen victim to the dread Dutch elm disease. The question: what type of tree should be planted as replacement?

The unfortunate introduction of the Dutch elm disease has dampened enthusiasm for planting trees since even the desirable oaks and maples are also subject to insects and diseases. However, this gardener will continue to recommend planting oaks and maples and insist that the home owner follow a protective spray program.

Periodic applications of the proper pesticides will keep trees healthy and thrifty. I believe that two or more well chosen and well placed trees will do more to enhance the beauty of the landscape than a dozen or more of the commonly planted aborvitae, pfitzer's junipers, rhododendrons and similar shrubs.

As a group the oaks are probably our best trees. They are strong, long-lived and relatively free of serious insect and fungus ably because they are thought to be slow growers and difficult to transplant.

Oaks properly dug, transplanted and cared for will outgrow many other species, the trunk increasing an inch or so each year.

The red oak being one of the fastest growing requires a relatively large area.

The scarlet oak grows best in sandy soils, because its roots prefer good air drainage. It requires less room than the red oaks and its autumn color is more striking than that of most oaks.

The pin oak, probably the most commonly planted, is easily transplanted, becames established quickly, grows rapidly and is resistant to insect and fungus attack. Its smaller size makes it more adaptable.

Some maples possess very desirable qualities while others are virtually worthless. The silver maple, and the ash leaf maple, or box elder, are not recommended because their brittle wood breaks readily even in mild windstorms troubles. They have not been planted more extensively prob- and their roots often clog sewers.

The sugar maple, my favorite, requires a relatively large area and a moist, well-drained soil. It has fine symmetry, produces moderate shade and its leaves are brilliantly colored in autumn.

The Norway maple is a satisfactory tree if one realizes that its dense shade precludes the establishment of a lawn under its branches.

HOUSE No. 553—While the house pictured above was erected in Vancouver, British Columbia, it is entirely suitable for any part of Canada. One was just completed using the same plans in Cooksville, Ontario, and it has captured all the beauty of the home as shown. Carefully tailored to meet the tastes of a discriminating owner, this little white clapboard cottage could be a joy to behold on any street! Containing only about 16,500 cubic feet, it has five well proportioned rooms designed for modern living. In spite of restricted size, criss-cross traffic has been eliminated. Bedrooms are private. For building plans write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Blonding of Furniture Said Not An Impossible Task

So you have brunette furniture . . . and now want to make it blonde to blend with the new modern color scheme you have in mind. No doubt its reconversion looks like a pretty formidable if not impossible job . . .but if you are one of those people endowed with a little more than average enthusiasm for such chores, then there's no reason why you can't make a good job of it yourself. All you'll need is patience, a few materials and elbow grease.

To prepare old pieces for blonding, the old surface coating must first be removed thoroughly with a good varnish remover. Apply this in generous quantities with a large paint brush and allow to stand until it softens sufficiently. Wipe off thoroughly with rags or old newspapers and repeat this process until every trace of varnish is off. Next, wash with turpentine, wipe off thoroughly with rags and then bleach with oxalic acid which in turn is washed off with water. Instead of oxalic acid you can purchase a cold bleach already prepared.

When the surface of the wood has become dry a finish of white shellac is applied . . . if the grain of the wood is good, but if the grain is not satisfactorily even, and dark patches are evident, it is wise to use a filler tinted sufficiently to neutralize the discoloration. Follow this with a coat of flat varnish which may be waxed when dry.

Many Methods of Finishing

There are various effects from which to choose the type of finish you prefer. The finish, of course, is determined to some extent by the kind of wood used. Newly cut mahogany is quite light in tone, but age and exposure to light soon darken it. Bleached mahogany is about the same depth of tone as natural oak. A filler and a sealer are required for this wood after bleaching, followed by a finishing coat of clear lacquer. Up to four coats of lacquer are used; the first three coats should be rubbed smooth with pumice and oil. Mahogany must never be subjected to harsh acids during the process of bleaching.

To give a deeper-than-honey finish to light furniture, a wood filler to match the wood is coated with flat varnish and later waxed. This is also recommended for woods which may not have a satisfactory grain. A golden tint is produced by applying two coats of flat or clear varnish over a surface which has been smoothly sanded, drying well between coats, of course. When the last coat is thoroughly dry, rub down lightly with pumice and water and then wax the surface.

Woods Most Suitable

As the main beauty to look for in converting old pieces into attractive-looking blondes is their clearness and lightness of grain, wood with dark streaks should not be blended. It will be more satisfactory to use an enamel, tinted to match the tone of the other pieces in the room. Plain white enamel covered with clear varnish is a good substitute for white pickled blonde wood . . .if your taste still favours the light shades. And, of course, white shellac alone may cover bleached wood in this case.

Blonde furniture is not only decorative and distinctive but it is also substantial and practical. It is particularly easy to keep clean when it is well finished because in most instances a damp cloth will suffice to remove soil. Though it is far removed from the traditional as to be adaptable to modern interpretation, it is equally suitable for Colonial homes.

Combining well with light blonde furniture are clear and lighter floor coverings in rosy tones and pastels, with delicate blues and greens, flesh, pale eggshell, beige and honey.

Although blonde woods are adaptable for any room in the home, they are most popular in the dining room. One particularly successful use of blonde woods was in the little dinette where not only the table, four chairs and sideboard were of blonde maple, but the corner cupboard, as well, was made from the same wood, finished in clear lacquer and waxed. The woodwork . . .including baseboard and molding . . .was cream and so was the ceiling. Cream figures stenciled in an all-over design enlivened medium-dark blue-green walls. The floor covering in this case was dark green and cream window curtains wore blue-green ruffles.

Prima vera, the name applied to white mahogany, which, by the way, is not white at all but really a cream yellow, was used in a dining suite upholstered in royal blue corded tapestry. This smart combination was accentuated by walls painted rose-pink and woodwork painted cream. The ceiling was also cream and the carpet brown. The blinds were off-white.

A dining-living room, modern in arrangement became doubly glamorous with the addition of blonde furniture. In this room one end wall was pointed pastel-orange cream, one side wall of blue-green faced one of paler blue-green while the remaining wall and ceiling was very pale yellow. The woodwork was pale greyed-blue and blue leather upholstered the white maple furniture except for two small sofas . . .one covered in gold and one in green and white stripes.

One Chimney Two Flues For Economy

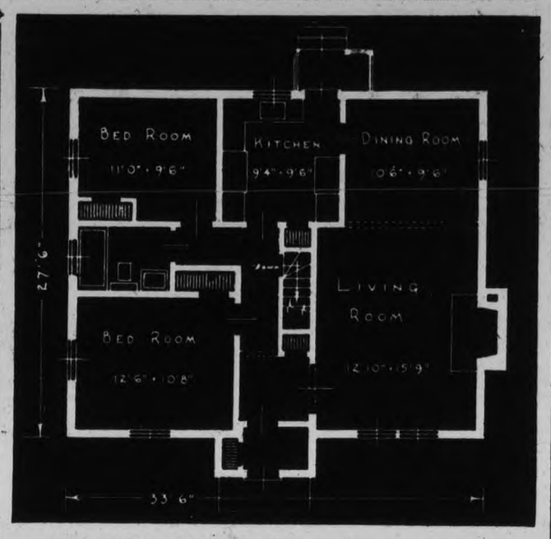
With building costs what they are, economy is the watchword with the prospective homebuilder. Study the possibility of having only one chimney, which will carry two flues. One will serve the heating equipment, and the other the living room fireplace Far too frequently the small house is so arranged that it is necessary to have two separate chimneys to carry these essential flues. The extra cost involved in materials and labor is considerable.

If you intend building a really low cost house it would be well to consider whether the living room fireplace should be omitted altogether. In economy houses this room is usually reduced to minimum size, making the placement of the fireplace difficult, and the cost of hearth, facing, mantel and damper a questionable expense.

It is interesting to note, however, that better than 92 per cent of Canadian homebuilders plan to have an open fireplace in their new home.

Well pointed, well built chimneys are as essential to the structural qualities of the home as a firm founudation, while the fireplace has been the symbol of home and happy family from time immemorial.

On Concrete Footings



Goodchimneys, whether located on the interior or exterior of the building, always should rest on solid concrete footings extending well below maximum frost penetration and of sufficient width and thickness to carry the weight of the chimney without danger of settlement.

Careful proportioning of the fireplace opening is necessary for successful operation. The design of the room, its size and height have much ot do with the width and height. The architect, and experienced builder, take these points into consideration when designing a fireplace, after learning the style preference of the owner-to-be.

The rear wall of the fireplace should be arched or curved forward to form a wind shelf which deflects down drafts from the chimney and prevents dust and soot from being blown into the room. A damper placed in the throat for regulation of the draft is essential.

Each fireplace and furnace should have its own individual flue, tile lined and carried full size to the top of the chimney. Immediately above the damper the sides of the opening are corbelled to the size of the flue opening. It is essential that the flue rise directly over the centre of the fireplace for at least two or three feet; it may then be corbelled over to the location desired. However sharp bends in the flue should be avoided.

Chimney stacks may be built of brick, stone or concrete; bearing in mind the exterior style and finish of the house. It should always be stout enough to look substantial—never thin and spindally. Many a well proportioned house has been given a second rate appearance by an emaciated chimney. All forms of Colonial Georgian, and Modern architecture take full advantage of the dramatic appeal of a well formed chimney. Fireplaces should be faced with some material in keepan effective accent to the room

HOUSE NO. 480 — A little architect-designed home that will be sure to please the discriminating owner-to-be. It is of variegated red brick, with pale green roof, door and shutters. Hasn't the exterior an appealing air about it? Its sturdy lines would make it welcome in any neighborhood. The plan provides easy circulation between rooms and with it comes a feeling of pleasant livability, so often lacking in run-of-the-mill small homes. Space is allotted in the full-sized basement for furnace and fuel storage, with ample room remaining for a recreation room if desired. For building plans write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Space For Food Preparation Should Follow Good Plan

The kitchen is primarily a workshop, in use much of the day, every day, and it is one of the most dangeruos areas in the house. Although falls are responsible for the greatest number of accidents in the kitchen, the use of fire and the presence of gas and hot liquids are hazardous. Many accidents are the result of methods of food preparation such as deep fat frying or the use of sharp knives. Adequate, well-organized work and storage spaces will considerably reduce accidents, which may be anticipated in crowded space, and fatigue will be reduced if activities can be carried out easily and comfortably.

Housekeeping is relatively simple in a family of one or two persons, but the average homemaker spends nearly forty work hours a week in a home without children. With the first baby the load shoots up fifty percent. Common complaints of homemakers and their desires for changes refer mainly to poor planning of work surfaces and storage spaces and the inadequate size of the kitchen as a whole, rather than to any need for additional gadgets. Quite properly, more attention has been given to minimizing drudgery in the kitchen than in any other area of the house. Studies of steps and motions made and resultant rearrangements of equipment and changes in dimensions can make kitchen work less tiring and time consuming.

Maximum Height

Experts have proved that 72 inches is the maximum height reached without difficulty and a span of 48 inches can be encompassed. A work space 48 inches across and 44 inches up and down permits a worker to function without bending over, stooping, squatting, climbing or reaching excessively. Shelves too close to the floor or higher than 72 inches, do not fit these maximum work curves. Shelf space should be concentrated in a horizontal zone about one foot off the floor to a little over eye level. Higher shelves involve climbing on stools or chairs, which introduces a fall hazard, and lifting strains may occur if shelves are too low.

Equipment and storage spaces should be arranged to promote ease and efficiency in the successive operations which follow the general pattern of removal from storage—food preparation—food service — dishwashing — return to storage, keeping in mind the three classic work centres: one for food preparation, close to the refrigerator; a second for serving dishes, hot pots and pans, adjacent to the stove; and a third for dishwashing, near the sink; with all materials, utensils and articles needed at each centre within reach. A stool or chair is necessary and space for an additional chair is advisable There should be ample circulation space for two persons to work without stumbling over each other.

The storage problem is particularly acute in the kitchen area, with much equipment and many supplies in relatively constant use making most of the storage space "live." The most important storage provision is that for preservation of fresh foods. The refrigerator should be large enough to contain a week's supply of perishable foods, if marketing is done weekly. It must hold two days' supply of of cold drinks. Mimimum sizes milk and in summer, bottles recommended are 5 cubic feet for two to three persons, 6 cubic feet for four to five persons and eight cubic feet for six to eight persons

Most kitchen storage space is now designed in the form of built-in cabinets, shelves and cupboards, which may be combined structurally with the sink, drainboard and refrigerator Standardization of equipment has made the problem largely one of choosing and assembling. If adequate storage facilities are not provided as part of the regular kitchen equipment, space should be allowed for free-standing units. Where a utility room adjoins the kitchen, it may be used for storage of some supplies, although space for articles used recurrently should be close at hand.

Rust Around Your Home Can Cause Trouble, Money

By BOB SCHARFF

No home is safe from rust or as it is more formally known, corrosion. Now when metal parts are so expensive, it is especially important to guard your home against it. Proper care is easy and cheap.

Paint is your best rust preventive. While the wood framing of your house needs paint only every few years, exposed metal parts may require yearl painting or must have at least yearly inspection.

Flashing around dormers, soil pipe vents, chimney, and roof valleys should be closely inspected for signs of corrosion. Tin roofs, gutters and downspouts should also come in for careful scrutiny, too. But before painting repair or replacement should come first.

After repairing and cleaning out of all loose debris, remove all rust, old paint and dirt with coarse sandpaper, wire brush and an old scrubbing brush. And don't neglect any of those rust-filled corners and crevices. Then, prime all the exposed metal with a mixture of red lead and linseed oil (4 cups of dry red lead to 1 cup of raw linseed oil) or any of the good quality rust resisting points on the market.

It is not necessary to thin paint intended for metal priming. A little paint goes a long way in painting on metal since there is no penetration. It must, however, be brushed on evenly and firmly to eliminate air that would interfere with good adhesion. Apply two coats of metal primer on all sections that have been rusting.

Keep the lid on the paint can when not in use. Most metal priming paints dry rapidly or set hard in cans if exposed to the air too long at a time and are thus wasted as they cannot be re-thinned for painting.

After metal priming paint is dry, apply ordinary house paint as the finishing coats in the same method as when painting exterior woodwork. Allow ample time between coats for drying.

Steel sash, especially in the basement, won't last long unless it is adequately puttied and painted both inside and outside. Coat the sash with a good metal paint or enamel once a year and you can be sure that rust will make no headway.

Also give your metal fences, metal garage doors, exposed piping and metal railings the same treatment. Paint all outside metal furniture before putting it away for the winter.

Soak in kerosene and brush with grease all garden and carpentry tools that are to be stored for long periods. A dish or bag of calcium chloride or similar moisture absorbing chemicals in every tool drawer or chest will stop rusting of your tools. These materials must be renewed frequently to make up the loss due to liquification.

WHEN STORMS RAGE:

You can shield your home against winter drafts and chills SO easily. Our Storm Sash will do it. Will soon repay their moderate cost — in fuel saved To say nothing of family health safeguarded. Let's measure-up YOUR house for Storm Sash!

Balanced Design For Small Homes

Many desirable features of houses are not dependent upon size or cost but upon the skill of the designer.

Since experience has demonstrated this, most builders feel that the necessity of a well-balanced design is especially evident in the small house of low cost. In houses of this type it is important that a maximum amount of usable space, with as much comfort, convenience, and privacy as possible, be obtained for a minimum amount of money.

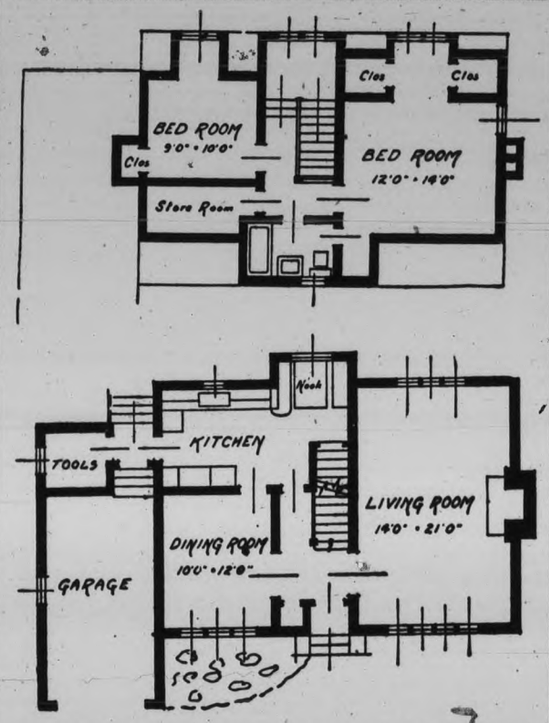
Economics In Planning

Economy in planning requires the elimination of waste space, especially hall areas; rooms planned for dual purposes when possible; and rooms whose shape and wall space permit the use and arrangement of essential movable furniture without excessive floor area. Economy in planning is also related to the structural elements of the house and the installation of the mechanical equipment, especially that of heating and plumbing.

Rooms used for sleeping should be well separated from the rest of the house. In general, they should be located in corners to provide for two exposures in order that cross ventilation may be obtained. Their size need only be sufficient to accommodate essential furniture and to provide space to permit easy access to the furniture and closet.

Window, Door Location

Economy in the area of sleeping rooms, as well as improvement in their convenience, is obtained by correct location of door and window openings to obtain maximum wall space for furniture. The shape of these rooms and the relationship of wall openings and wall spaces should permit an arrangement of furniture which does not require walking around a bed in order to reach the bedroom entrance door, closet, or dresser.



Hall space is necessary to afford privacy and communication between various rooms, especially living room, bedrooms, and bathroom. Except for privacy and access, it is not usable space, and for economy it should not be larger than necessary.

Good Orientation An Aid

The livability of houses, without adding to their cost, is improved by arranging the location of rooms with respect to sunlight, view, and prevailing winds. The living room should be placed so that it receives as much sunlight as possible. This adds to the comfort, warmth and cheerfulness of the room as a place in which to live. The best view from the house should be from the living room windows unless this interferes with other major considerations.

Since cooking operations add to the warmth of the kitchen, it is advisable to locate the kitchen to afford maximum protection from the additional heat of the sun. This can usually be accomplished by placing the kitchen to the north or northeast. Bedrooms should receive sunlight at some time during the day and, if possible, be favored by exposure to the prevailing winds.

HOUSE No. 44—In this home the wide "V"-joint boards of cedar give a striking effect as their white-painted surfaces catch the afternoon sun. Immediately under the eaves is a dark, horizontal strip, which adds pleasing character to the whole facade with its sharp contrast in color. Notice that the front door is also dark. The roof and gable ends are of weathered cedar shingles. Since only one window in the main part of the house overlooks the side, such a design could have close neighbors. Most interesting room in the house is the big living room. There are splendid arrays of windows looking to both the front and back gardens, and of course there is the wide open fireplace centered on the long outside wall. The combination of the kitchen and dining nook arrangements is particularly well done. It is gratifying to see that no room in the house serves as a traffic lane Many will be impressed with the tool room, and the covered entrance to the garage. Upstairs are two bedrooms, a bathroom, and a roomy storage area. For building plans write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Business Side of Building Can Be Pleasant Experience

Most people who have built homes look back on their building venture as an enjoyable experience . . a few do not. The difference between pleasant and troublesome building is almost always directly in ratio to the amount of care exercised in your business dealings. Ability and integrity of the people you engage to plan and build your home are equally important.

Each and every step in building is an important transaction involving large sums of money. To build without professional advice and carefully written agreements is foolhardy.

Here are a few rules for trouble free building:

1. Have a good set of working drawings and specifications which fit your site and needs, and which describe all work involved. Be sure you know what is to be done, such as the number of coats of paint specified.

2. Deal with the 'boss'—your architect, or the contractor if you have no architect. Don't ask favours, issue orders to, or raise cain with workmen or sub-contractors.

3. Don't urge your architect, if you have one, to obtain bids from every contractor he can find. He will not want to permit unqualified contractors to bid—neither will he ask for bids merely for the benefit of having estimates. Estimating takes time and costs the contractor money.

4. Make complete written agreement with your architect and contractor, listing all responsibilities and duties. Such agreements are necessary to describe definitely the obligations of the various parties concerned with planning and building operations so that nothing is taken for granted.

5. Specifications should include every item of material wanted. Check carefully. Items forgotten or omitted are quite logically "extra"—you pay for them over and above the contract.

6. If changes are to be made during construction put the instructions in writting before the change is made. Have a written agreement on the cost. Be sure that changes can be paid for from your cash or included in the loan.

7. Accept bids only from contractors competent in their work, financial affairs and business relationship, and with a proven record of getting jobs done on a reasonable schedule. If your contractor is the kind he should be, he will want you to be well satisfied. Ask the owners of homes already built by your proposed contractor for references. DON'T shop around by yourself for "unknown" contractors with no background who may promise to build your home for substantially less money—you may pay dearly for it.

Get Value From Your Paint Brush Dollar

No attempt at "economy" exists that is more expensive in the long run than the cheap paint brush. Although a good brush may cost more to purchase, it holds more paint, has bristles that do not fall out to mar the surface, is less likely to leak or splatter, leaves a clean edge, give a uniform finish and will give longer service if properly cared for.

As a consequence, the difference in cost is immaterial. It is just as important to know how to take care of a good brush after you've finished with it as it is to have the right brush for the job you are tackling. A brush that has been used in paint should be wiped off and suspended in linseed oil between painting sessions, keeping the bristles off the bottom of the container in order that they do not become bent.

Varnish or enamel brushes may be kept in linseed oil or a suitable thinner. Be careful, however, to wipe out all of the oil before using the brush again. When varnish is accidentally permitted to dry and harden on a brush, paint and varnish remover may be used to remove it.

If the brush is not to be used for a long time it is well to wash it out with a solvent, such as turpentine or gasoline until it is fairly clean. Then give it a good washing with a mild soap and water. Shake out the excess water and wrap the bristles in paper so that the original shape of the bristles will be retained after drying.

Shellac brushes may be kept in shellac, but it is better to clean them with alcohol immediately after using, then washing with soap and water.

Be careful never to clean your brushes near a fire or flame. Neglected brushes, incidentally, can be softened and reconditioned with specially prepared brush cleaners obtainable at your paint store.

When your brush is brand new, all short, loose bristles and dust must be worked out before you begin using it. New varnish brushes may be washed in some inexpensive thinner, such as benzine, before being put into varnish. A new brush should first be dipped in the paint to a depth of two or three inches and wiped across the edge of the mixing paddle several times to work the paint into its bristles.

HOUSE No: 143—A square plan containing six rooms and two closed-in porches. Both the living room and dining room are attractive. Direct access from kitchen to front door is commendable, as in the convenience of the bathroom at the head of the stairs. The triangular bedroom closet however, should be avoided, whenever possible. The house is owner-designed, and contains about 20,300 cubic feet without porches. The clapboards of the exterior walls give way to white painted brick on the lower portion of the facade. Shutters and roof are painted medium blue. For building plans write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Using Proper Color Scheme

If you're troubled with a room that looks too long and narrow —or perhaps a ceiling that appears too low—take heart! Color can work miracles in overcoming architectural defects in the home. Here are a few ways paint and wallpaper can be used to make your home more appealing.

First, let's see what can be done with a room that appears too long and narrow. To make it look wider and shorter make the short walls contrast with the long ones. Try some of these ideas:

(1) On the long walls, use a plain light color like green or blue to make the walls seem further away.

(2) On the short walls, use a plain, dark color, or a warm one such as peach, brown or warm red to make them come forward —or use wallpaper in warm colors. Or you might have open shelves, filled with books, with a low storage cabinet underneath extending all across the end wall from floor to ceiling. A fireplace with bookshelves on either side will also achieve the desired effect of bringing the short walls forward.

(3) Where windows are located on the short walls, hang colorful draperies at them to increase the appearance of width of the wall. Draperies may be hung from ceiling to floor, extending from corners of the wall over to the windows and covering window frames.

CEILINGS TOO LOW: Low ceiling can be made to appear high by:

(1) Making the ceiling lighter than the walls.

(2) Having a white paint or paper tinted a little with the wall color.

(3) Using a wallpaper with vertical stripes or a vertical floral design reaching from baseboard to ceiling, and without a border.

(4) Hanging draperies having a vertical stripe design for plain walls, or plain draperies a different color from the walls.

ROOM TOO SMALL: Small rooms appear larger when plain as soft greens and blues are used, and when walls and woodwork are of the same color. Where wallpaper is patterned, various tones of one grayed color may be chosen or a pattern in soft colors that leaves large open spaces in the background. Dark colors, all-over patterns (even though small) or those having strong color contrasts, tend to draw the walls inwards. If you use a figured wallpaper it will be best to have its background color and that of the woodwork match.

A plain rug, or one with a soft-colored all-over pattern covering most of the floor will enlarge the room. Draperies matching the wall color, or in a little lighter tone, will produce the same effect.

ROOM TOO LARGE: Large rooms appear smaller and cozier when wallpaper has a large or medium-sized all-over pattern in warm colors. Woodwork and draperies in contrast to the wall-color will also make the room look smaller by drawing in the walls. Small rugs or a large figured one might be chosen to break up the expanse of floor.

WALL CUT UP BY TOO MANY DOORS AND WINDOWS: A room with a number of doors and windows usually has small spaces. Here, patterned paper is very likely to look spotty. Your room will look much more restful if plain wallpaper or paint is used, with woodwork and walls of the same color.

Plain colored draperies or curtains should be chosen a little lighter or darker than the wall, or of a contrasting color. You might also use patterned, dull-colored one with a background matching the wall.

Non-Ringing Doorbell Easily Fixed

By BOB SCHARFF.

You should never have to apologize because buzzers, gong or chimes won't ring. They are so easy to fix they should never remain out of order for long.

Electric doorbells, chimes or buzzers may be operated by transformers connected to the house wiring or by means of batteries. In the latter case, the usual source of trouble in a worn-out battery.

To find a dead battery, test them one by one by connecting a wire to one terminal and touching to another. If a spark can be seen, the battery is good. If not, replace it.

In a transformer system, if your bell won't ring, try tightening the nuts on the low voltage side. With the pushbutton pressed, if you hear a hum from transformer, current is passing and wiring is intact.

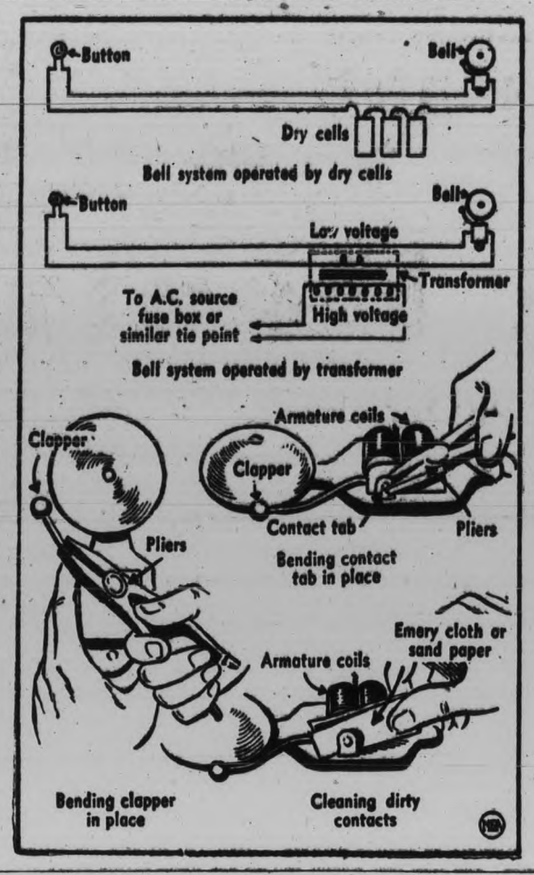
If not, check the transformer with a bell with short wires attached. Touch one wire to each low voltage terminal. If power is coming through, the bell will ring. If the bell doesn't ring, cut off the house power and check the connections on the high voltage side.

Once the power supply is found to be good, next look at the push button. Remove it and check the connections. If they seem sound, short-circuit the button by bridging the two terminals with a short piece of wire or a screwdriver blade.

Should that make the bell ring, the trouble lies in the button. Sometimes the contact becomes dirty or corroded from exposure to weather, in which case the contact points should be cleaned with sandpaper or emery cloth. However, if this does not solve the problem, replace the button with a new one.

If it still fails to ring, give the chimes or bell a thorough check-up. When checking, it's a good idea to attach a dry cell directly to the mechanism while you try to track down the ailment.

With a bell the trouble may be nothing more than a bent clapper. If the clapper moves but does not strike the gong sharply, bend it back with pliers to the correct position. Sometimes the metal tab contact point will be frozen against the armature spring or will be bent too far away for good contact.



Slight bending of the tab outward or inward will remedy the trouble. In some bells, a screw located inside the bell box will move this contact point closer to or farther away from the spring.

In chimes, there is a small steel rod or two in a hollow coil. As current passes, the rod pushes out and strikes the chime and a small spring brings it back. Dust and grease will accumulate on this rod.

To clean it, remove the chime and slide out the rod and spring. Then dip the rod in clean gasoline being careful not to damage the delicate spring. Also clean the tubes in which the rod moves, using a cloth soaked in gasoline. Then reassemble and test.

If the bell refuses to word after all of these tests have been made look for a short circuit or broken wire in the system. It is possible in most cases to locate a break or short with a visual inspection of the exposed wiring. Repair a break by splicing the wire ends and covering with friction tape.

If the break or short circuit occurs within a wall, where it can't be reached, it will be necessary to replace this portion of the wiring.

Set Out Bear Trap To Catch Witches

SIMCOE —(CP)— A bear trap which this district's first white settler used to set at the foot of his bed in the hope of catching marauding witches is gathering dust in a little-used museum here.

It is a reminder of the strange superstition of John Troyer, who is described in old historical journals as believing that all dark-eyed women were witches. Whenever he saw a dark-eyed beauty, he would run to his cabin and barricade the door. He nailed horseshoes over the door in the belief that witches would not go past cold iron.

Troyer settled at Port Rowan, 14 miles southwest of here, in 1789. After other white families came, he worked as a blacksmith and sometimes used his pliers to pull teeth. He also was the settlement's constable, water diviner, shipbuilder and herb doctor, farmed a richly productive tract of land and was a crack shot. In spite of his dread of witches, he lived to be 99.

Find Lipstick Puzzling To Indian

THE PAS, Man. —(CP)— Vivid shades of lipstick worn by women in this northern town shocked James John McPherson on his first visit "to civilization."

"They looked as if they had cut themselves," said the 30-year-old Indian.

McPherson is a clerk for the Hudson's Bay Company at York Factory. He made his first visit to the "outside" to see the grave of his wife who died in The Pas sanatorium last April.

The Indian said he found it difficult getting around town without getting lost.

"The trouble is all these buildings," he said. "They get in the way of your view."

Repair Finish Before Inside Is Damaged

By BOB SCHARFF

Cracks are among the most common defects found in stucco finishes. They may be merely hair cracks to destroy the beauty of the house or they may be large enough to admit moisture which may damage the underlying structure and interior walls.

Cracks in stucco may result from improper ingredients, mixing, or application, movement of the lath base, unequal settlement of the structure or a combination pear shortly after completion of the job; others years later.

If the stucco is substantially sound but has a few cracks, these must be opened with a cold chisel back to the lath to form a channel with sides at right angles to the surface so that the mortar will be locked in.

Before filling this channel, moisten it to prevent absorption of the mortar water and keep the patch damp for several days Patching mixtures are commercially available or they may be made with one part Portland cement to three parts sand and one-tenthpart finely divided hydrated lime, measured by volume.

The mortar should contain just enough water to make a fairly dry mixture of about the consistency of putty. It should be forced in and tamped well to make complete contact with the sounding area.

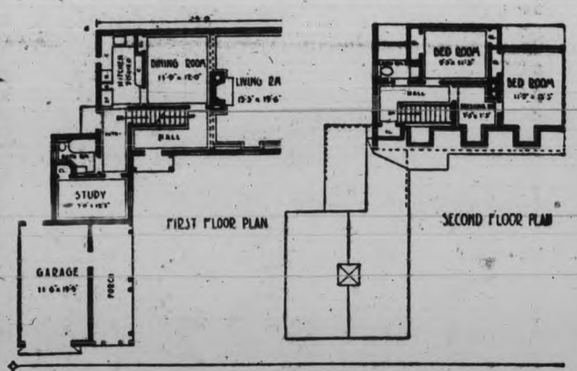
The new work should be kept wet for several days after it has hardened to increase the strength of the mortar. It is advisable to hang tarpaulin or similar covering over the completed work to protect it from direct exposure to sun and drying winds.

Stucco may be brightened and discolorations concealed by painting with cement-water paint. Also the cement paint will fill hairline cracks.

The surface should be cleaned according to the manufacturer's directions before the paint is applied. Before painting the stucco should be thoroughly wetted, preferably with a garden hose adjusted to produce a fine spray.

Cement-water paints should be applied in two coats. Preferably not less than two hours' drying time should be allowed between coats. The first coat should be slightly moistened with water before applying the second.

Leaks are frequently caused by cracks around windows and doors at half-timber work, or in a gable end where the stucco meets the roof molding. Fill them with a caulking compound applied, preferably, with a caulking gun. In extreme cases it may be well to fill with oakum smeared with white lead before caulking.



A waterproofer may be advisable on a porous stucco wall This is no cure-all, but in most cases excludes dampness. Both colorless and tinted commercial paterproofers are available and should be applied according to manufacturer's instruction.

However, here is the formula for one which should prove most satisfactory. To one part of powdered water glass add four parts of water. This mixture is colorless and can be applied with a whitewash brush.

When a whole wall has developen a multiplicity of cracks or bulges, it is necessary to give the wall an entire new coat of stucco. However this is not a simple task. The entire surface should be scored and roughened in order to hold the new coat. Brush thoroughly with a steel wire brush to remove all loose particles of dust or dirt. Wet down the entire surface and apply the new coat of stucco.

HOUSE No. 1005—Before an architect settles down to design himself a house, he gives the subject careful consideration from every angle. He studies the topography of the lot, the neighborhood, the view, style of surrounding homes, and many other important points. Only then can he visualize the "proper" house for the setting. This is the picturesque home of architect Forsey Page. Mr. Page, who is one of Canada's outstanding house designers, chose an attractive site in a new, better class development in which the back of the properties overlook a pleasant sweep of valley. Perhaps the most fascinating feature of the exterior of this house is the wing formed by the garage and study. Here carefully designed millwork has played ar important part, and blends happily with the gleaming white brick. For further information, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

The ECON-O-MIST REVOLUTIONIZES OIL HEATING

There is no substitute for Quality . . .

--- low priced oil burners usually are too expensive for anyone to afford. They burn many gallons of oil needlessly, and are costly from the standpoint of service. The Econo-Mist Oil Burner is built for long life. It is quality equipment which will provide years of economical trouble-free operation.
Econo-Mist dealers are picked because they are masters in the trade, having the skill and equipment with which to properly engineer your installation. He will gladly make a free heating survey of your home and give you the facts about the Econo-Mist Burners.
There is no obligation, of course, but you owe it to yourself to call him, before buying any oil burning equipment.

CHECK THESE FIVE FEATURES:

1.—THERMO-CONE COMBUSTION HEAD
Thermo-Cone Combustion Head produces a finer mixture of air and oil than any other make of burners. There is no enlargement or distortion of the vapour particles so that you get more intense heat, more evenly distributed in the fire-box.

2.—ONE-PIECE CAST ALUMINUM HOUSING
No bolts to lose, no rattling parts; it's all set in a one-piece cast aluminum housing of unusual thickness and durability.

3.—PRECISION MACHINED
As the housing is cast in one piece, then precision machined, no working parts can become out of alignment, thus ensuring many years of silent, trouble-free service.

4.—FIRING ASSEMBLY
The firing assembly has been expertly engineered so that it may be removed as one assembly through the opening at the rear of the burner. Your serviceman can then clean and adjust the burner quickly and easily.

5.—18 MONTHS' FREE SERVICE AND GUARANTEE
We have tested it; we know it is good, and we therefore guarantee the "Econo-Mist" Oil Burner unconditionally for 18 months. Because "Econo-Mist" is a 100% Canadian product, parts are easily obtainable. It is fully approved and bears the seal of the Canadian Standards Association. THE PATENTED THERMO CONE COMBUSTION HEAD

Tested Fuel Savings Guaranteed To Range from 15% to 32%

The Econo-Mist Oil Burner equipped with the Thermo-Cone Combustion Head has proven itself the most efficient oil burner on the Canadian market. Field tests as well as tests made in the laboratories of Canadian Universities show that savings up to 32% is made over conventional gun type oil burners.

The Thermo-Cone Combustion Head is the greatest advancement in oil burning, in the history of the industry. Because the Thermo-Cone Head use a minimum of excess air, higher CO 2 is obtained, and at the same time lower stack temperatures. The relative position of the parts of the Thermo-Cone Head can be altered during operation to achieve the best operating conditions and adjustments can be made without dismantling the unit.

Dental Health Week

October 2nd-6th

The Dental Public Health Committee of Peterborough and District takes this opportunity to invite all citizens to participate in our educational program. We solicit your whole-hearted assistance in promoting the extension of fundamental knowledge leading to the reduction and prevention of dental decay, as well as the most effective methods of oral hygiene. We ask you to join with us in the work of building a healthier generation of tomorrow.

Ralph C. Honey
Chairman

The reason for Dental Health Week

What next! We have heard of "Apple Week", "Clean-Up Week", "Home Town Week", "Mother's Day", "Father's Day", etc., etc. These special events do not just happen. Some individual or group of individuals have planned them for some purpose. We do not pretend to understand all the "whys" and "wherefors" behind the planning of some special event, but we do know the objective behind the planning of Dental Health Week.

Fact No. 1—It is NOT commercial.

Fact No. 2—The need is NOT based on theory but on FACT.

Fact No. 3—Health is definitely an aid to Happiness.

Fact No. 4—Dental Health plays an important part in General Health.

Fact No. 5—The individuals responsible for this program are Honest, Intelligent and Industrious.

Fact No. 6—They are "good citizens."

For these and other equally good reasons the Members of the Ontario Dental Association wish for Dental Health Work all the success it so richly deserves. And we bespeak your co-operation in making for a healthier, happier people. "Our children require and are deserving of the best. Let us make sure they get it."

How Tooth Decay Can Be Controlled

1.—In brushing teeth it's when that counts. Always use your toothbrush or rinse your mouth within ten minutes after eating.

2.—See the Dentist every six months from the age of three. Tooth decay starts early. So catch it and check it early, too.

3.—Proper diet is most important. Milk, fruits, vegetables, whole grain cereals, meat, cheese and eggs help form good teeth.

4.—Avoid sugar and sweets especially between meals. Tooth decay is caused by acids produced by bacteria feeding on sugar in the mouth.

Free Dollar Climbs To 95 Cents

To Remove Curbs On Import Of Consumer Goods

MONTREAL, Oct. 2—(CP)—The Canadian dollar was quoted in early Montreal foreign exchange dealings today at 93 to 95 cents in terms of United States funds.

This was an advance from 89 to 90½ cents, the value of the Canadian dollar in relation to the United States dollar at the close of foreign exchange dealings last Friday.

The upturn of from five to seven per cent. followed the Canadian government's week-end action in setting the Canadian dollar free for the first time in 11 years to find its own level in the world money markets.

At 95 Cents

In Toronto, the Canadian dollar was quoted between 93 and 95 cents today in terms of United States currency, in opening foreign exchange dealings.

This meant that the United States dollar was worth between $1.05 and $1.07 in terms of Canadian money.

New York Quotes

In New York the Canadian dollar was quoted at between 94 and 94½ cents in terms of United States currency in Foreign Exchange dealings here at noon today. Since unpegging of the Canadian dollar Saturday, it has risen by noon between 3⅛ and 3⅝ cents in relation to US currency. At the close of Foreign Exchange transactions Friday the Canadian dollar was quoted at 90⅞ cents in terms of the US dollar.

At the opening of transactions today, the Canadian dollar was quoted at between 83⅛ and 95⅝ in terms of US currency.

Two hours after the Foreign Exchange transactions opened, trading continued "erratic" but was not heavy. Traders apparently waited to see where the LUCKY TO ESCAPE with their lives, two occupants of a pick-up truck were injured at noon today when they ran into a CNR passenger train bound for Port Hope. Bill Dorris, 19, King St., is shown (left) explaining what happened to Trainman Harry Elstone, Toronto. Dorris received a cut over his right eye and cuts and bruises on his left arm and leg. His workmate Clare Donnelly, 34, Chemong Park, sustained head cuts but his condition is not considered serius. He was dragged about 30 feet over the paved surface of the highway when the truck bounced off the train. The smashed truck is shown (right).—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Truck Collides With Train, One In Hospital

Clare Donnelly, 34, of Chemong Park is in St. Joseph's hospital with severe cuts and other undetermined injuries after a truck in which he was a passenger, collided with a CNR passenger train crossing Lansdowne near Monaghan Rd., shortly before 12.30 p.m. today.

His condition is described as "not too serious."

The driver of the pickup truck, owned by George Hardy Ltd., Toronto, was Bill Dorris, 19, 535 King St. He escaped with a bad cut over the right eye, and cuts on his left arm and leg.

Dorris said he was driving east along Lansdowne and was not expecting the Port Hope bound passenger train.

"There's a 15-foot pile of lumber on the north-west side of the crossing," said Dorris. "Not only that but there's a fence and trees that prevented me from seeing the train."

Brakes Didn't Hold

"I put my brakes on as soon as I saw it but they wouldn't hold and I ran into the side of it," he added.

A trainman claimed that the truck was approaching at a high rate of speed and pointed to some skidmarks about 40 feet back from the crossing as the place where Doris first stamped on the brakes.

In a last-moment attempt to avoid a collision Dorris swung his vehicle violently to the left but his action was too late. The locomotive tore out the windshield and right corner of the ton-truck, and drove it 30 feet down the left side of the highway.

Donnelly who was riding in the right-hand seat was knocked from the cab as the right door

Special Brigade May Go To Europe, St. Laurent Says

KINGSTON, Oct. 2—(CP)—Canada's Special Force, designed for use in Korea if necessary, has become a unit for use by the United Nations, subject to Canada's control. This was made clear here Saturday in an address by Prime Minister St. Laurent to the Royal Military Club.

"The creation of the Special Force," Mr. St. Laurent said, "means that from now on we will have a Canadian force-in-being available to assist, without undue delay, in discharging a part of our obligations under the U.N. Charter and the Atlantic Treaty."

The Prime Minister's statement threw a clearer light on what may happen to the 10,000 men enlisted for the special force. For the first time, Mr. St. Laurent gave official public indication that Canada will be ready to send manpower to Europe.

May Go To Europe

"Provided the Korean incident is successfully terminated before too long a time has elapsed, the special force would be available for service as part of a deterrent force in Europe if its employment there would fit in effectively with joint plans," he said.

At present the force was being trained for service in Korea "if that seems to be the right place to send it when it is trained and ready."

"But there are other areas in the world. For what has happened in Korea might be repeated and it might be that our special force would be dispatched to some entirely different place if circumstance warranted and parliament approved.

He warned, too, that the western powers' efforts to prevent war may go on for many years.

Report Welsh To Leave Board

TORONTO, Oct. 2—(CP)—A Toronto paper says today in a newspage story that Arthur Welsh may give up the chairmanship of the Ontario Liquor Control Board and that Judge W. R. Robb of Orangeville, is seeking retirement as chaairman of the Liquor License Board. One other top official is slated for a change, the paper adds.

Col. Welsh also is provincial secretary. Recently he was appointed head of Ontario's civil defence effort.

"Col. Welsh is reported to be seeking relief from the liquor post for two reasons that he is tired of the pressure involved in the commissionership and that he wants more time to devote himself to organizing Ontario civil defence," the paper says. "Judge Robb is reported to be anxious to relinquish the license Board job owing to the heavy duties involved.

"Speculation places Major J W. Foote, V.C., vice-chairman of the Control Board, as most likely to succeed Mr. Welsh. W. T. Nugent, vice-chairman of the License Board, probably would succeed to the chairmanship of that body if Judge Robb retires."

Ajax Man To Be Tried For Manslaughter

LINDSAY, Oct. 2. — (CP). — John Morris Forget, 19, of Ajax, has been committed for trial Nov. 6 on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Charles Henry Booth in a highway accident at nearby Coboconk.

Police said Forget was the driver of an automobile in which Booth was a passenger which went out of control while entering Coboconk, crashing into a hydro-electric pole, a garage and a house. Booth was killed when he was thrown from the car.

Forget is free on $2,000 bail.

Vishinsky Says U.S. Breaks International Law

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 2—(AP)—Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky of Russia charged today that the United States has "flung a challenge at the U.N. and international law" by ignoring a four-power agreement on Korea.

Addressing the general assembly's political committee, Vishinsky accused the U.S. chief delegate, Warren R. Austin, of a "deliberate and wilful misrepresentation of the facts" in the Korean case.

The Soviet foreign minister spoke during committee debate on an eight-member resolution for the unification and rehabilitation of Korea under United Nations supervision.

Vishinsky maintained the report of the present U.N. Korean commission showed illegal acts were carried out during the South Korean election of last May. He added that supporters of opposition parties were beaten up.

"Reign of Terror"

The election took place in an atmosphere of "unbridled terror" created by the police of South Korean President Syngman Rhee making free balloting impossible, Vishinsky declared.

Describing the South Korean government as "rotten," Vishinsky said the catastrophic financial situation in the country resulted from a boycott by the people aganst Rhee's policies.

"There was the so-called land reform in 1949," Vishinsky said. "It was not satisfactory."

Vishinsky declared a fascist state had been set up in South Korea. He accused American authorities of endeavoring "to bolster that fascist state."

Fifteen countries, including seven of the eight sponsors, have gone on record in the 60-country political committee as favoring a joint resolution to extend UN aid to all Korea. The roll is expected to mount swiftly, with a committee vote by mid-week.

Police Smash Red Attempt Start Riots

1,400 Ringleaders Put In Jail In West Germany

DUESSELDORF, Germany, Oct. 2—(AP)—German police today claimed a decisive victory over Communists who Sunday attempted to start a bloody wave of riots and demonstrations in West German cities.

Police jailed more than 1,400 Red ringleaders and broke up every attempt they made to start riots in a score of cities.

The day marked for bloodshed ended with nothing more serious than scattered fist fights and stone-throwing. About 30 police were hurt in the skirmishes.

Meanwhile, the people of Russian-encircled Berlin received assurance from President Truman of continued aid to keep the city free. The President's message was delivered Sunday by Paul G. Hoffman, retiring chief of the economic co-operation administration, in a speech at the opening of the German industrial fair in Berlin.

"Our aid will continue," Truman's message declared, "for we are confident of the eagerness of the German people and their republic to join the free of the world in defence of all that we cherish."

Promised Bloody Day

Red leaders had promised to make Sunday a bloody day of "national resistance" to the Western Allies and the West German government they sponsor.

The Communists had shipped in thousands of young fanatics, trained in trouble-making, from Soviet-occupied East Germany.

They tried to foment riots in the streets and squares of many cities from Hamburg to Munich. But they didn't get far against 100,000 well-organized German police.

Flying squads of armed police pounced on every small Red gathering so fast that agitators hadn't even time to distribute their leaflets of anti-Western propaganda.

About 900 would-be rioters were tossed into jail, joining 500 others who had been arrested Sunday as a precaution.

The biggest fight of the day took place in Hamburg, where 16 policemen were injured fighting 3,000 stone-throwing Communists.

The day's only successful sabotage action appeared to be a temporary cutting of the telephone line of the government-owned railway. It was severed near the capital city of Bonn. Saboteurs, believed to be Reds, escaped. The line was quickly restored.

Everyone Had Fun

MUNICH, Oct. 2 (Reuters) — Parents mislaid 149 children, 1,866 persons were injured and 17,000 beer jugs were stolen in Munich's biggest and gayest autumn festival which ended Sunday night. The organization committee for the traditional two-week "Oktoberfest" said today that 1,500 headache pills and 3,500 yards of first-aid dressing were issued to visitors during the last 15 "heavy nights."

New Trade Pact

BERLIN, Oct. 2—(Reuters)—Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, Sunday announced a new Anglo-German trade agreement which is expected almost to double trade between Britain and her colonies and West Germany. Goods exchanges are expected to reach about $500,000,000.

Forest Fires Blamed For Heavy Fog

TORONTO, Oct. 2 (CP)—Alberta forest fires remained the main cause of unusual weather in eastern Canada today.

Smoke from the series of blazes in the northern Alberta bush today mingled with the output of factories in southern Ontario and United States border cities to blanket southern Ontario and the United States Middle Atlantic area with a thick fog.

Weather officials explained that the fog resulted when warm, moist, tropical air came in contact with the smoke. As the air cooled off at night, smoke particles caught the condensing moisture.

Shortly before noon EDT the sun rolled the fog away in the Toronto area and forecasters said it would soon clear elsewhere.

Sixty traffic accidents, most of them minor, were blamed on the week-end fog in the Toronto district. The fog delayed ferry service between Toronto islands and the mainland for half an hour today and many office workers were late for work.

Bees Burned

Three million bees were burned at Oakville, 20 miles west of Toronto, when a truck loaded with bees and beeswax struck a light standard and burst into flames. Police said the driver was Milton Fretz of New Liskeard, Ont., who with a passenger, was shaken up.

The fog held up traffic in the Welland ship canal for five hours early today. Fog warning signals were sounded along the St. Clair River at Sarnia, where a thin haze reduced visibility to three miles. Dense fog on the lower Detroit River at dawn delayed shipping briefly.

Sault Ste. Marie had a light fog Sunday night but traffic continued to move normally through the big ship canals linking Lakes Superior and Huron. Light fog was no hindrance to shipping on the Cornwall Canal.

Two Children Drown In Hole At Airport

TRENTON, Oct. 2. (CP)—Two children were drowned Sunday night in a water-filled hole on a construction site at the RCAF station here.

The bodies of Kathleen Denny, 12, and her sister, Patricia, 5, were found by their father, Jack Denny, four hours after the children were reported missing. The hole, about eight feet deep, was dug as part of a runway-extension project.

The children had taken a third child for a walk. Construction workers found the third child in an unattended baby carriage and a search was started.

Reds Prepare To Make Last Stand

North Koreans Defy U.N. Ultimatum, Planes Active Again

TOKYO, Oct. 2—(AP)—South Korean troops drove nearly 30 miles inside Russian-sponsored North Korea today. They were almost half way to the line where North Korean were reported preparing to make a last-ditch stand at Wonson. Associated Press correspondent Hal Boyle reported from the front that the South Korean 3rd Division had driven close to Ansong, a coastal town 30 miles north of the parallel-38 border.

The entire South Korean 3rd Division and two regiments of the Republic's capital division were across the border, Boyle said. The 3rd was driving north along the coastal highway. The capital division was striking west from captured Yongyang, about seven miles north of the boarder.

An American officer with the South Koreans said Republican forces were smashing ahead against extremely light resistance.

The South Korean 3rd Division crossed the border Sunday on the east coast. The Capital Division marched over Monday in the same area.

Ignore Order

The Reds were ignoring Gen. MacArthur's weekend order that they give up now or be destroyed.

Top-ranking United Nations commanders would not say anything about what MacArthur's headquarters called a delicate campaign—the thrust into Red territory The crossing was reported only in field dispatches at the outset.

Red Korean prisoners said the northerners were preparing to make a stand around Wonsan, the heavily-bombed east coast port about 70 miles north of the border This is due east of the Red capital, Pyongyang, along a line cutting North Korea at its narrowest point.

Pyongyang remained silent both on the reported crossing and on MacArthur's surrender ultimatum

Policeman Killed Hold Two Boys

HILLSBORO, Ore., Oct. 2 — (AP)—A brief period of freedom for two 14-year-old reform school boys brought death to a state policeman Sunday.

The two tough-talking youths were captured after terrorizing a northwest Oregon area.

Oficer Dale Courtney, 27, a rookie in the state force, was felled by a shotgun blast Sunday in an abandoned farmhouse where the 14-year-olds were hiding.

Held in the slaying are Henry Thomas O'Day, Portland, and John Wilson, Newberg.

Londoners Have Trying Time

LONDON, Oct. 2—((Reuters)—Londoners today enhanced their reputation of being among the most patient people in the world.

About 2,000,000 awoke again to cold breakfasts because of a gas strike which has lasted for 17 days. Gas supply was so low that it took more than 45 minutes to boil water for tea and it was impossible to toast bread.

Those who turned on electric heaters found more frustration. There were power cuts all over Britain.

Smiling bravely, if a trifle wanly, Londoners set off to work and found transport chaos awaiting them.

A new scale of increased fares on trains, buses and the Subway system had come into effect and nobody was sure of anything any longer.

Result was long queues and millions late for work.

But London kept on smiling. At least it wasn't raining.

Millions Mishandled In School Repair Fund

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—(AP)—Mishandling of millions of dollars of school repair funds over a period of years was charged Sunday in reports by two New York city officials.

The reports, which may lead soon to criminal trials, accused the Board of Education's bureau of plant operation and maintenance of direct violation of regulations, favoring certain contractors, and other irregularities.

The charges were brought by James H. Sheils, city investigation commissioner, and Maximilian Moss, Board of Education president.

They were the outgrowth of a complaint made last October by James Marshall, a board member.

Snow In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Oct. 2—(CP)—More than 1½ inches of wet snow fell in southern Manitoba today—first general fall of the season.

Philadelphia Goes Crazy As Team Takes Pennant

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2 (AP)—The pent-up emotions of a baseball-mad city let loose like a mighty bombshell as Philadelphia Phillies returned home Sunday night with the National League championship—their first in 35 years.

Within a few minutes after the Phillies conquered Brooklyn Dodgers 4-1 Sunday, the third largest American city became a bedlam Old and young danced in the streets in hundreds of neighborhood celebrations.

Police estimated that upwards of 5,000 gathered at the Pennsylvania Railroad's North Philadelphia station merely to catch a glimpse of manager Eddie Sawyer's Whiz Kids as train made its regular stop.

But the celebration there was only minute to that which greeted Sawver, owner Bob Carpenter and the players at the 30th Street station. Trainmaster Charlie H. Sample estimated the jam-packed mob at 15,000.

Improvised bands went into action, automobile horns conked, whistles blew and everybody yelled as police made a valiant effort to clear the way through the station to waiting buses.

Dick Sisler, whose home run carried the Phils to their 10-inning victory, relief pitcher Jim Konstanty and third-baseman Willie Jones escaped by jumping off the train at North Philadelphia and disappearing almost before the crowd recognized them.

Carpenter and his wife led the procession, if it could be called that, through the almost-hysterical crowd. Then came Del Ennis, taking a beating as never before. He was followed by Sawyer and then Mrs. Robin Roberts, Andy Seminick and the remainder of the team.

"I never guessed it would be anything like this," gasped Del as he stumbled on the waiting bus.

Mayor Discovers Four Tires Slashed

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 2—Both city and provincial police are searching for the pranksters who sliced the tires on an automobile belonging to Mayor Jack Allin. The mayor found his car, which had been left in his driveway overnight, resting on four flat tires Sunday morning.

A second case of tire slashing was reported to police today when Ernie Gray found his car in a similar condition to that of the mayor.

Police have been unable to connect the two incidents.

100 Overcome By Gas At Show

DETROIT, Oct. 2. — (AP). — More than 100 persons were overcome by carbon monoxide gas that swept the Lasky Theatre Sunday night. No fatalities were reported.

Those stricken were rushed to hospitals.

Twelve were injured in a stampede that developed after the audience of more than 500 realized the presence of a deadly gas.

Fire department inhalator teams worked frantically in the theatre lobby.

Police said the gas escaped through a rusted muffler on a motor operating the theatre's air-conditioning unit.

Prank Convinces Bruges Bison Canada's Emblem

HALIFAX, Oct. 2—(CP)— A retiring General told today how a soldier's prank convinced the people of Bruges that the bison is the emblem of Canada.

Maj.-Gen. H. W. Foster, retiring as commanding officer of the army's eastern command, who told the yarn, was in command of the 4th Canadian Armored Division which liberated Bruges from the Germans in September, 1944.

"When I saw the Boche were clearing out," the General told a group in his home here, "I borrowed two regiments of infantry from the 2nd Canadian Division to sweep the city on foot. They actually did the liberating.

"However, one of my units, the 12th Manitoba Dragoons, wearing a cap badge with the bison on it, had other ideas. As soon as the sappers had completed the bridge, they moved into the city and ther R.S.M. did a fast public relations job on the burgomaster.

"He convinced him that the dragoons had liberiaed Bruges and that the Bison on their cap was the national emblem of Canada."

The happy Belgians said they would build a bridge across a wide canal and call it "Canada Bridge." At either end would be placed a life-size statue of the bison as a tribute to Canada and the 12tht Manitoba Dragoons.

"They did just that," said Gen Foster. "When I was sent over there on the anniversary of their liberation in 1948 to receive the freedom of the city of Bruges, I was asked to place a wreath on the bison monument, the national emblem of Canada. Later, they presented me with the miniature statue which I now give to the Nova Scotia archieves."

Honeymoon Couple Defy Phantom Threat

TAFT, La., Oct. 2.—(AP). — Herbert Belson and his comely bride begin a Florida honeymoon today after defying the reported threats of the Phantom Whistler of Paradis.

Belson, 26-year-old state trooper, and Jacqueline Cadow, 18, were married Sunday in this town 10 miles from Paradis, scene of the threats.

The church was crowded by the curious.

Mrs. Clifford Cadow, the girl's mother, treated lightly any mention of the Whistler. A few weeks ago she said someone was whistling funeral dirges around the Cadow home and telephoning threats that the wedding never would take place. Sheriff Leon Vial said his investigation disclosed no Whistler who was a menace to the Cadow family.

Believe 2,000 Murdered By Reds In Seoul

By O. H. P. King

SEOUL, Oct. 2 (AP)—Discovery of mass graves Sunday raised fears that the Communists may have murdered as many as 2,000 political prisoners in a single district of Seoul just before they retreated.

I saw the bodies of 27 men and women, each with bound hands, in trenches which the South Korean Army had dug in the first days of the war but which they had never used.

More than 100 other bodies were reported found in the immediate area.

"People here say 2,000 residents of this district alone were taken to Red police headquarters," said Mayor Lee Ki poong. "When the fall of Seoul became apparent, these people were removed from jails and none has since been seen alive. They have been either killed or taken north."

Evaded Conscription

The mayor said the victims were relatives of persons sought by the Reds and youths who had tried to evade Red military conscription.

Similar atrocities are being reported from other sections of Seoul, the mayor said, but he has not yet had an opportunity to investigate them personally.

Mourning relatives swarmed to the mass graves, seeking to identify husbands, wives or sons.

One man said he had found the body of his pregnant wife with one breast and one ear hacked off.

This man, a cannery worker, said he had gone into hiding to escape Red conscription and the Communists had arrested his wife, apparently for that reason.

Two soft maple trees harbored four of them and they were discovered by daughter Karen, 5, when she went to investigate the hounds' persistent yelping. They had slim footing on the topmost branches of the young trees, like the one shown Above. Mr. Blewett may send them to the Filtration Park Zoo.

Hull Gives Warning Against Communists

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—(AP)—Cordell Hull, former United States Secretary of State, today advised the non-Communist world to "get on fire with the spirit of Liberty" in a "double alert" against the dangers of Russian aggression.

In a birthday statement, the white-haired former cabinet officer praised the effectiveness of the United Nations in dealing with Communist aggression in Korea, but he warned that "grave difficulties and dangers still confront us on all sides."

Hull is 79 today. It is exactly six years since he wound up his work in the state department, beset by a long illness which forced his retirement. He formally resigned as secretary in November, 1944, and was hailed by the late President Roosevelt as the "Father of the United Nations".

Since then he has recovered his health, and for many months has been able to receive friends regularly.

Labor Party Starts Drive

MARGATE, England, Oct. 2 —(AP)— The ruling Labor party embarked today on a campaign to convince its many pacifist members that re-armament against Russia now is vitally necessary to prevent war.

Party chairman Sam Watson, an officer in the National Union of Mineworkers, called for support of re-armament and conscription. Both now are being carried out by the Labor government, although they were for many years opposed by the Socialists.

The party's pacifist wing in parliament has threatened to rebel over these policies.

"The history of the world is not a history of attack of the strong on the strong, but of the strong on the weak," Watson said in an address to the more than 1,500 delegates at the first session of the party's annual conference here.

UN Assembly Decisions Be Far-Reaching—Pearson

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—(CP)—L. B. Pearson said Sunday night that decision may have to be taken at the present United Nations General Assembly which "may have far-reaching importance for peace and security in the whole world."

Canada's External Affairs Minister said the days ahead in the Assembly meeting will be very important. He spoke in an address prepared for delivery over the CBC's Trans-Canada network.

Pearson noted that Canada abstained on the vote in the Assembly last week on a resolution seeking to oust Nationalist China from the U.N.

"We thought that this whole question of Chinese representation was so important that it should be given further examination and not decided in the first hours of the Assembly," he said.

Turning to the problem of Korea, Pearson said military events there have outrun political planning and "it is a matter of first urgency to work out some political arrangement now that the fighting is nearly over."

Pearson added:

"We feel that the North Koreans should repudiate the Communist aggressor at once and end the fighting . . . if, however, that doesn't happen and the fighting continues in North Korea, then it seems to us that military action may have to be continued in that part of Korea under the auspices of the United Nations, but solely to ensure that the north will not become again a base for Communist aggression."

A government should be chosen to represent all Korea, Pearson said and elections to that end should be held as soon as peace and stability is restored under United Nations auspices."

Korean 3rd Division had smashed across the 38 border on the east coast 15 minutes before that.

Boyle said order to cross was given by Lt -Gen. Walton H. Walker, US Eight Army commander, and was dropped to the South Koreans from a plane

AP Correspondent Leif Erickson said the South Koreans Monday captured Yangyang, seven miles north of the border.

A. U.S. Eighth Army staff officer said the South Korean capital division was marching across the border on a road leading to Third Division positions.

Speeding Ahead

Despite the silence of top officers, there was no doubt that South Korean units were thrusting well into Red Korea.

Field reports placed them 11 miles north of the border. They were seen in North Korean territory by correspondents who crossed the border in planes. American officers attached to South Korean forces, and South Korean officers reported slow but steady progress against light resistance.

And air force spokesman in Tokyo said a new bomb line for B-29s had been established north of the border. It was being pushed northward every six hours to keep pace with advancing friendly ground troops.

MacArthur and his top field commanders still remained silent on the first thrust into Red territory. A spokesman for the U.N. commander said it was a delicate subject, both militarily and politically, and could not be discussed loosely.

Announcement Soon

An official announcement was expected soon, however, on this campaign which may turn out to be a final cautious testing of Communist determination — including that of the Chinese Reds —to fight to the end.

South Korean and U.S. officers with the South Korean forces said 3rd Division elements Monday afternoon were four miles north of Yangyang, moving along the east coast highway against light resistance.

Allied warships prowled off shore, ready to support the South Koreans with mobile artillery. They had not been called into action at mid-afternoon.

Slow Mop-Up

The slow mop-up campaign continued in South Korea. There battle lines had changed little in the last 24 hours. Allied troops fought to wipe out enemy pockets.

MacArthur reported the Allies captured 6,765 Red Koreans—a new 24-hour high—and inflicted 1,154 casualties on hold-out forces.

American marines north of Seoul pushed ahead 10 miles Monday and held positions as much as 18 miles north of the capital. Early Monday reports said they had not yet reached Uijongbu, a main Red Korean training centre on the road leading from Seol to the border, 30 miles north of Seoul.

MacArthur's spokesman said the marines were driving ahead slowly, taking time to wipe out all known enemy pockets. Heavy mine fields along the road also slowed progress.

Free Dollar

Canadian dollar would settle following the Dominion Government's weekend action setting the Canadian dollar free.

US experts expressed belief prices of Canadian goods in the US would remain in general just about where they have been in US money. One possible exception, they believe, may be a rise in price of newsprint.

Take More Money

Some London experts hazard the same guess of parity within a day or two, but say that the dollar may shoot higher than the US dollar later in the week. That kind of thinking reflects tremendous confidence in Canada's economy.

The government's decision to set the dollar free was announced by Finance Minister Abbott Saturday night. At the same time he also disclosed:

1. Canadians soon will be able to take out of the country any "reasonable" amount of United States tourist dollar beyond the current limit of $150 a person yearly.

2. Emergency exchange-conservation restrictions on imports of United States consumer goods will be removed Jan. 2, 1951.

3. Possible removal of similar restrictions on US capital goods. This removal to be considered by Trade Minister Howe.

4. Removal of the $3.50 cut to marginal gold miners made a year ago to offset the 9.1-per-cent devaluation of the Canadian dollar.

5. Control will be maintained on the flow of capital in and out of the country.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, hailed the Government decision as a move "in the right direction."

"It has been our contention," he said in a statement, "that no human being is able to fix an arbitrary value on our exchange dollar by some kind of financial black magic It is hoped that we now will soon have a free exchange dollar and that other nations will follow the same course."

While the Government will have its eye peeled on what the world does with its unshackled dollar, it also will keep a sharp eye on a huge recent influx of speculative capital—termed "hot money" by the experts— that was the main cause for the Government move to be taken

But in effect, the value of the Canadian dollar in the exchange markets of the world will rest with the factors which prevail in any other saleable commodity—supply and demand came open. As the truck rebounded back in a westerly direction he was dragged bleeding over the highway, his feet tangled in the wreckage.

Dr. Robert Young gave Donnelly a brief examination and directed him to be taken to hospital in the waiting ambulance.

Poor Visibility

Several post-accident spectators remarked that visibility at that crossing is poor and there is no wigwag to warn approaching motor traffic.

The truck was badly damaged and will probably have to be written off as a wreck. But the train did not escape altogether either. Although it was able to reverse back to the CNR depot the blow-off valve was broken and a heavy blast of steam was issuing from it, gradually reducing the boiler pressure.

Another engine would be required to take the passengers on their journey, a CNR official said.

Trainman Harry Elstone and Conductor J. F. Banter, both of Toronto, and Engineer E. Rainbow of Lindsay refused to make any comment. However they claimed that Dorris was unable to produce a driver's license.

Police Constables Vic McConnell and Don Jones investigated.

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS

Customs excise receipts at the Peterborough office for September showed an increase of almost $74,000 over the same month in 1949. Receipts for last month were $380,078.31, compared to $306,974.02 for September, 1949.

3 Gears Break Miss Canada Fails At Record

PICTON, Oct. 2—(CP)— Miss Canada IV's high jinks have proved too much for Harold Wilson.

The hard-luck guy of speedboat racing has finally called it quits. The 38-year-old native of Ingersoll, gave up the ghost Saturday night after his $100,000 craft balked his final bid for a world record.

The 33-foot boat was taken from the water when three gears in her specially-designed gearbox broke up. Wilson looked at her and said: "We're licked."

Asked if he were determined to retire now, he said: "Very definitely—for all time."

Carries Jinx

Miss Canada IV has been a hex to her owners since she was launched in June, 1949. At that time, she was probably the most ballyhooed boat in the world. Wilson was looking to her to capture the world's speedboat record as a climax to his 16 years in the game.

What finally killed all hopes last weekend was a special gearbox, made in Ingersoll.

Three of the gears were a total loss; the oil in the box was a mass of chips. Wilson said one of the gears could have been replaced, but the loss of three together finished the boat's chances.

The boat hit a reported 155 miles an hour Saturday morning for the benefit of almost the entire population of Picton. But when the chips were down she couldn't make it.

It is believed that E. A. Wilson will hire another driver if Harold sticks to his decision.

Court Awards $4,100 In Man's Death

COBOURG, Oct. 2.—(ENS).—Judgment for $4,100 was awarded Mrs. J. L. Cryderman of Bowmanville in a $50,000 damage action brought by her against Ernest West of Orono in Supreme Court here last week. The action was the result of an accident which took place near Bowmanville last year in which her husband was killed.

After the impact with West's car, Mr. Cryderman, who was riding a bicycle, was run over by the second defendant, John W. Gillespie of E. Hartford, Connecticut.

The action against Gillespie was dismissed with costs against the plaintiff. Mrs. Cryderman's judgment was with costs against West.

The jury awarded general damages of $10,000, but found Cryderman 60 per cent. negligent in that he had failed to signal a left turn. West was found 40 per cent. negligent, and on the basis of this apportionment, Mrs. Cryderman was awarded $4,100.

A $1,500 damage action brought by Daniel McVicker of Deseronto against Roy Ament of Haldimand Township, outcome of a motor accident, was laid over to another court.

Youths Face Robbery Charges

COBOURG, Oct. 2 (ENS) — Judgment was reserved by Magistrate R. B. Baxter after last week's hearings of the charges of robbery with violence against Ronald Elliott, 17, and Roland Sandford, 21, of Belleville, and Garth Badgely, 22, of Cannifton.

The boys were charged with robbing Nicholas Sispatol of Seymour township of $108 on August 3.

According to the statements to the police alleged to be made by Elliott and Badgely and the testimony of Sispatol and Sanford in court, the four had been on a party in which a considerable amount of beer and liquor had been drunk.

Elliott, in his statement to the police, said that he was in the car with Sandford, Badgely and Sispatol. Sandford got in an argument with Sispatol who was drunk. He saw Sandford hit him several times while the car was stopped near Hoarde's Station. Sispatol fell down and Sanford went through his pockets and took his money, gviing $30 to Elliott, he said.

Badgely said he met Sandford on August in Belleville and they went to Sispatol's house where they had two bottles of liquor and three cases of beer. They drove to Campbellford and near Hoarde's Station the car broke down. Sandford and Sispatol got in an argument and Sandford knocked him down and took his money. Badgely said he received $20 of the money but gave it to Sispatol.

Sandford testified that he had been drinking and had hit Sispatol twice during the argument after the car broke down. He said that during the course of the drunken argument, Sispatol produced his wallet and he grabbed it and passed the contents around.

While the judges were preparing the results, Margaret Mackay and Lena-Marie Lowery gave a display of tap dancing.

The south group of the Woman's Association, which is lead by Mrs. Laurence Winslow, realised more than $100.

FOR BETTER TRADE — A three-man grain commission left Montreal last week on board the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France en route to the United Kingdom and Western Europe. The three men will call on the grain trade, millers and government authorities with a view of facilitating trade in Canadian grain in that area. The men are (left to right) R. W. Milner, commissioner of the board of Grain Commissioners for Canada; J. B. Lawrie, executive assistant to the Canadian Wheat Board, and Dr. C. F. Wilson, director of the wheat and grain division of the department of trade and commerce.

9,686 Films Shown In Area During Year, Film Bd. Says

A total of 9,686 films were shown to audiences numbering 773,114 persons by films councils in the Federation of Eastern Ontario during the past year according to the report; "Advance on the Eastern Front," given by Ronald Ward, National Film Board representative, at the annual meeting and fall conference Saturday.

This report revealed a gain of 12½ per cent in attendance and a gain of 32 per cent in the number of films shown over last year.

"The peak month was March," stated Mr. Ward. "In this month there were 1,286 films shown to 10,385 persons."

"This advance of the film councils in this district has also been registered in an increase in the purchase of films and equipment," reported Mr. Ward. Seventy-nine films were purchased by film councils during the year at a cost of $2,405.17. Last year, 66 films were purchased at a cost of 01,629.34. The total cost for equipment this year was $3,968.57 as compared with $2,-638.57 last year.

$25,666 Spent

Since the inauguration four years ago, the film coucnils of Eastern Ontario have spent approximately $25,666.66 for films and equipment, according to Mr. Ward. The film councils now own 237 films.

During the Saturday session of the conference, correspondence was read from the Minister of National Revenue stating that educational films from other countries would be admitted to Canada duty free.

During the discussion, "What's Your Beef?" it was decinded that film coun cilsshould try to build up their own religious films libraries to offset the high rental rates now charged by commercial groups.

Included among the achievments and projects of the federation reported at the conference were four workshops or training conferences and one film festival held in the past year.

Various Speakers

Speakers at the conference were: Kenneth Young, assistant director of community programs, Department of Education; S. E. McDowell, president; Ronald Ward, National Film Board; William Mennie, National Film Board.

Eight new films were shown at the conference. It was the first public showing for four of these films. Another feature of the conference was a display of all the latest equipment.

The conference was brought to a close by a tea served by the Peterborough Film Council, Saturday afternoon.

Traveller's Flat-Foot Guide To The Kawarthas

Peterborough is reached by way of Lindsay and Omemee, (pop. 611, alt. 832. A village on the Pigeon R . . ., 3 cabins, outdoor toilets). It has a pop. of 34,948, alt. 645. It is named after Peter Robinson who founded the settlement in 1925. The city is served by a good network of road and rail lines and also by the Trent Canal. The countryside is rolling and picturesque and may be observed from the Observation Hill on Hunter St. There are several parks, a Roman Catholic Cathedral, a conservatory of music, 17 churches, 11 schools, a normal school, a collegiate institute and a business college.

* * *

As a side trip in may pass through Peterborough going from Port Hope to Bancroft. Some fine farmsteads may be observed in North Monaghan township in the vicinity of the city of Peterborough. The route along the west side of Otonabee R. north of the city is a pleasant drive. It leaves the river about 4 M. out and proceeds through rather scrubby country to Lakefield. There is a striking contrast in land use as one proceeds north along this Rte. 28 from excellent farmsteads and combines near Peterborough to log homes and goat-rearing in northern Smith township.

* * *

Do not take our word for these remarkable facts. In fact, they are not our words. They are gleanings from a dollar pocket-book just published by a Toronto firm (from whom we would expect better) and put together under the general editorship of Dr. Pierre Dagenais of the department of geography of the University of Montreal. This remarkable book, a tourist guide to Ontario, is the second in a series called Traveller's Guides for Canada. Volume One deals with Quebec. We have not examined Vol. 1. Vol. 2 is a deterrent from delving further into the series.

* * *

We have taken a look at what Vol. 2 says about other Ontario cities and districts than Peterborough, and it seems to be no more accurate or adequately interpretative than it is about Peterborough, which is not ordinarily reached by Torontonians by way of Lindsay, which has not had a conservatory of music since Rupert Gliddon died; which has more than one business college, more than 11 schools. We have yet to enjoy (as a tourist in our own district) the goat-rearing in northern Smith township.

* * *

As far as we can judge, this Guide is inaccurate and poorly balanced. Lindsay is undoubtedly important in the scheme of things but there seems to be a lack of proportion in giving Lindsay the same space as Peterborough, and calling attention to its shops, its two papers, its tourist information service, its 9-hole golf course, and to say nothing of such things in Peterborough.

* * *

There is some excuse for the errors of omission and commission in this Ontario guide. (One of them is not that it is under the editorial guidance of geographers chiefly resident in Montreal.) This guide is a pioneer, as a series. There is a Baedeker of Canada, an old skimpy thing. There are regional and gappy guides, in books and in government pamphlets. But there has been no one series covering the whole of Canada in the detail of a Baedeker covering Italy. The job needs to be done and by Canadians. It is unfortunate that this series, as judged by the Ontario book, is so flat, unbalanced and misinformative.

President Truman And St. Lawrence Power

President Truman has been accused by Governor Thomas E. Dewey, of the State of New York, of "inexcusable sabotage against the national safety" by blocking New York State's plan to develop St. Lawrence power. Mr. Truman has withheld approval of this plan on the ground that the power project and the seaway project should be carried out together. Since Congress continues to show either apathy or aversion toward the joint project, Mr. Truman's attitude is clearly the immediate obstacle in the way of power development on the St. Lawrence. There is, however, some justification for Mr. Truman's stand, and he contends he is helpless because of the inaction or opposition of Congress.

The Brockville Recorder and Times feels that if Mr. Truman was genuinely in favour of the combined project, he would be able to ram it through Congress. It points to bi-partisan foreign policy, national defence, government controls and priorities, and new taxation as matters in which Mr. Truman has not allowed Congress to block his administration. And our contemporary intimates clearly that Mr. Truman is using Congress to cloak his own lukewarm attitude toward the entire St. Lawrence project.

It would not be surprising if the Recorder and Times were correct in its conclusion that Mr. Truman is not overly interested in pushing for a beginning of the joint project. Certainly he has shown less persistence in seeking the approval of Congress for it than has been the case in other projects. We think our contemporary has overlooked the general Congressional record, however, when it says that Mr. Truman can ram measures through Congress when determined to do so.

The Eighty-First Congress has had a very successful record in thwarting the President. He was determined to revise the Taft-Hartley Act, to have his civil rights program inaugurated, and to establish housing control measures. Congress said "no" to the first two, gave far less than asked on the third. Congress pared every appropriation asked by the President for defence, for the Marshall Plan, for European rearmament, for democratic propaganda agencies such as the Voice of America, and for the Point Four Plan —until war broke out in Korea. Then Congress backtracked on some points, gave more than was asked on others, granted increases and control powers. But even then, Congress defied a Presidential appeal, argument and veto by passing the anti-Communist bill. All of which, we feel, indicates that Mr. Truman's warmest advocacy is only a minor factor in the success of any legislation passed by the U.S. Congress; certainly he lacks the control over that body so skilfully wielded by the late Mr. Roosevelt.

Who Would Be A Father?

The New York State Department of Mental Hygiene is distributing comic books which contain what are referred to as "practical hints on how to keep one's mental health". The characters in these strips are our old friends of the Bumstead family—Dagwood, Blondie, Alvin, Cookie and the dogs. In the strip which is reproduced in this week's Newsweek we see that Dagwood has arranged a family picnic; but Alvin decides to go to the circus, and Blondie goes to the flower show. The dogs point the moral, saying: "Families are very important but everybody has his own life to live; every boy and girl has to grow up as a person."

Dagwood is represented as saying: "Everybody walked out on me; oh well, they have a right to find their own fun".

Everybody, it appears, has a right to be considered except father.

In the current issue of Maclean's magazine is an article called "Who Should Handle The Family Money?"; the answer appears to be that mother should handle it. The suggestion is also made that "all the family, as equals, should talk over spending and saving".

In our opinion all this is pernicious, weak-kneed, drivelling balderdash, devised by fatheads for the consumption of fatheads. In the average family the father is still the breadwinner, and as such he should dispose of the family money, unless he is obviously incapable. Most husbands put a great deal of their earnings into their wives' hands for spending, because maintaining the house, and feeding and clothing herself and the children is the wife's job. But when it is a question of deciding matters of spending and saving, why should the children have a voice? They are dependents, they have no knowledge of the ins and outs of the matter, and it is not good for them to stick their noses into their parents' affairs. Let them be grateful that they have a father to provide for them, without presuming to teach him his business.

As for the mental health comic strip, it appears that the mental health and personal freedom of everybody has been provided for except that of the father of the family. He is left in the lurch, without the family picnic which was, apparently, what he wanted. His mental health, it seems, is not a matter of great concern.

There is a noticeable tendency nowadays to flatter and cajole women and children into thinking that a father and breadwinner is a useful domestic animal, rather like a cow. He can carry the chief load of the family, but his voice is no more important than that of the baby in the family counsels.

If the advantages of fatherhood exist no more, men will soon shed its many duties. Then Mother and children can set up their little Soviet and run it as they please, with whatever money they can scrape together.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

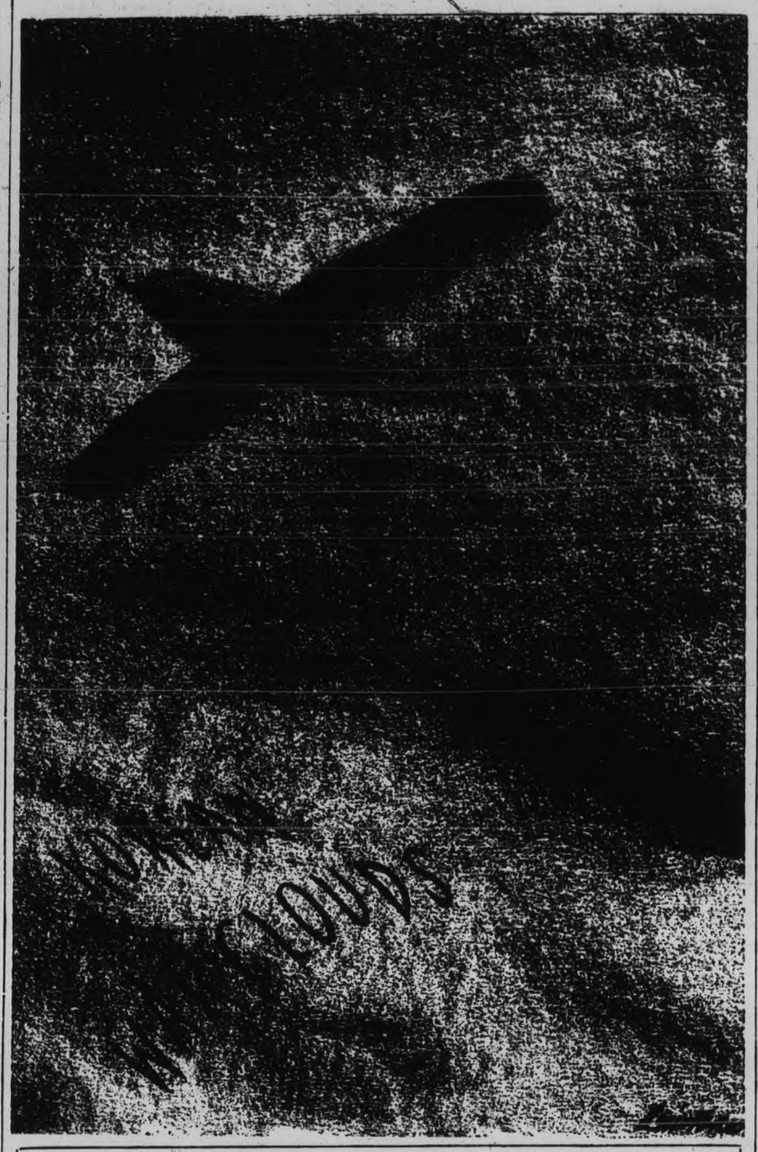
IT is strange to note the insignificant role of music in English literature from the mid-seventeenth century down to a few years ago. It is not only that many writers were quite ignorant of the art, but that they in many cases expressed contempt of it, as though it were unworthy of serious attention. Swift wrote in terms of scathing irony of the Handel-Piccini controversy, and Boswell's Life of Johnson contains only a few passing references to music. We are told, in Boswell's Journal of the tour that he made to the Hebrides with Johnson that "he knew a drum from a trumpet, and a bagpipe from a guitar, which was about the extent of his knowledge of musick." It is a paradox that Johnson, who preened himself on his wide range of knowledge, should almost glory in his musical illiteracy. He even stated dogmatically "It was a method of employing the mind, without labour of thinking at all, and with some applause from a man's self." Anyone who has been through the grist mill of serious musical study, and has known some of the anguish of a scrupulous artistic conscience can tell that the great Doctor was talking nonsense about things beyond his ken.

❖ ❖ ❖

THINGS were not much better in the nineteenth century. Music was still considered as a subject beneath the dignity of a gentleman—and literature in those days was written mainly by gentlemen for gentlemen. And when the ladies entered the literary arena they were scarcely any better. In a book by the fashionable novelist Ouida, the hero threw a violin on the floor so violently that all the keys fell out! It was the same lady, incidentally, who wrote of a boat race that "all the crew rowed fast, but none so fast as stroke!" The romantic movement created an interest in Scottish and Irish ballads, and Thomas Moore, the poet, was also a musician and produced an opera with music by himself and C. E. Horn. He wrote the music as well as the words of "The Last Rose of Summer". But this lay on the periphery of the main centre of literary preoccupation. One of the few exceptions to the general apathy of writers towards music in this period was Robert Browning, who wrote with knowledge and perception.

❖ ❖ ❖

HOW different things were in Elizabethan times, when music was an indispensible part of education. An unmusical man was considered to be unfit for society. Shakespeare is crammed full of allusions to music, and Milton, the puritan, sings the praises of the sister art as loud as any. Musicians, too, showed fine literary discernment both in their choice of words and in their treatment of the vexed question of accentuation. The puritans have come in for some nasty criticism on their attitude towards music, much of it undeserved. It is true that a good deal of priceless Church music was lost or destroyed during the Commonwealth, just as many fine churches were wantonly defaced: but it is not true that the puritans were insensitive to beauty, so long as it did not smack of "idolatry". Nevertheless it was about this time that occurred the great divorce of that "Blest pair of Sirens", Voice and Verse. The present period seems to be one of reconciliation, accompanied by a good deal of bickering.



❖ ❖ ❖

SOME months ago I hazarded the opinion that Ontario was singularly devoid of folksongs. While this is probably true it is also rather misleading, and I apologize for having made such a statement. I had inadvertently left out the "old-time fiddlers" who are such a feature at fairs and celebrations as well as at square-dancing. There is no singing in connection with their playing, but if there is anything "racy of the soil" it is the jigs and reels that these fiddlers play. The real "old-time fiddler" learns all his tunes by ear, and often cannot read a note of music. This is as it should be. There is something indefinable, like the delicate bouquet of a fine wine, which perishes when transferred to paper. I am afraid that "educated musicians" are usually the last people to appreciate this subtle aroma. They have learned a lot of text-book information and have decided opinions on what is correct and incorrect. Unfortunately for them, these old tunes, many of which are probably hundreds of years old, do not fit into the neat little pigeon-holes of the academic musician. Many of the melodies sound "wrong" to the pedant's ear because they are neither major nor minor, but modal (if you don't know what this means you can look it up in any good musical text-book or encyclopedia). These "wrong" notes often lend a wild or plaintive character to a melody. I think I am correct in saying that the local style of fiddling was brought over from Ireland by the first settlers; at any rate it is the Irish style that predominates in this district. Doubtless the droning effects in some of the tunes are reminiscent of the bagpipes, which were generally used in Ireland before they were almost completely superseded by the fiddle. Some of the titles of the dance tunes are most picturesque, and remind one of the quaint titles that the Elizabethans used for their pieces for the virginals. It is a good thing to know that the old traditional airs are still being kept alive and brought to the people, even in these days of mass-produced entertainment. It is refreshing to hear the haunting foot-stirring strains of the fiddler after the sickly self-pity of the jazz-peddler.

❖ ❖ ❖

I SLIPPED up badly the other day in blaming CBL for the poor quality of reception. The fault lay with my own set; apparently there was a worn-out tube which needed replacement. I am happy to say that all is well now, and last Wednesday I listened with great enjoyment to Martinu's new one-act opera, "Comedy on the Bridge". There are not many successful one-act operas — the two most famous being "Cav. and Pag." (Cavalliera Rusticana and I Pagliacci). One of the difficulties is to marry two short operas together on the same programme. I venture to predict that Martinu's opera should gain widespread popularity. It is well-written, and the plot is amusing and succinct. The only thing that it lacks is lyrical expression; but there is plenty of humour both in the dialogue and in the music itself. The week before I listened (under difficulties of reception) to three new Canadian works. The first, by Andy Twa, entitled "Prairies," was rather scrappy; I'm afraid it was enough to put me of life in the prairies! Then followed an unpretentious but charming little Rondo by a French Canadian, and finally a suite "North Country" by Harry Somers, which suffered to a somewhat less degree from the same defects as the Twa work. Why cannot Canadian artists (both painters and musicians) give Nature a rest and study the comedy of human life, the tragedy of the human heart, the poetry of the human form? It is in this way that art in this country will grow up and shed its priggishness.

Letters To The Editor

COMMENT ON TAXI BYLAW

Sir: Sept. 29th we received a notice by mail, concerning new taxi bylaw which was passed by Police Commission. This bylaw went into effect Oct. 1st. No one was notified previously or was the bylaw published in the Examiner. (This gave us two days notice.)

First of all taxi cars must be insured for rates quoted not less than $250 per car. By making compulsory insurance, a taxi owner automatically loses licence if insurance is cancelled. Secondly—all drivers must have their pictures taken, and also finger-printed at their own expense. Each cab must be available with driver 24 hours a day. Each taxi owner must have a garage to accommodate all cabs. (Why a garage, if each cab is to be available 24 hours a day with driver?)

If a driver is hired, or dismissed, the owner must notify Police Commission by mail within two days.

This is just a few of the hundred items mentioned in the new bylaws which never was published or made known to owners until Sept. 29th.

In order to run our business we would need nine drivers and three dispatchers, because the labour law says, we must not work men over eight hours per day. In our case two of us have put all our gratuities into this business, which amounted to five years service overseas.

If this bylaw is enforced as the commission insists, here is our operating costs per day:

Twelve men	$72.00
Insurance	3.00
Rent	1.50
Depreciation (on 3 cars)	3.00
This totals	$79.50

In order to take this amount in, it will cost $15.00 for gas and oil. This does not include lights, telephone and maintenance on cars.

If the Police Commission would show us how we could operate this business under these conditions, then we would appreciate your time to run it.

Representatives of the taxi owners were at a Police Commission meeting when this bylaw was proposed but not passed. Mayor Swanston said: If we didn't like it, let us get out of the business as no one asked us into it. (Poor encouragement for business.)

WHY DOES COUNCIL IGNORE PLANNING COMMITTEE?

Sir: May one ask why the City Council has committees? Is it to keep a number of citizens occupied without pay and then make them look like a group of incompetent morons in the eyes of the rest of the city?

Twice during the past few months the Planning Committee has considered very carefully the question of the erection of a service station at the southeast corner of Lansdowne and Sherbourne Streets. They have twice recommended that permission for this building be refused and apparently are still very much opposed to it.

It appears that the city council is bending over backwards to please someone in this case. When this matter first came before the Planning Committee a petition from a few citizens vitally concerned was presented, with a number of valid reasons why this service station should not be erected. At that time permission was refused.

I did not see the petition which was then circulated by Conger Lehigh, but I understand from those who did see it that it was not a petition for a service station, but rather a statement that they had no objection to this service station, which was circulated near and far and signed by over forty people. Taking into consideration the number of home-owners who stuck with the original petition, it stands to common sense there are not another forty residents who could be affected or give a continental what happens on a particular corner.

This second so-called "petition" was presented to the council through a lawyer—a luxury the average home-owner does not indulge in unless he has to, and should not have to in order to get fair play.

The Planning Committee then heard Mr. Carley and the residents of the locality concerned and did very carefully consider both sides of the question and made the following recommendation to the Council:

"That as requested by the City Council, having reconsidered the application of Conger Lenigh Coal Company for permission to establish a Sunoco Service Station at the southeast corner of Lansdowne and Sherbourne Streets, and reviewing in particular the petitions received both against and in favour of the application, and having carefully considered the matter, particularly in an effort to establish what is best in the interest of the residents in the particular area, this Board recommends that the application be not granted."

Even after this the City Council did not see fit to listen to its own Planning Committee but rather was advised by Mr. Carley that "we should not be bound too closely by a plan."

Why was Dr. Faludi paid a high price for our town plan? The Council could have saved our money by hiring Mr. Carley in the first place. The amount we paid for this plan would be well spent if the plan were utilized; Peterborough is a monument to bad planning; but we had hoped for something better in the future, and we could have something better if our Planning Committee could operate. As it is, the cost of the Faludi plan chokes the average taxpayer.

Let other districts be warned by what has happened here. There has been an insidious infiltration of businesses in this district that we have tolerated. Some, of course, have been here for years and we have built our homes with this knowledge. Lately businesses have sprung up in buildings that have been intended for other purposes and we possibly felt that there was little we could do about it once permission had been granted.

Mr. Sills has stated that no one raised any objection to the application of the Borden Company to build. The report of this application may have been in the newspaper, but until this summer it was news to most of the residents in the district. In any case it may serve to screen the junk-yard maintained at the Bray Chick Hatchery.

Examiner report states that the general attitude of the Planning Committee was that there are enough gasoline stations in the city. How right! Every one is a traffic hazard to cars and pedestrians, in the day-time when they are operating and at night when some motorists use the corners for a short-cut to avoid stop streets.

Under similar conditions at Water and Parkhill Road the City Council did the right thing. The home-owners in the South End had been sure of the same consideration but apparently in Peterborough it matters who you are and where you live.

Yours truly,
A CITIZEN CONCERNED.

PUTS CASE FOR RAILWAYS

Sir: I was much interested in your recent editorial on railway services which I saw reprinted in another paper.

As you say, many railway stations are out of date. Diesel engines are not being substituted for coal-burning locomotives as fast as many of us would like. Local train services on branch lines are not particularly good. Motor transport is convenient.

Now, there is another angle to all this. While railway wages have risen, they have probably, as yet, not risen very much more than other wages, although a little recently. Railway freight rates, on the other hand, have now risen about 45% compared with pre-war rates. Motor transport not only uses the highways between cities without paying anything like its share of the maintenance of these highways, but also uses city streets with no charge at all, in competition with railways which have to provide very costly terminal arrangements and industrial sidings.

Everyone wants to see railway services improved. What about giving the railways a fair deal, by permitting reasonable increases in railway freight rates, and by campaigning to see that motor transport pays its fair share of both interurban highways and city streets?

I do not think there would be the least doubt that, if these difficulties were corrected, the railways would go rapidly ahead trying to improve their services.

At present, railway revenues are such that the Government railway loses money all the time, while the private railway is only just beginning to show some net earnings from its railway services.

I know that you want to give a perfectly fair picture. Surely these facts should be included in it. Yours,

J. O. WYSE
5245 Cote St.-Luc Road, Montreal, P.Q.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Now therefore hearken, O Israel, unto the statutes and unto the judgements, which I teach you, for to do them, that ye may live, and go in and possess the land which the Lord God of your fathers giveth you. . . . For what nation is there so great, who hath God so nigh unto them, as the Lord our God is in all things that we call upon him for? . . . . Know therefore this day, and consider it in thine heart, that the Lord he is God in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath: there is none else. (Deut. 4: 1, 7, 39.)

❖ ❖ ❖

Behold, God is mighty, and despiseth not any: he is mighty in strength and wisdom . . . Who hath enjoined him his way? or who can say, Thou hast wrought iniquity? (Job 36: 5, 23.)

❖ ❖ ❖

The Lord executeth righteousness and judgement for all that are oppressed. . . . He hath not dealt with us after our sins; nor rewarded us according to our iniquities. . . . As far as the east is from the west, so far hath he removed our transgressions from us. (Ps. 103: 6, 10, 12.)

❖ ❖ ❖

Art thou not from everlasting, O Lord my God, mine Holy One? . . . .

Thou are of purer eyes than to behold evil, and canst not look on iniquity. (Hab. 1: 12, 13.)

Unconsidered Trifles

The old lady had lost her purse and she rushed into the New York stationhouse and tearfully told her story. The desk sergeant was very kind and calmed her fears as best he could. Laying his hand on her arm, he said:

"We'll leave no stone unturned to find your purse, madam."

Leaving the building she noticed a group of city workers busy tearing up the street for drainage repair, and she remarked to herself,

"Well, they don't lose much time. I'll say that for them."

Scene—A motto factory. An employee has just asked the boss for a raise, saying—"You know the adage, 'The wheel that does the squeaking gets the grease.'"

"Really?" replied the boss. "Well, there's another one that says—'The steam that blows the whistle doesn't turn the wheel.'"

"Yes," rejoined the employee. "But remember this—'The hen that does the cackling lays the egg.'"

"That'll be enough of that!" snapped the boss. "You can't tell by the auto's horn how much gas it has in the tank."

J. Tully Tops 19 Breeders At Keene Holstein Show

Nineteen Peterborough breeders brought out 122 Holstein cattle at the county Black and White Day at Keene Saturday. It was a splendid cattle show all by itself, well managed, with ample accommodation, and a numerous ringside of spectators in the Otonabee Memorial Arena. Most of the purebreds were from that township.

Directors of the Holstein Breeders' Association had decided to cut adrift from Lakefield Fair this year, and experiment with an independent show of their own. A grand autumn day of sun and haze supported their enterprise. In quality and number of entries and also in the interest manifested by breeders it was one of the most successful of the long series of country Black and White Days.

Three or four other breeders had considered getting some of their Holsteins ready for competition. If they had registered, too, the total would have doubled the number of showing breeders at Fair occasions in the last ten years.

Some of the individual results deserve feature mention, but from outside the ring it appeared that the response of the Holstein men to this year's B. & W. Day, their resources of quality stock, and the smart way in which they carried on the show were all highly commendible.

Swept Female Titles

The achievement of Joseph T. Tully of Otonabee in capturing ten first prize honors and all the female championships was the outstanding personal aspect of the show. His collection of winnings included firsts for graded and junior herds; junior get of sire, and both senior and junior classes for progeny of dam.

Mr. Tully won the senior and grand female championships in a ring of fifteen two-year wet heifers, against strong opposition by his associate breeders.

This double title winner from the Tully herd, "Otonabee Pabst Posch Colla", has obvious fine female lines.

Roy Ormiston, Brooklin Holstein fieldman, commented to the Examiner: The grand champion shown by Joe Tully is one of the most outstanding heifers I've seen this year at any show, including the C.N.E."

"This was one of the largest entries to date, and the quality of cattle was generally superior to other years. The dry cow class was exceptionally strong with good cows all down the line."

Mr. Ormiston also referred to the encouragingly strong bull section. The entries indicated that quite a number of the Peterborough Holstein breeders are apparently maintaining their own breeding ideas and lines.

Competing Breeders

The county breeders represented in the ring were: James Bishop, Fred Bolton; Coughlin Brothers; Crowley Brothers; George W. Craft; Earl Doris.

R. & A. Davis; Donald E. Davis; Gordon English; Elmhurst Brothers of Asphodel; Ernest Fife; F. Hurley & Son; Norman W. McConkey.

D. McNevan & Son; Stewart Nelson; James Shaughnessy & Son; Joseph T. Tully; Stanley Wood.

The Tully herd was awarded ten first ribbons and four seconds, one of its most successful days in local show ring records.

Stanley Wood had two firsts and six seconds; Coughlin Brothers, two firsts, four seconds and two thirds; N. W. McConkey, two firsts, two seconds and five thirds; Stewart Nelson, two firsts, two seconds and three thirds; Crowley Bros., one first; James Bishop one first; Donald Davis one first.

The Championships

The championships which were also awarded by the judge, George R. McLaughlin of Elmcroft Farm, north of Oshawa, were:

Grand and senior champion bull, "Oriole Lodge Dale Cicero" from the James Bishop herd.

Reserve grand and senior bull, was the two-year-old "Keendale Lodge Sovereign," owned by Stewart Nelson and R. & A. Davis.

Junior champion bull, "Rag Apple Korkdyke Supreme," from the Crowley Brothers' herd.

Canadian Legion Zone Bell Goes To Bancroft

MARMORA, Oct. 2.—(ENS).—The Canadian Legion travelling bell for zone F-3 was presented to President Vader of Bancroft branch at the bi-monthly executive meeting Sunday. The bell, which has been held by Deseronto, will be in the possession of Bancroft branch for a term.

The meeting was held at Paudash Lodge and Bancroft branch acted as host.

Other branches represented were Marmora, Tweed, Madoc and Belleville. Zone Commander Wilbert Mumby was in charge.

Mrs. Ray, hostess at Paudash Lodge, being one of the three women who are members of the Bancroft branch, was accorded the courtesy of sitting in at the session. The chairman explained that executive meetings were more beneficial mutually than official visits by a zone commander to a branch, and mentioned that zone F-3 was the only zone in the Ontario command to hold such executive meetings of its particular nature.

Trenton To Join?

Mention was made of the desirability of Trenton branch transferring to the zone, and it was pointed out that that branch would have to make application to its district commander to be granted a transfer.

A few complaints were voiced following which Sports Officer Percy Gray of the Marmora branch touched upon the prospects for winter sports. He also presented the softball cup to Norris Thomlison, manager of the Madoc team, which was the winner of the local loop this season.

Deputy - Zone Commander E. Little of Belleville, member of the provincial poppy committee, called attention to the sale of wreaths and poppies in November. He also said that of the 24 university scholarships of $275 awarded by the legion two had come to zone F-3.

Federation Asks Department Take Control of Lake

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 2 (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters is going to ask the Ontario Department of Games and Fisheries to seek from United States authorities control of muskie fishing in Lake St. Clair.

Delegates to the third annual convention held here during the weekend passed this resolution which will be forwarded through their national executive.

The motion arose from the condition that exists in this international body of water where Americans can fish maskinonge unhindered by law while for Canadians it is a closed season. Members felt some adjustment of regulations should be made.

Harold Franklin of Dunnville was elected chairman. George McGarvin of Chatham was chosen first vice-president, John J. Girling of Hamliton second vice-president and Walter F. Wilson of Kitchener secretary treasurer.

The convention also will ask the fisheries department to abolish the family non-resident fishing licence. Members argued that no age limit was given on this type of licence and any number of Americans could fish in various parts of Canada with little chance of any check on their catch. They also asked for more signs in game reserves and regulated hunting areas to protect hunters who may shoot unknowingly in forbidden areas.

Committee Members

Members of the executive committee elected were: W. Symington, Hagersville; E. J. Seigner, Stratford; W. Peacock, Tobermory; W. W. Lindamond, Guelph; D. A. Messechar, Waterford; Dr. H. W. Orfuns Nick Bombers 18-1 Huntley, Matthews Star

Coach Harv Bamforth of the senior Orfuns is a man of few words. But the popular former mentor of PCVS could not conceal his elation Saturday after his boys crushed Orillia Silver Bombers 18-1, right in their own bailiwick to tie for second place in the Senior ORFU race.

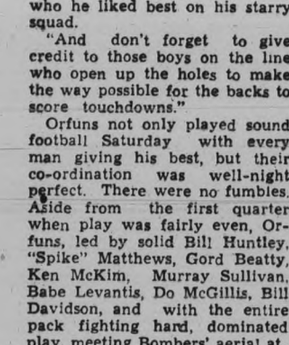
"The boys are beginning to roll," said Bammy. "They all played a fine game out there today," he continued, when asked who he liked best on his starry squad.

"And don't forget to give credit to those boys on the line who open up the holes to make the way possible for the backs to score touchdowns."

Orfuns not only played sound football Saturday with every man giving his best, but their co-ordination was well-night perfect. There were no fumbles. Aside from the first quarter when play was fairly even, Orfuns, led by solid Bill Huntley, "Spike" Matthews, Gord Beatty, Ken McKim, Murray Sullivan, Babe Levantis, Do McGillis, Bill Davidson, and with the entire pack fighting hard, dominated play, meeting Bombers' aerial attack with a good defense throughout and countering with a crushing ground attack with which the home crew were unable to effectively cope.

Orillia attempted 28 forward passes and completed but nine as Orfuns' defence proved too much even for the educated arm of Jim Milligan.

Orfuns themselves rarely took to the air though they completed three of seven tries. On yards from scrimmage, Orfuns had a good edge, too, though the conquerors of Oshawa fought stubbornly to put up a hard wall for the first half as both teams scored singles but held off any major scoring threats. Once under way in the third, however, Orfuns put on a sustained offensive that could not be denied.



Spike Matthews kicked for a single from the Bomber 30 to Bond early in the first as the latter ran into touch for the first scoring point of the game. Orillia came back to test Orfuns in the air, but a Milligan to Wilde toss midway in the session to move Bombers to Orfuns' 42, was the only good fling of six attempts. Unable to dent Orfuns' line too well, Bombers intensified their aerial efforts in the second stanza with better results, completing four of 10 tries as the home squad made their best bid of all during the game. A Milligan to Street pass was good to Orfuns' 12 late in the period. An attempted field goal missed and Huntley returned the boot to his own 40. A 25 yard roughing penalty later put Orfuns back where they were forced to kick again to their 38 and this time Milligan kicked into touch back of the goal line with seconds to go to halftime and tied the score 1-1.

Orfuns opened strongly in the third with a razzle-dazzle attack led by Bill Huntley who tossed a great pass to Dalton at the two minute mark for a 35 yard gain and as they worked their way to the Bomber 10, Huntley smashed through for a major which he converted with a sweet placement and Orfun fans went wild. Huntley and Matthews combined four minutes later as their mates opened the way to tear through on successive plunges to the Bomber 18 from whence Matthews skirted around the left end for a major as the Bamforth crew pulled their "wide spread," a deceptive play that threw the enemy completely off guard. Huntley again converted from placement. Orfuns' final thrust came in the fourth with Huntley again crashing through from the Orillia five after a series of clever Orfun manoeuvres to reach that point early, coupled with two Bomber penalties. The convert failed. That was all as the teams fought hammer and tongs to the finish. A fistic battle between Fitzgerald and Boorer livened things in the final minutes.

The Bell nine started with a bang in the first as they shoved five runs across against the Foresters' one. They added two in the second, three in the third and four in the fifth. The Foresters came through with a rally in the eighth for two runs.

Orioles Whip Columbus 8-1

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3.—(AP).—The Army gave Southpaw Harvey Maddix, Columbus hurler with an 18-6 season record, a special pass from Fort Dix, N.J., to pitch against Baltimore in the Little World Series.

The Orioles gave him a special pass to the showers in the sixth inning of Sunday's game after three home runs off his deliveries.

Having taken the first game of the four-of-seven series, the American Association representatives expected Haddix, a recent draftee, to make it two straight.

But the Orioles displayed the same homerun power that carried them through two rounds of the International League playoffs.

They sent four balls over the fence, three off Maddix and one off reliefer Bob Habenicht, as they won, 8-1, to even the series.

First Baseman George Byam got two of the all-the-way clouts. Austin Knockerbocker and Butch Woyt hit the others.

Columbus also ran into some neat pitching. Karl Drews, a tall righthander, threw a six-hitter and only Leftfielder Larry Miggins' homer in the fourth spoiled a shutout.

By The Canadian Press

Waterloo Tigers and Oshawa Merchants, each with a game under their belts, meet in Oshawa tonight in the third game of their best-of-seven series for the Ontario Baseball Championship.

Tigers, Champions of the Intercounty League, won the first game at home Saturday 9-4 Merchants, Viaduct League Champions and winners of the Canadian Sandlot Tournament, roared back to a 7-1 win in Toronto Sunday.

Tony DeLaurentis held Tigers to one hit in the second game while three of the Merchants collected home runs. Merchants raked starter Marv Meyers for seven hits before he was pulled.

Wood, Walsh and Harper hit the homers. Auggie Herchenratter's single in the fifth drove in the only Waterloo run.

In the Saturday game, centrefielder Alex Kvasnak batted a perfect four-for-four as Tigers reached Gerry Creasy for 14 hits. Al Dumouchelle yielded nine and struck out an even dozen Oshawa batters.

HIS HOMER DOES IT — Jackie Robinson, above, belted a seventh inning homer recently in the second game to keep the Dodgers in the pennant race in the National Baseball League. Brooklyn took both halves of a double-header in Ebbetts Field against the league-leading Philadelphia Phillies to cut their hold on top spot to only two games. However, they lost out Sunday in the final game of the season in ten innings by a 4-1 score. The Phillies now enter the World Series against the Yanks on Wednesday, playing at Philadelphia.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

When you are reading this pillar, we probably are rubber-necking down Woodward Ave. Or slumming along Brush St. Or maybe doing Hamtramyck. Anyway, this is being written in advance as we expect to do Detroit for a few days. Told Baz Phelan, Howie Dalton and some others—rabid Red Sox fans—that we'd be in Detroit for the world series. Well, we'll be in Detroit, anyway. And where are the Sox? Those wretched Yanks! And those pesky Indians—we blame them for knocking off the Tigers in the final week of league play. Though Tiger fans will long remember the Sept. 24 game as the decider.

* * * * * *

And a boner probably did it. Remember? Cleveland won 2-1 in 19 innings to set the Tigers back two and a half games behind the surging Yanks, with but a week of play left. It was a historical event inasmuch as 'twas the first afternoon big league ball game ever played under floodlight. They staged it in Cleveland and it seems huge Alberta forest fires, plus a strong north-west wind, darkened the sky for many hundreds of square miles to the south and east. It got so gloomy in Cleveland that Sunday aft that the lights were turned on to stage the game. And Detroit blacked out about that time.

* * * * * *

Lemon Was Sour Note

But there was that boner we mentioned. The score was tied 1-1 in the 10th. Bob Lemon tripled to open the inning for the Indians. Manager Red Rolfe of Tigers ordered the next two walked and the strategy almost paid off. Next batter popped out and next one rolled out to make two away and Lemon still squeezing third. But Kolloway on first, who retired the second guy, after stepping on first, pegged to the plate when Lemon made a break for it. Catcher Aaron Robinson took the ball in lots of time for the third out and stepped on the plate. Didn't bother to tag Lemon. The umpire-in-chief first called Lemon out but later (after a big squawk and after checking with the other umps) ruled Lemon safe.

* * * * * *

What happened, of course, was that the force was off Lemon when the guy on first was put out and the play then made to the plate. How stupid can a big league umpire get? Or maybe he was blocked off, too, like Robinson claimed. The latter said he couldn't see the first-sacker step on first — because of the hefty runner in front of him — and he thought the play was right to home, with no touching of first. In any case, the runner was safe at home and that ended a tough tussle, with Cleveland (not going anywhere this year) able to ruin the Tigers' chances. They show no mercy in big league ball and they play it honestly all the way.

* * * * * *

Their National Sport

They take their ball seriously over there. The same day saw the Yanks roll to a 9-5 win o'er Steve O'Neill's Sox before a mere 67,000 fans. That's a big crowd and means a mighty big gate. We've sat in at world series games before when they didn't draw nearly that many. Ted Williams hit two homers and Bobby Doer one for Red Sox, but that wasn't good enough. Those Yanks are really rough. And the Phillies took an 11-0 pasting at the hands of Brooklyn, the Dodgers apparently not having too much respect for the leaders in the National League. And so it goes.

* * * * * *

Harking back to Robinson's bonehead play, we often recall a remark by Knotty Lee, the fiery old skipper of the senior ball Petes in the middle 30s. Knotty one day to an offending player who said: "I thought . . . ", snarled: "Don't Don't think; every time you think out there on the ball field you weaken the club!" It is a fact that some ball players are naturals in a mechanical sense, but they can't think fast enough in a pinch — and they mess up good plays. That doesn't just apply to southpaws, nor even to ball players only. Every sport knows this type.

* * * * * *

Up And Went, Anyway

Anyway, we got sore enough to decide we'd go to Detroit in any case, win, lose or draw. In the past we've seen many a stirring diamond duel in Navin Field and later Briggs Stadium. Even if the Tigers muff out on it this year, we're still for 'em. And we'll find time to meander down Michigan Avenoo to Trumbull and look in at the park which holds about 60,000. And we'll not only think of the 1950 Tigers but we'll hark back to sights we saw before. Like Ty Cobb just before he retired. The Babe, of course. The time Cochrane scored the world series winner on Goslin's single to right. And many more. We'll say: "Tough luck, you Tigers." Of the Cleveland Indians, we'll say: "x@1b&$⅛%!"

Would Cost $170,000

By The Asoociated Press

It looks as though they may be giving the Olympic Games back to the competitors—at least as far as Canada is concerned.

The Canadian Olympic Association decided at a Montreal meeting Saturday that the number of officials at the 1952 Olympic Games must not exceed 10 per cent of the competitors for the opening parade.

The association estimated it would cost approximately $170,000 to send Canadians to the Olympic winter games in Oslo, in February, 1952, and to the summer games in July and August in Helsinki.

PCVS Tramples OCVI 28-5 By Air-Ground Attacks

Completely outclassed in the air and on the land the Oshawa Collegiate juniors were smothered Saturday 28-5 by the PCVS Junior A team in the Motor City.

A superior line, a little heavier than the OCVI line, gave PCVS the verdict as they punched holes for the PCVS backs to plunge through and held off tacklers to allow time for passes. On the defence the PCI'ers were solid as the backfielders teamed with the linemen to freeze Oshawa plays.

Reg Fowler, game little PCVS plunger, dove hard throughout as he went through holes varying from five to 15 yards on plays. Spencer Hope, Dave Langhorne and Ron Dunn featured in the ground attack. Murray Grafstein went for yards late in the game as he was shifted from the line to the backfield.

Lanky Bill Stewart showed forms of his last year's passing ability as he sent flips out to Dunn, Hope, Dan Griffin and Grafstein. Only one pass went astray and it was intercepted for a touchdown. Another of Stewart's passes went for a touchdown but this time for the PCI'ers.

Reigning Team

After pounding at the door PCVS ripped across late in the first for an unconverted major. They added another in the second and a third in the third before Oshawa intercepted a pass for their only major. PCVS continued to reign in the fourth as they passed and plunged for two converted touches.

In the third after Bill Kellar booted into PCVS' zone Oshawa were penalized 15 yards for roughing. At the centre stripe Stewart attempted to pass but track and field star, John Graham, intercepted for Oshawa and he raced 54 yards for the touchdown.

Led by Fowler, the PCI'ers surged down the field in the first but were denied once. Again they came back after an Oshawa wick by Kellar shoved them down the field. Fowler and Dunn plunged the way to the Oshawa 5 where Fowler went through centre for the first major.

In the second the PCVS boys roared in only to be nosed out but again after an Oshawa kick came down the field with Langhorne, Hope and Fowler carrying. Ron Dunn finally went across. Langhorne drop-kicked the extra point.

Another Major

Shoved back to their three-yard line Oshawa attempted to kick and it was blocked. Griffin nailed the loose ball at the Oshawa 2. On a passout Langhorne swept around the end for a major which he converted to make the score 17-5.

Along the ground in the fourth PCVS majored early. Fowler was again the big driver as he went for first 11 yards and then carried 18 yards to be stopped at the one-yard line: Spencer Hope went around the end for the score. Creighton Johnston intercepted an Oshawa pass in Peterborough territory to start another scoring play in the quarter. Stewart passed to Fowler in the clear and he went 55 yards for the score. Langhorne drop-kicked his third convert point.

This game opened the Junior A Lakeshore schedule.

Geohagen To Show Feats Of Strength

It will be David-versus-Goliath in the main wrestling event at the Brock Arena tomorrow (Tuesday) night, when Timothy Geohagen, the Irish strongman of the mat, will meet Hi Lee, the towering Ozark hillbilly.

Geohagen, who earned the title of "The Strongest Man in Ireland," by feats of strength, will give a demonstration of his unusual muscular prowess at 8:30 here, prior to the matches. Geohagen will show how he can bend iron bars and carry a heavy man around on a stool, held by a rung in Tim's teeth.

Weighing 222 pounds, Timothy will be far out-balanced by the 292-pound Hi Lee. If the amazing young Irish athlete can take the measure of Lee, he will have stamped himself as something of a giant-killer.

Geohagen is a well-educated athlete, with a Ph.D. degree from the University of Dublin, where his mother was a professor of Gaelic. His manager coach and sponsor is 'Strangler' Lewis, himself five time champion of the world. Lewis, and most fans who have seen Geohagen in action, predict he will be next world's champion.

Pat Flanagan vs. Jack Moore and Toar Morgan vs Al Korman are the other bouts.

"Dick" Sanders Widely Mourned In Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Oct. 2 (ENS)—The funeral of Linden (Dick) Sanders was held Saturday at his home on King St. His sudden death occurred Wednesday as the result of an accident on a road near Millbrook.

The Rev. A. A. Choate, of St. Thomas Anglican Church, was the officiating clergyman.

Mr. Sanders was born in Millbrook and lived here all his life. He is survived by his wife, the former Grace M. Sloan, and by one daughter, Dianne, aged 5. He also leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Sanders, and two brothers, Vincent and Douglas, all of Millbrook.

Thirty-seven years of age at the time of his death, Mr. Sanders had attended Millbrook public and continuation schools, and was a member of St. Thomas' Anglican Church. His work as salesman for Wonder Bread Company had made him well-known in the community, and he was a popular figure. Many floral tributes testified to the esteem and affection in which he was held.

Pall-bearers were John and Orville Lunn, Henry W. Gray, George Harkness, Lyle Nattress and Fred Coulter. Flower-bearers were Charles Sanderson, James Bell, Glen Johnson, Earl Boyd, George Lancaster, Squire Winterbottom, Paul Hillier, Stanford Sloan, Talbot Kellett, Howard Lunn, Louis Pudsey, Don Ireland, Leonard Driver and John Blair.

Burial was in Gardiner's cemetery.

SURVIVORS' CAMP—The camp site of survivors of a United States B-50 bomber which crashed in the Labrador wilderness is almost hidden from view by a clump of trees. A helicopter landed at the spot four days after the big plane's motors failed and 16 crew members parachuted to safety. The accident occurred 100 miles southwest of Goose Bay. This a USAAF photo.

Steel Industry Boosts Output

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—(AP) —Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer announced Sunday that the United States steel industry will boost its producing capacity by 9,400,000 tons a year by the end of 1952 in response to military needs.

The two-year expansion of nearly 10 per cent matches in speed the best efforts of the Second World War too. It will bring the country's ingot producing ability to 109,963,000 tons annually. Sawyer said it "well may be" pushed even higher.

From steel industry sources it was learned that virtually all of the expansion will be carried out by 20 companies with no government help.

The figures were reported to Sawyer by the American Iron and Steel Institute. The group canvassed the industry in response to an appeal from the secretary Sept. 11 for more output.

Meanwhile, the national production authority prepared to serve its second compulsory order for industry today—a priority regulation giving the military first call on industrial materials and plant capacity. An inventory control order, to prevent hoarding of materials, was issued two weeks ago.

Two Drama Festivals In Western Ontario

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 2—(CP)—Two drama festivals, a national and a regional in Western Ontario in 1951 would be enough, the Western Ontario Drama League executive and representatives decided Sunday.

At a meeting here the project of a one-act play festival for the region was abandoned for this season. The Dominion drama festival is to be held in London next spring and the W.O. festival takes place in Kitchener in March. Charles Tuck, of Kitchener, was appointed festival director for the regional.

Manslaughter Charge Follows Fatal Accident

LINDSAY, Oct. 2 — John Morris Forget, of Ajax, was committed for trial on Friday on charge of motor manslaughter. The charge arose out of the death of Charles Henry Booth as a result of a car accident in Coboconk on September 2.

This commitment indicates that the fall sitting of the Supreme Court in Lindsay may be a lenthy one. High court opens here on November 6, under Mr. Justice Spence. Already scheduled to come up at this session of the Supreme Court is the retrial of William Yuzwa, charged with the murder of Jack Loucks a little less than a year ago.

At the preliminary hearing on the manslaughter charge Forget was represented by A. W. S. Grier, of Oshawa. The first witness for the prosecution was Dr Jamieson, of Coboconk, who was called at 5:30 on the morning of the accident to attend the injured.

The doctor testified that when he arrived, Booth was beyond help and had passed away as a result of a fractured skull apparently received in the accident. Forget was not on the scene when the doctor arrived but was later found by the physician sitting on the steps of a hotel smoking a cigarette. Forget walked to the doctor's office and since he was appearing very jittery, Dr. Jamieson administered a mild sedative. The accused slept until 8:50 a.m.

When he awakened, Constable Lyle, of Fenelon Falls, who investigated the accident, suggested that the accused should have a blood test taken to determine the alcohol content. The accused agreed but latterly changed his mind. A second conversation with the constable convinced him that he should take the test. Dr. Jamieson made the test and Lyle sent the sealed containers to Toronto.

Provincial Constable Lyle took the stand and stated that he had arrived on the scene of the accident at 6 p.m. and had found Booth dead.

He had reached into the wrecked car and pulled out a blanket and covered the dead man. Lyle stated that he received a slight shock from the car as a wire was resting on the back of the machine. This wire appeared to him to run from the street lights. The officer found a battered beer case in the trunk of the car with several broken bottles, six empties and two full bottles. He also found a partly consumed bottle on the floor in the front seat. Some three hours later, the accused decided to take a blood test and the samples were sent to the University of Toronto. Forget was then arrested and charged with dangerous driving and brought to Lindsay. At the office of the Ontario Provincial Police Detachment, Forget gave Constable Lyle a statement in the presence of Constable Lawson.

Defence Attorney Greer and Constable Lyle ran into considerable difficulty on cross-examination.

The accused entered no plea and the case was committed for trial by a higher court. Forget was released on the same bail that he was out on before.

23 Fatalities Reported Over Weekend In Canada

By The Canadian Press

Twenty persons died violently in Eastern Canada during the weekend, five in three separate plane crashes, 11 in traffic accidents, one by drowning and three by various other causes.

Ontario led the death toll with nine, Quebec had eight and the Maritimes three. The plane crashes occurred in Ontario, Quebec and Nova Scotia.

Near Truro, N.S., Claude Chapman of Truro was killed and Francis Tremble of East Mountain N.S., suffered undetermined injuries in the crash of a light private plane Sunday.

Pilot J. C. Wilson, 47, of Merritton, Ont., and Leonard Babcock, 47, of North Tonawanda, N.Y., died Saturday in the flaming plane crash of a two-seater seaplane at Grindstone Lake, in Northern Quebec.

Donald Dodd, 21-year-old pilot and Bent Mist, both of Toronto, were killed near Brooklin, Ont., six miles northwest of Oshawa, Sunday night when their rented plane crashed into a hilltop.

Traffic Accidents

The Maritimes' two other fatalities resulted from traffic accidents. Mrs. Josephine Crouse, 40, of Zealand Station, died from injuries received when the car in which her husband was driving her to hospital at Fredericton collided head-on with another. At Saint John, N.B., Beverley Kierstead, 75, of Kingston peninsula, was killed Sunday night when hit by a car while walking near a cemetery.

Traffic fatalities in Quebec included Alice Goudreau, 18, killed at Lac Au Saumon; W. Laviolette, 60, fatally hurt when hit by a car which failed to stop at St. Paul L'Ermite.

At Sherbrooke, Que., Eugene Lemay, 45, a furnace attendant, was found asphyxiated Saturday in the boiler room of a Roman Catholic monastery, and at Granby, provincial police reported the discovery in a bush of the badly-decomposed body of an unidentified man.

Victims of traffic mishaps in Ontario were Janet Spratt, 5, killed near her home in Ottawa Saturday; John H. Casemore, Sr., 45, of Detroit, and Isaac Dennis, 34, of Watford, who died in a head-on collision of two cars near Sarnia; Mr. and Mrs. George Gaudette, parents of six childen, who were drowned when their car plunged into a creek north of Matheson, Ont.

At Lindsay, eight-year-old Ronnie Howe was drowned Saturday when a home-made raft on which he was sailing tipped over on the Scugog river. At Renfrew, Jerry Scharfe was found Saturday crushed to death by his car which apparently had slipped off the jack while he was underneath it making repairs.

Suburban Modern School Opened By Bishop Berry

St. Alphonsus' Separate School in North Monaghan township just outside the southwest boundary of the city was formally opened in a Sunday afternoon ceremony amid congratulations of city, township and religious and education officials. His Excellency, The Most Reverend Gerald Berry D.D., Bishop of Peterborough, blessed the school, similar in appearance and structure to St. Anne's Separate just north of the city in Smith township which opened about a year ago.

Bishop Berry and Rev. Robert Macdonald, parish priest, speaking to a packed auditorium both said the school had been built with the active co-operation of the city represented by Reeve the city represented by Mayor Max J. Swanston and North Monaghan township represented by Reeve Melville Johnston.

In Canada, said the Bishop, in a school such as St. Alphonsus' the Catholic Church had "the liberty of fulfilling to a great measure the ideal of Catholic education."

The school could, he said, take time to teach religion giving Christianity "a chance to permeate down through every part of instruction . . . every part where it can be brought in."

Full Share

At the same time pupils can be taught regard for the law and order of their country and loyalty to it. To this the state had a right, Bishop Berry asserted. He said he wanted to assure everyone that the Church and the school wished to contribute its full share to the life of Peterborough and North Monaghan.

"We wish to carry our share of the burden," and co-operate to a full extent with the district in order that the whole community could go forward together.

The school was under the protection of St. Alphonsus and sponsored by the order he began 200 years ago in Italy. It had been built, the Bishop said, with an eye to the future. "This one is going to have to last for some time to come."

In the next four or five years, two or three more separate schools will be built in and around Peterborough. Church and Board of Education officials already know many more children will be ready for school in 1955 because they are already born.

Rev. Daniel Dahman, Father Redemptorist of the order of St. Alphonsus, pointed out that Cardinal Mindzenty of Czechoslovakia was now undergoing life imprisonment and had been subjected to untold torture because he stood for the right to have Catholic schools for Catholic children.

How fortunate, he said, it was that people in this country were living where the government respected the rights of its citizens to live according to their consciences.

Department Representative

A representative of the provincial Department of Education, J. C. Walsh, Assistant Superintendent of Elementary Education, said new schools were dotting the province from the Niagara Peninsula to James Bay. The fact that there was no school building during the depression and during the war when the industrial population grew by leaps and bounds has led to the school crisis which the provincial government had recognized and was meeting.

The need was being met by greatly increased grants. This year $42,000,000 had been set aside for new schools and the department was hoping it would be able to keep within that figure.

Mayor Swanston, congratulating the Separate School Board, said it had shown faith and foresight in building St. Alphonsus' in that part of the township.

Reeve Johnston said he had long been anticipating the completion of the school and congratulated the Separate School Board in the fulfillment of its plans. He said he was looking forward to the time when boys and girls from the school would become leaders in the community.

Frank Jobbitt was on hand to represent the city School Board and members of the city council who attended the formal opening were Pat Anglesey and Hurrel Dodds.

Lindsay Boy Drowned As Raft Tips

When their raft suddenly tipped in the Scugog river, Lindsay, late Saturday afternoon, eight-year-old Ronnie Howe was drowned and Murray Pillsworth, also eight, narrowly escaped a similar fate.

It was the second drowning in Lindsay this year.

The two boys were good chums, living opposite each other on Queen St. As usual they left their homes early Saturday afternoon to see a children's matinee at a local theatre.

While walking home after the show they saw an abandoned raft on the Scugog river and could not resist the temptation to go for a paddle. Both boarded the crudely made raft of logs and planks and pushed off.

Their boyish adventure did not last long. Only a few feet from shore the raft tipped and they were thrown into the river, 300 yards east of the locks.

Neither of them were swimmers but Murray managed to catch hold of a wire that was dangling from the bank and he pulled himself to safety. But Ronnie, after vainly clutching at the raft, sank out of sight.

Murray raced home and told his story. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Howe, the drowned boy's parents, went back to the river's edge but could find no tract of their son.

Dragging operations began shortly after under the direction of Chief Arthur Webster. An hour later the body was recovered in 10 feet of water, 15 feet from shore, by Fireman Bill Spenceley.

Two girls won top honors in the east and west Peterborough dairy calf clubs at the juniors' Achievement Day, culminating their long season since early spring, at Morrow Park, Saturday. They were Mary Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wood, Douro, with the big score of 914 out of a possible 1,000, leading the east side club of 26 boys and girls, and Barbara Mann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Clarence Mann, Smith, who was first in the west side class of 18 boys and girls.

At the beginning of the junior season, the registration of the young folks was so large that it was decided to divide them into two groups, one on each side of the river.

Murray Pimmett of Indian River, youngest of the Shorthorn breeding family of Melville H. Pimmett & Sons, compiled the biggest score of the day to win the beef calf club.

And top rating in the forestry club went to Doreen Dowdall of Emily township. Results of the tractor class will not be known for probably several weeks.

John Dalrymple of Kemptville Agricultural School, was judge of the cattle features of Achievement Day, and one of his assistants was his brother, Oliver Dalrymple, Stirling, agricultural representative in Hastings county.

Followed All Details

The young members of the three calf clubs followed through their spring undertaking right up to the last detail. Only a few failed to clinch their season's work.

The youngsters were busy at Morrow Park from 9.30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The department schedule, which was supervised by Robert E. Bell, assistant agriculture agent, used his junior farmer aides, with F. C. Paterson helping throughout the summer, provided an introduction of the boys and girls to the knowledge and care of the calves they selected; reports on their work, and costs; a quiz test; their ability to judge a class of four animals and give reasons for their placing; also marks for showmanship; attendance at meetings and so on. The total score was computed from the marks obtained in the various phases of the season's work and competition.

East Side Calves

Results of the East Side dairy calf club were:

Mary Wood, 914; Alan Stewart, Indian River, 864; Dorothy Chambers, Otonabee, 844; James Doris, Otonabee, 833; Walter Clark, Norwood, 829; Archie Davidson, Keene, 828; Allan Bolton, Douro, 819; Gerald Wood, Douro, 816; Norma McConkey, Peterborough, 815; Doris Brown, Norwood, and

Taken Ill In Pulpit

ROSENEATH, Oct. 2 — (ENS)—Canon C. R. Spencer, 69, suffered a heart attack Sunday morning in the pulpit of St. James' Anglican church, Roseneath, after concluding his sermon. He was to have conducted Holy Communion immediately after the sermon, but collapsed after announcing that the service would have to be discontinued.

Dr. George H. Field, of Roseneath, was called to the church and the Canon was driven to his home in Roseneath by the people's warden, Herbert McCracken and his son, Ray McCracken.

From the rectory at Hastings, Canon Spencer was taken by ambulance to Civic Hospital, Peterborough. His condition has greatly improved, the hospital reports today.

Canon Spencer had been superannuated, but feeling he was too young for retirement, chose to continue his work in the ministry.

Motorbike Hits Meter To Miss Turning Auto

A motorcyclist banged into a parking meter as he swung out to avoid colliding with a car making left turn into a lane off Water St. near Simcoe St. Sunday about noon.

The motorcyclist, Ronald Collins, 620 Frank St., received only a scratch on his left leg. The gas tank and headlight of his machine were damaged.

Donald Blodgett, R.R. 3 Peterborough, driver of the car, had been parked on the east side of Water St. He pulled out into the line of traffic and started to turn left across the street into the laneway at the rear of the Bank of Montreal.

Collins was in the act of passing Blodgett and yanked his motorcycle to the west side crashing into the meter post. Police said Blodgett admitted he did not put out his hand to signal a left turn.

Constable Edward Niziol investigated.

Colorful Parade Of Samaritans Ends Conference

Some clad in gaudy purple jackets and white velveteen knickers and others in staid navy blazers and grey flannels, the Samaritans marched in downtown Peterborough Saturday afternoon

There weren't very many of them—perhaps 250—but they made a brave display and brightened up a sportless afternoon.

The parade was one of the closing events of the 34th semi-annual conference of the northern district of the Ancient Mystic Order of Samaritans, commonly known as AMOS.

They marched up George St. to Confederation Park, where they relaxed parade discipline momentarily before competing in patrol drills on the PCVS campus.

In the march the Peterborough Pipe Band's skirling bagpipes and rattling drums kept the paraders neatly in step.

On Sunday, many of the Samaritans paid the liftlock a visit, and those who didn't, studied another of the city's tourist attractions—fishing. No report has been made on their luck.

Dinesen, Park St. Also Andrew Christian Jensen, an employee of Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co., and two Chinese residents of Peterborough—Hum Jen Sing and Yee Pork Sung.

Applications for citizenship were approved at a previous sitting.

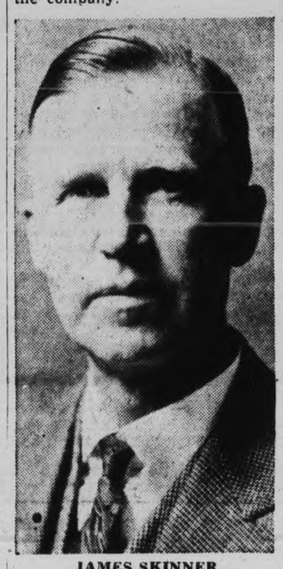
CPR City Agent James Skinner Dies In Hospital



James Skinner, retired city passenger agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., died this morning at Civic Hospital after a lingering illness of nearly two years

The superannuation of Mr. Skinner, July 1, 1938, ended 49 years of service with the company, chiefly in Owen Sound and Peterborough. He was born in Inverarie, Scotland, 80 years ago, and came to Canada with his parents as a child of three years. He received his education in the public school and Collegiate Institute of Lindsay, and, when he was 14, he got his first job there as a messenger boy with the old Great North West Telegraph Company.

In that work he became a telegrapher, transferred to the CPR in 1888, first as telegraph operator at Woodstock, and subsequently at other stations between Toronto and Montreal. In 1897 he was transferred to the passenger department as chief clerk under the late T. E. Boddy who was the city passenger agent at the company's uptown office.

To Owen Sound

Promotion made him city ticket and telegraph agent at Owen Sound, and after fourteen years in that responsibility, Mr. Skinner was transferred to Peterborough in 1912, succeeding the late William McIlroy as head of the uptown passenger and telegraph office of C.P.R. He continued in that position until 1938, retiring with the reputation of having produced in twenty-five years "numerous men who have attained responsible places in our great company," according to the tribute paid to him by P. G. Galbraith, London, then inspector of the department of communications, at dinner in Toronto at which Mr. Skiner was a guest of the company.

JAMES SKINNER

His fatherly interest in the young men who passed through his training and encouragement was reflected in the fact that he "had never found it necessary to dismiss an employee, which must surely be something of a record," as cited by Mr. Galbraith.

Mr. Skinner was a charter member of Peterborough Kiwanis Club, a life member of Peterborough Bowling Club, and was for years an ardent curler. He was also a member of Peterborough Lodge, 155, A.F. & A.M., and Peterborough Lodge of Perfection, A. & ASR.

Son of Alexander Skinner and Margaret Fraser in Scotland, Mr. Skinner leaves his wife, the former Annie Londerville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Londerville, of Hastngs; his son, Fraser Skinner, of Kingston; his brother, Willam, of Kingston, and sisters, Mrs. Wm. Grant, of Birmingham, Alabama; Mrs. Albert Knight, Ashburn, Ont.; and Mrs. David MacKenzie, of Calgary, Alta.

The body is resting at the Belleghem funeral home, Hunter St., until Wednesday afternoon; when the funeral will take place, at an hour to be announced, to Little Lake cemetery. The service will be conducted by Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Skinner was a member.

Mr. Skinner was interested in sports all his life. He played lacrosse on a famous Owen Sound team, and that field game always held a primary place in his memories. He skipped many rinks in his Peterborough years with the curling club, and also on the west end bowling green. He was a fine sportsman who had made many warm friends especially in Peterborough, who have learned recently with deep regret that his illness was hopeless.

Expect To End Centennial With City Hall Ceremony

Laying of the foundation stone of the city hall is likely to be the last major event of Peterborough' extended celebration of the centenary of its municipal organization. Premier Leslie M. Frost accepted several months ago an invitation to perform this function of formality at a date depending on the progress of construction. City Clerk Outram said today it was hoped that this civic feature of the festive year could be arranged for the autumn season, at least before the colder weather sets in.

"City council is not yet in the position to decide anything definite as to when this affair will take place," Mr. Outram said, "but it has been receiving attention. I understand the committee would like to have three or four weeks to draft the program."

It appears to have been agreed that the foundation stone is to be substituted for the customary corner stone. Practice and precedent allot a particular corner if a corner stone is inset in its required place. In this particular at the new city hall, the corner stone would be removed from the most conspicuous location, and besides it might eventually become screened by shrubbery or vines.

The foundation stone will be laid in the rotunda on the main floor, a central position in the midst of the daily business of the municipal headquarters.

Mr. Outram said foundation stones were coming more into use in the planning of public buildbuildings. Sentiment of preliminary discussions which have already taken place are in favor of this change in the manner of commemorating for posterity, the time and other detail of the beginning of the construction of Peterborough's city hall of the future.

Charge Silvester Mentally Ill, Remanded Again

Held on a charge of wilfully setting fire to the S. S. Kresge Co. store August 17, 1948, Harvey David Silvester, 32, was today charged in police court with being mentally ill under the Mental Hospitals Act.

He will be examined by his family doctor and a psychiatrist. If they recommend it, he will probably be remanded to a mental hospital for observation for 60 days. At the end of that time, he may or may not be committed to hospital, depending on the findings of the hospital officials.

He will appear again on the two charges Friday. He is being held in custody without bail.

Police said Sept. 24 Silvester walked into the Ontario Provincial Police office in Cobourg and there confessed to starting the $200,000 Kresge store fire in Peterborough. He had been a caretaker of the store at the time.

After being questioned by an official of the Ontario Fire Marshal's office the next day, he was charged with setting the fire.

DISPLAY HELD

The Centennial Display at the Public Library will be held over until October 14, according to William Graff, librarian. The display was to have been closed to the public on September 29. This postponement was the result of numerous requests that the display be kept open.

J. A. GIBBS

John "Al" Gibbs Dies In Sask. While Motoring

A well-known Peterborough real estate broker, John Alexander Gibbs, died suddenly at Kindersley, Sask., on Saturday while on a motor trip from Saskatoon to Calgary. He was accompanied by his wife and sister-in-law, Mrs. William Montgomery of Saskatoon. He was 66 years of age. It is believed that he was at the wheel of his car when he died.

Mr. Gibbs was born in Peterborough, son of the late John Gibbs, Jr., and Eliza Drury. For about ten years he was engaged in the real estate business in Winnipeg, but spent many more years in the same business in Peterborough. He leaves no children.

Only this summer he opened a new office at Brock and Water Sts., moving there from his former Hunter St. location.

Besides his wife, the former Emily Noble, he leaves one brother, R. C. Gibbs, a tool and die manufacturer in Vancouver, and two aunts in this city, Mrs. Harry Hutchinson and Mrs. Edward Metcalf. Frank Montgomery of Peterborough is a nephew.

Mr. Gibbs was a member of St. John's Anglican Church and of its advisory board, a member of the Peterborough Lodge of the Masonic Order and of the Rotary Club.

Funeral arrangements are to be announced by the family later.

Across Canada

Courtesy As Hard To Find As Uranium In this Fair Land

By JACK SCOTT

HALIFAX, N.S.—If you were to ask me what particular slice of life in Canada interested me most at the moment, I'd be tempted to answer, "The civil war."

You know the war is going on, but perhaps you never thought of it that way. I'm talking about the undeclared hostilities between what we've come to know as "the public" and the so-called servants of the public. Allow me a moment to laugh bitterly at the word "servants."

In some 8,000 miles of travel through this land of ours, which ought to be a pretty fair test, we've come to look on courtesy as a find of uranium. We've come to accept, glumly but philosophically, the new order dedicated to the theory that the customer is mostly wrong.

This is a country where service with a smile is a promise on and old and dusty sign and not much more. I think it's time we Caspar Milquetoasts on the receiving end did something about it. Life is grim enough when you have to shell out today's staggering prices. To get in return the snarl of a dyspeptic beaver is too much.

Helpful Ottawa Man

Yet, to get anything else becomes almost a cause for celebration. In Ottawa, for example, we got into an auto court (it was named the Reliance and I'm delighted to mention it) where the manager was of that old and disappearing school who believe that a smile and a little extra effort are part of the job. Nothing was too much trouble to make us happy. This man was helpful and cheerful in a dozen small ways.

When we came to leave I told this rare bird frankly that he'd helped restore our faith in the human race. And his reply, I think, ought to be required reading for anyone who deals with the public.

"I just like to please the boss," he said. "And when you come in here you're the boss."

Little Extra

There are a lot of theories for the mass attack of gloom or downright discourtesy by those who serve. One school holds that its simply a hangover from the war years when goods were in short supply and the retailer, having no worries about enough customers, could allow himself the luxury of a take-it-or-leave-it approach.

An oil company executive I met in Winnipeg had another interesting theory. I'd asked him whatever happened to the old style service station attendant, the gazelle with the big grin and the for-you-sir-nothing-is-too-much attitude.

"I think it's the same kind of thing that's happened in England" this man said. "People began to think that if you served the public you were a victim of the class system. It's a natinnal joke now in England that the customer is treated like a bum. There's a great deal of confusion over there between service and servility.

"We're having the same kind of trouble here. We train our men in courtesy. We have agents on the road who check up on the attitude of attendants. But it's a constant worry to find enough personable men who can meet the public in a friendly helpful manner. The hell of it is that that's what brings the customer back, not the kind of gas we sell. It just seems that ther's a reluctance these days to give that little extra something."

It goes a little deeper than that. I would cite the case of a man who drags a trailer across this country and has a certain amount of mechanical difficulty. I cite my own case.

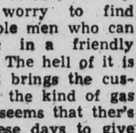
Time after time we've gone into leading garages of big Canadian cities — garages plastered with signs suggesting that they will tackle any problem in motordom with hysterical glee. But what is the reception "Why don't you try such-and-such a garage?" Of a curt "We're too busy here."

Here in Halifax we limped into a big garage and a short, pleasant man named Scotty McVean listened to our woes, grinned and said, "Sure! We can fix anything."

I couldn't help but reflect that it's a sad commentary on the times when you feel pathetically grateful that a man will accept your money.

Some Reason

In some cases this attitude of indifference, of course, is more cause for sorrow than anger. We've found, for example, a tragic lack of interest in their jobs by seven out of ten waitresses and department store clerks, who leave you no doubt that if you simply droppeddd that it wouldn't pain them at all if you simply dropped dead.



The obvious reason for this, I think, is that these girls are desperately underpaid, that they've been left behind, more than any other group, in the race between wages and the cost of living, and they've got a lot of problems.

I never get involved with one of these ladies that I don't feel an urge to give a little speech. I thought this again last night where a gal served us as if she personally carried the world on her shoulders.

I felt like saying, "Look, dearie, you're spoiling our dinner, and we came a long way for these splendid fried oysters. You've got your troubles, I know but so have we all. You probably don't enjoy being a waitress but if you'd just make the best of it and maybe even get a little interest out of meeting new people, it might not be so bad."

The speech never got made, of course. And I doubt if it would have made any difference. Nobody likes to take advice from the enemy.

Great Gathering Planned For Clans In Edinburgh

By EDWIN SHANKE

LONDON, Oct. 2 —(AP)—Scots the world over are beginning to hear the skirl of bagpipes calling the clans for a great gathering in Edinburgh the last week of July, 1951.

The get-together of the clans—some 100 major ones—in their colorful tartans is being planned as part of the Festival of Britain to show the romantic side of Scotland.

The clans were the basis of early social, economic, political and military life in Scotland. Each clan had its chief, a hereditary "representer" of the ancestor who founded the clan or family.

The story of the clans was one of feuding and fighting among themselves and against England. In 1745, little more than 200 years ago, a clan army invaded England under young Prince Charles Edward. The Scots advanced as far as Derby in central England.

Beginning of End

The failure of that rebellion marked the beginning of the break-up of the feudal clan system. Clansmen were forbidden to bear arms and play the bagpipes. Until 1782 the wearing of the kilt was forbidden.

As modern society developed and industrialization took hold in Scotland, the clans gradually lost their significance. The clansmen began to scatter over the earth. Once deadly enmities simmered down to healthy friendly rivalries. The day when a Macdonald wouldn't shake hands with a Campbell is long past.

Today the clans exist largely for sentimental reasons. But wherever the clansman has migrated, he still retains strong feeling for the rugged Scottish countryside.

The gathering of the clans gives all Scots a good excuse to return home, says Tom MacPherson, who runs an engineering firm in London and is one of the ringleaders of the plan. Preparations are in charge of the Scottish Tourist Board.

"The Scotsman has strong national feeling," MacPherson said. "He nurses a quiet ambition to return home. On an occasion like this he'll feel it a duty to gather at Edinburgh in support of his clan.

"We hope those who come will wear their kilt—or at least a Tam O'Shanter or a piece of tartan to identify their clan."

Rugby Player Admits Slaying Child

DETROIT, Oct. 2—(AP)—A 15-year-old high school football player admitted Sunday the sex slaying of little Joey Housey in suburban St. Clair Shores three weeks ago, state police Capt. Howard Seiler announced.

Capt. Seiler said Rodney McRae, who fled in a stolen boat from his St. Clair Shores home Saturday, was picked up at 3 a.m. at the home of a relative in Sarnia, Ont. The capture was made by Michigan State Police and Ontario Provincial Police.

The youth admitted, Capt. Seiler said, slaying eight-year-old Joey and burying his body in a shallow grave in a wooded area. Seiler said that young McRae sobbingly blurted out the story but was vague on details.

The body of the Housey boy was found Sept. 23 two weeks after he had disappeared.

Flees Before Test

McRae fled before he was to have taken a lie detector test.

The youth is five feet, eight inches tall, weighs 181 pounds and plays substitute tackle on the football team at suburban Lakeview high school. He was in the searching party when Joey's body was found.

Copt. Seiler said McCrae appeared to be a normal youth and had no record of sex deviation.

The youth was questioned first last week after he was found to have a straight edge razor he used to make model airplanes. Joey was mutilated with a similar weapon.

McRae was held without charge.

Freeing Dollar Indicates Canadian Economy Strong

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Canada's action in freeing her dollar is a demonstration of the strength of the Canadian economy.

If she weren't strong and prosperous, if the world weren't buying her goods, she wouldn't dare risk freeing it.

Freeing the dollar means that it is put on about the same basis as groceries. You go into a store and decide whether you will buy tea or coffee at current prices. If the price is low enough, you buy; if it is too high, you may not; and then again, if you want tea or coffee badly enough, you will buy at almost any price.

In an international sense the Canadian dollar is on much the same basis. If other peoples want Canadian dollars with which to buy things in Canada, then the price goes up to the point where people don't want the goods that much and then it stops or goes down. But no matter how high it went, the United States would probably keep on buying Canadian newsprint and nickel, for instance.

Still Some Curbs

Having said that the Canadian dollar is freed, one might turn around and say it is not freed. It is not free entirely because the Foreign Exchange Control Board still enforcing some regulations and read to take further action if necessary. Here is an example:

Let us say that you ask today for $5,000 to travel in the United States. Under an absolutely free dollar you would get $5,000 in U.S. currency, for which the equivalent in Canadian currency would be paid out. To that extent you would be creating an increased demand for U.S. dollars and a lessened demand for Canadian money.

It is not likely, however, that the board will allow you to have as much as $5,000, except for good reason—so you aren't allowed to exert your pressure on the market.

Depends On Events

How free in practice the dollar will actually be will depend upon how things work out.

Several factors will tend to keep the true picture out of focus for a while. The people, for instance, who have been buying the Canadian dollar on the assumption that it would go up will be trying to decide whether to cash in. If they try to cash in too fast, they may depress the price.

There will be a return of risk, of course, and of possibility of profit in foreign-exchange dealings.

Importers and exporters, too, will find life more complicated, though there are established ways in which they may protect themselves against too-great fluctuations.

Free Currency Ideal

Free currencies all over the world is a sort of an ideal which most people would like to see, but which the upsets of wars have thus far made impossible.

A lesson in this was given in 1947 when Britain tried partially to set her pound free. Confidence in Britain wasn't too strong then, and anyway people preferred United States dollars.

In one way or other they started turning their pounds into dollars and almost wiped out all the dollars Britain had. Britain had to put the controls back on.

With that lesson in the background, Canada's faith in setting her own currency free is all the more striking; and it may be one important step towards the dream of universally-free currencies.

Vivien Leigh Enjoyed Doing Scarlett O'Hara

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2 (AP)—What do you suppose happened to Scarlett O'Hara after Rhett Butler walked out on her?

"I think she probably became a much better woman," suggests Vivien Leigh, who played the role in Hollywood's most successful movie. "But I don't think she ever got Rhett Butler back."

Miss Leigh, like the late Margaret Mitchell, author of the book, has been asked such questions by fans ever since "Gone With The Wind" came out. I got her to reminisce about the famous role over lunch in her dressing room.

Southern Belle Again

The actress was dressed in the costume of a Southern belle, but this time a more modern one—Blanche Dubois in "A Streetcar Named Desire."

"It's hard to remember a role of 10 years ago when you're so wrapped up in one you're doing now," she said. But of course I couldn't forget Scarlett.

I wanted to play Scarlett since the first time I read the book. That was in London when I was appearing in an unsuccessful play...but in 1938 I came to America. It was only to be a two-week visit They had already started "Gone With The Wind,' shooting the fire scenes with doubles for Scarlett in various sizes, since they didn't know who would play her. Myron Selznick took me out on the set and introduced me to his brother, David. He asked if I would like to take a test."

Surprise Selection

She made tests of various scenes from the book and on Christmas day was told she had won the role. The selection was a surprise to most people and drew some complaints.

"But not from Southerners," Miss Leigh declared. 'The only complaints, strangely enough, were from people in England, I had always played sweet girls until then, and they didn't think I could play Scarlett."

Miss Leigh has seen the picture 3½ times. Although she considers it her best film role, she doesn't like to look at it.

"I don't like to see myself on the screen," she remarked. "I keep realizing how much better I could have done."

Consider School Of Journalism

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 2.—(CP). —Establishment of a School of Journalism from the present Department of Journalism at the University of Western Ontario was proposed Friday by Dr. G. E. Hall, university president, at a gathering of Ontario Newspaper Editors and Publishers.

The occasion was a formal inspection of the new quarters of the department in Thames Hall attended by newspapermen, faculty members and students of journalism.

"Has the time come when we must think of the department as a separate entity and formation of a school of journalism?" Dr. Hall asked. "I think the time is just about right for us to think about this problem. At the same time I think we should consider establishment of an advisory academic committee.

"If you, of the newspaper profession, feel there is some justification for it, then the university can give it some consideration during the next year," Dr. Hall said.

Speaking for the daily newspapers, F. I. Ker, publisher of the Hamilton Spectator, urged instruction in mechanical side of newspaper production in addition to the editorial and business sides.

Dr. Hugh Templin, editor of the Fergus News-Record, speaking for the weekly newspapers, said some consideration should be given to preparing newsmen for weeklies.

Hollywood Radio Finds Canadians Acting, Writing

By JACK McLAREN

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—(CP)—Few Canadians have made good in Hollywood radio. But there are notable exceptions.

Foremost among these is Alan Young of Vancouver, now one of the top Hollywood television stars. "The Alan Young show" was well known to Canadian radio audiences when it originated in Toronto before moving to Hollywood. Now his show is on television here.

While Alan's Hollywood radio and movie shows were not outstanding, he is being acclaimed as a hit on television, and is reported to have signed a multiple deal with Paramount.

Successful in the radio writing field is Joe Young of Sudbury, (no relation to Alan.) Joe is currently writing the "Eddie Arnold show" for Brown Brothers, transcribed radio program producers of Nashville, Tenn., and Hollywood.

He came to Hollywood from Toronto with the Alan Young show in Jannuary, 1946, and has since written such big coast-to-coast shows as "My Fiend Irma," the Tony Martin show and others, as well as contributing to Lum 'N' Abner.

Top CBS Announcer

Top Hollywood announcer for the Columbia Broadcasting System is Larry Thor of Flin Flon Man., who came to Hollywood from Montreal in 1946. He announces many top CBS shows, such as "Carnation Family Party." He also starts on his own show, "Broadway Is My Beat."

Another Hollywood writer doing well is Reuben Shipp of Montreal, former CBC writer there. He has been writing "The Life of Riley," NBC show, since its inception about sevn years ago.

Jules Upton, another Vancouver man, who, like Alan Young, migrated to Toronto, has been in Hollywood for the last four years, teaching acting.

A Vancouver girl June Whitley has been successful in Hollywood radio. Besides acting on Lux Radio Theatre she plays the part of Robert Young's wife in the "Father Knows Best" radio show. Her husband, Bill Whitley, formerly a Canadian newspaperman, is a news writer with CBS in Hollywood.

Canadians in Hollywood radio wouldn't trade their positions for anything, but they have some advice for Canadians at home:

"If you must satisfy that yen to come to Hollywood, be prepared for a lot of lean days, regardless of your talent. Don't come to Hollywood unless you have a contract before you come. It's not easy to get one here."

Rita O'Heron, K. Guilfoyle On Trip to Southern States

At the Church of the Immaculate Conception on Saturday morning Rita Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert O'Heron, was united in marriage to Mr. Kenneth Joseph Guilfoyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Guilfoyle, all of Peterborough.

Celebrant of the nuptial mass was the Rev. G. Maher who performed the ceremony. Mrs. C. O'Donnell, organist, played wedding music and during the signing of the register Mr. Anthony DeNoble sang "On This Day."

Imported lace and ivory satin fashioned the bride's lovely gown, the skirt finished with a flounce which swept into a graceful train, and she wore a train-length veil of net and matching lace, caught to a coronet of seed pearls and crystal beads, and carried a bouquet of Bettertime roses. Mr. O'Heron gave his daughter in marriage.

Three bridal attendants were Miss Carmen Menard, bridesmaid and the bride's sisters, Miss Frances O'Heron, maid of honor, and Miss Ann O'Heron, junior bridesmaid. Miss Menard's frock was of pastel green marquisette, and the sisters both wore yellow nylon frocks. Each had a headdress to match her dress and they carried bouquets of Lindy Lou mauve themums.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Vanity, Boredom, Cold Mates Causes of Philandering

DEAR MISS DIX: I have read your column with interest for a long time and note that one of the most frequent problems brought to your attention is the philandering husband or wife. What is the cause of that type?

A READER

ANSWER: Disappointment in finding out that the men and women to whom they are married are not their physical and mental affinities does set many husbands and wives to roaming, but many other reasons besides that may be offered for marital infidelity.

The greatest of these is vanity. Just sheer vanity. A woman is pretty. She has been much admired by men. She has been flattered and courted and told how wonderful she is, and when she gets married and her husband reminds her of her faults oftener than he praises her looks, and especially when all love-making ceases and her husband expects her to take his affection for granted, she cannot stand it.

Dorothy Dix

Men Susceptible Too

Same way with a man. Before he was married he was a devil among the women. He also, was accustomed to being flattered and cajoled and to seeing women's eyes grow brighter at his coming. Besides, he fancied his own technique in lovemaking and he finds that wasted on a wife, who would rather have him say it with beefsteaks than orchids and who interrupts him when he goes into a sentimental act by reminding him that the grocery bill is overdue

Another reason for the philanderers is that most home like is dull and drab, a routine of babies and bills and bottles that gets on the nerves of the men and women who cannot live without excitement. Then, of course, many men and women are philanderers because they are heart hungry. They are married to cold and indifferent wives and husbands who give them no affection and it turns thm into love thieves. They snatch at the love for which they are perishing as a starving person does at food.

And there are many men and women who philander because they have no emotional depths themselves. They are incapable of a great love or of being faithful to one woman or man. They only play at love. All they enjoy is the love chase and when that is over and their objective is won the affair is finished so far as they are concerned. The thrill is all gone and they pass on to someone who is new and unwon.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Will you tell me how to make friends and keep them? E. H. H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: When you meet people whom you would like to have for friends you must make a gesture of friendship toward them, show them that you like them, that you admire them, and that you would like to see more of them. Then cultivate their friendship by showing them attentions, by going to see them and inviting them to see you, and doing anything you can to please them. Don't be stand-offish. Don't expect other people to make the advances and run after you.

To keep friends requires tact, self-sacrifice and generosity. You must respect your friends' keep-off-the-grass signs and avoid tramping over their pet prejudices. You must not try to impose your opinions and beliefs upon them. Many people alienate their friends by feeling free to criticize them and to tell them what they should do or should not do. Regard friendship as a gift that has been bestowed upon you, rather than as a graft.

You have to work at friendship. You have to keep the fires stacked. You must hold out a helping hand to them in their troubles and give them the glad hand when they rejoic. You must send letters of condolence and notes of congratulation, for they are not mind readers and cannot know that you are sympathizing with them if they never head from you. You must go to see the sick and the afflicted and show them by your affection and sympathy that you really are a friend.

It is not easy either to win friendship or to hold it, but it is worth whatever price it costs.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 18 very much in love with a boy of 19. He insists that if I really love him I must prove it by living with him without being married. Does this show that he loves me and that he will love me better if I do it, or will he think less of me?

WONDERING

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: No, he doesn't love you. Get that into your silly little head. A boy who loves a girl wants to protect her, to shield her, to save her even from herself. He doesn't want to drag her down or degrade her. The argument this boy is using to persuade you to do something that you know to be wrong is the one that every seducer has used since time began.

Cornelia Skinner Electrified by Mink Coat Present

By CINTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK —(AP)— Cornelia Otis Skinner, who calls herself "an actress who writes," is sick and tired of being considered a literary Siamese twin. So is the other half of a one-shot collaboration, Emily Kimbrough.

Both ladies by instinct are solo performers, and the fact the general public insits on coupling them in the manner of Rodgers and Hammerstein, Abercrombie and Fitch or ham and eggs is putting something of a strain on an old friendship.

Miss Skinner and Mrs. Kimbrough would let "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" be bygones and have it understood once and for all they are not planning to pick up a mutual quill again.

In the years since "Our Hearts" set the nation chuckling, Miss Skinner has assiduously pursued her serenely individual evistence: She makes about three national tours yearly with her solo performances (she won't use the word "monologist," because she says she can neither spell nor pronounce it); has starred in broadway plays; produced a steady, high quality stream of witty pieces of satire, and finds time to devote to the job of devoted wife and mother. She recent found time to go to Atlantic City to act as judge of the beauty contest.

Painless Writing

Right now she has a new book, "Nuts in May," which is another example of Miss Skinner's ingenuity. She has found an almost painless way to produce a book. This is accomplished by writing a short magazine piece whenever the mood or subject matter hits her. Every few year her publisher scoops up the pieces, hires a cartoonist to do illustrations and out comes a book.

But Miss Skinner has her own little problems, which she puts to good use by recounting them in her writing.

A long time ago she wrote an account of her unhappy lot in life as a picker-upper of static electricity. She almost electrocuted herself and others if she crosses a thick rug to shake hands. Through the years, too, she has talked with great wistfulness about mink coats and her own lack of same.

"The death of a relative and the existence of a patrimony made it possible for my husband to present me with a mink coat recently," she explained. "A perfectly beautiful mink coat. Now I have discovered that mink picks up more electricity than anything else I've ever encountered. My old caracul didn't, and neither does my mangy sheared beaver."

Has Struggle

The daughter of the actor Otis Skinner has the average professional writer's horrible struggle to get herself setting down one little word after another.

She gets most of her writing down on trains and in hotels during those gruelling tours, full of one-night stands. "The more deadly the town and the worse the hotel," she says, "the more I get done."

With the new book out and her red-haired son Dick back at Harvard for his second year, Miss Skinner will take to the road again this fall. The result undoubtedly will be come more of her amusing pieces. Miss Skinner picks up funny mis-adventures the way she attracts static electricity.

Ham Takes Drop In Price Help To Thrifty Housewife

By MARY MOORE

Fresh hams were advertised in a downtown butcher's window at a lower price than they have been in months—even years—so I decided to investigate weights et cetera to see how I could take advantage of such a big roast for our small family.

The butcher had an idea. He suggested that I take the whole ham to get the benefit of the low price, and that he would cut it in half, and I could ask my neighbors if one of them would take the other half.

This was a captial idea for Kathryn, my dear friend, said that their family had not had fresh pork for months and months, and that she would like to have the other half very much.

Besides which, I had offered to make two loaves of bread up into sandwiches for a large bridge party I was convening so it solved the problem of filling for them. I thought sliced roast pork sandwiches would be a welcome change to the usual egg, ham and salmon

So if you call on the Moore family in the next week—you will eat well—but you will know exactly what you are going to be fed—even if I do call it City Chicken.

I politely asked the butcher to perform one more service: to cut me off of the large cut end a one-inch slice. This was for the City Chicken which you will catch up with in a minute.

Roast Fresh Ham

Because I like the appearance of the scored rind when it is baked at high temperature I recommend the quick - searing method; 500 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes and 30 minutes to the pound for a ham weighing from 12 to 14 lbs.

Wipe the ham all over with a damp cloth, and with sharp pointed knife score the rind (or take it off) into attractive diagonal design. Sprinkle with salt and paprika. Put on trivet in roasting pan. Do not add water. Roast uncovered.

If desired rind may be left on for roasting, then sheared off with sharp knife. Surface of fat may be scored into squares, and sprinkled with brown sugar, mixed with a few fine crumbs Stick with cloves and brown in moderate oven for 15 to 20 minutes.

City Chicken

You may use equal parts of veal or pork for this, but today we use all pork.

Cut a ½ or 1-inch slice of fresh pork into 1¼-inch squares. Push the pieces on a wooden meat skewer to resemble drumstick of chicken as closely as possible. Roll each "drumstick" in milk, then in crumbs twice, and fry in deep fat until brown. Prepare one or two drumsticks for each diner, and place on baking dish as they are finished. When all are done, add 1 cup hot water to pan, sprinkle with salt and pepper, cover and roast slowly at 300 deg. Fahr. for 1½ to 2 hours or until tender. If necessary uncover during last 15 minutes to give them a crisp appearance.

Stuffing for Boned Fresh Ham or Shoulder

Saute a chopped onion in 2 tablespoons butter for 3 or 4 minutes. Remove from heat and add 3 or 4 cups soft bread crumbs, 1 beaten egg, ¼ teaspoon each celery salt, crumbled sage, pepper and some salt. Add a little hot milk if you like it moist. Stuff into pocket made by butcher when he removed the bone. Roast as for Roast Fresh Ham. This is especially appropriate for a fresh boned shoulder.

I think a little apple chutney and a lot of mayonnaise are good in combination with ground roast pork for sandwiches.

6—In Memoriams

RENOUF—In loving memory of my husband, Edward Renouf, who passed away October 2, 1948.
They say time heals all sorrow and helps us to forget
But time has only proven how much I miss you yet.
God gave me strength to fight it and courage to bear the blow.
But what it meant to lose you no one will ever know.
—Ever lovingly remembered by his wife.

RENOUF—In loving memory of my father, Edward Renouf, who passed away October 2, 1948.
God saw that he was suffering,
That the hills were hard to climb;
And gently closed his eyelids
And whispered "Peace be thine."
—Ever lovingly remembered by daughter Gladys and grandson Teddy.

Forestry Club

Members of the forestry club lived farther apart than the others, a difficulty that reduced the completing group to six, from the original 20.

However, their season is not finished yet, and there may be a fall trip and several meetings during the winter.

The continuing members present Saturday were all from the Omemee district: Doreen Dowdall 797, Alan Dowdall 789, James D. Hoskin 739, Douglas Jackson 732, Jean Hoskin and Dorothy Jackson.

Sixteen of the original 20 members of the tractor club completed their course.

It was noticed in the judging of the members' calves, (beef club) by Mr. Dalrymple, that three of the four Herefords descended from Old Orchard Farm. The exception was Arthur Dawson's calf which traces to the Harold Elmhirst herd, Otonabee, east of Indian River.

The three others were shown by Francis Walsh, Stephanie Stewart and Bob Allen of Smith.

Youngest In Show

The Walsh calf was probably the youngest in the show. It was born in April, on the last day of eligibility. Mr. Dalrymple spent considerable time on the class before placing the Walsh calf over the sturdy individual shown by Stephanie Stewart.

Bob Allen, in that group, was one of the real juniors of the club season, just a youngster and a little fellow beginning to get around in that earnest company.

Two Aberdeen-Angus calves were shown by John De Nure of North Monaghan and Edward Corkery of Ennismore. Most of the beef calves were Shorthorns; with Holsteins most prominent in the dairy groups.

Mr. Paterson had a closing word for the boys and girls who did not make the top places. The clubs were intended partly as an introduction to living, as well as to the caring and understanding of cattle. And, in life, everyone could do his and her best, and keep trying.

There should be no feeling of disappointment, Mr. Paterson advised the youngsters. They had come through an interesting year, they had learned many new things and had visited here and there. He asked them to keep up their interest, and expressed the hope that the classes next year would be as attractive as they were this year.

TV Difficulties On Pacific Coast Most Financial

Written for The Canadian Press By JACK McLAREN

HOLLYWOOD —(CP)— The possibility of coast-to-coast television in Canada is remote; it still hasn't been accomplished in the United States.

People who said two years ago that television would put radio stations out of business have yet to see their prediction come true. Hollywood is a major radio centre as well as the motion picture capital, and a record number of radio sets were sold last year.

Television here, however, is big business. There now is a television set for every three people in the Los Angeles and Hollywood area.

In spite of this, New York, not Hollywood, is the television capital. There is a steady exodus to New York of television writers and performers, the latest being Eddie Cantor.

The reason for this is that there is no television network west of St. Louis connecting with the west coast. The west coast, instead, is serviced from the east with kinoscope films, the technical quality of which leaves much to be desired. Artists also prefer doing their shows in New York, where they have a concentration of audiences.

West Coast Network

Video viewers in the Los Angeles and San Francisco areas got their first look at network television Sept. 15. The Los Angeles-San Francisco microwave relay link is the first in a proposed west coast TV system.

One of the chief reasons telecasters are not yet ready for regular scheduling of programs between the two cities is the cost. About $2,600,000 is being sunk into this one micro-wave system and the time rates to TV stations will run into several thousand dollars a month.

Cost of producing a first-rate television show without network costs is practically prohibitive, even in Hollywood. It costs from $15,000 to $50,000 to produce a half-hour television show comparable to a good radio program.

The entertainment value of west coast television shows ranges from excellent to bad. The sports angle probably is the only thing that has saved television here. Baseball, football, polo played with cars and a huge ball, midget auto racing, wrestling and boxing all are great favorites.

Remand Driver Without Plea

Charged with careless driving and taking a car without the owner's consent following an accident in which he hit a parked car and then a house about 5 a.m. Saturday morning, Fred LaPlante, 22, 293 Westcott St., was remanded without plea to Tuesday in police court today.

Police reported LaPlante hit a car owned by Herb Payne, Romaine St., parked outside his house. The parked car was driven about 62 feet by the impact and suffered considerable damage.

The taxi LaPlante was driving, owned by Geoffrey (Gip) Feeley, after hitting Payne's car, turned sharply across a lawn, through a fence and hit a house "with considerable force."

Musial Captures Fourth Batting Title

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—(AP)—Stan Musial, the slugging star of St. Louis Cardinals, won the fourth National League batting championshrip of his brilliant career Sunday as he finished the 1950 season with a healthy 346 mark.

Musial is only the third player in National League history to win more than three batting championships. The other two were Honus Wagner of Pittsburg and Roger Hornsby of the Cards and Boston. Wagner won eight crowns and Hornsby seven.

The master mauler of the Cards pounded out 192 hits in 555 trips to the plate, according to unofficial figures. Among his blows were 28 home runs, seven triples and 41 doubles. Musial drove in 108 runs and scored 105.

Stan the man, who has never failed to hit .300 or more since he joined the Cards in 1941, previously won the title in 1943 with a .357 mark, in 1946 with a .365 average and in 1948 with a lofty .376.

Finnished Second

Jackie Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who won last year's batting derby from Musial by four points, finished second to the Card star with a .328 mark.

Trailing Robinson were Duke Snider, Brooklyn, .321; Del Ennis, Philadelphia, and Walker Cooper, Boston, .313; Ted Kluszewski, Cincinnati, .307; Carld Furillo, Brooklyn, and Bob Elliott, Boston, .305; and Andy Pafko, Chicago, and Sid Gordon, Boston .304.

Ralph Kiner, the hard hitting outfielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, won the home run derby with ease, belting 47 to outdistance runner-up Andy Pafko of Chicago, who wound up with 36.

It marked the fifth time that Kiner has either won or tied for the title since he came into the league in 1946.

Despite his bumper crop, Kiner finished second to Ennis for the runs-batted-in leadership. Ennis drove in 125 runs and Kiner 117.

Earl Torgeson of Boston led in runs scored with 120. Snider collected the most hits, 199, while Red Schoendienst of St. Louis led in doubles with 43 and Richie Ashburn of Philadelphia in triples, 14. Rookie Sam Jethroe of Boston stole the most bases, 35.

CAR AND GARAGE were lost in a blaze at the farm home of Lewis Dunk, Seymour Twp. Saturday night. Car And Garage Lost By Fire

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 2 — (ENS) — Fire destroyed a car and garage on the farm of Lewis Dunk, Lot 16, the Third Concession of Seymour, about five-and-a-half miles east of Campbellford on Saturday night.

Mr. Dunk had returned form Campbellford and put the car in the garage earlier in the evening. He heard the dog barking and went to the door to let him in when he saw the flames shooting from the garage. Mr. Dunk was unable to put out the flames which had gained considerable headway.

Neighbors who saw the flames notified the Campbellford fire department, where the alarm was sounded and more than 200 in 60 cars travelled to the farm, believing the house was on fire. Permission was obtained to send the Campbellford fire department to the scene and although it took the truck less than 10 minutes to get there, the garage and car were already destroyed.

Fireman confined their efforts to checking the spread of the flames and later, to quelling the flaming embers.

Loss is estimated at more than $1000, most of which is covered by insurance. The fire is believed to have started from a short in the wiring in the car. Flames appeared to originate from the motor of the vehicle.

Mr. Dunk and his wife live alone on the farm.

Soldiers Get New Dog 'Tags'

OTTAWA, Oct. 2 — (CP) — The soldier's old fibre "dog tag" is on the way out.

For troops of Canada's new special brigade there will be a new-type identity disc made of metal, the army announced today. It will be designed in two sections, with the centre partially perforated to permit easy removal of the duplicate lower half.

On one side of the rectangular shaped tags will be stamped the soldier's regimental number, rank, name and initials, religious denomination and his nationality; on the reverse side will be the man's blood grouping— important when a soldier is wounded.

A beaded chain of strong metal replaces the old neck cord.

In Accident, Suicides

UNION, W.Va., Oct. 2—(AP)—A hysterical, 27-year-old man shot and killed himself Sunday shortly after an automobile he was driving struck and injured a pedestrian. Police said Ralph Humphreys went to the home of his father-in-law, whose car Humphreys was driving, and shot himself in the chest.

Philadelphia Captures Pennant Edge Out Dodgers In 4-1 Battle

By JOE REICHLER

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2. — (AP).—Their first pennant in 35 years finally safely stowed away beyond Brooklyn's reach, Philadelphia's fighting Phillies plan to shoot the works against the favored New York Yankees in the World Series starting here Wednesday.

Unless there is a change of heart, Manager Eddie Sawyer of the Phils will open up with Robin Roberts, conqueror of the Dodgers Sunday in the biggest game of the year, Roberts will be opposed by Allie Reynolds in a battle of righthanders.

The Yankees, well rested following their clinching of the American League pennant last Friday, will rule a 2-1 favorite over the Phils. Experts figure the Yanks have too much experience, deeper reserve strength and stronger pitching than the youthful Whiz Kids.

Philly Manager Eddie Sawyer does not appear to be the least bit worried about the Yankee prowess.

"We weren't figuring to have a chance to beat Brooklyn for the pennant, were we?" he reminded.

Pitches Great Game

Rosy - cheeked Robin Sunday undoubtedly pitched the greatest game of his career, but he still got a great battle from Brooklyn's Don Newcombe. If Dick Sisler hadn't hit that homer with two on in the top of the 10th to snap a 1-1 tie, the game might be going on yet.

The blow by Sisler, son of the immortal George, who acts as Brooklyn's head scout, ended Brooklyn's "miracle" finish that for a time threatened to throw the race into a last-day tie. It gave Roberts his 20th victory of the year after the youngster had made five futile tries for it.

Although Roberts yielded but five blows to 11 for Newcombe, he had to summon all his wile and cunning to hold off a Brooklyn bases-loaded threat in the ninth that appeared destined to bring about the Phillies' sixth straight defeat.

Crowd Goes Wild

A crowd of 35,073, biggest of the year at Ebbets Field, went into hysterics as Cal Abrams led off the last of the ninth with a walk and took second on a single by Pee Wee Reese.

That brought up Duke Snider, the best left-handed hitter on the club. With everyone expecting a bunt, Snider teed off and slashed a line single to centre. Abrams attempted to score from second, but Richie Ashburn made a sparkling one-handed scoop of the ball and threw to the plate. The ball came in on a good hop right into Stan Lopata's hands and Abrams was tagged out standing up.

But Roberts was not out of the hole yet. There were still runners on second and third (Snider went to second on the throw) and only one out. Sawyer ordered Jackie Robinson purposely passed. That loaded the bases.

Carl Furillo, swinging at the first pitch, raised a soft foul to first baseman Eddie Waitkus, Gil Hodges sent a long fly that went for the third out.

Then it was the Phillies' turn. Sawyer debated taking Roberts out for a pinch-hitter but finally decided to let the pitcher hit for himself. Roberts opened with a single to centre. Waitkus. blooped another.

Ashburn, attempting to sacrifice, bunted into a force play at third. That set the stage for Sisler's game-winning clout.

Still playing with a bandaged right wrist that had kept him out of action for two weeks, Dick worked the count to a ball and two strikes, then sent a high arching fly to left. The ball carried into the stands, about four rows in. That was the ball game. Roberts got the side out in order in the last of the 10th.

In the American League games on the season's closing play, the Yankees lost 7-3 to Boston Red Sox, who had already clinched third place; second-place Detroit dropped a 7-5 decision to Cleveland Indians, who wound up fourth; the last-place Philadelphia Athletics wound up with a 5-3 triumph over Washington, who ended up in fifth place; and Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Browns split a doubleheader, Sox winning the opener 4-3 and the Browns the finale 10-6. Chicago took sixth place and St. Louis seventh.

Elsewhere in the National League, the New York Giants closed out in third place with a 5-1 victory over Boston Braves, who finished fourth. Chicago Cubs, second-last team in the league, closed with a 3-2 victory over the fifth-place Cardinals. Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, sixth and last respectively, split a doubleheader, the Reds taking the first 3-2 and losing the nightcap 3-1.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

The Canadian basketboll team won their second match in the World Jewish Olympics by beating Belgium 80-12 at Tel Aviv Sunday night.

Welterweight boxer William Eugene Sudney, of Toronto, beat Israel's Gabi Held for the 147-pound championship.

Joe Kirkwood, Jr., of Hollywood, the Joe Palooka of the movies,, proved he was no Palooka with a golf club Sunday. He won the Ozarks open golf tournoment with a 54-hole total of 201, 18 strokes under par, at Springfield, Mo.

Syracuse University won the International Silver Trophy relay race championship at Toronto Saturday, covering the 30-mile distance in four minutes and 23 seconds.

The novel race—an annual fixture since 1904—started at Earlscourt Park, Toronto, with the 10-man teams carrying the batons to Wotertown, Ont.

Close behind Syracuse came the Hamilton Olympic Club, in three hours, seven minutes, 31 seconds.

Third was Toronto's Gladstone Athletic Club, with three hours, nine minutes, four seconds.

Roger Whynott, former Canadian middleweight champion from Mahone Bay, N.S., gained a 10-round decision at Saint John, N.B., Saturday night over Marc Begin, 19-year-old Montrealer. It was the first loss in 23 bouts for Begin, who outpointed Whynott two weeks ago.

Babe Didrikson Zaharias won her second United States women's open golf tournament at Wichita Sunday with a five-under-par 70 for a 72-hole score of 291, tying the record for the event.

The fabulous Babe, playing out of Prairie View, Ill., boosted her money earnings to $14,200 as she beat her nearest competitor amateur Betsy Rawls, of Austin, Tex., by nine strokes. The Babe pursed $1,250 of the $5,000 payoff Sunday.

George D. Widener's battlefield wrapped up honors as the champion two-year-old horse of 1950 when he drove to the wire Saturday to win the $106,415 Belmont Futurity.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 2.—(ENS). —The September meeting of the South group of St. Andrew's WA was held at Mrs. David Clarke's home on Tuesday, when 14 members were present.

A successful rummage sale had been held in conjunction with Millbrook WA which raised the allocation considerably.

Mrs. Fred Winslow conducted two contests, and Mrs. Weatherielt and Mrs Clarke gave two readings.

The October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Cliff. Allen.

A lunch was served.

Rough Riders Batter Argos As Alouettes Trip Hamilton

By The Canadian Press

The teams who just had to win football games won them during the weekend.

An exception were the once-mighty Calgary Stampeders who took a 22-0 drubbing from Winnipeg Blue Bombers and lost almost any hope of a playoff spot.

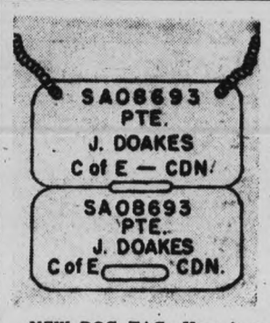
Ottawa Rough Riders needed to beat Toronto Argonauts to recover from a dismal early-season performance. They battered the Argos 15-5 in a surprising reversal of last week's game when Argos crushed the Riders 36-15.

Montreal Alouettes, defending dominion champions, needed a win over Hamilton Tiger-Cats to keep within shouting distance of the rest of the pack in the Interprovincial Football Union. Alouettes ended a four-game losing streak by upsetting Hamilton 31-18 in a Sunday game in Montreal.

In the west, a win over Edmonton Eskimos would have all but clinched a playoff spot for Saskatchewan Roughriders. But a last-minute touchdown by Al Bodine gave the Riders the game, 9-6.

In the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union Toronto Balmy Beaches trounced Windsor Rockets 24-10 in a Sunday game at Toronto. Beaches also beat the University of Toronto 25-15 Saturday in an exhibition game.

In other exhibition games—warm-ups for the intercollegiate season which opens next Saturday—Sarnia Imperials, the ORFU leaders, beat the University of Western Ontario 24-19 at London and Queen's beat McMaster 23-6 at Hamilton Saturday.



The weekend in the Big Four left Argos still in first place, two points ahead of Ottawa and Hamilton. Montreal trails by another two points.

Ottawa won the game along the wing line, where its fighting front wall slowed down the Argo backs and gave ample time for Ottawa's attack to develop. The Riders rolled over the Argo machine almost at will during the first half, but led only by a single point, the result of a long punt by Bruce Cummings. Just at the start of the third quarter, Argo halfback Billy Bass scampered 85 yards for a touchdown. But an Argo fumble set up a touchdown by Andy Gordon. It was followed by another single by Cummings.

Frank Dunlop powered over for another major in the final quarter. Both Ottawa touchdowns were converted by Eric Chipper.

Trailing at the start of the third quarter, Alouettes roared into life and counted three majors in the third period with another in the final. Tommy Manastersky and Virgil Wagner each went across twice. Keith English got another on a pass from Frank Filchock — one of two touchdown passes by Filchock.

Bill Gregus got two of the Hamilton touchdowns. Jack Stewart got the other on a three-yard plunge and Edgar Jones converted two of them.

Find New Ways To Dissolve Kidney Stones

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

CHICAGO, Oct. 2 —(AP)— The goal of dissolving human kidney stones painlessly is brought nearer by new discoveries here.

The findings are three different ways of dissolving stones in rats. They prove that stones, once formed, can be made to disappear without surgery. Formation of new stones can be prevented.

One method, with rats, is to boost the urine output four-fold. Another makes the urine acid. Third cuts down on the amount of magnesium in their food. All succeeded about equally.

The findings came from a surgeon, Dr. Cornelius W. Vermeulen of the University of Illinois Medical College.

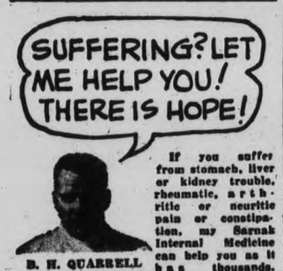
His studies are aimed at finding how to get rid of dangerous kidney stones in humans without surgery. The rat methods may not apply to humans. But one treatment—drinking more fluids to make more urine—is being tried on three humans now. X-rays indicate that the stones in one man's kidney are getting smaller, or have disappeared, Dr. Vermeulen said.

Kidney stones are made of calcium, magnesium, and other chemicals forming hard deposits in the kidneys, blocking, the urinary tract. They may grow large or there may be scores of little ones.

Used 4,000 Rats

In the last two years, Dr. Vermeulen has experimented with 4,000 rats, studying how stones form, and how they can be dissolved. He puts tiny flat pieces of zinc in the rats' bladders, and these serve as seeds for the growth of stones. In four to six weeks the rats almost always develop stones of varying size.

But stones did not form in rats which drank great amounts of sugared water daily for six weeks, Dr. Vermeulen found.



The big water intake also dissolved stones in rats which already had them and making the urine more acid did the same thing.

Motorized Cowboys Breaking Up Exasperating Buffalo Herds

By LACHLAN MACDONALD

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Oct. 2 —(AP)— Motorized cowboys are breaking up Alaska's experimental buffalo herd—al lbecause the ornery critters like to clutter up air force runways and bump heads with tourist automobiles.

The bison range at Big Delta, South of Fairbanks, in an area of woods and grassland about 20 miles square. The United States fish and wildlife service, conducting the roundup, says the grazing area is too limited for the full herd which now numbers about 350.

Thinning out the herd is the job of Urban C. Nelson and Edward F. Chatelain.

The herd, not native to the frosty territory, got to Alaska in the first place when 23 animals were transplanted from the United States in 1928. At that time they were nearing extinction. Even today in the States, they are seen only in captivity or in scattered national parks and range preserves.

Take it in Stride

So far the buffalo have taken Alaska's winters, wolves and wild grass in stride. They've also become a nuisance at the Big Delta airbase.

The buffalo sometimes charge automobiles and when a herd ambles onto an airfield runway it sometimes delays flights for an exasperating half-hour.

Salt-lick blocks in a corral entice the buffalo to enter.

Then the trappers open a chute in one wall of the pen and wait for a buffalo they want to wander into it. When a choice specimen gets into the chute, a trapdoor drops and he is ready to be prodded into a heavy crate.

The crate is rolled into a truck for a quick trip to Salina. There the buffalo backs out of his crate, kicks up his heels and disappears into the brush.

Head Of Iranian Delegation Chosen UN Assembly Head

By JOSEPH EDELSTEIN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2 (AP). — For the second successive year, the 59 countries spanning civilization's gamut of race, color, language and tradition have decided on brains over brawn for the jack-the-giant-killer job of president of the United Nations General Assembly.

The choice for critical 1950 is the diminutive, dapper Nasrollah Entezam (pronounced Naz-roh-lah Enn'-teh-zahn), head of the Iranian delegation. He succeeded the equally short but energetic Brig.-Gen. Carlos Romulo of the Philippines.

In the ancient Persian, the root of Entezam is "Nazm," meaning one who prevails in keeping order. His homeland title, too, is "Seyed," marking him a descendant of Mohammed the Prophet.

Necessary Qualifications

Plainly, these are much-needed qualifications in a world and in an arena where two powerful rival ideologies prevail. And if not a prophet, then a spokesman to translate into a deep faith the inarticulate, confused beliefs of the people of the world.

In the assembly arena the delegates had to get a tough-minded politico who could handle 1950's rough and tumble with finesse.

Entezam qualified on these counts—in addition to the fact that he was a strong presidential candidate last year:

Thirty-two of his 50 years have been steeped in diplomatic training and experience—law and political science diplomas from the universities of Tehran, Paris; service in League of Nations, at various times, health, communications and foreign affairs ministers in the Iranian cabinet; on the ground floor of the United Nations with the San Francisco conference and since then an active participant and leader in important U.N. committees.

But more than that to some delegates Entezam is versed in diplomacy's French, language he uses while presiding over the assembly, although he speaks English perfectly.

He is a razor-brained crackerjack at bridge. He still looks the athlete he was in his college days: trim, wiry, quick-moving, with direct, huge dark eyes in a thin, dark face set off with a moustache, horn-rimmed glasses, and a strong head of hair.

Unreality Subject Of Lesson-Sermon

"Unreality" was the subject of the Lesson Sermon which was read in all churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, including First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Peterborough, on Sunday.

The Golden Text was "What is the chaff, to the wheat? saith the Lord." (Jeremiah 23:28).

Selections from the Bible included the following from 1st Corinthians 8:5,6, "For though there be that are called gods, whether in heaven or in earth, (as there be gods many, and lords many). But to us there is but one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and we in Him;

Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," included the following: "We lose the high signification of omnipotence, when after admitting that God, or good, is omnipresent and has all-power, we still believe there is another power, named evil. This belief that there is more than one mind is as pernicious to divine theology as are ancient mythology and pagan idolatry.

India Against Occupying Red Korea

Canada, Australia Back Peace Plan From Eight Counties

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Oct. 3—(AP)—Australia called today for the occupation of all Korea by United Nations forces, but India expressed grave doubts about the wisdom of such a course.

India's Sir Benegal N. Rau expressed opposition to an eight-country resolution which he said authorizes by implication the crossing of the 38th Parallel and the indefinite occupation of North Korea.

Australia's Foreign Minister Percy C. Spender asked for the complete destruction of the North Korean Army as a fighting force to prevent a new aggression in that country. The Indian and Australian views were expressed before the general assembly's political committee which is debating proposals for pacification and unification of Korea.

Australia, along with Britain and six others, is a sponsor of a plan to unite and rehabilitate Korea under U.N. auspices.

Canada's Minister for External Affairs, L. B. Pearson, has promised complete support for the eight-power plan. He said Russia's proposal for a cease-fire now would have the effect of stopping U.N. troops at the 38th Parallel or wherever they are in Korea.

Andrei Vishinsky, Soviet foreign minster, Monday threw Russia's Korean program into the debate after he had rejected the eight-country idea—already favored by a U.N. majority—to set up a commission with strong Asian representation to stabilize Korea as a unified country, supervise elections and arrange for relief.

The committee's afternoon session Monday was filled with a series of satellite repetitions of an earlier speech by Vishinsky. He charged that South Korea and the United States were the aggressors in Korea and that a U.N. watch-dog commission there tried to cover up for the U.S.

Poland, White Russia and Czechoslovakia argued, often in the same language Vishinsky had used earlier, for the Soviet view-

He was buried with full military honors, and ABOVE, an unnamed RAF padre is shown reading the funeral service while members of the RAF from Fayid stand at attention. Go 50 Miles Over Border In N. Korea

US Commanders Fear Flank Attack As Reds Vanishing

TOKYO, Oct. 3—(AP)—South Korean forces pierced nearly 50 miles into North Korea today on a drive aimed to carry all the way to Communist China's Manchuria border.

The South Korean commander then conferred with two top U.S. Generals who flew to Koryo airfield at Kangnung, just south of the border.

Lt.-Gen. Walton H. Walker, Eighth Army commander, and Maj.-Gen. Earl E. Partridge, Fifth Air Force commander, talked there with Maj.-Gen. Kim Pak Il, commander of the South Korean 1st Corps.

The reason for the conference was not disclosed. But an Allied Korean military advisory group officer expressed concern over the small number of prisoners taken—50 to 75 a day.

Fear Flank Attack

Advisory officers feared that the Reds may be vanishing to mass up in the hills for a flanking attack.

The South Koreans had Allied air support on a swiftly advancing bomb line and standby naval gun support alongside their east coast drive.

The Reds were reported running toward Wonsan, 60 road miles north of Kansong, under reported orders to make a last ditch stand there on the Sea of Japan coast.

South Korean troops thrust about 270 road miles since they started 15 days ago in the Pohang port area.

"We are going to the borders of Manchuria," said Lt.-Col. Jung Rei Hlok.

Would Beat Winter

"We will ge there in a month—maybe two months. But we want to get there before the winter comes."

The Manchurian border is about 180 air miles north of Parallel 38, the border between South and North Korea. By road, it is closer to 300.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters broke its silence on the Sunday crossing of the Parallel 38 border by the South Koreans. His Tuesday afternoon war summary said without elaboration that South Korean 3rd Division troops had advanced to Tongho, a village 13 miles north of the boarder on the Sea of Japan.

An Allied spokesman in Korea however, said spearheads of the 3rd Division had moved beyond captured Kansong against little opposition.

Kansong is about 35 mles north of the border and within 60 road miles of Wonsan. Wonsan is the oil-refinery port where Communist prisoners have said the North Koreans are hastily massing troops for an all-out defence stand.

Another South Korean division, the Capital, had moved at least 15 miles north of Parallel 38 Tuesday morning. It was advancing on

Bandits Slug Driver

ORILLIA, Oct. 3—(CP)—Bandits Monday night stole $150 from Norman Switzer, 19, bread salesman, slugged him unconscious and left him on the road behind his truck with fumes from the exhaust pipe blowing into his face. He was suffering carbon monoxide poisoning when found by farmer James McFarlane but was revived in hospital.

Police Chief Admits Failure To Obey Rules

WINDSOR, Oct. 3—(CP)—The Windsor Police Commission meets today to continue its inquiry of law enforcement in the city after taking Police Chief Claude Renaud to task for his administration of the city's police department.

In a sharp, half-hour interrogation by the commission Monday Chief Renaud admitted his failure to comply with regulations governing the police force.

The chief also took issue with several of the findings in a report by two provincial police inspectors who investigated law enforcement in the city.

The questioning was carried out by two recently-appointed members of the commission—Judge Archibald Cochrane of Brampton, chairman of the commission, and Magistrate Roland A. Harris of Windsor. They succeeded two commissioners who resigned follownig publication Sept. 9 of the provincial police report.

Mayor Arthur J. Reaume, third member of the commission and a member of the previous commission, did not take part in the questioning.

Admits Failure

Judge Cochrane gained admissions from Chief Renaud that he had failed to issue orders for his men, failed to hold regular drills and ordered removal of identification badges which policemen should wear.

On a number of other questions Chief Renaud was unable to give answers.

Judge Cochrane termed the 27-year-old department regulations as "ancient" and said they needed revision. But he declared that they should have been followed.

The judge said there was nothing in the regulations providing for a deputy police chief. The post now is held by W. H. Neale.

Chief Renaud said the deputy chief "takes charge when I'm not there, handles the working conditions, reports to me and sees that the sergeants do their work."

He said that the deputy chief handles the morality squad. The chief said he did not feel the morality squad was the most important section of his department. It was understaffed and he added extra men for raids.

(The provincial police report strongly criticized the morality squad and said that police discipline was lax).

Denies Poor Discipline

Chief Renaud said there was no basis for the report's statement that discipline and morale was low.

Won't Affect Existing Agreements

Ottawa, Provinces Cannot Exchange Legislative Powers

OTTAWA, Oct. 3—(CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada today ruled that the Federal Government and the provinces cannot legally exchange their legislative powers, but the judgment will have no effect on existing Federal - Provincial agreements.

Informed government sources said the judgment might delay an over-all national Social Security program. Social Security normally falls within the jurisdiction of the provinces and no over-all national program can be inaugurated without their consent.

There have been some suggestions that the provinces delegate their powers over social security to enable the Federal government to introduce a national social security program. That avenue for bringing the program into being now is blocked. The only way it now can be brought about is for the Federal government and the provinces to agree on a constitutional amendment.

Not Affected

Justice Minister Garson said in an interview that existing Federal-Provincial taxation and other agreements will not be affected, because they do not constitute a delegation of powers. They constituted a foregoing to taxation authority by the provinces rather than the outright delegation.

Under the constitution, the Federal government has unlimited taxing authority and the provinces, in entering the agreements, say merely, in effect, that they will not operate in personal income, corporation and inheritance tax fields for the duration of the agreement.

Federal rent controls, due to expire April 30 next, remain unchanged by the decision, In peacetime, by virtue of the de-

Unemployment Shows Drop Department Says

OTTAWA, Oct. 3. — (CP). — Canada's employment picture continues to improve under the impetus of the country's stepped-up production-for-defence program and some industries actually are suffering a labor shortage, the Labor Department reported today.

A developing phase of the employment situation is the increasing number of women seeking jobs.

At Sept. 14 a total of 140,300 registrations for employment were on file at National Employment Service offices across the country, a decline of 11,300 from the first of the month, but 1,600 more than at the same time last year.

Of these, 53,400 were women, compared with 39,700 registered women job-seekers at the same period last year. The male registrations—89,900 — were 12,000 below the total at the same time last year.

Need Farm Workers

The department said there were shortages of farm workers in some areas and recent defence orders created new jobs in shipyards and aircraft factories in Ontario and Quebec where experienced workers were much in demand. Many primary iron and steel plants and steel fabricating firms also were increasing staff and there were numerous vacancies for skilled machinists, tool and die makers and moulders.

Recruiting for the annual harvest excursion to the West continued throughout the first half of September and will progress until early this month. More than 2,000 men will be required from Ontario and Quebec to help harvest the big Western crop.

Dictator Seeking Re-election

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Oct. 3—(AP)—Brazil's voters decide today in a free election whether Getulio Vargas, the man who tore up the country's constitution and ruled as Dictator until the Army deposed him, shall return to the Presidency. Some 11,000,000 persons are eligible to mark their choice between the 67-year-old, astute and unrepentant former strong man and two other leading Presidential candidates. Vargas, in a hard-hitting campaign, has promised more roads, higher wages, expanded social services, and extension of labor laws enacted in the one-man "Estado Novo" (new state) he fashioned in the 30s.

He has offered no word of regret for his iron-hand rule between 1930 and 1945—and though the campaign was based on personalities, he was not singled out for attack on that score by his principal opponents.

His Opponents

These are prim, austere pharmacist - lawyer-politician Cristiano Machado and Eduardo Gomes, 54-year-old top general of Brazil's Air Force.

Machado is the nominee of the Social Democratic party and the Government - backed candidate. Gomes is the standard-bearer of the Conservative Democratic Union party. He lost to outgoing President Gen. Eurico Gaspar Dutra in the 1945 election, two months after Dutra, Gomes and other generals overthrew the Vargas regime.

The leading political parties concede the balloting is likely to be close enough for a 100,000-vote margin to prove decisive. Polls are open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., but the results will not be known until Wednesday.

American Gets Secret Look At New Baby Soviet Tanks

BERLIN, Oct. 3—(AP)—An American Congressman has pierced Russia's Iron Curtain in Germany and returned undetected with an eye-witness account of new Soviet baby tanks and jet planes. The adventure was reported by representative Thurmond Chatham (Dem. N.C.), who came to Berlin with a group of Congressmen touring United States defence points in Europe. Chatham in an interview described a 50-mile jeep ride into the Soviet zone, which bristles with 250,000 Russian troops. He visited a new air base and an infantry tank compound.

A westerner on such forbidden territory is vulnerable to arrest and possible shooting as a spy.

The congressman said he was escorted on the trip by a Russian officer he befriended while they both were doing liaison work during the Second World War.

Chatham told this story:

He recognized the Russian, in civilian clothing, in a west Berlin night club.

Accepted Offer

"He threw his arms around me and we had a good talk. He asked if I would like to take a trip with him and I accepted."

The next day the Russian took Chatham to the Soviet sector of Berlin, put on the uniform of a senior Red Army officer and took a jeep from the Russian motor pool.

Will Press Reds For POW Inquiry

LONDON, Oct. 3—(AP)—The Big Three western powers will press the United Nations next week tod begin an international inquiry into the fate of thousands of Russian-held prisoners of war, official sources reported today.

Russia Monday rejected similar demands made directly to her by the United States, Britain and France.

Russia asserted repatriation of German P.O.W.S. had been completed early this year with the exception of 9,717 condemned for grave war crimes, 3,815 held as suspected war criminals and 14 men who were ill.

A foreign spokesman described the Russian figures as "absurdly small" and the Soviets' reply to the western demand as "unsatisfactory."

The western powers last July claimed thousands of German POW's known to have been in Soviet custody were still unaccounted for.

Chooses Konstanty For Phillies' Opener

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3. — (AP). — Manager Eddie Sawyer announced today that Jim Konstanty, his great relief pitcher, will start the opening game of the World Series for Philadelphia Phillies.

Sawyer's announcement was a real shocker. Konstanty did not start one game during the 1950 season, although he pitched in 74 games, a modern major league record.

Konstanty's mound opponent will be Vic Raschi of the New York Yankees.

Raschi won 21, lost 8; Konstanty won 17, lost 6.

Plane Wrecked Tourists Safe

WINNIPEG, Oct. 3—(CP) — The RCAF said today it has been advised an Ohio plane missing on a flight from Michigan to Kenora, Ont., has been found wrecked, but the couple aboard are safe.

The accident was reported to have occurred 25 miles east of Manistique, Mich., on the plane's route between Traverse City and Escanaba, Mich.

Details were not available here.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tucker, of Dayton, O., had been unheard from since they left Traverse City Sunday in their amphibious plane. They were on a vacation and hunting trip to Kenora.

Something New Added

FORT MONMOUTH, N.J., Oct. 3 (CP)—A military field wire that can be laid at speeds up to 120 miles an hour has been used successfully in Korea, the army signal corps announced Monday. The wire can be laid by airplane, or by automatic dispensers fired from a bazooka or rifle.

$1,200 Missing At City Hall

SUDBURY, Oct. 3 (CP)—City council's finance committee prepared today to conduct its own investigation of the disappearance of $1,200 from a vault in the city treasurer's office.

Council approved the idea of a committee inquiry when several aldermen insisted Monday night that the matter came under that jurisdiction. No date was set for the committee meeting.

Meanwhile, police said there was nothing to report on their investigation. No city or police official has yet termed the loss a theft. Mayor W. S. Beaton said there is a distinct possibility the money—all in large bills—was "misplaced."

It has been established there was no break-in. A general search of all city offices was continued today.

Delay Judgment In Keays Case

OTTAWA, Oct. 3 — (CP)—Magistrate Glenn Strike reserved judgment Monday in the case of J. E. (Ernie) Keays, former provincial police constable who created a disturbance in county court here last month.

Keays is charged with unlawfully wearing the uniform of an Ontario provincial police constable and with carrying a weapon capable of being concealed. He was arrested after brandishing an automatic in court and demanding to be arrested.

Following summation by S. Rupert Broadfoot, assistant crown attorney, and rebuttal by Keays Monday, the magistrate said there were a number of points of argument he would have to study. He adjourned the case to Wednesday, with an indication he will then order a further adjournment.

Elephant Manages To Enjoy Sea Voyage

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 3 — (AP)—An elephant which felt solitary confinement was no way to enjoy a sea voyage created a brief uproar and some destruction aboard the line Nieuw Holland.

Leaning heavily against its pen, the pachyderm splintered the woodwork and lumbered off for a promenade of the decks during the vessel's trip from Singapore to Sydney.

The elephant let off some steam by wrenching the headlight from one cargo automobile and the number plate from another. Then a crew member lured it back to prison.

Union Forces Labor Party Drop Wage-Freeze Policy

MARGATE England, Oct. 3 — (CP)—Heavy fire from union leaders and left-wing members of parliament today forced the Labor Party executive to retreat from its wage-freeze policy. The unions rammed through a resolution demanding pay boosts, price cuts and profit controls.

The resolution which the executive accepted unanimously, forced the party to abandon the Labor government hold-the-line order on wages, put into effect in February, 1948. It was adopted after 1,500 delegates to the party's annual conference heard Prime Minister Attlee declare in a welcoming speech that "capitalism has lost faith in itself."

Attlee told the conference that Britain's policy of democratic socialism "is the only dynamic alternative to totalitarian Communism."

The effect of today's wages resolution is binding on the party leadership, and theoretically on the government, since Attlee and six members of his cabinet are in the 26-member party executive.

Meanwhile, leftwingers gained strength on the party's national executive, including a record vote for Health Minister Aneurin Bevan.

Bevan topped the constituency parties' section with 849,000 votes, beating his last year's record by 760,000 votes.

Many delegates spoke of the vote as a "score" for Bevan's left-ist point of view agaist that of Herbert Morrison, Deputy Prime Minister, and his "moderates."

Condition Canadians For Hard Days Ahead

Cold War Will Last Long Time, Cost A Great Deal, Cabinet Warns

OTTAWA, Oct. 3. — (CP). — With Korea apparently waning, the cabinet is starting to condition Canadians for a long, tough and immensely-costly haul to deter Communism from launching a third world war.

Key ministers are saying publicly now that the cold war is going to go on for "many" years at a pace and cost far above anything conceived before Korea.

In the last few days, both Prime Minister St. Laurent and Defence Minister Claxton have made statements that could be primarily designed to wipe out any tendency to think there will be a let-down in the preparedness drive once Korea is over.

The prospect they, in effect, hold out for the years ahead is one of enormous defence costs, duty for thousands of Canadian service men abroad, higher taxes, expanding armed forces, sacrifices by the individual which could get worse if Moscow steps up its many-sided campaigns.

Won't End With Korea

Korea started all this. It won't end with Korea.

Ministers aren't pulling any punches about the cost. External Affairs Minister Pearson said recently in a broadcast from New York that "we (cabinet) have decided for next year roughly to double our defence budget to about $1,000,000,000."

That is roughly double the entire annual average federal budget before the war.

At Kingston Saturday, Mr. St. Laurent said:

"... The maintenance of high standards of living and increased welfare is an objective which competes directly with demands for ever-increasing defence activity. This is what is becoming for our generation the old question of guns and butter.

"... It is not really as stark as that in a country like Canada. Though it is obvious that some of our personal wants will have to go unsatisfied. In building up our strength we must never lose sight of the fact that its primary purpose is to prevent war and that the prevention of war may require many years of sustained effort."

To that, in a navy week broadcast Monday night, Mr. Claxton added these remarks:

"The apparently-imminent collapse of Communist aggression in Korea must not be taken as a sign that our efforts to build and maintain strong defence forces may now be slackened. Far from it. The long-term danger still remains. And it will remain for a long hard pull over many years unless sooner ended by the Communists themselves plunging us all into war."

Living Costs Expected Hit New High

Anti-Inflation Moves Won't Be Felt For Some Months

OTTAWA, Oct. 3—(CP)—Canadians get a new glimpse at their official cost-of-living index this week, and they won't be surprised if it has hit another new high.

The figures which the Bureau of Statistics will issue will be for the month of August. That was a month prior to the time the government took a number of so-called anti-inflationary steps which probably won't be reflected in the index until October.

In July the index jumped 1.0 points from 167.5 to 168.5—its sixth new high since the beginning of the year—under the influence of higher prices for food, shoes, piece goods, eastern telephone rates and coal and coke in Ontario.

The index is calculated on the basis that the 1935-39 period equals 100, so that since 1939 it has risen 68.5 per cent.

During the special session of parliament early last month, there were repeated demands by opposition speakers for the return of price controls such as the country had in wartime. But the government said it does not consider them necessary at this time.

Won't Show For Time

The government, however, took a number of anti-inflationary steps in its "baby budget" produced during the session. The budget upped corporation taxes and imposed new tax levies on certain non-necessities and luxury items such as automobiles, candy, chewing gum and soft drinks to discourage their purchase. Most became effective immediately.

Then, as another anti-inflationary measure, Finance Minister Abbott announced last weekend that the 9.1 per cent premium on United States dollars was being abolished and the Canadian dollar set free to find its own level in the exchange markets.

This should have the effect of cheapening American and British goods sold in Canada but probably won't be reflected in the cost-of-living index for a time.

Growing Pains For Ontario

TORONTO, Oct. 3 — (CP) — Premier Frost of Ontario said Monday night that never before in Ontario's history had there been such a "pronounced forward movement" in the province's industrial, commercial and agricultural life.

But the rapid growth meant many growing pains, he said in an address prepared for a CBC free-time political broadcast over a provincial network.

Mr. Frost said that of the last 11 years, only four had "approached peace-time conditions. For seven years our whole economy was devoted to defence and to the immediate aftermath of war."

The province's population was increasing at the rate of 10,000 persons a month and this created an urgent need for new public works—highways, schools, hospitals, water works, sewers and so on.

In inflationary periods, however, it was advisable to restrict government spending.

"You will readily see our difficulty at the moment: a great many provincial works which are necessary in the ordinary course of things, and upon this, superimpose the federal requirements for national defence."

cision, it would be illegal for the Federal government to undertake a control program.

However, exitsing controls are based on emergency wartime legislation which, the Supreme court already has ruled, makes it valid for the government to apply restrictions.

Cannot Be Appealed

The court's judgment, upholding a ruling of the Supreme Court of Navo Scotia, cannot be appealed to the judicial committee of the Privy Council in London. Appeals to the Privy Council were abolished by parliament last year when the Supreme Court was established at the country's court of last resort.

The seven justices who heard the case were unanimous in their decision that the federal government and provinces could not legally delegate powers to one another under the existing constitution.

The test case was brought before the court by the Nova Scotia government, which sought to find out if it would be legal for the province and the federal government to exchange certain powers they hold over employment and over taxation.

In his reasons for judgment—other justices expressed similar views—Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret said:

Haven't Unlimited Capacity

"The parliament of Canada and the legislatures of the several provinces are sovereign within their sphere defined by the British North American Act, but none of them has the unlimited capacity of an individual.

"They can exercise only the legislative powers respectively given to them by sections 91 and 92 of the Act and these powers must be found in either of these sections.

"The Constitution of Canada does not belong either to parliament or to the legislatures: it belongs to the country and it is there that the citizens of the country will find the protection of the rights to which they are entitled."

Industrials Climb On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Oct. 3.—(CP). — Industrial stocks jumped ahead strongly in early dealings on the Toronto Stock Exchange today, but were stopped as the session progressed.

Trends continued upwards in later dealings despite appearance of downward pressure. Papers showed a wide list of fractional gains and steels, agricultures, textiles and refining oils were higher. Utilities were about balanced and constructions weakened.

Heavy selling early yesterday pushed market leaders lower following freeing of the Canadian dollar, but a recovery move set in, wiping out many of the losses. Buyers started briskly today, but were stopped in mid-session.

Base metals brightened slightly in heavy trading. Sherritt-Gordon Mines held the limelight, trading heavily for a moderate gain. The stock touched a new top at -2.80 in early trading, but lost part of the advance.

Western oils showed gains ranging up to 10 cents. Interest slackened in later dealings and some signs of easiness appeared.

Golds turned lower following a moderate advance yesterday. Selected junior producers dipped as much as 15 cents, while seniors held steady.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,319,000 shares.

Ontario Crops Greatest Ever Kennedy Says

TORONTO, Oct. 3—Ontario's farms this year will yield a crop worth $1,250,000,000, their greatest ever, Ontario Agriculture Minister Kennedy said Monday. This is about $200,000,000 more than the previous high.

Oats, hay and pasture have been particularly valuable, said Mr. Kennedy. The latter, he said, is "one of the most important and valuable assets we have, though a lot of people don't realize it."

Some $40,000,000 worth of cattle have been sold out of the province in the first nine months of the year, he said. Beef and dairy cattle have been paying well.

More Pigs

"We always have about $100,000,000 of pigs and this year it will be quite a bit more," he continued. "We have, say, 3,000,000 pigs at $45 each . . . it runs to a lot of money.

"Eggs and poultry will run to about $80,000,000 to $90,000,000. We have so many crops here; that's the thing.

"Tobacco will be worth about $50,000,000. Soy and white beans will bring a lot. Then there's wheat—not a big crop—but worth about $27,500,000. It's a great crop and every one should be thankful."

a road a few miles inland. MacArthur's Tuesday summary did not mention the Capital division as being north of the border.

Behind this all-South Korean force of at least 20,000 troops, the republic's 6th Division captured Chunchon, seven miles south of the border in the centre of the peninsula. The Sixth moved on north toward the 38th Parallel.

A MacArthur spokesman said he did not know of any American forces with the South Koreans inside North Korea. However, he could not recall any earlier large-scale action when U. S. advisory officers had not accompanied South Korean forces.

Red Koreans were silent for the third straight day on the border crossing and MacArthur's Sunday ultimatum calling on them to surrender or be destroyed.

Marines Battling

U.S. marines meanwhile were fighting into the blasted town of Uijongbu, 12 miles north of Seoul and 20 miles south of 38.

MacArthur's summary said the marines had reached Uijongbu's southern outskirts in one of the main battles of the scattered mop-up fighting in South Korea.

Throughout the remainder of South Korea, Allied troops continued cleaning out Red forces ranging from a few hundreds to thousands.

MacArthur's spokesman said the largest North Korean force reported was about 4,000 troops who were attacked in ridges eight miles southeast of Wonju, 55 miles east of Suwon. Half were believed to be wounded. Allied forces drove the Reds into the hills.

An air force spokesman said the bomb line for B-29s ranging over Red Korea was at least 35 air miles north of the border today. It is moved northward regularly to avoid hitting friendly ground forces.

Lt.-Gen. George E. Stratemeyer said allied planes in the course of the war taht began June 25 have destroyed or damaged more than 1,000 Red tanks, thousands of vehicles, 376 bridges and 152 enemy planes. He added:

In close support of ground troops, allied planes attacked more than 11,000 North Korean troops.

The cost was 52 airmen killed, 56 wounded, 65 missing and 139 planes destroyed.

Stratemeyer's summary did not include navy or marine air attacks.

Allied planes hit the North Korean capital of Pyongyang again today. They flew into heavy anti-aircraft fire. Pilots bombed main roads leading from the capital but complained about scarcity of targets.

MacArthur's headquarters said allied patrols were thrust out around Seoul in a 10-mile arc on all sides. An enemy brigade remnant estimated at 2,000 men was still fighting in the capital area.

Witness Pulls Boner In Toronto Trial

TORONTO, Oct. 3—(CP)—A witness in a court case testified today that the woman complainant had been acting "like a wild Indian."

Then, in sudden confusion, he loked up at Magistrate O. M. Martin. The magistrate is a full-blooded Indian.

"What was that expression?" the magistrate snapped.

"I'm so sorry, Your Worship," the witness said. "I humbly apologize for my remarks."

"She might have been acting like a wild Irishman, Scotsman, or something like that," the magistrate suggested. "Isn't that what you intended to convey."

The witness agreed.

point. South Africa then broke the Soviet thread by announcing complete support of the eight-power plan and rejection of the Russian program which had just been made known.

In addition to demanding an immediate halt to hostilities, the Russian plan asked immediate withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea, holding of elections under a special Korean commission with U.N. observers to include Russia and Red China, and U.N. economic and technical aid.

After all that, Vishinsky's proposal said, Korea could be considered for U.N. membership. Vishinsky is expected to make another long speech to argue for his resolution.

He barked his way through half a dozen check points, explaining his American companion as a friend from one of the east European satellite countries.

At an airfield completed only six weeks before, Chatham said he saw new jet planes with swept-back wings that appeared to him as sleek and fast as the latest American types.

At another base, he said, there were about 20 tanks built lower than anything he had seen while in combat in both world wars—about three feet high, but armed with long guns.

Chatham speculated the tanks might be almost immune to ordinary fire from weapons which could not lower their muzzles enough to aim at the low tanks.

At the end of the trip, Chatham said, the Russian donned civilian clothes again and brought the congressman back to the west.

Advancing Allies Find New Massacres

WITH U.S. 25TH DIVISION, Korea, Oct. 3— (AP)—A new batch of massacre survivors reported today that pro-Communist South Koreans stabbed 82 South Koreans dead with bamboo spears Monday.

Witnesses said the victims were men, women and children in the anti-Communist village of Chungyong, a few miles south of the west coast port of Kunsam.

United Nations investigators reported another Red atrocity. They said 23 bodies were found in a well near Kunsan.

(Evidence of hundreds of similar atrocities were reported elsewhere).

Judge Charges Chief Breaks Police Rules

WINDSOR, Oct. 3 (CP)—The newly-organized Windsor Police Commission questioned Chief of Police Claude Renaud in its first public hearing Monday in the reorganization of the city's police force.

Chief Renaud was criticized for the regulations which govern the police department — regulations characterized by Judge Archibald Cochrane, commission chairman, as "ancient."

Judge Cochrane accused the chief of breaking the department's rules and regulations, although the commission chairman agreed that the 27-year-old rules were in need of revision.

The state of the department's rules and regulations were brought out in questions put to Chief Renaud by Judge Cochrane and Magistrate Roland A. Harris during half an hour following the handling of routine business.

Judge Cochrane brought out that there is no provision for the position of deputy chief, a post held by W. H. Neale.

"Once In A While"

Chief Renaud said that drilling of members of the force, which he is supposed to oversee, was done "once in a while." He did not remember when the last drill was held, and said he did not know why the regulation was not enforced.

Questioned on the selection of new policemen, the chief said his opinion and that of Deputy Chief Neale counted more than written examinations. He said some candidates are eliminated without receiving an examination.

Mayor A. J. Reaume spoke up twice in the inquiry, both times to come to the defence of Chief Renaud.

He asked the other two commissioners to inform the chief and his deputy of questions in advance, so that they could bring along reports and records.

"These are simple questions and require no records," Judge Cochrane replied.

New York Quotes Dollar At 94 Cents

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(CP) — The Canadian dollar was quoted at between 94⅜ and 94⅞ cents in terms of United States currency soon after the opening of foreign exchange dealings here today.

The Canadian dollar opened at 95½ cents in terms of the U.S. dollar. It closed yesterday at 94⅜. The rise thus was ⅝ of a cent.

A bank spokesman said there was "some" trading today and it was steadier at the opening than the "erratic" action yesterday.

The rise at the opening of business yesterday fluctuated between 2¼ and ¾ cents. The upturn followed the Canadian government's unpegging the dollar during the weekend.

Expect Canada Take More Of World Burden

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Canada is in a prosperous condition. This is being proven by the firm showing of her dollar in its newly-controlled position.

She is in a strong position because she has raw materials which the world needs and because, by and large, she has had sound management.

Also, she has a growing population which is buying increasing amounts of the things produced within the country.

Added to these is industrialization—speeded up by two world wars—and the continuing discovery or development of resources, such as the oil discoveries in Alberta in the last three years.

This bright picture has a more serious side. Canada is likely to find, for instance, that it will bring added responsibilities in the coming months and years. Thus far in the present century she has lived up to her responsibilities as much or more than any country, and she will be expected to continue to do so.

Have Surplus

There has been some talk recently that the Canadian dollar may become more valuable than the United States dollar. This would be partly because of American need for things we have, and partly because in recent years our government has been able to take in more money than it has been spending, while the United States, because of heavy expenditures both at home and abroad, hasn't been able to do that.

The Canadian dollar for brief periods in the past has been worth more than the American, and it might happen again, but there are strong factors operating against this.

However, for the moment, let us envision that the Canadian dollar does go to the higher position. What, then, would be the reaction of the United States? Almost certainly it would be an expectation that we take over some of the world burden that she has been carrying the last few years.

Understanding Neighbor

Canada, in fact, in the immediate post-war years, did take over perhaps more than her share of world responsibilities, until she was in danger of going broke doing it. She had to slow up, and the United States understood that; for, difficult though American public opinion may sometimes be, in the main she has been an understanding neighbor.

But just in case we ever entertain such an illusion, we wouldn't have an understanding neighbor if we waxed fat while she went relatively lean.

Actually, there can be little prospect of such an extreme picture, but it points up that we are likely to be expected to increase our share of the world burden as our abilities increase.

Two Ottawa Brothers Thwart Hold-up Men

OTTAWA, Oct. 3—(AP)—A 61-year-old lowertown merchant and his 63-year-old brother Monday night thwarted two hold-up men who entered his store and demanded money.

Louis Torontow, proprietor of a biscuit shop, said the two men walked into his store and one of them, with his hand in his pocket, declared: 'This is a hold-up"

Torontow said he told them to help themselves from the cash register, but they began roughing him up and forced him toward a small room at the back of the store.

Then Torontow's older brother, Joseph, entered the store, and despite warnings of "stand back or I'll shoot," began grappling with the men. During the struggle the two men broke away and ran from the shop.

Motorcycle-Truck Collision Throws Youth Forty Feet

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 3 — (ENS)—Robert Sinfield of Belleville, who lives at the home of Sam Bibby, Frank St., Campbellford, was badly shaken up on Monday afternoon, when the motorcycle he was riding was in collision with a loaded Breithaupt Leather Company truck driven by J. Maurice Bradley of Campbellford.

The accident occurred as the driver of the leather truck attempted to make a left turn into the driveway of the company on the Canal Road. The motorcycle was unable to stop in time and ploughed into the left front fender of the heavy truck, tossing bike and rider some 40 feet through the air, to land on the side of the road.

Police were summoned and Sinfield received first aid treatment. Two stitches were required to close a cut on the lad's head and he suffered cuts and lacerations to his legs and body.

After treatment for shock and his injuries, he was allowed to go home. Chief Constable George H. Hardy investigated.

Machines Bring In Fraser Valley Hops

SARDIS, B.C. — (CP) — It is harvest time for the $2,500,000 Fraser Valley hop growing industry.

But the scene of other years has changed. Hop-picking machines, which replace hundreds of persons, have been put in operation on the larger farms.

A shortage of season l workers forced growers to turn to mechanical pickers.

On the farm of John I. Hass Company, where there is a large acreage and a hop plant, a $30,000 picking machine is used.

Patterned on the conveyor belt system, the machine receives the hop laden vines from trucks where they are laid lengthwise and scooped up by rotating wire fingers.

Australia Against Currency Change

CANBERRA, Oct. 3—(AP)—Australia's cabinet was reported to have decided today not to follow Canada's lead in changing the value of her currency.

The cabinet was reported to have agreed not to revalue the Australian pound from its present pegged value of $2.24 in U.S. funds.

The reports could be correct. But some sources said government quarters might have given such reports to newspapermen to halt a steam of "hot money" flowing into the country from speculators abroad.

Treasurer Arthur Fadden will present his new budget to parliament Oct. 12. At the same time he might announce a decision on revaluation.

The Sydney Sun, in a Canberra report, said "the budget, the broad principles of which were approved today by the federal cabinet, is not likely to provide any revaluation of the Australian pound."

THE Hauling Season

The logs on the skidways are loaded on sleighs during the "hauling season"—this is during the late winter months, when practically all of the cutting has been done and ice has formed on the lakes where the logs are to be dumped. These sleighs are hauled from the skidways to the main road by teams or tractors.

The loaded sleighs are picked up by trucks, tractors or teams on the main roads and hauled to the "log dump" which is generally a bay on a lake, or skidded on to rollways along creeks until Spring "break-up" - the time the ice has disappeared and driving to the mill can take place.

A Shortage Of Clergymen

During the last few months complaints have been heard from leading clergy of the Anglican, Presbyterian and United churches about the difficulties of attracting young men into the ministry; recruits are not coming forward in sufficient numbers and this is regarded as a real threat to Protestantism. Comment on this matter may not be amiss.

* * *

There will always be some men of a high type who feel the call to the ministry so strongly that nothing can deter them, but these are a minority. There are many others who wish to devote themselves to ministerial work, which is near to their hearts, but who are not ready to make the heavy sacrifices which that work demands at present. The first of those sacrifices, and the one from which many clerical discontents spring, is the financial sacrifice. The present minimum stipend of a clergyman in the three denominations mentioned is $1,500 a year.

* * *

We live in a strongly materialist civilization, and in such a civilization the position of the Protestant clergyman is as bad as it could be. He is neither a barefoot friar, whose poverty is complete, comprehensible and admirable, nor is he on a financial level with the lawyers, doctors and other professional men in his congregation. He is expected to be a learned man, a teacher and a leader, but he is not paid enough to keep up his learning, to speak with authority, or to command the complete respect of the people he is expected to lead. Protestantism has stripped the clergyman of his cloak of mystical grace, but it has not given him any adequate substitute for it. It has been said that payment can be made in two kinds—in honour and in money; the clergy are denied the latter, and this weakens their hold on the former.

* * *

A prominent Presbyterian clergyman in Ottawa said recently that families of the middle and high income levels were not contributing their share of recruits to the clergy. This is probably true. But few men choose to drop from a high income level to a low one; the work of a clergyman is hard enough without adding the burden of genteel poverty to it—and often the poverty is not so genteel.

* * *

There is no easy or quick solution to the problem. The Ottawa Citizen suggests that many young men who are drawn toward the clerical life are depressed by the wastefulness which is created by the large number of Protestant denominations; a Protestant united church might remove that barrier, and many financial difficulties with it. A Protestant united church, however, will not be the work of a day; it was said recently that union between the Anglican and United Churches in Canada might come about in two hundred years or so. At that rate the problem of clerical recruits will not easily be solved.

The Need For Physicians And Surgeons

We are interested in the news that the medical men of eight Ontario counties, meeting at Smiths Falls, have expressed their approval of the policy of the College of Physicians and Surgeons which permits doctors to practice in this country, wherever they come from, provided they can pass examinations set by the College, and prove their qualifications. This shows a generous but prudent attitude which will meet with widespread approval.

Medical men are needed in many parts of Canada, and particularly in rural districts and in the more remote settlements. Most of the cities and large towns are well supplied with doctors now. But there are areas where there are too few doctors for the population; the work is hard in such places; it involves long drives, long hours and sometimes small returns. But the work is there for those who want it.

The regulation which insists that doctors coming to Canada from outside this country should show that they can meet our requirements is a necessary one. Within the past month a case has been reported in the press concerning one William McLeod, a Canadian who has been practicing as a doctor in the U.S.A. for five years, although he is unqualified; fortunately McLeod appears to be a good natural doctor, but it is hair-raising to think that there may be others, less gifted, at work.

It is reasonable also, that a man, who wishes to set up in practice as a physician or surgeon in a new country should pay some substantial fee before doing so. But it would be unfair if that fee were set so high that a European doctor who had lost everything in the war should be debarred for many years from resuming his work here.

Derby Centenary

The derby hat is a hundred years old this year. Not, of course, the hat which grandfather or father has had in the attic for thirty-five years. We mean the grandfather of them all, the first bowler. A dandy of the steeplechase, William Coke, ordered the first half-spherical hard hat made to his specifications, and until his crash-helmet substitute for the tall silk hat of other riders became popular, the bowler was called a "Billy Coke", soon corrupted into Billycock. After Prince Albert and the 1851 Exhibition fashions, the bowler became a commonplace of headgear and a "bowler" for the six Bowler brothers who worked in Lock and Company's, London hatters, had their hands full filling orders for them.

Bowlers have never been the very height of general fashion. For instance, only one Bowler, called derby in the U.S.A. and Canada, after Lord Derby who popularized them on this continent, had their day here, and it passed. This is not a silk-hatted country; there was therefore no need for a durable, all-purpose substitute for it. Further, in these areas in winter, snow-balls are common missiles and a target like a bowler is irresistible. Apart entirely from that, the bowler is a poor ear-warmer. Though the centenary of the hard hat may provide the occasion for a revival of its use, we suspect that there will be no great rush to the hatter's, or to the patriarchal store in the attic.

But Would It Work?

An American psychiatrist, Dr. Robert S. Drews, speaking from Paris, has suggested that all rulers and heads of states should be psychoanalysed before they take office. For the benefit of readers who may not be sure what that involves, we explain that psychoanalysis is a type of mental treatment which is supposed to take the kinks out of your thinking, by helping you to reconsider all your most cherished ideas; it is a complicated but frequently effective way of getting to know yourself. Dr. Drews thinks that many national leaders are aggressive, mentally-twisted people who infect the nations they lead with their own desires and ambitions.

There is undoubtedly a great deal in what he says. Level-headed national leaders are greatly to be desired. But we do not see how such people would ever rise to the status of leaders. Leaders are chosen, at least in some degree, by the people they lead, and a majority of people in every nation are aggressive, unreasonable and ready to quarrel. They do not choose prophets or philosophers to lead them; they choose pugnacious, rampageous politicians, because these men reflect the national spirit. If a nation is unreasonable, it will not choose a reasonable leader, and if by accident it gets one, it will soon kick him out.

If the psychoanalysis of national leaders could bring world peace we would be all for it. And even though we doubt its efficacy to do what Dr. Drews promises, we favour the idea anyhow.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Canadian dollar has returned to parody.

Sinatra may not earn a million this year. He may drop as low as a beggarly $250,000. Things are tough all over.

Penicillin will cure lion bites, we are told. Even when the tamer puts his head in the lion's mouth and the lion crunches it up like a tea-biscuit.

In Hatch Beauchamp, England, the village blacksmith took the first prize at an exhibition of embroidery. Now that's what we like—a man of wide interests.

Two men in Sorel, Quebec, are thought to have sneaked out of jail, taken part in a few robberies, and sneaked back again. Just did it to keep their hands in, we presume.

"Less than half the U.S. population can produce legal evidence that it was born", says a news note. Well, we've seen a few who look as though they had been hurriedly run up out of kitchen leftovers.

The price of liquor has gone up, as the Brantford Expositor points out, considerably more than Mr. Abbott's "baby budget" warrants. Furthermore, it is still being diluted by the Ontario Government. When a government gives a lead in this sort of chiselling, who can blame the private merchant for following government example?

Next Russian Move In Austria?

From
G. E. R. GEDYE
By Cable from Vienna

FULL accounts now to hand from all parts of Austria of Sept. 26 Communist disorders reveal several sinister features. On Wednesday Communist workers in the Russian-run USIA factories summoned meetings to discuss the situation, but otherwise the present outlook is calm enough. But the ordinary Austrian citizen is gravely concerned with certain features of last Tuesday's disorders which suggest to him that under the guise of demonstrations against rising prices the Russians and Communists actually held a dress-rehearsal for a putsch later on.

* * *

IT is now seen that when the Russian-employed Austrian Communist workers are given orders to demonstrate they can paralyze the traffic not only in the streets of the capital, but also throughout the Russian zone of Austria. Apart from stopping the traffic for considerable periods first in one and then in another part of Vienna, they blocked roads in the countryside at various points, occupied a considerable number of railway-stations in the Russian occupied province of Lower Austria during the morning and prevented all train traffic until the evening. In Wiener Neustadt, Saint Poelten and the Russian-controlled oilfields at Zistersdorf, they entered non-Russian factories and forced unwilling Social-Democratic and Catholic workers to join in the strikes. In other places the Communists temporarily occupied post-offices and town halls, making revolutionary speeches from the balconies of the latter.

* * *

THE second gravely disquieting feature is that for the first time in Communist demonstrations, Russian officers at various points made no attempt to disguise their complicity. As the Socialist organ Arbeiterzeitung has had the courage to point out today, the Communist break-through of a double police cordon outside the Cnancellery Tuesday was the work of six Russian officers in uniform, who preceded the Communist mob and forced the police to let them and their loudspeaker-vans through. The message from Vienna's chief of police ordering police to be brought up from all sections of the city to the Chancellery was sabotaged by the Russian Kommandatura, which issued orders that no such reinforcements of Austrian police were to leave the Russian sectors.

* * *

IN several places in the Russian-occupied province of Lower Austria, local Kommandaturas ordered the Austrian telephone exchange to refuse all calls except those to the fire brigade, ambulance or—the Central Headquarters in Vienna of the Communist Party. In other towns, Russian officers are reported to have compelled unwilling workers to join in the strikes.

* * *

CITIZENS here are also worried over the passivity of the police—who are still mostly unarmed as a result of the repeated Soviet refusals to agree to the proposals of the Western Allies to allow them the necesary weapons to defend themselves against mob violence. It was known that they would be powerless throughout the Russian zones of Austria but it was a shock for the Viennese to see them even in the "Quadripartite Capital" compelled to yield to the Communists everywhere—to be struck, kicked, have their caps torn from their heads as happened on several occasions. In all, 24 policemen were injured here Tuesday, four of them seriously, while Communist leaders were proclaiming on the microphone "The police are our friends".

* * *

AUSTRIANS also remark with concert that Tuesday, for the first time since the occupation, the Communists included in their programme attacks on the persons and property of the Western Allies. In addition to the attack on the British officers' hotel which has already been reported, the American officers' Hotel Bristol was the scene of similar if shortlived violence. A delivery van belonging to the American newspaper Kurier was overturned and smashed into fragments, while many cars had their tires slashed.

* * *

THE Austrians, who were already doubtful about the wisdom of the recent Western Allied decision—already implemented by the British—to switch over from military to civil administration of Austria while the Russians remain fully militarized, are now wondering whether the new situation did not encourage the Russians and the Austrian Communists to attempt Tuesday's rehearsal — which the Communists are saying today was successful beyond their expectations.

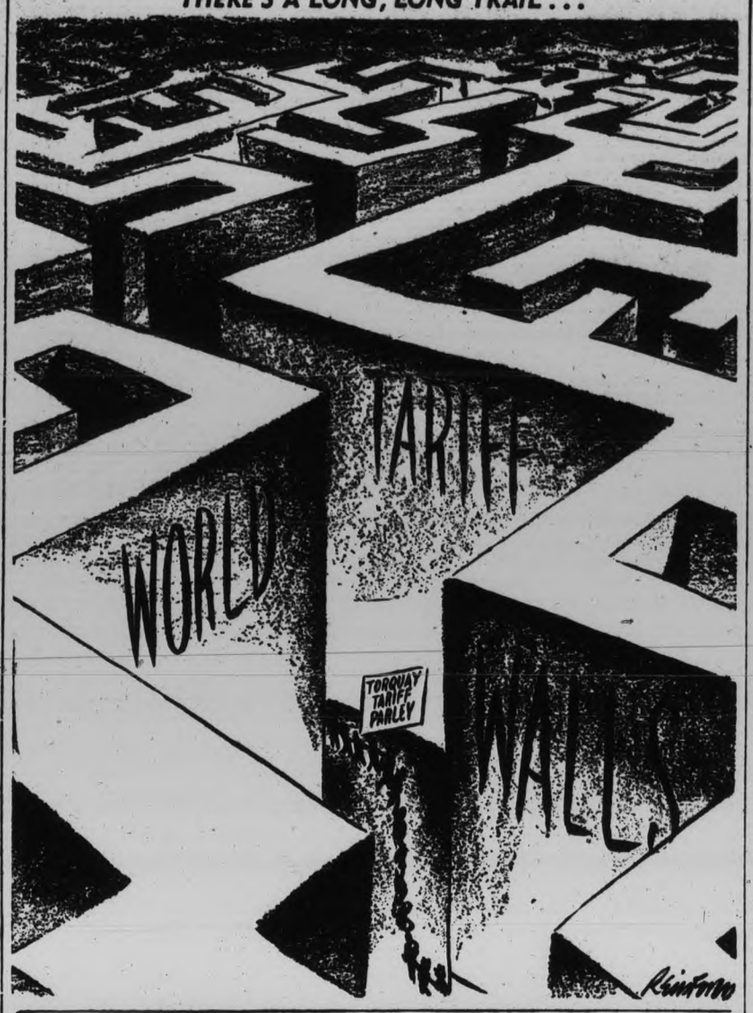
U.S. Week Of Weeks

(Auburn, N.Y., Citizen-Advertiser)

Respectfully and without wanting to hurt anyone's feelings, we submit that what America needs most is a "National-Week-to-End-All-Weeks" Week.

So far in this month of September alone the nation has had National Tie Week, National Home Week, and Lessons in Truth Week.

But it's only the beginning. The last week of the month is three weeks, if you know what we mean—National Dog Week, Religious Education Week, and National Sweater Week.



And the month has a name of its own, too. September is glamorously titled Child Foot Health Month.

October is even worse; to date it is down for these weeks: National Hat — Cranberry — Wine — Better Parenthood — Fire Prevention — Save the Horse — Letter Writing — Posture — Bible — Smoke Abatement — United Nations — Honey (the kind from bees) — Business Women's — Pharmacy — Apple — Girl Scout — Flower. To say nothing of Grandmother's Day, Children's Day, Apple Day, World Temperance Sunday.

Letter To The Editor

PROBOSCIS IN RIGHT PLACE

Sir: Being interested in literary style and journalism and ethics, and a combination of the three, the writer enjoys his Examiner very much. Page four always seems to me to be promoting common sense and a strong sense of fairness. It seems to exemplify Canadian journalism and journalists.

Being quite ignorant about the intricacies and connections between any one newspaper and those organizations named Associated Press, Canadian Press, (CP, AP, BUP etc.) it would appear that there must be some link, especially between a Canadian newspaper and the Canadian Press (CP).

To get to the point,—a front page story of Sept. 29, 1950, is headlined "Taxicab Plows into Truck—Four Killed." The CP correspondent reports that "army headquarters declined to disclose the names of the three soldiers who have died as a result of the crash, nor the name of the fourth soldier injured until the next of kin have been notified .....However, it was learned from other sources that the dead are....." and lists their names.

Thus it appears, at least on the surface, that the CP and the Examiner (maybe it is a law that a newspaper cannot make alterations in or delete from a CP story) believe that the widely observed military thinking that it is better to make absolutely sure of names and initials of casualties and make notification to next of kin official so as to leave no room for doubt and anxiety, is nonsensical. It is not difficult to find reasons why this military thinking should be upheld. The Press, just like anybody else, makes mistakes; typographical errors, misunderstood initials in telephone conversation, etc., are understandable and quite pardonable; but, in certain circumstances can cause much embarrassment and/or grief and shock, viz: the possibilities in this case.

Having been owned by the military five years ago, and having read and heard stories of similar circumstance which had unhealthy side effects, the writer would very much appreciate receiving your opinions on four academic questions:

1. Would this piece of reporting not been classed as "news" if those four soldiers names had been left out?
2. Should ethics enter the discussion?
3. What is the CP, or AP, or BUP, and what is the conection between the CP and any one Canadian newspaper?
4. Does my proboscis protrude too far beyond the perimeter of its own little area?

Yours truly,
R. A. SLUTE.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Replies to questions: (1) If the report had been published without names hundreds of people with relatives at Petawawa would have been alarmed. The military custom of informing relatives before informing the press is an admirable one, and undoubtedly relatives were informed by telegram before the press report appeared; experience has taught the press, however, that the military are slow to release any information which is not wholly favourable to themselves. (2) Yes, ethics must come into the matter, and unquestionably Canadian Press used every precaution to verify the names given; this is the proceeding in case of civilian deaths; is there any reason why it should be different for a soldier in peacetime? The men were killed on Thursday night: the military had not released their names by 2.30 p.m. Friday, although they had undoubtedly informed relatives by then. (3) CP is Canadian Press, a co-operative newsgathering agency of which all reputable daily newspapers in Canada are members. It has upon many occasions received Government commendation for its unbiassed and trustworthy handling of news. AP is Associated Press, its American counterpart; BUP is British United Press which, with Reuter's, covers British news. The Examiner contributes to CP and receives its full service, but is not obliged to use the material received without change. The Examiner also has a voice in the direction of CP as have all member newspapers. (4) Your proboscis is right where it belongs, and we are happy to answer questions along these lines at any time.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

O my God, I trust in thee: let me not be ashamed, let not mine enemies triumph over me....Remember not the sins of my youth, nor my transgressions: according to thy mercy remember thou me for thy goodness' sake, O Lord....

Turn thee unto me, and have mercy upon me; for I am desolate and afflicted....Look upon mine affliction and my pain; and forgive all my sins....Redeem Israel, O God, out of all his troubles. (Ps. 25: 2, 7, 16, 18, 22.)

* * *

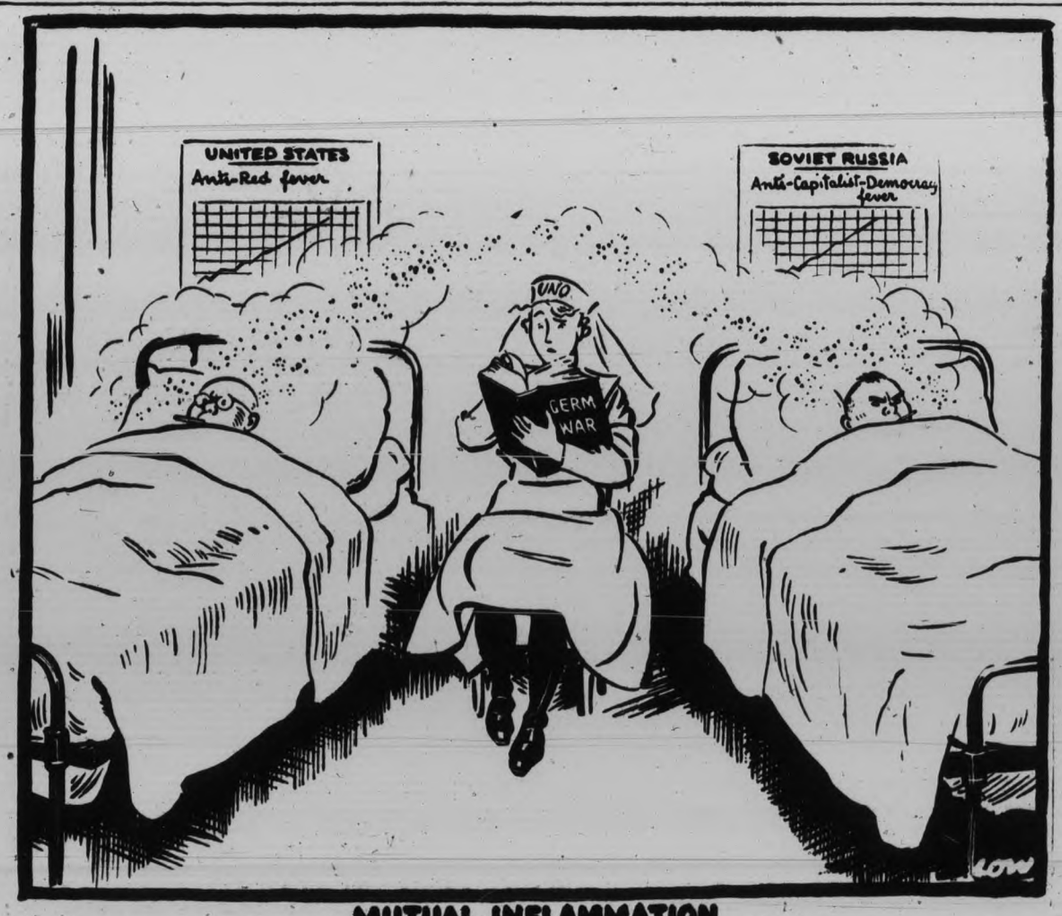
God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved. (John 3: 16, 17.)

* * *

I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God. (Rom. 12: 1, 2.)

Not Another Law!

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)



In Saskatoon, a woman alderman asked the council to pass a bylaw prohibiting the burning of refuse on Mondays. She argued that Monday is wash day, and that the soot played havoc with the washing on the line. Her fellow councillors had the good sense to turn down her request, gently pointing out that one bylaw encouraged another, and that somebody might want a bylaw "to prevent people from sneezing on street cars".

BY THE TONE

One day a piano tuner was boasting about his twin sons.

"How do you tell them apart," asked Mrs. Miller.

"All I have to do is pinch them," he replied. "Herbie yelps in high C, and Willie is a full tone lower."

Four Baptists Choose Jail Sentences

VAL D'OR, Que., Oct. 3.—(CP). — The Rev. L. T. Heron, Baptist minister of this north-western Quebec mining centre, and three other members of the faith, Monday were fined $40 and costs with the option of two months in jail on a charge of obstructing traffic. The four, who pleaded guilty, chose the jail sentence.

Recorder J. L. Baillargeon warned the group that they were in contempt of court. He did not elaborate, but it was believed he was referring to the fact that the Baptists continued to ignore municipal bylaws prohibiting street meetings.

He said that if court costs are not paid when the fine-alternative sentences expire, the convicted Baptists will serve another two months.

Mr. Heron now is headed for his third jail term in little more than a year in the county prison at Amos. Sentenced with him were his sister, Miss Isabelle Heron, who recently completed serving a two-month sentence, Bernard John Holloway, 25, Toronto, and William Leslie Phillips, 20, Brantford. The latter two are students at the Toronto Baptist Seminary.

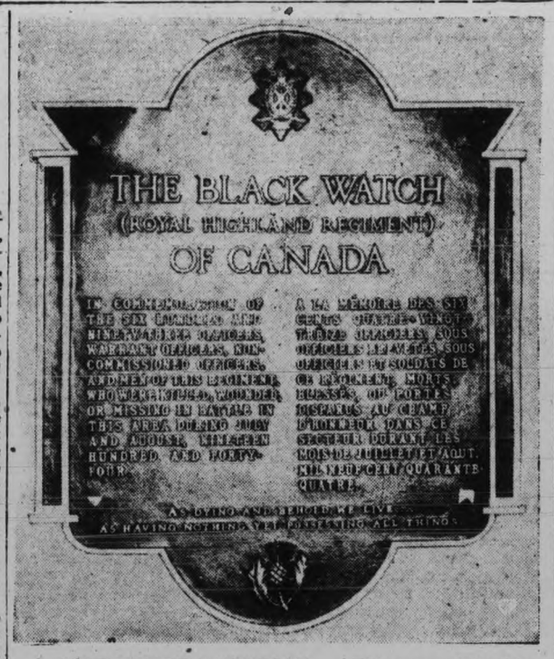
Numerous Baptists have been arrested here recently for refusing to move on when requested by police during religious street meetings.

No Previous Controversy

Recorder Baillargeon told the group that "there are about 10,000 people in Val d'Or and of that number about 6,500 are Roman Catholics. I came here 14 years ago. Until now, I have never seen any controversy between Roman Catholics and Protestants . . . or any other groups.

"We have all mixed together and prospered together because the authorities have given the example to the people. What you are doing is hardly worthy of being called a controversy except that in the minds of some, you can cause hate. Instead of what you are doing, you should be setting examples.

"You are in a free town and freedom is given to everyone. But to have your freedom, you have to obey the law of the town. Laws are not to restrict freedom, but they are necessary so that all may have peace and good order . . .



"We have taken note of other actions and of the fact that your act looks like contempt of court. . . . You were not arrested and tried because you were preaching. You have a right to preach, even a duty to preach. You preach over the radio here and in your church and nobody bothers you.

No Persecution

"Religion asks a lot more than noisy Saturday night streets for preaching. Preachers and listeners need peace of mind to understand what is said to them. That, however, is my personal conviction.

"I want you to understand that you are not being persecuted. If you think you are being persecuted by enforcement of the municipal traffic bylaw, it is your right and it is your duty to attack it in higher courts than this.

"I have no doubt, however, that you have acted in bad faith . . . so, in the face of evidence, I must convict you and impose the most rigid penalties."

Workers Stage Fourth Walkout

WINDSOR, Oct. 3. — (CP). — Employees of Ford Motor Company of Canada walked off their jobs Monday night for the fourth time in four days.

The walkout followed the adjournment of wage talks between the company and Ford local 200, United Automobile Workers (CIO).

Company and union bargainers broke up after a 45-minute meeting and Wallace H. Clark, Ford industrial relations manager, said that "no date was set for another meeting."

Mr Clark said the company offered to renegotiate the present contract, signed in June, "with a view to putting it on a mutually satisfactory basis for five years."

Union negotiators previously turned down a five-year contract in favor of demands for straight wage increases that would leave the present contract open for further wage bargaining next May.

Monday night's walkout forced the shutdown of two plants which had been closed a few hours earlier because of demonstrations by the preceding shift of workers.

The plants were the assembly line and the machine shop. Some 6,000 employees were involved in Monday night's first walkout.

Sawyer Delaying Choice As Stengel Names Raschi

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3—(AP)—Young Robin Roberts, Philadelphia Phils' life-saver in the pennant-clincher, probably will be Manager Eddie Sawyer's choice to face New York Yankees' Vic Raschi tomorrow in the world series opener at Shibe Park.

Sawyer may decide to go with veteran Ken Heintzelman, his grey-thatched lefty, but most of the "experts" figure Roberts a must. A definite announcement was to be made today, during the Phils' final pre-series workout in this baseball-mad city.

Roberts, a strong-armed 24-year-old, pitched 10 tiring innings Sunday. But he worked with only two days rest some eight times during the season. Last week he started Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday, going 22 innings in five days. His last was his best, a classic job to rank with the masters in which he beat Brooklyn 4-1 to win the National League pennant.

"Roberts works better with two days' rest than he does with three," said Sawyer Monday.

"I'm ready and I can go," said Roberts.

Have A Stopper

In Roberts, their first 20-game winner since Grover Cleveland Alexander in 1917, the youthful Phils know they have a stopper. They know they don't need too many runs to win. And they haven't been getting too many runs lately, to put it mildly.

"Let tomorow take care of itself," is Sawyer's likely motto in this best-of-seven series against his old Yankee bosses.

The Phils listened to Scout George Earnshaw's report on the Yanks Monday in their own locker room while the Yanks limbered up briefly at the Yankee Stadium in New York.

Earnshaw followed the Yanks through the west on their last western tour. He has an extensive "book" on each New York hitter and pitcher.

"Most of them are fast-ball hitters," Earnshaw told the kids who know little about Joe DiMaggio, Yogi Berra and Phil Rizzuto except what they have read in the papers.

Not Alarmed

'Just because they wear the Yankee uniforms don't think they are better than anyone else," Sawyer told his men, still flushed with the glory of their exciting win over Brooklyn.

The players did not appear overwhelmed at the prospect of playing New York. They rooted for the Yanks to win the pennant so they could slice a larger series melon. Now they are confident of victory and hoot at the top-heavy odds favoring New York.

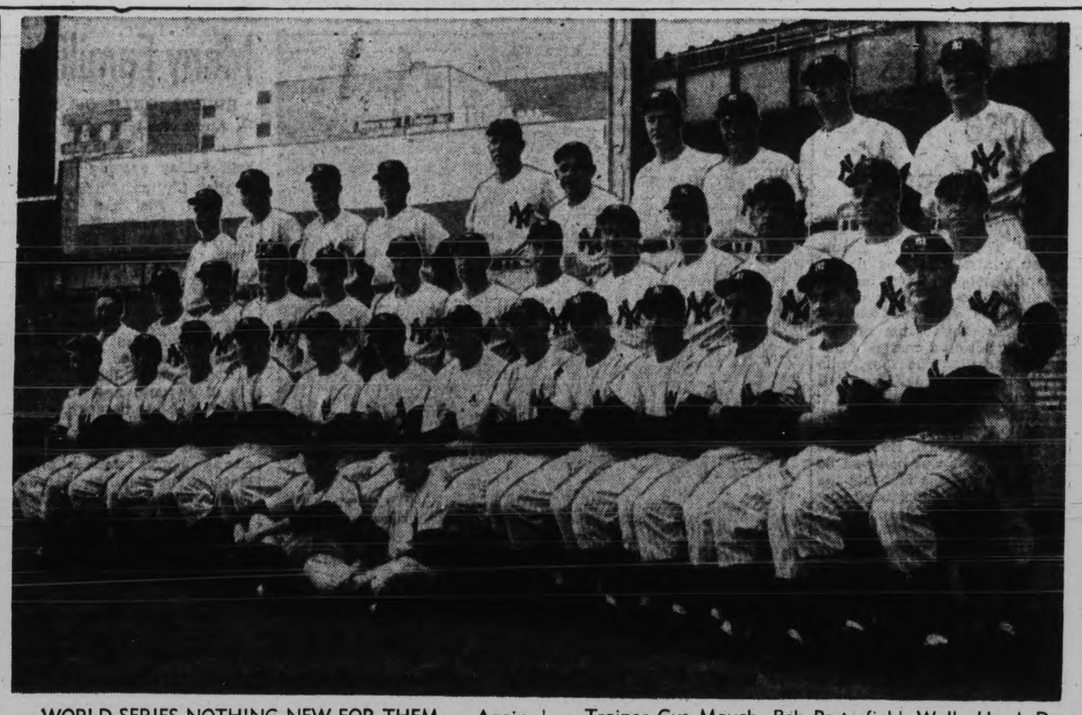
Stengel wasted little time in picking Raschi (21-8) for the opener. He said Allie Reynolds (16-12) will pitch the second game with Ed Lopat (18-8) ready for the third.

"Raschi is my man," said Casey. "Vic has been my big pitcher all year. He deserves the shot."

Raschi pulled up with a sore shoulder in Chicago two weeks ago but came back to beat Boston Red Sox in a vital game five days later.

He was shelled hard by the Philadelphia A's in his last outing Thursday.

Has Edge



The Yanks' right-handed ace definitely will have an edge in experience over Sawyer's choice. Raschi has pitched in four world series games in 1947 and 1949. Used only in relief in '47, he started two last fall, losing 1-0 to Preacher Roe and winning the last game over Brooklyn, 10-6, although he wasn't there at the finish. He has appeared in three all-star game.

Stengel spoke with respect of the Phillies, scoffing at the odds.

'That's a good ball club over in Philadelphia," he said. "It had to be good to beat a red-hot Brooklyn team in the biggest game of the year for both clubs."

F-O-O-T-B-A-L-L

By DON GRANT

Today's discussion on Canadian football will be devoted to a continuation of the signals given by the referee during the game for infractions of the rules.

The second of the signals according to this year's regulations is the hands on hips. This is used when the ball is kicked from a scrimmage and before crossing the line of scrimmage, strikes a player of the kicker's side who is offside. The ball is considered "dead" immediately upon striking the offside player. In this case the offending team is handed a loss of one down and 10 yards and if on the third down, the loss of the ball.

The third signal is one of the commonest in either Canadian or American football, that is when the referee grasps one wrist. This indicates the illegal use of the hands and arms.

Holding is defined as using the hands or arms to grasp an opponent. It is illegal at all times except when a player tackles the ball carrier. Another section of the rules coming under this sign is encircling an opponent with an arm or arms except when making a tackle on the ball carrier. Lifting is included in the rule and at no time may a player of either side use the arms in any way to lift an opponent in blocking.

The use of hands and arms is allowed when: (i) the player carrying the ball tries to ward off opponents; (ii) players of the attacking side try to break through to follow down a kick; (iii) players of the defending side try to get at the ball or the player carrying it.

The penalty on this signal depends on whether it is the defending team offending, the attacking team or whether neither team has possession. If the attacking side offends, they are penalized 10 yards and the loss of one down and if on the last down, the loss of the ball. Should the defending side be the offender the penalty will simply be the loss of 10 yards. If neither team has possession when the offence occurs, the non-offending side shall have first down where the infraction is made.

When a ball is illegally put in play, the referee indicates the infraction with a pushing movement of the hands to the front with the arms hanging vertical. This signal is made when a player on the wingline is illegally in motion when the ball is put in play or when there are insufficient attacking players within one yard of the line of scrimmage when play commences.

If there are less than five men on the wingline when play begins, the attacking team is penalized the loss of one down or on the third down, the loss of ball. When a player of the attacking side is moving at the instant the ball is put into play, the penalty is: loss of one down; if on the third won, loss of 10 yards with the down and yardsticks remaining as before. If the infraction is repeated, the ball is awarded the opponents at the point of the last scrimmage.

Orfuns In First Win Wednesday At Morrow Park

A win for the Orfuns Wednesday night against the Galloping Ghosts from Cobourg will shove the locals into first in the ORFU senior B league for the first time in two years.

Presently Coach Harv Bamforth's crew are enjoying their hottest run in two years. Their win a week ago against the Orillia Silver Bombers started the ball rolling and the boys don't plan to be stopped until the championship rests with them.

In Orillia Saturday the line showed its improvement by rocking the solid Bomber line and allowed the Orfuns to crush for the 18-1 win. Such footballers as Ken McKim, Babe Levantis, Gord Beatty, Johnny Lynch and Frank Fitzgerald will be in there pounding at the Ghosts Wednesday along the line.

The backs are beginning to show color. Bill Huntley's steady, hard plunging was pleasing to watch a week ago and he kept up the pace Saturday. An addition this game will be Chuck Paul from Ottawa who will steady the passing and kicking attack for the Orfuns. Peterobrough's own, Spike Matthews, Jim Conlin, Bill Thompson and Russ Scriver will be there to more than scare the Ghosts.

The Orfuns are hot. A win Wednesday will put them where they should have been at the first of the season.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Lots of things one could write about even in advance—as we are doing now ere taking several days off—but we'll only remind folks at this time of the big ORFU tilt Wednesday eve here betwixt those arch-enemies of the gridiron, Cobourg Ghosts and the Orfuns; and also the Maple Leafs' puck exhibition here Friday. The rest of the way we want to quote Eddie Murphy. The hard-working and popular Ed leaves shortly on the job for the Maritimes and, while we're glad of the promotion, we're sorry to see him leave—and what'll the barbershop quartets do now? A right fine fellow, Eddie, even if he did hail originally from Toronto! He was overseas with the RCAF.

* * * * * *

Yeah, Eddie came here in '35 to play for Knotty Lee's Petes, and he was a fine fielding shortstop and good hitter. Went pro later for a couple of seasons with Ogdensburg in the Can.-Am. Loop and did well there before deciding to return here and settle down. Managed the senior ball club for years both in the COBL and twice in the Viaduct League of Toronto. Before coming here first he was a topnotch ballster in Toronto amateur circles. Ed also had considerable to do with pushing the project for floodlights in Riverside, an acomplished fact now and one which is starting already to pay off. But Eddie has several things to say to local fans ere leaving. We quote him from here in:

* * * * * *

He Came With Chuck

"A lot of water has flowed over the dam since 1935 when I came here with the late Chuck Kearns, and the fortunes of baseball have varied plenty in those 15 years. The COBL was a pretty hot league when I broke into it, with Kingston, Oshawa, Belleville and Peterborough all having good teams. It was remarkable how evenly matched they were. A couple of years later Belleville dropped out and later Kingston had to when the OBA ruled several of their eight imports ineligible—and that was the end of probably the strongest league in Ontario at that time. The calibre fell off and the end came with the war in 1940 until the spring of '46."

* * * * * *

"We attempted to bring ball back here then but it was tough to interest fans who had been used to good baseball, and we didn't have much right after the war. Then the old covered stands came down and we really had to struggle to keep the game going. But the brand of ball kept improving gradually until the past season saw it compare favorably with that played elsewhere in Ontario. Oshawa won the Canadian Congress. There have been lots of wrinkles to iron out, not the least being that of lights in Riverside, but that dream came true. We finally made it. A fellow gets a lot of thrills, has a lot of fun and makes a great many friends in 15 years of baseball. I am proud to have had a part in the game in Peterborough."

* * * * * *

Vern Dawson Was Tops

"As I look back, it has been a pleasure to be associated with men like the late Vern Dawson. It would be difficult to estimate his worth to baseball or his worth to the city as a whole, because he has done so much no one knows about. I have seen him work weeks on raffles of one kind or another to start off the season, and he thought nothing of writing his own personal cheque to make up a deficit. If you needed a car to go to Kingston or Toronto, you could always depend on Vern Dawson. His work in connection with the floodlights is public knowledge and I will never be able to look at them without thinking of him."

* * * * * *

"Hugh Campbell is another whom I am proud to call my friend and none can doubt his sincerity and generosity when it came to promoting baseball. And there are more like George Clarke, Jim Dorris, Bill Kay, Alex Kay, Ed Riley and others. And Lloyd Grose has done a grand job the last five years without anything in return — in fact he seldom has time to see a game. Chaps like Lloyd are hard to find. After his own playing days were over he still had that love of competitive sport and an unselfish feeling for boys coming up. I will also remember the fine fans and the scribes, all part of the game."

* * * * * *

Wishes The Petes Luck

"Out on the field I have enjoyed the friendship of many people I played under, with and against. Knotty Lee was a very smart and colorful baseball man and I learned much from him. I think of the team of good fellows this year, and of many in the past. Fellows not around here now, too, like Bob Doll, Chuck Kearns, Russ Kitchen, Sig Konopka, Bill Calladine, and many more. Opponents like Red Jubenville, Jake Quinn, Chief Williams, Jake Biddle and plenty of others. It's been lots of fun. And I must say the fans have been very kind to me through the years and I can't help but feel a little lump in my throat as I take my leave of them and baseball here. I trust that my successor as manager of the Petes will receives the same consideration as I, and I wish future Peterborough ball teams all the breaks there are." (Ed. Note: Thanks, Eddie.)

Q.A.-Q.E. And P.W. Draw

Prince of Wales dropped another valuable league point in the junior league, Monday afternoon, when Q.A.-Q.E. team divided the points after a 1-all tie.

In the early stages, Q.A.-Q.E. carried most of the play to open the scoring through Orgill but this was short-lived when Burns evened up the score. Second half revealed nothing tangible.

Fists Fly, Tackles High Cobourg High Wins 6-5

Who said that the "foot" was gradually disappearing from football? Any spectator at the Cobourg Collegiate-St. Peter's High School Junior B Lakeshore game Monday afternoon will readily agree that the "foot" is still there.

Feet and knees combined with the odd fist in a rough opening of the junior league as the Cobourg lads edged the St. Peter's crew 6-5. The rough play reached its peak late in the third when a minor rally with fists was started. This session was cut short and a 25-yard penalty handed out to St. Peter's.

Forward passing played the most important role in the game. Both teams were off the beam as St. Peter's heaved seven, not completed one and having three intercepted. Cobourg had bad luck with their passing efforts in the first but opened up in the fourth quarter. They threw 11 forward passes, four good, three intercepted and four incomplete.

Intercepts

None of the intercepted St. Peter's passes affected the scoring but one of Cobourg's did. After a scoreless first half Garth Douglas attempted to throw a pass in the early third. Bob Fitzgerald for St. Peter's sailed in to intercept the ball at centre. He shook off tacklers to go over for the St. Peter's major.

Passing also accounted for the Cobourg major. Opening the fourth sitting on the SPS 31 Cobourg's Douglas first flipped to Pearce and then to Sirret for a touchdown. Art McIntosh, Cobourg half, converted for the winning point.

St. Peter's Bob O'Rourke raced 47 yards across the line just after the score in the third but the play was called back. A quick whistle halted the play and O'Rourke in his made haste to reach the touchline failed to hear anything. He had grapped an attempted lateral.

St. Peter's controlled most of the ground work until late in the game. Byrne and McGillen were the main plungers while McIntosh carried for Cobourg late in the fourth.

Kick Hot and Cold

In the kicking department SPS was hot and cold. Foley and McGillen were in this portion of the game. They had two kicks blocked as their line was forced back upon them. Douglas had better luck with his kicking for the lakeshore squad, only one kick being blocked. Quarterback Neil Cain of Cobourg made several long runbacks on St. Peter's kicks.

St. Peter's juniors, now coached by John Lynch of the Orfuns, will be idle until Saturday afternoon when they meet Al MacQuarrie's junior B team from PCVS at the Oval. This will be the first appearance of the PCVS third team.

Lineups:

St. Peter's High School—Flying wing, Fitzgerald; halves, Byrne, McGillen, Foley; suarter, Hickey; centre, Crough; insides, Taylor, LeBarr; middles, Clarke, Simmons; outsides, O'Connell, Corkery; alt., Kirkley, McCormick, O'Rourke, Gooley, O'Brien, Kingdon, Chretien, Ferren, Legros, P. Hickson, C. Hickson.

World Series Notes

By The Associated Press

Charles H. Krause, manager of concessions at Philadelphia's Shibe Park, probably suffered more through the last week of the baseball season than any rabid Phillies' fans. Krause ordered 40,000 world series programs printed six weeks ago when the Phillies appeared a cinch. He also ordered 35,000 rolls, an equal number of hot dogs, 18,000 cups of ice cream and from 35,000 to 40,000 bottle of soda pop. He really sighed with relief when the Phils won the National League flag at Brooklyn on the last day of the season.

On the way to the train station Sunday after beating Brooklyn 4-1 in the pennant-clinching game, Phillies pitcher Russ Meyer sat next to a bus window and asked pedestrians, "how did the Dodgers do today?" when they naturally answered, "they lost," Meyer retorted, "ain't that tough."

The Phillies will be cheered on by their wives. The ladies are attending the series in a group. And incfdentally, the wives will add plenty of glamor to the Shibe Park scene. They're a pretty group of (P)fillies.

The local papers are busy signing up new writers to cover the series. The Inquirer has Del Ennis and Jim Konstanty penning columns on each game of the series. The Bulletin has Manager Eddie Sawyer contributing deft prose on the whys and wherefores of the scrap. Phil Rizzuto is scribbling for the New York Journal American. At last reports, Yankee Manager Casey Stengel was still available for an offer.

Tigers Blank Oshawa 3-0

OSHAWA, Oct. 3 — (CP) — Waterloo Tigers and Oshawa Merchants today headed for the fourth game of their best-of-seven Ontario baseball championship series, with Tigers leading, two games to one.

Tigers blanked the home team here Monday night, 3-0, before the largest crowd of the season. Tigers, Intercounty champions, took the first game at home Saturday, 9-4. Oshawa came back in Toronto Sunday with a 7-1 win.

Pitcher Joe Yosurak was the hero for the winners in Monday night's game. He scattered five hits and fanned seven.

Bill McTavish started for the Merchants, but ran into trouble in the second frame. Two infield hits and three walks accounted for two runs. McTavish finished the inning, but was yanked in the third in favor of George Davidson, who flew in from college in the United States, but was too late to start the game.

Davidson gave up only three hits in seven innings, but a walk and a double by Manny McIntyre in the third gave Tigers their clinching run.

Diesel Train Celebrates 1925 First Run

MONTREAL, October 3—The 25th anniversary of the introduction of Diesel locomotives on the railroads of North America was celebrated here Sunday when Canadian National Railways Diesel unit No. 15837, one of the company's nine units which pioneered this motive power on the continent, hauled a special train to Huberdeau, in the Laurentians, carrying members of the Canadian Railroad Historical Association.

The unit is a twin of CNR No. 15820, which, in 1925, raced across the continent in 67 hours to establish an all-time record.

Aboard the special train which marked the event yesterday, was the CNR's general supervisor of Diesel equipment, E. J. Feasey, who played a leading role in the construction of the original Diesels, as well as I. I. Sylvester, the only surviving member of the crew which took unit 15820 on its record-breaking run 25 years ago.

CALGARY, Oct. 3 (CP)—First move in the return of the Progressive Conservative Party to provincial politics in Alberta will take place here tonight with the formation of a constituency association. Riddell, permanent representative of Canada to the United Nations.

Union Heads Criticize Freeing Of Dollar

TORONTO, Oct. 3 (CP)—C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), Monday night criticized the government's move freeing the Canadian dollar.

"A wild dollar on the international boards does not seem consistent with the necessity of keeping things on an even keel today," he said.

George Burt, Canadian director of the United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL), said in Windsor that the jump in value of the dollar would be a distinct advantage to the auto industry

KINGSTON, Oct. 3 — (CP) — James McCammon, 18, held in penitentiary in the United States since Sept. 16 on charges of illegal entry, is being freed and sent back home here, his parents were advised Monday. Ruysdael Drops Commercials For Movie Roles

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 3 (AP). — The man with one of the most familiar voices in radio is on his way to becoming one of the most familiar faces in the movies.

He is Basil Ruysdael. It was his distinguished voice that delivered those repeat commercials on the Jack Benny, Kay Kyser and Hit Parade programs.

"People hated me," he admits. "Sometimes I even hated myself."

For 14 years, Ruysdael droned out the catch slogans, flanked by tobacco auctioneers. Ruysdael has had a number of careers. He was a tool-maker and a marine in the First World War.

He sang at the Metropolitan Opera House with his friend, Enrico Caruso. He cavorted with the Marx Brothers in "Coconuts." At 40 he turned to intoning commercials on the air.

New Career

A couple of years ago, he began his latest and most successful career at the age of 60. An agent suggested that Ruysdael try pictures.

"Not me," he laughed.

But the agent wouldn't be dissuaded. Much to Ruysdael's surprise he got a role and has been working steadily ever since.

Among his films have been "Come To The Stable," "Pinky," "Broken Arrow," Raton Pass," 'High Lonesome" and "Carrie," which he just completed.

Ruysdel gave up radio and hopes to be in the movie business for a long time to come. He has no fears of being typed. Among his roles so far have been an outlaw, a priest, a general, an admiral, a lawyer, a Western land baron, a psychiatrist and a saloon keeper.

Have A Choice

TORONTO, Oct. 3 — (CP) — Toronto ratepayers will be asked Dec. 4 whether they want the next city council and board of education to serve two-year terms. City council voted 12 to 5 Monday to place the question on a ballot.

Healey Willan Gives Organ Master Hand

The organ recital which Dr. Healey Willan, FRCO, gave at St. John's Church on Monday night was well attended and gave great satisfaction to the audience. Dr. Willan is famous at the director of music at the Church of St Mary Magdalene in Toronto, a post which he has held since 1921; during that time he has made the choir of St. Mary's known everywhere on this continent, and has become recognized as a leading authority on plainchant.

His recital on Monday night opened with three pieces by Handel. The overture to 'Semele" and the overture to "Richard III" are characteristic of the composer's theatrical manner; it was expecially interesting to hear the latter work. When a genius in one art seeks to support a genius in another art the effect is sometimes unintentionally amusing, and Shakespeare seen through the eyes of Handel is not only good music but good fun as well. Dr. Willan also played the familiar minuet from "Berenice."

The Handel group was followed by three arrangements of the chorale "Deck thyself, my soul," by Bach, Brahms and Karg-Elert. The first part of the program concluded with the Bach Prelude and Fugue in C Major, in which noble work Dr. Willan gave what was perhaps the best performance of the evening.

Mendelssohn Sonata

The Mendelssohn organ sonatas are somewhat neglected today, which is a pity, for they have great beauty. Dr. Willan played the Sonata No. 2 in C minor with strongly poetic feeling, and explored the possibilities of St. John's organ in a manner which was a revelation to many among his hearers. He then played two short pieces by Whitlock, of which a folk-tune arrangement was especially pleasing. He ended the program with three of his own compositions, the first and third of which were in the rich but somewhat sombre vein that we have come to associate with much of his work. The second was a delightful scherzo.

The program was admirably balanced, and long enough to be satisfying without exhausting the interest of the hearers. Dr. Willan, who is one of Canada's foremost organists, plays in a style which deserves the highest praise; he is restrained without ever slipping into dullness; he avoids those rowdy effects which tempt even excellent organists; he never shows off; he never attempts to make the organ do things which are merely imitations of effects which the orchestra does better. He is master of an instrument which, more than any other, presents temptations to the player whose taste is faulty. It was a great pleasure to hear him, and Archdeacon Robertson's suggestion that he might visit the city again was warmly approved by the audience.—R.D.

The concrete rail is curved so cars can neither go through nor over. First installation is at the approach to Millstream Bridge on Vancouver Island's scenic Malahat Drive. H. F. Bourne, district engineer, right, inspects the rail with W. S. Harrison of the company which built it.

Taxi Bylaw Put In Effect Over Protests of Owners

Amid loud and ineffectual protests from taxi owners and drivers, Peterborough's new and controversial taxi bylaw went into effect Saturday. But little has been done yet to enforce some of the new provisions of the bylaw.

Almost no taxi drivers have been fingerprinted—a provision which aroused strong opposition from drivers. It made them feel, they said, like criminals. The police department expects to be ready to fingerprint drivers in a day or two.

Drawn up by the Police Commission, which has jurisdiction over taxis, the bylaw was passed by council July 13 with the understanding that it go into effect at the end of September.

From the time changes were proposed in the bylaw last January, taxi owners have voiced their opposition. Chiefly they complained about compulsory insurance which "shall include a passenger hazard clause . . . and shall indemnify the applicant in the sum of at least $10,000 for physical injury to one person, or $20,000 for physical injury to more than one person and $1,000 property damage in any one accident . . ."

May Lose Licence

If the policy is cancelled for any reason, the taxi owner automatically loses his licence.

At the invitation of the Police Commission taxi owners went to a meeting of the commission and voiced their objections to the proposed changes. At that first meeting early last spring, less than half a dozen turned up.

The commission considered ther objections and told them they would be invited to another meeting. When this meeting was called in May, only two or three turned up, because the secretary of the taxi operators' association neglected to send around word of the meeting.

As a result, the taxi owners were given another chance in June when the new bylaw had been drafted to voice ther objections. At that meeting 15 owners were represented by J. C. H. Currelly, and Hugh J. Davis, the city's largest taxi owner, was represented by T. J. Carley, K.C.

Raised Objections

The objections raised were about the same as before, involving principally fingerprinting and photographing drivers and compulsory insurance. The smaller operators also objected to the clause, which was in the old bylaw, requiring operators to provide 24-hour service.

In July, at the next meeting of the Police Commission, some minor changes were made and the bylaw passed on to the city council to be made city law. None of the changes affected taxi owners' and drivers' more serious objections.

The bylaw passed, but the taxi people still don't like it.

Traffic Charge Brings $25 Fine

Ruling that "just north of Warsaw" set the scene of an accident close enough to information given in a charge of careless driving against Donald McCracken, R.R. 2, Lakefield, Magistrate W. R. Philp K.C., found McCracken guilty and fined him $25 and $3.75 costs in police court today.

The charge identified the scene of the accident as on a county road in Dummer township known as the Stony Lake road. Defending McCracken, Alex L. Elliott, K.C., who offered no defence, argued there was nothing in the evidence to fix the scene of the accident and the charge should be dismissed.

Provincial Constable John C. McKendry testified McCracken's car was totally wrecked when it skidded 170 feet along the road, 148 feet along the shoulder and then rolling seven and a half times in the space of an additional 158 feet, landing on the roof, on a road "just north of Warsaw."

Hilliard Little, R.R. 2, Warsaw, suffered a back injury and was taken to Peterborough Civic Hospital. McCracken and his brother Kenneth both had cuts and bruises but were not seriously injured. Mrs. Alice Hendren, Warsaw, another passenger, escaped unhurt.

No explanation for the accident which occurred on a straight stretch of road was given in court. For some reason McCracken had apparently applied his brakes and skidded out of control.

GIANT POTATO

A potato weighing over two pounds was brought into the Examiner office Monday. The monster was grown by Mrs H. E. Cassan, 135 Lansdowne St who has a small plot in her garden from which she collected about 20 bags.

Unemployment Claims Down To Record Low

Unemployment Insurance claims at the end of September, broke August's record low at the local National Employment Service, Manager William Mellis announced today.

At the end of September 520 city and district unemployed were drawing funds as compared with the low of 704 in August. The low prior to August was in May when there were 1,001 claims. Other months' figures are: June, 1,005. July, 1,039.

Working conditions are better this year in Peterborough than last, said Mr. Mellis. At the end of September in 1949 the unemployed on claim totalled 817. This year only 437 men were registered at the office as unemployed and looking for work as compared with 598 last year. The women out of work this year also dropped from a high of 431 in 1949 to a low of 338 this year.

Vacancies throughout the district increased this year. On Saturday the office had 56 openings in various occupations for men against 37 at the end of September in 1949. Women's opportunities increased from eight in September 1949 to 35 this year.

Return To Work

Since August a large number of short-time claimants have returned to work, forced on claim by the railway strike. But during the past two days several of the large Peterborough factories have indicated that their help will be working on a short-time week.

This may mean an increase of nearly 500 on claim. These men and women will be working three and four days a week. Shortage of material is the cause for the temporary slack period.

In the city at the end of last month 251 men and 181 women were on claim. Last year the figures were considerably higher with 331 men and 224 women unemployed and receiving insurance money. In August in Peterborough 334 men and 216 women appeared at the local office for their weekly allowance.

Postal claims, unemployed out of the range of the city, went to 50 men and 35 women as compared with 115 men and 39 women in August. At the end of September in 1949 postal claims were paid to 165 men and 97 women.

Only the shortage of materials mars the present labor situation in Peterborough. Mr. Mellis explained that conditions are much better than last year because many of the construction jobs are operating longer than last. As long as the weather is favorable, unemployment will be at a minimum.

New Collegiate Bylaw Ready For Ratepayers

City council has now complied with the request of the Board of Education in drafting a bylaw to be submitted to the ratepayers at the municipal elections seeking approval of the borrowing of $585,000 for a Collegiate Institute on Monaghan Road south.

The money bylaw itself was given two readings at the meeting Monday night. The third reading depends on the decision of the people. The school trustees are presenting the entire project in the building of the new Collegiate and also its furnishings.

Growth of the city in the last ten years has overtaxed the capacity of the uptown Collegiate, with the result that the Board has been forced to bring the condition to the attention of the people.

A second bylaw authorizes the council to submit the Collegiate project to the qualified voters, as differentiated from the borrowing bylaw, which was given only two readings.

A total of 7,175 people attended picnics at Riverside Park and Nicholls Oval during September, according to the Parks Department.

On September 4, the Trades and Labor Council held their picnic at Riverside Park with an attendance of 800. Approximately 175 attended the Order of the Eastern Star picnic held on September 9, at Riverside. The Parks Department reported that 1,800 attended 10 weiner and corn roasts and private picnics at this park during the month.

The Cricket Club held two picnics at Nicholls Oval in the month with a total attendance of 200. Attendance at private picnics at the Oval totalled 1,200.

The largest picnic outside the C.G.E. picnic during the summer was held by the Canadian Legion at Nicholls Oval on August 7. Approximately 6,000 attended.

Record Year Looms In Construction

Peterborough is on the way to setting a new all-time building record if it keeps up through the last quarter the volume reported for September at the office of City Engineer Chalmers.

Total last month was $514,779 as compared with $201,056 in September last year.

Total for nine months this year is $3,221,877; and for the corresponding period last year $3,174,-244.

The total for the twelve months of 1949 was $3,781,799. From the peak of last December 31 it was commented that with total building investment at close to $4,000,-000, a great deal of it in realty, the community could hardly expect to maintain that flush of activity.

At the turn into the home stretch of the year, Peterborough has only $559,922 to compile in further building permits to surpass that grand total of 1949, and possibly climb up over the $4,000,-000 mark.

39 New Houses

The permits issued last month were: 24 garages, $6,160; 39 dwellings, $367,500; miscellaneous, $141,119; total $514,779; and for nine months $3,221,877.

Permits for Sept. last year were: 23 garages, $4,855; 21 dwellings, $135,600; and 89 miscellaneous permits; $60,601; total for the month, $201,056; and for the year to the end of September, $3,174,-244.

The building inspector reported to the council 547 inspections last month.

Cobourg Lumber Company's new housing project on the former Cecil P. Hayes Hill, at High and Frank Streets, where 22 cellars are being excavated for the first group of a total of some 60 houses, contributed a bulky sum to that $367,500 last month under the heading of dwellings.

There are several interesting items in the miscellaneous new work. Peterborough Lumber Co. have taken a permit for a $10,000 office to be built in front of their Monaghan Road plant.

Two small permits were $3,000 to Brinton Carpet and $1,200 to Western Clock; $15,000 covers expenditure on the fire hall.

There is also the new Bradburn building on Charlotte St., $50,000 for stores and buildings, opposite the CNR station property.

Another permit was obtained by Dr. Robert Young for a clinic at the corner of Aylmer and Romaine Streets.

Contract Let For Young Clinic

George Hardy Construction Co. Ltd. have the contract for the building of the medical clinic at the northwest corner of Aylmer and Romaine Streets for which a permit of $34,000 has been taken by Dr. Bob Young.

Plans are for a brick building, basement and ground floor, 46 ft. by 42 ft., set back on the lot to provide off-street parking.

Dr. Young said today there would be office and other accommodation for four doctors. In regard to his associates he said: "We'll know more about that when we get the building up."

The Dr. Young clinic (there is no name for it yet) will be the fourth in the city. There are two at Charlotte and Reid Streets, and also the Dr. Raymore Scott clinic at Princess and George Streets.

George Hardy Construction Co have recently built in Peterborough two schools, St. Anne School in the north, St. Alphonsus southwest, and they also have the contract for the sewage disposal job.

Dental Health Week

Need Information To Battle Tooth Decay

"The greatest need to-day in the fight against dental decay is the dissemination of information," contended Dr. S. Lee Honey, D.D.P.H., Welland guest speaker at the Peterborough and district Public Health dinner at the Empress Hotel Monday night.

"The populace doesn't know the problem and doesn't know how to help," stated Dr. Honey Quoting statistics, the speaker explained that dental decay attacks more children than all other diseases.

"In this fight against dental diseases, lay people can be just as influential as dentists," the speaker claimed. "The time for action is before children reach the age of six. We must interest young mothers in dental decay so that the battle can commence before children's teeth erupt. In this way children's diets can be regulated so that detrimental foods can be totally eliminated or brought to a minimum.

Dr. Honey was introduced by Dr. Russell Butler, chairman of the Dental Public Health Committee of Ontario.

Other speakers at the dinner were Norman Wilson, warden of Peterborough County, Dr. John Craig, and Dr. D. L. McKeracher, president of the Ontario Dental Association.

Dr. Ralph C. Honey, chairman of the Peterborough and District Dental Public Health Committee acted as master of ceremonies. He briefly outlined the aims and objects of the committee.

The Public Health dinner was the inaugural dinner of the fourth dental public health week. The projects to be carried out by the Dental Health Committee were reported by Dr. John Craig. These activities will include showing of films in all public and separate Schools in the city. Meetings have been arranged with Home and School groups and Parent Teacher groups in Lakefield, St. Peter's High School, May's School, Queen Alexandra Public School, and schools in Norwood, Havelock, Buckhorn and Stewart Hall.

Three radio broadcasts are scheduled to take place during the week. First will be a talk by Dr. R. R. Butler on October 3. A radio forum on nutrition and its relation to dental health will take place October 5, and on October 6 a radio quiz will be held.

Films will be shown in the following county schools: Cottesloe, Preneveau, Otonabee, No. 12; Bridgenorth, Ennismore, Donegal, Douro and Otonabee, No. 17. Surveys will be conducted in Buckhorn and Apsley.

Sales Truck Bylaw Passes May Permit Ouimet To Remain At Old Stand

The regulating of mobile sales trucks became effective Monday night with the passing of the licensing bylaw which the council was drafting several weeks ago. At that September session it was sent back to committee for some reconsideration, and has now been adopted virtually as first contemplated. This statute stirred up controversy recently in its direct application to the only operating unit in the city, the potato chips business carried on by Dick Ouimet under annual license during the last four years.

It leaves the way open for Mr. Ouimet to continue in what may be regarded as his established location at the Zeller's curb on Simcoe St., at the George St. corner, providing his application is approved by the council.

The bylaw passed without discussion, and all Aldermen voted for it.

The bylaw as prepared by City Solicitor Huycke is intended "to regulate and license the use and operation of mobile vending units in the city of Peterborough."

Deemed Expedient

The preamble affirms that councils may pass bylaws and make such regulations "for the health, safety, morality and welfare of the inhabitants of the municipality not specifically provided for by the Municipal Act, as may be deemed expedient and are not contrary to law."

Also, "It is deemed advisable and expedient to pass a bylaw to regulate and license the use and operation of mobile vending units."

The scope of enactment follows: "No person or persons (which term shall include a partnership or corporation) shall operate a mobile vending unit on the public streets without first having secured a license so to do as hereinafter provided."

Applications in writing are to be addressed to the city clerk. They shall be referred to the finance committee for consideration

That committee shall recommend whether any such license shall be granted, "but no license shall be granted until it has been approved by the council." Annual license fee shall be $150.

Metered Streets Closed

Restrictions pertaining to street occupation exclude vending units from George St., both sides where parking meters have been installed, or shall hereafter be installed; also both sides of Charlotte St. where and when metered.

Also "on any street on which parking meters have been installed or shall be installed, before 6 p.m."

"At any place on any street where total parking prohibitions are in force under the bylaw regulating traffic."

"A licensee shall serve customers only from the side of his mobile unit nearest the sidewalk or curb of the street against which his vehicle is parked, or standing, or on the said curb or sidewalk."

"Upon request, space will be provided for licensed units on the public market, to be allotted by the market clerk upon payment of the fees provided in the market bylaw; provided, however, that the city reserves the right to use for its own purpose, upon any special occasion, any space so allocated."

Keep It Clean

"Any licensee to whom space has been allocated upon the public market, shall keep and maintain the same in a clean and orderly manner and shall place or cause to be placed all used container or other refuse in a receptacle kept for that purpose."

"Any licensee shall keep his products and equipment in a clean and sanitary condition and while operating on any public street shall keep a receptacle for waste, and shall place or cause to be placed, all used containers or other refuse in the immediate area of his operations."

He must also comply with the requirements of the Medical Officer of Health and the Chief Constable. A license shall not be transferable.

"Notwithstanding the provisions of this bylaw, the council reserves the right to cancel any or all licenses with or without cause when, in its opinion, it is in the public interest so to do."

Conviction for any infraction of the bylaw shall incur a penalty of not more than $25, exclusive of costs.

The final clause: "This bylaw shall come into force and take effect upon the passing thereof."

Winter Upkeep Of Old Hospital To Cost $5,500

Cost of winter maintenance of the abandoned civic hospital building is estimated at $5,546.50 by John Hornal, superintendent of Civic Hospital, in a report to the council Monday night.

The period considered by Mr. Hornal is for six months. Cost covers wages of watchmen, coal, power, insurance, etc.

Council approved a report of the committee of the whole rejecting an offer of $50,000 for the vacated hospital property and nurses' residence which was recently received from Braund and O'Toole, realtors.

The recommendation of the committee, composed of all the members of the council was: "That the nurses residence and civic hospital building be not sold, and that they be retained by the city in view of the quickly developing international emergency which might make these buildings of great value to one or other of the branches of the Canadian government, and that a committee composed of Mayor Swanston and Aldermen Dewart and Braund be authorized to confer with the proper authorities in Ottawa regarding the availability of these buildings for government use."

The Braund and O'Toole bid was received and discussed prior to the collapse of the Communist forces in southern Korea.

New YMCA Secretary Welcomed At Dinner

New general secretary of the YMCA, Charles Forsyth, was officially welcomed to his new post Wednesday night by civic and YM officials at a banquet attended by about 80 people.

Also welcomed to the city were physical director Fraser Wade and boys' work secretary Bill McFarlane.

Mayor Swanston spoke on behalf of the city, and Mrs. T. J. Carley welcomed the three men on behalf of the YWCA.

Retiring general secretary G. H. Roper also spoke briefly.

Dixie Staffords In Finals Whip Parham 11-1 At Bowl

Faraway hills must seem mighty green today for Dixie Staffords and a dull, dismal grey for Parham. Monday night these teams journeyed to the Ashburnham Bowl for the deciding game of their O.A.S.A. Intermediate B semi-final series and the Staffords decided it in their favor 11-1.

Two bus loads and seven carloads of Parham fans shook the bleachers with cheers for five innings and then Staffords began to pull away. The fans continued to press on their heroes but in vain.

Staffords shut out the Parhams 7-0 in the first game of the series only to have the Eastern Ontario team tie the series by edging them 4-3 in 13 innings in Parham. The series was best in three, Staffords now playing the semi-finalists from Western Ontario.

Don Goodfellow, a righthander with a zippy upshoot, started for Parham. His first trouble arrived in the second when Frank Callahan, Dixie shortstop, slapped a triple into left field and later scored on an out. A double play in the third cut off another rally as Dixie had two men on when John Tanas, pitcher, grounded to third baseman George Simonett who tagged the base for the forceout and threw to second to catch the runner from first.

Downfall Fifth

In the fifth the timbers began to shake above the Parhams. Two errors started the inning off and they were shoved across by virtue of another error and a passed ball. A hit to centre by Dick Anthony scored Phil Alcumbrack for the third run.

The Parham house crashed in the sixth which also began with an error. Trying to catch the runner at home the Parhams allowed Dixie to fill the bases until Ken Pallett singled scoring two runs. Tanas and Joe Anthony followed up with singles which were helped by two more errors for runs and Goodfellow's reign ended, six runs having been scored in the inning with none out.

Harold Fowler, at short, then traded positions with Goodfellow and before he could stop the Staffords another run crossed. He shut them out in the seventh and eighth innings.

John Tanas enjoyed a life of ease on the Stafford mound as he struck out nine and had good support by the field. Only in the second did he have any trouble, then Dixie tied the score one-all. Clayton Simonett singled. On an attempted steal for second the catcher's throw went into centre field where the centre fielder pitched the ball into the third base line bleachers trying to cut off the runner. Simonett skipped across with the only Parham tally.

Tanas shared the batting honors with the Parham centrefielder, Bud Goodfellow, who had two for four. Joe Anthony, the Staffords' first baseman and leadoff man, had two for five.

Line-ups:

Parham— G. Simonett, b; C. Cota, rf; G. Bertrim, 2b; B. Goodfellow, cf; F. Goodfellow, 1b; Harold Fowler, ss, p; I. Cronk, lf; C. Simonett, c; D. Goodfellow, p, ss.

Illegal Fishing Bad As Theft

Illegal catching of muskies inflicts the same economic injury to the Peterborough district as any of the common forms of theft. That was the theme of an address given to the Peterborough Lions Club Monday night by Pete McGillen, outdoors editor of the Toroto Telegram.

Mr. McGillen recommended a $50 penalty for any so-called fisherman who catches muskies illegally.

"Every group in the community —tourist resort operators, merchants, hot dog stand owners and the everyday citizen—stands to lose if the muskie stock is depleted," he said.

The lure of landing this fastest and largest freshwater fish (with the exception of the sturgeon) is what brings tourists to the Kawarthas, he said.

If this No. 1 attraction should disappear the lucrative tourist business would be struck a stunning blow. Because of this every person—particularly residents of the Kawartha district—should feel a personal responsibility in seeing that wildlife is protected.

"The only protection for fish and game in this province is the interest you, its citizens, put into it," said Mr. McGillen. "No matter how good the game warden is he can't do more than 50 per cent efficient if people won't cooperate with him and assist him."

The average person would quickly report to the police a thief trying to break nito his neighbour's home or stealing from thief neighbour's car. Unfortunately, continued Mr. McGillen, he too often doesn't realize this similar obligation when fish and game regulations are violated.

"The man who takes muskies illegally is stealing from all of us and hurting us directly," he said. "In fact he is a fool because he is even stealing from himself."

Mr. McGillen then spoke on the life span of the muskie.

He was introduced by P. D. Scollard and thanked by James Dutton, Jr. Lion President Bert Sisson was in the chair.

Joe Louis has left the gate open in case he should decide to continue fighting

"I wouldn't say definitely I would fight again and I wouldn't say definitely I wouldn't," the Brown Bomber said Monday at the International Boxing Club in New York, where he resumed his duties as director after taking a leave of absence for his losing bout with Ezzard Charles Wednesday.

"I haven't had time to think it over," he amplified. "Manny (Seamon, his trainer) and I will get together and take the Charles fight apart round by round. Then I'll make my decision. That will be at least a month or six weeks.

"But I wouldn't commit myself one way or another now. I don't want that subject kicked around again the way it was the last time."

Louis said his decision will not have any connection with his tax troubles. He has not received his cheque of approximately $102,000 for the Charles fight yet, but said it eventually will go to Chicago, where his lawyer, Truman Gibson, was meeting with government officials to determine Joe's exact status.

Joe owes the government a considerable sum for income tax. It is believed to be about $200,000.

New York's Joe Miceli sprang a surprise Monday night by taking a unanimous 10-round decision from lightweight boxing champion Ike Williams in a non-title fight at Milwaukee.

Williams 142½, kept walking into Miceli, who had the crowd wild as he poured in hooks and uppercuts.

One judge gave Miceli the fight 8-3, another 6-4 and the referee had it 6-5 for Miceli.

Fred Oberlander of Montreal defeattd Franz Muller of the United States in a wrestling bout at the MacCabiah games in Tel Aviv Monday.

Oberlander, manager and captain of the Canadian team competing in the all-Jewish sports festival, lost on points to Denmark's U. Peikin in another match.

Ruby Leibovitch of Montreal was defeated in a lightweight wrestling contest by Simon Jurland of Denmark who won in 1.17 minutes.

Columbus Takes Driving Seat, Orioles Trailing

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3—(AP)—Columbus Red Birds are in the driver's seat today with a 2-1 lead in the little world series and the Baltimore Orioles out of pitchers.

As the series move into Columbus for the remaining games, Oriole Manager Nick Cullop faces a tough decision in naming a starting pitcher for tonight's fray.

Should he put his ace southpaw, Bill Kennedy, on the hill or try to come back with righthander Tommy Fine, who was clubbed out of Monday night's game in Baltimore in the first inning?

Kennedy, International League all-star lefty, also was cuffed around by the Red Birds in dropping the series opener Saturday night, 6-1.

Cullop used five pitchers in the contest Monday night in which the American Association representatives beat the Orioles at their own home-run game to win 8-5. He even put in big Karl Drews, who Sunday hurled Baltimore's only triumph, an 8-1 six-hitter.

Harry (The Hat) Walker led the homer parade with a pair while Larry Miggins and Vern Benson each socked one for Columbus. Russ Kerns got the only round-tripper for the Orioles, who had moved through the International League playoffs on the strength of their long-ball hitting.

Attendance of 21,287 Monday night brought the total for the three games in Baltimore to 59,434 and increased the amount in the players' pool to $41,937.51. The players benefit from the receipts of the first four games.

Fitzwilliam Hopes To Prove Legitimate Birth For Estate

LONDON, Oct. 3. — (Reuters). —A great-grandson of the fifth Earl Fitzwilliam will shortly appear before the high court here to plead his legitimate birth.

If he wins his case he will be declared heir-presumptive to the Fitzwilliam earldom and future lord of the biggest private house in Britain.

The petitioner is 62-year-old George James Charles (Toby) Fitzwilliam. According to his birth certificate he was born seven months before his father and mother were married in London.

Debrett's Peerage, register of the British gentry, lists his younger brother, Capt. William Wentworth-Fitzwilliam, as heir-presumptive to the family title.

But Toby claims his parents were married before his birth, at a ceremony in Scotland.

The present earl, the ninth, is 66 and has no children. His marriage was dissolved in 1917. Today he lives in relatively-straitened circumstances, using only three rooms of his enormous 365-room mansion at Wentworth Woodhouse in Yorkshire.

It is a far cry from the days when Wentworth Woodhouse, with its magnificent 600-foot frontage, was built to frame the pomp and circumstance with which this famous family surrounded itself.

Very Powerful

Invading England with William the Conqueror in 1066, the Fitzwilliams made themselves increasingly powerful and wealthy by prompt service to the king, wealthy marriages, hard-headed business in the London counting houses and—during the last century—by the exploitation of huge coal reserves on the family estates.

But the decline in the Fitzwilliam fortunes came rapidly.

Heavily-increasing death duties caused the seventh earl to convert most of his wealth into six unincorporated companies. He died in 1943 and his successor in 1948, both of them leaving formidable inheritance taxes for their heirs to pay.

Rotary Clubman Urges Activity

Sid Black, speaking to fellow members of the Peterborough Rotary Club Monday, urged them to take a more active part in the life of their club.

He said the Peterborough club had one of the worst attendance records in the district. By attending meetings, club members could relax and take part in club fellowship.

Mr. Black said members should make it a point to do more than shake hands with new members. Other ways of keeping the club functioning at a high level was to advise some member of the executive if a fellow member is sick.

Members should also wear their badges consistently and keep in touch with the activities of Rotary clubs throughout the country by reading the Rotary magazine.

Rotary members should lose no opportunity to tell members of the public of the activities and services of the Rotary club, he said.

He also suggested that when a member becomes 65, he step down by becoming a past active member. In this way, a place is left in his classification for a younger member of his profession and he can still take part in the meetings and activities of the club.

Mr. Black was introduced by Grant Miller and thanked by Ted Outram.

President Hugh Waddell called for a minute's silence in honor of club member J. A. Gibbs who died Saturday.

Now! Proof that BRUSHING TEETH RIGHT AFTER EATING WITH COLGATE DENTAL CREAM HELPS PREVENT TOOTH DECAY!

2 Years' research by LEADING UNIVERSITIES proves that test groups brushing teeth right after eating with Colgate Dental Cream showed amazing reduction in tooth decay!

Research shows that decay is caused by mouth acids which are at their worst after meals. When you brush your teeth with Colgate's right after eating, you help remove mouth acids before they can harm enamel.

Under the direction of eminent dental authorities, one group of college men and women always brushed their teeth with Colgate Dental Cream right after eating—while another group followed their usual dental care. The average of the group using Colgate's as directed, and using Colgate's exclusively, was a startling reduction in the number of new cavities—far less tooth decay. The other group developed new cavities at a much higher rate.

FURTHER PROOF FROM SCHOOL CHILDREN

Leading Canadian dentists examined and directed over 8,000 school children in corrective dental habits. In addition to diet changes where required, the children were asked to brush their teeth after each meal.

The results! 16% fewer children with tooth decay!... Cavities dropped from an average of 5 per child to just over 3! ...53% more children received dental care that prevented either loss of teeth or serious dental troubles later in life! ... The number of children with no defects—increased by 200%!

CLEANS YOUR BREATH AS IT CLEANS YOUR TEETH!

Scientific tests prove that in 7 out of 10 cases, Colgate's instantly stops bad breath that originates in the mouth! Colgate's active penetrating foam gets into hidden crevices between teeth—helps clean out decaying food particles—stops stagnant saliva odors—removes the cause of much bad breath!

HELP YOUR CHILDREN AVOID TOOTH DECAY!

Insist that your children always brush their teeth right after eating with Colgate Dental Cream. They'll love Colgate's delicious double-minty flavor, so it's easy to get them to use Colgate's correctly.

The entire front of the church was banked with asters, gladioli and ferns for the occasion. Wedding music was played by the bride's brother, Mr. Norman Lowes of Oshawa, and Miss Marion Parks of Peterborough was soloist. Before the bridal party entered the church she sang "The Voice that Breathes O'er Eden" and during the signing of the register "O Perfect Love."

Pure white velvet fashioned in a two-piece gown with long sweeping skirt was the bride's choice. The jacket was fastened with tiny rhinestone buttons and had a roll collar and full peplum effect at lower edge, and tight fitting sleeves with points over her hands. Her fingertip veil of embroidered silk illusion was caught to a hand-beaded bandeau and she carried a cascade of deep crimson roses.

Tiny seed pearls were used in embroidery at the neckline. Her fingertip veil was of nylon illusion and caught to a tiara of rhinestones and pearls and she carried a cascade of American Beauty roses. Mrs. Ross Parkin and Mrs. Denis Crowhurst, her bridesmaids, were frocked alike in gowns of linden green taffeta with Swiss embroidery, made in similar style. Each wore a matching hat with contrasting feathers. The maid of honor carried a cascade of talisman roses and the bridesmaids carried colonial bouquets of yellow poms and pink roses.

SPEAKING OF FOOD —

Have you ever tried "Toad-in-the-Hole"? Perhaps you have never even heard of it, so let's tell you what it is and how you can make it for your family. This tempting, tasty main dish originated, as far as we know, in England and is made by laying fresh pork sausages (with skin removed) in a standard baking pan and covering with Yorkshire Pudding batter.

Place it in a hot oven and cook as you would Yorkshire Pudding. Your family is sure to like it and you'll find it inexpensive and so easy to make. At Dominion's meat counter you will find fresh sausages by well-known Canadian manufacturers — just the kind that have that extra flavour to give this dish the spicy taste your family will go for.

Although the fresh peach season is over, there's no need to ever be without good desserts made with peaches. Your Dominion Store in Peterborough is featuring new pack peaches by such well-known firms as Aylmer, Bright's and others. Use them frequently for cobblers, ice-cream sundaes, or with cake and cookies . . . they make an ideal dessert.

DOROTHY DIX

If Children Mistreat Them Parents Usually to Blame

DEAR MISS DIX: We have an only son whom we worship. We are only in moderate circumstances, but with great sacrifice we put him through high school, college and medical school. He has been very successful, but has forgotten who made it possible for him to get along so fast. He was secretly married recently and didn't tell us until he was ready to bring his wife into our home (not his) to live. Said he didn't consider it any of our business.

Dorothy Dix

My advice to parents is not to sacrifice themselves to their children. Let children educate themselves if you have to sweat blood to do it, for nine chances out of ten they will not thank you for it. They take all and give nothing, kick you in the face and expect you to like it.

DISILLUSIONED MOTHER

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Not all children are ungrateful. There are plenty of them who appreciate all the sacrifices that their parents made for them, and in hundreds of thousands of homes today there are old fathers and mothers who are being cherished and cared for by sons and daughters who are trying to repay their debt to them.

Brought it on Selves

My sympathy for the parents who complain of the ingratitude of their children is always tempered by the knowledge that they brought their sorrow upon themselves. All children are little savages to start with. They have to be taught the amenities of life. They have to be taught gratitude and appreciation and that they must make some return for the kindness that others show them. Those who ground these fundamental rules of decent behavior in their children while they are still babes; who make them say "thank you" for every favor that is done them; who teach them that because mother and father do so much for them they must do something for mother's and father's pleasure, never have cause to bemoan the ingratitude of their children.

And those who do not do this, who spoil and pamper their children, who make slaves of themslves to their children, who let their children run roughshod over them, must simply pay the price of their weakness and folly. As you sow you must reap.

But inasmuch as your son has shown that he is so unappreciative of what you have done for him in the past, why continue on a course that has brought you such unhappiness? Why continue to be the family goat? Why not let him do a little of the sacrificing by refusing to let him bring his wife to your house to live? He tells you that his marriage is none of your business. Certainly supporting his wife is none of your business. It is his. When he finds out how much it costs to run a home he will have more understanding, at least, of what you have done for him.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Here is the picture. The husband and wife both work. The wife gets up and gets the breakfast and calls her husband to it. It makes him perfectly furious and he says: "As long as you keep calling me I will not come." There is a scene. Things are patched up and wife continues calling her husband to meals, and the scene is encored. Sometimes the wife eats her breakfast and when he comes down and finds that she has already eaten he is so sore that he just won't eat. This makes the wife cry because she can't bear to think of her husband going to work without breakfast. Her weeping infuriates the husband so that he picks up any piece of furniture that might be near and breaks it up. Before she was married this girl was very gay and robust, but now she is thin and sad and nervous. She has asked me what she can do and I do not know what to tell her.

ANXIOUS FRIEND

ANSWER: The only thing that she can do is to leave him. That is the only possible way by which she can find out whether her husband is trying to drive her away from her home by making everything so unpleasant for her that she can't stay in it, or whether he is just a halfwit baby who goes into tantrums and breaks things just to amuse himself.

But I think that the wife in this case shows just as little intelligence as the husband does, and she is just as much a silly little girl as he a bad little boy. If she had any sense in her head she would never call her husband a second time to breakfast after she found out that it got upon his nerves. She would let him get up when and how he pleased and if he was late for his work she should worry.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband and I are young people who both work, are healthy, have a nice home and should be happy, but the fly in the ointment is that my husband is the greatest pessimist and grumbler in the world. Nothing in the world is right. Life is so hard. Everyone is getting ahead in business but him, which isn't true. And so on and so on. What shall I do before this wrecks our marriage, as I am afraid it will?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Of course, you realize that when the complainers complain they are having the time of their lives and they wouldn't cheer up at any price. I doubt there is any cure for them, but one woman I know at least made her pessimistic husband do his moaning away from home by getting out a pencil and paper and beginning to make out the list of pall-bearers for his funeral whenever he would begin complaining about his health and prophesying that he wasn't long for this world.

LEARNED HER LESSON

"Isn't it funny how things you learned at school suddenly come back? My washings always had a yellow tinge and then I remembered our chemistry teacher telling us that seven colours combine to make white, and one of them is blue. That is why there is no true white without blue. So of course, I use Reckitt's Blue now to keep my clothes white always—just a swish or two in the final rinse. Out of the blue comes the whitest wash." A-6-R

A DESSERT is as dressy as its trimming. Here a baked custard dons party attire with the simple addition of pineapples, raspberries and whipped-cream roses.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Variations of Baked Custard Provide Plenty of Variety

There's no monotony in this custard recipe and there's no monotony in the entire cookbook from which it is taken—"250 Delectable Dessert Recipes," the twelfth in a series of twenty-four cookbooks being released a cookbook-a-week to readers of the Examiner. Baked puddings, chilled desserts, custards, souffles, creamy puddings, shortcakes, fruits, and dessert sauces are among the chapter headings. The recipes are concisely written for beginner and experienced cook alike, and the numerous photographic illustrations add variety and imagination to the many ways in which you can serve these luscious concoctions.

The accompanying illustration shows a baked custard trimmed with pineapple, berries and whipped cream roses which makes a beautiful luncheon dessert out of an otherwise commonplace dish. And for ways in which the custard itself can be dressed up, here is the recipe and just a few of the variations given in the Dessert Book:

Baked Custard

2 eggs, slightly beaten; ¼ teaspoon salt; 1-3 cup sugar; 3 cups scalded milk; ½ teaspoon vanilla; nutmeg.

Combine eggs, salt and sugar. Add milk slowly, stirring constantly. Add vanilla. Pour into custard cups. Sprinkle with nutmeg, place in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 to 35 minutes or until a knife inserted in centre comes out clean. Serves four.

Pour into large mold and bake as above 45 to 50 minutes.

CARAMEL—Add 3 tablespoons caramelized sugar syrup to milk.

CHOCOLATE—Add 1½ ounces (squares) chocolate to milk; heat until melted.

COCONUT—Add ½ cup shredded coconut to mixture.

COFFEE—Scald 2 tablespoons ground coffee with milk, strain. Proceed as for baked custard.

GINGER—Add a little finely chopped candied ginger.

RUM—Omit vanilla and add 2 tablespoons rum.

All you need to do to obtain your copy of the Dessert Book is clip a coupon from page 2 of any issue of the Examiner and present it with 25c at the Examiner Office, or to your Examiner carrier, or at Braund's Home Food Markets. Or mail the coupon with 30c (5c additional for postage and handling) to Cookbook Department, Examiner, Peterborough.

1 Woman Eligible For Army Training

WINNIPEG (CP).—What about a woman general?

Two directors of the Imperial Defence College visiting here shied away from commenting when asked whether women would ever be eligible for the Commonwealth Military Staff College.

J. C. Ward, civilian member of the directing staff, was a bit more voluble on the subject but suggested the field for women would be highly limited.

"There is probably just about one woman in the military field in England who would be admissible," said Mr. Ward. "That is the Brigadier of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps."

Molyneux Salon Like Mad-house At Big Closing

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP). — The dignified Molyneux Salon in London's Grosvenor Street, done in dove-grey and crystal, became the background of one of London's biggest sales-scrambles this year.

After 18 years, Edward Molyneux was selling out. Because of ill-health, he is closing his London salon to concentrate his interests in Paris.

At the farewell sale, women pushed and snatched with bargain-basement enthusiasm, looking for bargains among models ranging from £25 ($77.50) day dresses to £1,000 furs.

For the sake of a Molyneux label, many women bought clothes they probably could never wear with distinction.

Garments were sold at half-price or less. For example, a white satin embroidered evening dress was marked down from £100 to £25. Another tempting item — a sylph-like, cream-and-gold brocade wedding gown marked down from £150 to £90 —was still on the rails at the end of the day — it had a 20-inch waist.

Successful Sales

More successful from a sales standpoint were a brilliant cerise skirt and an all-pleated tennis dress in heavy off-white stockingette, each costing eight guineas.

Suits sold from 35 to 60 guineas, day dresses from £25 to £50 and evening dresses from £50 upwards. Model hats cost as little as 5s. (about 75 cents).

Beautiful brocades, satins, velvets and crepes sold from £2 a yard. A bolt of duck-egg blue crepe, pin-spotted in black — a summer choice of the Duchess of Kent — sold for £15 a yard.

French Chef's Suggestions Include Excellent Sauces

By MARY MOORE

With the written permission of its author I am giving you a delightful letter I received in the mail this week:

"Dear Mademoiselle or Madame: (It is a gentleman who is the writer of this letter)

"I read your columns. I find you know how to cook, but I miss one thing very much—sauces

"I am French from Paris and worked in a hot kitchen many years You must not laugh as I tell you I was assistant to the master chef, as you in Canada call him.

"Could I give you some sauces and the dishes they go with? Would you be offended If so you need not answer me, nor print my recipes in your esteemed column.

"I will understand but wish to assure you I could not keep myself from writing. Kindly, Joseph."

✧ ✧ ✧

Dear Joseph: I am not only offended, I am delighted because you take enough interest to write to we Canadian women.

I most certainly am printing the sauce recipes you included, also the dishes you recommended them for.

I have changed the measurements to Canadian terminology, but not the amounts. Canadian cooks do not measure in ounces very often.

I wecome any cooking suggestions you have and am sure I speak for your fellow readers.

✧ ✧ ✧

Joseph's Devil Sauce

"I give you this first as it is for broccoli, Brussels sprouts or cauliflower and they are in season now.")

Two yolks from hard-cooked eggs, 4 tablespoons melted butter, 2 teaspoons icing sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon each mustard and black pepper, 4 tablespoons vinegar, 2 beaten eggs.

Mash the hard cooked yolks in a saucepan and add the melted butter and dry seasonings and beat 1 minute, then add the vinegar and stand over low fire, and bring almost to boiling. Beat the raw eggs add them and stir until thick. This is best strained. It is good hot or cold on hot or cold cooked broccoli or cauliflower. If hot it is good to serve the vegetable as a separate course."

✧ ✧ ✧

Mary Moors'e Remarks

This sauce will prove too costly for many Canadian housewives to try. I tried it using 2 hard-cooked yolks and 1 egg and it was delicious.

✧ ✧ ✧

Joseph's Sour-Sweet Sauce (Aigre-Doux)

A delicious delicate sauce to serve on roast veal or to lightly dress a tossed lettuce salad Mix togethe: 1 cup sour cream, 1½ tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 2 to 4 tablespoons powdered sugar Beat 2 minutes until light.

Sauce Normande

The best fish sauce. One cup fish stock is needed for this. Ask the fishman to bone your fish and give you the bones Boil them 20 minutes covered to get 1 cup stock. Melt 2 tablespoons butter, stir in 3 tablespoons flour, then stir in the fish stock and 4 tablespoons cream until thick. Add 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 egg yolks, ¼ teaspoon salt, dash each of pepper and cayenne, and if your conscience will allow 1 or 2 tablespoons white cooking wine. Serve hot. Bonne Cuisine. Joseph.

PRESTON—In loving memory of Mrs. William Preston, who passed away one year ago, October 3, 1949.

As in the days that used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more,
In heaven, that happy life.

PC Rebel Group Moves To Oust Leader In B.C.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 3 (CP)—A rebel movement to oust Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb as leader of the British Columbia Progressive Conservative party comes to a showdown this weekend.

For months a younger faction, identified with the Young Progressive Conservative Association, has directed a province-wide campaign against him.

The charge has been made that he allowed Liberal members of the provincial government to dominate the coalition administration formed in 1941 to check the C.C.F. The coalition is made up of Liberals and Progressive Conservatives, with the Liberals holding a six-four balance of power in the cabinet.

The leadership, with Mr. Anscomb seeking re-election, will come before 650 delegates at the party's provincial convention Friday and Saturday.

It will be a contest. W. A. C. Bennett, outspoken member for South Okanagan, will be a candidate for the leadership. There may be others. E. Davie Fulton, member of parliament for Kamloops and best known outside the province for his fight against crime comics in Canada, has been mentioned.

Mr. Bennett announced last week that he would seek the leadership, but when Mr. Fulton was mentioned, his comment was: "The convention itself must decide."

Lists Food Items Britain Needs

"Tea, sugar, lard, meat and salmon are the food items that are scarcest in Britain and should be included in parcels sent," Mrs. F. Parsons told the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion at the regular meeting Monday evening. Mrs. Parsons has just returned from a visit in England and she gave an account of places she had been.

Plans are under way for the Auxiliary to give a party for veteran's children. A wreath is to be purchased for Remembrance Day and arrangements are being made for members to sell poppies in the schools. It was decided to have a "country store" at the next meeting.

Mrs. G. Stevens donated a cup and saucer to be raffled during the meeting and the winner was the president Mrs. A. Mason.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. F. Frape and her committee.

Rule Dealings "Obscure" But Not Theft

Ruling that the manner in which Harold B. McKnight, RR 2, Port Hope, had acquired about 10 cords of slab wood was more obscure business dealings than stealing, Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, dismissed a charge of theft against McKnight in police court today.

Evidence was that McKnight had gone to the lumber mill of Reid brothers near Bobcaygeon in Cavendish township Sept. 13 to ask about buying slab wood.

Kenneth Reid testified he told McKnight the price of hardwood slabs was $7 a cord. He said McKnight's comment was that the price was too high. He added there was no one back near the slabwood to measure any loads in any case.

He said McKnight paid for the slabs about a week ago after a charge had been laid.

William Hayward, foreman at the lumber yard, said McKnight came and loaded about three cords on his truck telling him he had permission to take the slabs.

Edward Phillips, another employee of the company, said he had been working beside Reid when McKnight asked about the wood. He said McKnight commented to him after hearing the price, "That's pretty dear, but I'm going up to see them anyway."

McKnight said after loading up his truck with slabs he started to Bobcaygeon to pay for the load, but his truck broke an axle on the way. He said he sent up a neighbour with $30 to pay for the three cords he had and get another cord, but the neighbour returned with the money.

A few days later, Sept. 16, he sent three boys in two trucks to get two more loads and gave them $60 to pay for five or six cords they would be getting and the four cords already collected. There was no one available for the boys to pay the money to when they loaded up with the wood, he said.

"You want to keep your business dealings a little clearer, Mr. McKnight," said Magistrate Philp.

Before Confederation. . .

Canada Permanent Mortgage Corporation was founded twelve years before Confederation. Ontario and Quebec at that time were known as Upper Canada. Ontario was spoken of as Western Canada. Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta were known as Hudson Bay Territory. British Columbia was almost completely cut off from the East and there were only a few settlers. Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island were separate colonies of the British Crown.

Banks were few and money scarce. In 1855 the Canada Permanent was started, and through the years it has served Canadians from coast to coast.

Many have received ther first lesson in thrift by opening a savings account, and by investing in the debentures of the Canada Permanent Mortgage Corporation. 2 per cent interest paid on savings and 3 per cent interest paid on 5 or 10 year Debentures.

NAMED FOR FIG TREES

Barbados is said to have been named by Portuguese explorers who called it Los Barbados, from the number of bearded fig trees they found there.

WHEN BONARLAW YOUTH LESLIE SWEET WAS ILL a year ago last April he teamed up with a 12-day-old colt on his father's farm and taught it tricks. Now Leslie and his colt are the hit of fall fairs in the district, where the colt is put through its paces.

Farm Youth Out Of Hospital Trains Colt Fall Fair Tricks

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 3 — (ENS)—Leslie Sweet, age 18, the son of Mr. Harry Sweet of Bonarlaw Ontario, didn't realize what he was getting into when he took an interest in a 12-day old colt on his father's farm a year ago last April. Leslie had been in the hospital for a week or so, and when he came out, doctors told him to do no heavy work for about three months.

Time hung heavy on the lad's hands, and he took a great interest in a colt that had been born just about the same time as Leslie entered the hospital. He started working with the colt around the farm, training it to do a number of tricks, and to his delight, the colt responded well. Soon he had the colt resting on its knees, standing on its hind legs, or rolling over to play "dead" at his command.

Leslie continued to put the colt through its paces, and one day when he was doing so, he had an unseen audience. Mr. York Bailey of the Stirling Fair Board happened to be going by, and stopped to watch when he saw the boy and the colt doing tricks one would expect to see in a three ring circus.

Try At Fair

Mr. Bailey tried to talk the boy into taking the horse to the Stirling fair last year, to put on a show. Leslie hesitated because he had never performed in front of an audience before, and the thought of doing so was furthest from the lad's mind at that time. Mr. Andrew Thompson, a neighbor of Sweet's heard of the offer, and promptly offered to transport the lad and his colt to the fair in his truck, free of charge, if the lad did not take first prize in everything he entered.

Sweet decided to give it a try and that trip cost him absolutely nothing. He brought home the red ribbons.

That is when things started to happen. At the Stirling fair, Mr. Victor Irwin and Mr. F. M. Rutherford of the Campbellford Fair Board saw the exhibition of horsemanship, and the red ribbons the pair had won, and as there had never been anything like this at the Campbellford fair, they prevailed upon the boy to bring his horse to Campbellford.

Taking The Ribbons

At Campbellford, others saw the pair, and the boy and his trained colt performed at seven fairs last year, coming away with the red ribbons of first place at them all. Thousands of people at Stirling, Campbellford, Madoc, Warkworth, Marmora, Norwood and Roseneath saw the demonstration, and this year Leslie is in great demand again. He is attending all the fairs he can, and is still taking the red ribbons.

"If dad had not given me that colt when I got out of the hospital, and if Andy Thompson had not talked me into going to the fair, and offered to do it free if I didn't win, I certainly wouldn't be doing this now", he said as he and the colt sat resting after putting on a show at the Campbellford fair last week.

No Naval Base For Cobourg Now, Says Gov't

COBOURG, Oct. 3 (ENS) — Cobourg's request for a naval training station at the port of Cobourg cannot be granted at the present time although the matter may receive consideration in the future, the town council learned Monday when Mayor Jack Burnett read correspondence from the government.

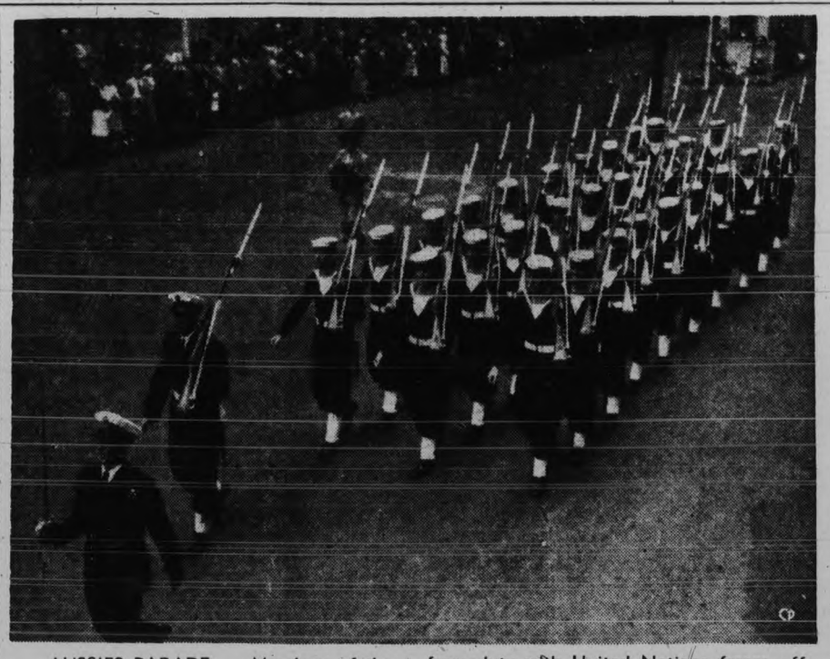
When making the proposal to the government, the mayor pointed out that Cobourg had the only harbour on an inland waterway between the east and west coast that was open all the year.

"It is true that the harbour was kept open by the car ferries plying all winter and they are no longer running," the mayor stated. "But any steel prowed boat could keep the ice in the harbour open."

Officers Impressed

The mayor also pointed out that "when the naval training ships—P.T. boats and a minesweeper—were in Cobourg harbour this summer, officers of the ships were very impressed with the harbour."

"We have the RCAF station a short distance away in Trenton and thus we have adjacent facilities for air and navy co-operation schemes," the mayor told the Department of National Defence.



A reply from the deputy minister said that the suggestion had been studied but that it was not practical at this time due to other committments.

Dr. F. G. Robertson, M.P. for Northumberland County, had also taken up the matter with the government, the mayor said. He had been notified that the information was of great interest to the department and would be studied for future consideration.

Sports On Sunday?

COBOURG, Oct. 3—(ENS) —Cobourg town council Monday passed a resolution referring to a vote of the people, the question of Sunday sports. Reeve Roy Dodge, ball player of the old days and a keen follower of sports, said he didn't want to see sports curtailed, but felt that there was sufficient time to get the sporth looked after in the six days of the week without spreading them into Sunday.

Other members felt that the hours would be regulated by council and would not interfere with church observance. Some sports had been occurring on Sunday for some time and it was now a question of either legalizing it or banning sports entirely on Sunday, council felt.

Sample 672 Bottles Of Beer During Commonwealth Contest

By MONTAGUE TAYLOR

LONDON, Oct. 3 —(Reuters)— Twelve chief brewers from British breweries took a mouthful from each of 672 different bottle of beer Monday—then spat it out.

Between every few gulps, they chewed an olive or a piece of cheese. When they went to lunch they all ordered bottles of beer to drink with their food.

They were the beer-testers in a competition at the brewers' and allied traders exhibition now being staged for five days at Olympia, London's great exhibition hall.

More than 16,000 bottles of beer have been sent for the competition from all parts of Britain and the Commonwealth, and there will be a trophy for the "best British bottled beer" and the "best Commonwealth brew."

The 88 varieties of Commonwealth bottled beer have arrived from Canada, India, Australia, South Africa, Malaya and British East Africa.

The chief judge among these beer-testers has the believe-it-or-not name of Fred Beerman. He is a director of several British breweries.

Said Beerman: "Good bottled beer has to be absolutely brilliant; have a nice creamy head; a pleasant vinous aroma; and has to go down smooth. And we look for brilliance first. Of course you get accustomed to beer-testing — by experience. It takes a long time to learn."

Bartender Runs Amuck Kills 2

• LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3 (AP) Popo Trujillo, 400-pound Mexican bartender, ran amuck in downtown Los Angles Monday, police said, wounding three persons and killing two before blowing his brains out in a main street bar.

Police said Trujillo burst into Mike Lama's apartment and struck Lama on the head with a gun. Lama and his wife jumped from their second-storey window. Trujillo fired through the window at them, wounding them slightly.

Trujillo then headed for a neighborhood bar. En route he encountered Edward Smith and Willard Minor and shot them dead.

Upon reaching the bar Trujillo announced he had just killed two men and gave bartender Ray Davis a nickel to telephone police. Then he put his gun to his head and pulled the trigger but the gun misfired.

A bystander, Gordon Smith, tried to grab the gun and Trujillo pistol whipped him, cutting his scalp. Then Trujillo pointed the gun at his own head again. This time it went off.

Give Blood To Earn Living

By HEINZ WEISSENDBERGER

FRANKFURT, Oct. 3 (Reuters). —Hundreds of West Germany's unemployed doctors are regularly giving their blood in order to make a living.

Unable to draw the normal "dole" because they have not previously been employed and have therefore paid nothing into the Unemployment Insurance Fund, these jobless doctors can earn 10 marks (about $2.75) for giving 100 cubic centimetres (about ⅛ pint) of blood and another five marks for every additional 100 cc.

This helps supplement the 18½ marks they get from the welfare authorities.

West Germany's already-overcrowded medical profession is an ever-growing problem. In two years the profession is expected to have a surplus of 20,000 doctors.

Certain Proportion

Medical authorities say there must be a certain proportion of doctors in relation to the total population for doctors to be fully employed.

Before the war, this figure was one doctor to every 1,000 population.

In 1947, doctors in West Germany numbered 57,000. But they had to care for only 45,000,000 persons, or about 20,000,000 less than 10 years before.

Today, the number of doctors has shot up to 62,000.

By 1952, according to medical authorities, there will be 72,000 doctors, or 20,000 more than are needed.

This overcrowding in Germany's medical profession is due to the war, the arrival of refugee doctors from the East and the ambition of middle-class families to obtain a good "social" position for their sons.

Deputy Chief Says Family Sold Supplies

Police Officer Denies Any Irregularity, 'Deal Competitive'

WINDSOR, Oct. 4—(CP)—The Deputy Chief of the Windsor Police Force admitted Tuesday that his family business sold the city police department $2,500 worth of equipment every year.

But the sales were on a competitive basis, Deputy Chief W. H. Neale insisted in testimony before the Windsor Police Commission.

He said he, his wife and his son were the shareholders of the Police Equipment Company of Canada, Ltd. He formerly was President, now was a director but wanted his name removed from the list of officers "because I did not think it looked good."

Deputy Neale was called before the newly-appointed Windsor Police Commission, investigating the department prior to a reorganization. The new Commission was appointed after a report by two senior inspectors of the Ontario Provincial Police who said they found vice, gambling and bootlegging rampant in the city.

Police Chief Claude Renaud, rebuked Monday by the Commission for not observing some police regulations, appeared before the Commission again Tuesday. He was questioned in private, after being told by Judge Archibald Cochrane, Commission chairman, that he would be asked "some rather awkward questions."

Competitive Basis

The deputy chief said the business had been given to his family about two years ago by the estate of Col. George Wilkinson. He said all purchasing for the department was done on a competitive basis through the city purchasing agent and that he had "studiously refrained" from telling the purchasing agent about his connection with the company.

"If he didn't know it, he was the only person in Windsor who didn't," Judge Cochrane said Mayor Arthur Reaume, a police commissioner, said he hadn't known of it.

He was questioned about the morality squad which operated under his direction and was the target of criticism in the inspectors' report. Judge Cochrane asked the deputy chief why the force had never applied for authority

Toronto Urges $30 Poll Tax

TORONTO, Oct. 4—(CP)—A $30 poll tax, to be deducted from payrolls, was suggested today to Toronto's Board of Control by civic department heads as a means of increasing taxation revenue.

They also urged the Board to consider: a tax on all insurance premiums except life insurance; a tax on meals in clubs and restaurants; an "occupancy tax" like the hotel tax but applied to all rented premises; municipally-operated parking lots with parking meters and a direct sales tax on non-essential goods.

Grandmother Moses "Grandma Of Nation"

CAMBRIDGE, N.Y., Oct. 4 (AP)—Grandma Moses Tuesday night was acclaimed "grandmother of the nation" and she began worrying at once about her "150,000,000 grandchildren."

The bonneted little lady, who primitive paintings have won her fame, ate turkey with Vermont's Governor Harold Arthur and nearly 300 other guests at the annual "Green Mountain Night" staged by Lions Clubs of Northeastern New York and Vermont.

They adopted a resolution proclaiming the 90-year-old artist grandmother of the United States.

Grandma—Mrs. Anna Mary Robertson Moses—commented:

"I'm getting to be as famous as flying saucers."

Reds Massacred 10,000 In Seoul Retreat

Victims Lying In Hills, Many Dumped In River, Officials Report

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 4—(AP)—A South Korean official estimated today the Communists massacred more than 10,000 Seoul residents before being driven from the capital city by UN troops.

"Several thousand more bodies are reported lying in the hills," said Lee Joong Choon, chief of the municipal public information section of Seoul. "Many were dumped into rivers by the Reds".

Lee said the city actually had buried only 375 bodies, some of them victims of the fighting for Seoul.

Another source, who declined to be identified, said mass killings were not the work of North Koreans alone. He said the number of non-combatants slain by both the Communist police and South Korean soldiers probably would total several tens of thousands in all South Korea.

AP correspondent Stan Swinton reported from Kunsan, west coast port, that a survivor told United Nations investigators 2,000 South Koreans were killed at Chongju.

One source said "people's courts" in Seoul were organized hastily and in operation within 10 days after Communist occupation of the capital June 28. He said political prisoners were "tried" this way:

The prisoners were marched to the balcony of the People's Theatre building. The charges were read and the crowd below was asked "Guilty or not guilty?"

He said executions followed immediately.

One responsible source said that, early in July, South Koreans killed 1,800 persons at Taejon and that there were reports of political executions in other South Korean cities. None has been confirmed officially.

At Kunsan, U.S. army investigators, who found about 800 bodies in a mass grave late Tuesday, reported many of the victims were shot.

Navy Air Arm Wins Victory, Here To Stay

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA, Oct. 4. (CP)—No one has spelled it out just that way but a unique branch of Canada's armed forces has won its battle for survival.

After months of argument, the Navy's four-year-old air arm now is here to stay. It is proceeding happily on its course as an unusual laboratory for military development with men of three nations combining to guide its childhood.

It is still without a Canadian in any of its top posts, still without an official name.

The arm, with the 18,000-ton aircraft carrier Magnificent, four flying squadrons, a shore base at Dartmouth, NS, and 1,100 men, is headed by a Dublin-born veteran of the Royal Navy, Commodore Charles N. Lentaigne.

His chief aides are all Britons or Americans because there are as yet no Canadians with the necessary experience.

Gradually Take Over

As Canadians accumulate experience, they are gradually taking over but it will probably be another five years before the arm becomes completely Canadianized. But nobody's worrying about that. The tri-nation combination is working out well.

The combination is unique in Canada's defence set-up—even the "Maggie" is on loan from the U.K., with Canada paying only the upkeep—and probably will not continue for any length of time. The Americans and Britons are "on loan" to the RCN.

For months, though, it looked as though the whole thing might go. There were strong arguments within the Navy against spending more than 15 per cent of the naval budget on an aircraft carrier and its satellites. It was both inevitable and ironic that in these debates, the Britons and Americans who knew most about naval aviation carried a lot of the argument on its behalf.

Open Campaign

HONG KONG, Oct. 4 (AP)—Confidential reports from the mainland today indicated the Chinese Communists have opened a campaign against Christian missions. A group listed as "Chinese Christian leaders' was reported to have issued a "declaration of independence from Anglo-American missions and pledged allegiance" to the Red government.

Motorbike Catches In Rails Donald Varcoe 16, Injured

Serious injuries were suffered today by Donald Varcoe, 16, RR 7, Peterborough, when the front wheel of the motorcycle he was riding caught in the CNR railway tracks and threw him to the pavement. He was taken by ambulance to St. Joseph's Hospital, where his condition is described as "fairly serious." The extent of his injuries is not known.

Two boys riding on another motorcycle in front of Varcoe said they heard the crash, but didn't know exactly what happened.

He is the son of Alex Varcoe.

Canada Finds Test Interesting

OTTAWA, Oct. 4 (CP)—Advice of Canadian aviation scientists to pilots who see inviting-looking cumulo-nimbus clouds: stay out of them if possible.

Inside the big, billowy white clouds an airplane pilot usually finds his plane bucks like a broncho. He may also find he's "icing up."

The aviation branch of the National Research Council was interested today when told British scientists think they are on the way to solving some of the mysteries of the cumulo-nimbus.

Canadian research has touched on the turbulence of such clouds, but mainly from the standpoint of its effect on airplane structures. The main research is on electro-thermo de-icing, since cumulo-nimbus are one of the worst clouds to produce icing conditions on aircraft.

Canadian researchers are using the RCAF's special weather plane, fitted with numerous scientific instruments and dubbed the "ice wagon" because it goes out and looks for icing conditions. It is being fitted with new radar equipment which will allow it to probe cloud formation.

As for turbulence, researchers working on airplane structures have designed instruments to measure the degree of turbulence in clouds or elsewhere. They are known as "gust recorders" and provide vital scientific information.

Make U.N. Payment

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 4 (AP)—The Russians have made a one-quarter down-payment on their 1950 United Nations assessments. This was seen as an indication they have no intention of leaving the U.N. in the near future, if at all. Members may pay any time up to Dec. 31 without being in arrears.

Steamship Strikes Launch Three Factory Men Missing

VANCOUVER, Oct. 4 (CP)—Bodies of three employees of the British Columbia Forestry Service were sought in the choppy, chill waters off Bowen Island today following collision between a coastal steamship and a frail launch.

Four other persons——one seriously injured—were saved by the Union Steamship Line's Lady Cynthia which smashed the Provincial forestry department launch A. L. Bryant, into two pieces late Tuesday while en route to Vancouver from her daily passenger and cargo run up coast.

The missing presumed drowned, were identified as F. A. Longstaff, 30; W. M. Ingram, about 30, both of Vancouver; and A. P. Wrotnowski of North Vancouver.

E. W. Bassett, chief engineer for the B.C. Forest Service, also identified the rescued as Frank Paterson of Vancouver, H. L. Coles of North Vancouver, J. W. McDonald and J. H. Kilby, both of suburban Burnaby.

Paterson is in poor condition in hospital here with one arm almost severed. The other three suffered shock.

Two of the 50 passengers aboard the 925-ton Lady Cynthia said the accident occurred when "the launch either tried to beat us across or else it went out of control."

Police and private boats still had not discovered any sign of the missing bodies early today. The area is a busy one for smaller boats crossing between the mainland and Bowen Island.

Canadians Aid Starving Koreans

LONDON, Oct. 4—(CP)—The Admiralty disclosed to day how the Canadian destroyer Cayuga gave the signal that brought help to hundreds of hungry South Koreans.

An announcement said the Cayuga, patrolling Korean waters with the UN fleet, discovered that hundreds of South Koreans marooned by the war on islands off the Korean coast were without rice, normally supplied from the mainland.

"Immediately small quantities of food were landed to feed the sick and the young and old," the Admiralty said.

The Cayuga then sent an SOS to its base and the Australian destroyer Warramunga took on board two tons of rice.

When the Warramunga arrived the Koreans lined the beaches with a reception committee headed by the mayor. Women prepared fires for the first real meal in weeks.

As a souvenir of the rescue mission, the Warramunga boasts bowls of flowers in the wardroom and the mess decks.

"They were all the islanders had to give us," said Lt.-Cmdr. Geoffrey Gladstone, first officer of the Warramunga. "It was just the other side of the war."

DP's Not Interested In Canadian Jobs

KARLSRUHE, Germany, Oct. 4 —(Reuters)—A Canadian immigration official today reported a "surprisingly-small" response to a Canadian offer to place 1,100 displaced persons from the United States zone of Germany in Canadian hard-rock mining and forestry jobs.

Philip Bird, head of the Canadian Immigration Mission, said the time limit for applications has been advanced from Oct. 15 to Nov. 10.

Brush Aside Compromise Plan

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 4(AP)—Britain and Russia, sponsors of rival Korean peace plans, brushed aside today compromise suggestions advanced by India and Yugoslavia as the U.N. Assembly's committee moved toward a show-down vote on the case.

The resolution, offered by Britain and seven other countries and supported by the United States, was expected to receive overwhelming support in the 60-member committee and later by a plenary session of the General Assembly itself. It was apparent the rival Soviet bloc's plan would be voted down.

First Snow Of Year Falls At Malton

Light flurries or maybe showers are expected tonight in Northern Ontario.

Reds Vanish Allies Fear Trap

South Koreans Push 60 Miles Into Enemy Territory

TOKYO, Oct. 4 — (AP) — South Korean troops prowled deeper into North Korea today on spearhead missions feeling for the Communist North Korean Army that has all but vanished and gone silent before them in ominously empty country.

They got as far as 60 miles beyond the 38th Parallel as the American Command announced the arrival in the Far East of a new reinforcing division—the U.S. 3rd Infantry—to join the Korean fighting if necessary.

The penetration force north of Parallel 38 was made up solely of fighting Korean Nationals with about 60 American Army men as advisers.

The United Nations Allies were held back in mop-up and reserve positions in liberated South Korea.

The latest Red mystery column that streamed down from the Manchurian border of Red China into North Korea was discounted by an air force spokesman as a regular highway supply train and not a foreign troop convoy.

Have Bad Weather

The Fifth Air Force said a 150-vehicle convoy was spotted Tuesday night by two Allied pilots. The column was moving south near Pakchon, about 50 miles northwest of the North Korean capital, Pyongyang.

Presumably it was the same column that Allied planes attacked earlier Tuesday.

The Air Force said bad weather prevented effective attacks Wednesday on the vehicles.

The North Koreans are equipped with Russian heavy fighting material and much of it may have come from Soviet-dominated Manchuria along the highway over the Yalu River frontier.

Official sources declined again to say whether Americans and other United Nations liberation forces would join the South Koreans above Parallel 38.

American strength in the war theatre now is six division plus a regimental combat team.

Other Ground Forces

British, Australian and Philippines ground forces also are in South Korea. That and French units have been assigned to the operation.

Dynamite Fish Pair Fined $50

TIMMINS, Oct. 4—(CP)—Two bush workers, charged with dynamiting fish, were fined $50 and costs or 30 days in jail yesterday. The two, Stanko Flandija and Alex Bizaj, pleaded guilty to placing charges in Jowsey Lake 35 miles west of here.

The two, who came to Canada as displaced persons, claimed they did not know it was wrong to dynamite for fish. They were caught by Police Chief Albert Lepic of Timmins who heard the blast while fishing Sunday.

Bevin Says Reds Engineered War

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Oct. 4—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin accused Russia today of engineering the war in Korea.

"Russia pushed North Korea into it," he said when he arrived here aboard the Queen Mary from New York. "She might well have struck the match which started a world conflagration."

He said he did not think Russia wanted "all-out" war, at this time.

"I doubt," he continued, "if they ever do. But if they can expand cheaply and annoy everybody at the same time they will do so. Therefore we have to be alert and firm."

Sunday Sport Vote

WHITBY, Oct. 4—(CP)—The question of commercial Sunday sport will be voted on here Dec. 4, town council decided last night. Ratepayers will also decide whether they want to buy a privately-owned wooden arena for $8,000 and spend an estimated $17,000 to improve it.

Yankees Win First Game Of World Series

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4 (CP)—The world series that Philadelphia Phillies fans have waited 35 long and often-dreary years to see had full command of this baseball-frenzied city today as the Phils and New York Yankees took the field for the opening game.

Every one of the 33,166 reserved seats was filled and the bleacher section seating 3,000 rapidly filled after tickets went on sale at 10 a.m.

An hour before game time the opposing pitchers started warming up. For big Jim Konstanty, a former Toronto hurler, it was the first time this season that he warmed up in front of the fans. Jim appeared in 74 games this season, but never as a starter.

Konstanty's record, acquired in relief roles, of 16 wins and seven losses compares with a 21-8 record held by Yankees' Vic Raschi, his starting opponent on the mound.

Odds at play-ball time were 2 to 1 for the Yanks to take the series and 9 to 5 that the New Yorkers would win the opener.

Extra Hurdle

The sun peaked occasionally through the clouds blown by a 15-mile-an-hour wind and the thermometer was in the mid-60s. The wind was blowing from left field toward home plate, a possible extra hurdle for the big batting guns of the two teams — Joe DiMaggio and Del Ennis — both right-handers.

Manager Casey Stengel decided to use Bobby Brown at third base against the righthanded Konstanty. Woodling led off and played left field but Hank Bauer, a righthanded batter, started in right. Stengel decided against shifting to the lefthanded batting Cliff Mapes.

The announced starting lineups:

NEW YORK—Gene Woodling, lf; Phil Rizzuto, ss; Yogi Berra, c; Joe DiMaggio, cf; Johnny Mize, 1b; Bobby Brown, 3b; Hank Bauer, rf; Jerry Coleman, 2b; Vic Raschi, p (21-8).

1,000 Red Demonstrators Seize Post Office, Trying For Vienna Crisis

Reds Beat Off 150 Austrian Policemen As Russian Soldiers Watch, Government Charges Soviet Interferes

VIENNA, Oct. 4—(AP)—More than 1,000 Communist demonstrators today seized the main post office and telephone exchange in Wiener Neustadt in the Russian zone of Austria. The Wiener Neustadt Communists beat off 150 Austrian policemen who tried to stop them from entering the Post Office. The seizure could lead to interruption of communications between Vienna and the British zone. Hand-to-hand fighting broke out earlier between Communists and Socialists in some areas of Vienna as the Reds began their march on governments buildings planned as a climax to their attempt to put across a general strike.

British authorities summoned an emergency session of the four-power Allied body charged with the security of Vienna, to discuss an Austrian government note protesting Russian interference with Austrian police.

Strike Fizzling

The strike itself was fizzling. The Communist march from the Russian-occupied suburbs to Vienna's city hall apparently was an attempt to bolster the strike call. The strength of such a demonstration could mean the difference between defeat and victory for Communist hopes of a general strike throughout Austria.

Socialists and Communists battled at the gates of factories. Railworkers tossed Communists out of government railway buildings. Police arrested men seeking to disrupt power supplies.

The Communists, meanwhile, had seized street cars in the Soviet sector, while armed Russian soldiers looked on.

The purpose apparently was to use the cars to transport Com-

Against Subsidies Kennedy Declares

TORONTO, Oct. 4 — (CP) — Agriculture Minister Kennedy said today he had "always been against subsidies, though I will say that if there should be a subsidy for anything it should be milk."

He was commenting on a request made Tuesday by two women's organizations that the government institute a subsidy to put milk back to 15 cents a quart. He said then he would discuss the matter with the cabinet.

The minister said even if a subsidy were put on milk it would be "grossly unfair."

"The farmers who produce the milk would not benefit," he said. "They would have to pay for the subsidy for others and would be worse off than before."

Morrison Tells Workers To Change Their Attitude

MARGATE, England, Oct. 4 — (Reuters)—Herbert Morrison, deputy prime minister, today called on the Labor party conference for a "mental transformation" among workers to ensure the success of the Labor movement.

He said that under capitalism it had been natural for workers to feel instinctively that there should be "a row with the boss from time to time even if it is only for the sake of his soul."

But, he said, public ownership brought greater responsibilities and workers should forget old antagonisms.

"We need a sense of social responsibility, a joy and glory in serving our fellows and even sacrificing for our fellows. That is the internal and spiritual change which must take place before this becomes a truly Socialist country."

He was not prepared to claim everything was perfect in publicly-owned industries but thought they were a big improvement on capitalism.

Morrison repeated previous party statements that the presently privately-owned cement, sugar and industrial assurance businesses "are within the field of eligibility for consideration" for nationalization.

"But we do not think it wise, at any rate at this stage, to commit the party to a time-table for socialization.

"We must consider what the national interest requires in the circumstances obtaining when decisions have to be made."

Morrison said Labor would need "all the time available" to prepare for the next general election.

BBC Withdraws Television Play Causes Furore

LONDON, Oct. 4 — (Reuters). —Controversy over the British Broadcasting Corporation's withdrawal of a television play following criticism that it was anti-Socialist flared up in this morning's British press.

The play, "Party Manners," was written by the BBC's director of television drama, Val Gielgud. It was broadcast over television last Sunday.

The pro-Labor Daily Herald and the Communist Daily Worker endorsed the withdrawal of the play, but other papers attacked the BBC's decision.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express said: "Down the road to suppression the country clatters."

The Daily Telegraph said that "It seems more than a trifle cowardly of the BBC to withdraw a promised reepat performance of the piece because the Socialist Party press chooses to object to the theme."

The Daily Herald, however, said: "The decision to withdraw the play will reinforce public confidence in the corporation's endeavors to be politically impartial."

The play concerns a Labor Cabinet minister who tries to bring pressure on "the chairman of the National Atomic Board" to release new information about atomic energy for industry. He hopes to save his party at a coming election. But for security reasons, the atom chief refuses.

Find No Clues After 10 Years

NORTH BAY, Oct. 4 (CP). — This is the 10th anniversary of one of Canada's most baffling disappearance cases—the famed vanishing Kirks of North Bay.

In October, 1940, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kirk packed their bags for a trip to Winnipeg and four hours later disappeared into oblivion They were last seen at Sudbury heading for Sault Ste. Marie. Search parties combed the area for weeks dragging lakes and rivers until ice formed. Police were baffled by the complete absence of clues. They had about $100 with them and left a sizeable bank account in North Bay untouched.

The four Kirk children now are believed to be residing with relatives at Winnipeg.

One theory about their disappearance is that their car went off the road between Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie and was swallowed up by mud or quicksand.

Vicious Vandalism On Farm Of Japanese

CHATHAM, Oct. 4—(CP) Provincial police said today they are investigating one of the most vicious cases of vandalism they have ever seen.

Fifty fruit trees owned by a Japanese Canadian, Tony Yanoshita, have been slashed to the ground in the last three nights. A sledge hammer has cracked the block on his tractor in two places and the gas tank on his truck has been punctured.

The man owns a small farm near the city and is highly respected by his neighbors.

Fire Razes One-Fifth Quebec Town

150 People Left Homeless In Blaze, Say Faulty Wiring

PADOUE, Que., Oct. 4—(CP)—The eastern section of this tiny Matapedia County village was in rubble today following a six-hour fire which swept through Padoue Tuesday destroying 16 homes, the parish hall, and about 15 wood sheds, barns and garages.

None of the 16 families comprising 150 persons made homeless by the fire were injured except for minor burns and scratches suffered in fighting the wind-driven blaze.

The fire was believed caused by faulty electric wiring and started in the home of Charles Deschenes.

Although no estimate of damage was available, one-fifth of Padoue, a farmers' shopping centre of about 500 population in rugged Matapedia county, was reduced to ashes.

Near Rimouski

D. H. Lancette, Canadian National Railways agent here, said a strong northwest wind which reached gale proportions fanned the flames. Padoue is 35 miles east of Rimouski, Que., which was heavily damaged in a $20,000,000 fire last May 6.

Other sections of the village were not threatened because of the direction of the wind.

About 400 persons, including firefighters from the nearby towns of Matane, Mont Joli, Amqui and Sayabec, fought the blaze. But their efforts were impeded by lack of water and equipment and the fire reportedly burned itself out before being brought under control six hours after it broke out.

C.N.R. tank cars brought water from the Tartigou river at nearby St. Noel and Provincial Lands and Forest Department pumps were installed in a swamp to pump water to the scene of the blaze.

Reds Brand Wallace Enemy Of Humanity

MOSCOW, Oct. 4. (AP) — The Literary Gazette Tuesday included Henry A. Wallace on its list of "enemies of humanity" and called the former leader of the US Progressive Party a "political business man."

Wallace, former US vice-president, was condemned by the newspaper along with a whole list of writers and cultural figures, including US author John Dos Passos, as "Truman lackeys."

Wallace, said the newspaper, had thrown off his mask and had assumed his true colors. (Wallace recently resigned from the Progressive Party when the party leadership came out against US policy in Korea.)

Deputy Neale said that several years ago a mistake had been made and the warrant had authorized the search of the wrong home. The warrant was taken away from the police and "I thought that our authority was taken away for good and never applied for another," he said.

Judge Cochrane told him any police force could apply for a warrant.

"I suggested it several times to the police commission but nothing was done about it," the deputy said.

Try To Improve Miners' Health

LONDON, Oct. 4 — (CP) — Britain is pioneering a painstaking, five-year experiment to try to reduce the number of coal miners who have nothing to do but sit around and wait for the undertaker.

By a system of mass X-rays in the little Rhondda Valley, some 20 miles north of Cardiff, research workers hope to seal off a cluster of coal-mining communities from tuberculosis and thus establish what relationship exists between tuberculosis and the scourge of South Wales, pneumoconiosis.

Pneumoconiosis is a lung disease caused by inhaling coal dust. Ninety per cent of the cases reported in Britain occur in South Wales. The disease leaves its victims short of breath and unable to work.

Market Has Settled Into Narrow Path

TORONTO, Oct. 4 (CP) — A single mining stock held the limelight on the Toronto Stock Exchange today while the remainder of the market settled into a narrow price path.

Paymaster Consolidated jumped 19 cents to 89 and touched a new high at 92. In three hours some 680,000 shares were turned over in this stock.

Other gold stocks tended slightly easier. Scattered juniors showed penny losses and seniors were steady.

Industrials showed a majority of gains but small losses by market leaders held the list in check. Papers continued climbing and utilities, agricultures and refining oils were strong. Steels, foods and constructions tended lower.

Base metals were about balanced. Western oils started strong but slipped into minus ground as the session progressed.

Strike Call Ignored

The Communist call for the general strike was ignored by most of Austria's workers, although it produced short-lived attempts to seize railway stations and mounting scattered incidents.

Some 50,000 workers in Russian controlled factories heeded the Communist call for a walkout demanding further general wage increases. But the Reds appeared to have failed to lure workers of the Socialist and Peoples party—the bulk of Austria's labor—out of their factories.

The Communist effort was expected to climax late this afternoon in a march at 6 p.m. (Noon EDT) on Vienna's governmental centre. Austrian police, who Tuesday night were issued rifles and steel helmets for the first time since 1938, were put on the alert to meet expected violence.

Direct Russian military participation in the disorders was reported by an Associated Press reporter.

Directed by Soldier

Directed by an armed Russian soldier, he said, Communists were halting and emptying streetcars trying to cross the Danube River bridge linking main Russian sectors north of the river with the centre of Vienna.

Meanwhile small crowds of Reds marched on several federal railway stations in the heart of the Russian zone and in Vienna. At St. Poelten, astride the railroad route from Vienna to the west, workers "rejected" a Communist attempt to interrupt work, the Austrian Press Agency reported.

Groups of Communists clashed with police and street car workers at three points in the American sector of Vienna early today. Thirty Communists were jailed and the attempt to halt street car traffic failed.

In the Russian sectors of the city, however, police were unable to do anything about scattered interference with street car traffic. The police there were warned by Russian officers not to interfere with the strikers.

Take Strong Stand

Elsewhere in Vienna Socialist workers were taking a strong stand against the Red efforts to get them out on strike.

Socialist workers in power plants, gas works, railways and street car barns told the Communists they would not join them. Red organizers were rushing about the city, visiting all key installations in hopes of finding supporters.

But the government appeal to workers to preserve their freedom against what was described as a Communist attempt to smash the government appeared at first sight to have had a strong influence on the vast majority of workers.

In Austria's western provinces, occupied by the Western allies, the strike scene was comparatively quiet.

At Linz, American occupation zone centre and a hotbed of unrest during last week's demonstrations, the huge United Austrian steel and iron works was reported fully at work.

MORE ABOUT—
S. Koreans

South Koreans captured Kosong, 50 airline miles north of the border along the east coast. Patrols stabbed still farther north in a drive which South Koreans say will go all the way to the Manchuria border.

AP correspondent William Jorden reported from the front that 4,000 Communist troops are digging into strong defences southeast of Tongchon. That town is 25 miles north of Kosong and about halfway to Wonsan where the Reds are reported building up for a major stand.

American marines remained in captured Uijongbu, 20 miles south of the border in the west coastal area.

Other American forces on the northwestern edge of Kumpo Peninsula, northwest of Seoul, are within 15 miles of Parallel 38.

Throughout South Korea, Allied forces pressed mop-up operations against many roving bands of Red Koreans.

Villagers reported the bands, ranging from 10 to 1,000 troops, are making night raids for food.

More Massacres

Investigators discovered an increasing number of massacres by fleeing Reds. Known victims already number into untold thousands. Col. Francis E. Gillette said he has made photographs of a "Red Buchewald" 36 miles east of Seoul where 700 Korean civilians including children were executed.

The bag of Red Korean prisoners was mounting. MacArthur's headquarters estimated that more than 25,000 have been captured during the war. A total of 4,166 prisoners was reported during the last 24 hours.

Only 55 have been taken in Red Korea.

The failure to meet Red resistance in North Korea raised concern among the American army advisers with the South Koreans. The United States officers feared the Reds were taking to the hills for a flank attack on the thin South Korean forward columns.

More Threatening

Correspondent Jorden reported the 55 Red soldiers seized north of the border were well fed and husky, not like the hungry, battered troops the South Koreans have been pursuing for the last two weeks.

This raised the additional question of whether the Communists have many fresh troops north of the border to throw against the southerners when the signal is given.

The North Korean radio finally admitted its forces were withdrawing on all fronts. It said they would "undertake new duties."

The inference was that the Reds would make a stand somewhere in the north. Broadcasts said workers were leaving factories to take up guns.

May Divert Flow Of Assiniboine

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. —(CP)— The federal government is surveying the possibility of diverting part of the flow of the Assiniboine River into Lake Manitoba to help prevent recurrence of this May's Manitoba floods.

The diversion would reduce the quantity of water entering the Red River in Winnipeg. From Winnipeg the Red flows north to Selkirk and into Lake Winnipeg.

Probable route of the man-made channel would be from a point on the river near Portage La Prairie to the lake, about 15 miles. Surveys are also being made with a view to possible creation of water-shortage reservoirs on the upper reaches of the Assiniboine.

Further topographic surveys may be made east and northeast of greater Winnipeg where a floodway to carry surplus water from the Red past Winnipeg has been proposed.

Cabinet Member Makes $50,000 From Wool Sale

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa —(CP)— S. P. le Roux, minister of agriculture, cleared more than $50,000 at the recent sale of his wool.

This fact did not prevent him from blaming the mutton shortage on high wool prices when he addressed the Transvaal congress of the Nationalist party.

The minister said that farmers could pay more for sheep than the butchers. Consequently, little mutton reached the market.

le Roux's clip of 40,937 pounds of wool from his Koffiefontein farm was sold outright at the third Port Elizabeth sale of the new season. His 138 bales were one of the largest offerings of the day.

Three times prices for his wool exceeded 10s ($1.55) a pound. Nineteen bales fetched 10s 6½d. a pound, four reached 10s. 6d., and another 14 got 10s. 5d. His 19 bales of topline wool alone netted more than £2,700 ($9,800).

At least two other farmers, however, beat the minister's total. S. D. Naude of Hanover netted more than twice as much with 284 bales. Twenty of these bales brought 10s. 8d. a pound.

P. T. Retief of De Put was another successful farmer, his total receipt being more than £24,000. Of his 170 bales, 23 netted him £3,600 and another 23 brought 10s. 10½d. a pound.

Money Management Taught To Indians

WINNIPEG (CP)—Credit unions are being tried among Treaty Indians of Northern Manitoba to teach them an art in which they are by nature unskilled—that of money management.

One attempt was hardly a success. Organized for a Cree band at Cross Lake, 330 miles north of Winnipeg, it died in birth because the organizers neglected to keep the band's savings under control.

Thomas Pollack, a lay missionary in charge of the settlement for a year, said the union went into the red when he made a trip to the "outside." He returned to find the band's credit union committee had loaned all its funds to about 30 members—each of whom bought an outboard motor with the proceeds. The loans were never repaid.

Paragraph 1, Sec. 9 of the Constitution if so amended would then read:

"The election of directors shall take place at the annual meeting of the club, and shall be by ballot on a stock share basis, one vote for each share held. At the 1950 annual meeting the four directors receiving the greatest number of votes shall be elected for two years and the other three shall be elected for one year. Thereafter the required number of directors shall be elected for two years.

Price Of Site For School Too High-Mayor

COBOURG, Oct. 4—(ENS)—A joint meeting of the town council, high school and public schools boards will be called next week by the council to discuss expansion needs. Decision to hold a joint meeting came after the public school board confronted the council with a request to provide the sum of $10,000 to buy five acres of land, owned by Chief Constable W. J. Carey, as a site for a school in the east of Cobourg.

Hubert Coney, chairman of the board, observed that it might be considered a high price to pay $10,000 for the site, but there were 30 building lots there and these would ordinarily cost more than the $10,000, he said,

Mayor Jack Burnet said the price wanted for the land was surprisingly high. The public school board had no authority to enter into an agreement for purchase of land, he said.

There was already an overcrowded high school and if it ever came to the time when a new collegiate had to be built, the public school board would have an attractive proposition in the empty collegiate building, Mayor Burnet said.

There were many angles which could best be talked over at a joint meeting of the boards, he suggested.

D. Meiklejohn Burial In Burnbrae Cemetery

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 4 — (ENS)—The funeral of David Brown Meiklejohn, Seymour East, was held on Monday from the family residence in Seymour. Mr. Meiklejohn, who had been in failing health for some months, died at his home on Saturday. He was 64.

Receive Citizenship At Cobourg Court

COBOURG, Oct. 4 — (ENS) — Louise Hazz and Mary Hoste, of Hampton, and Lee Wing, of Campbellford, took the oath of allegiance and received citizenship papers Tuesday at a brief sitting of county court.

"I welcome you as citizens of this country and hope you never have cause to regret it and that your lives here will be happy and prosperous," said Judge M. A. Miller.

Misses Last Ferry!

COBOURG, Oct. 4—(ENS)—An American tourist stopped at the police station Tuesday and told Chief W. J. Carey that he wanted to go down to the harbor to watch the car ferry come in. How long would he have to wait, the tourist asked. "Longer than you would care to," the Chief replied. "You see they took the ferries off the route last spring, so I am afraid you would have an awful long wait."

Council Ponders Pension Plan For Employees

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 4 — (ENS)—A by-law proposing a pension plan for town employees was discussed at the meeting of Campbellford town council this week. Legal adviser N. A. McColl and Reeve Ralph Locke gave a report on the proposed plan and a committee was formed to make further arrangements preparatory to the passing of the by-law.

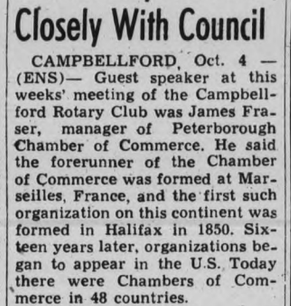
Arthur F. Collette of the Canadian Legion solicited an order for a memorial day wreath. This order was placed.

R. H. Townsend, town assessor, gave the assessor's report, which indicated that while the population had dropped from 3,200 to 3,136, the assessment was up by $38,050. Dog licenses amounted to $640.

Permission was granted the Boy Scouts to hold their apple day on October 14, and to use the council chambers as headquarters.

A schedule for the garage operators was passed and also another by-law conveying a piece of town property to a local citizen.

Tells Rotary To Work Closely With Council



CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 4 — (ENS)— Guest speaker at this weeks' meeting of the Campbellford Rotary Club was James Fraser, manager of Peterborough Chamber of Commerce. He said the forerunner of the Chamber of Commerce was formed at Marseilles, France, and the first such organization on this continent was formed in Halifax in 1850. Sixteen years later, organizations began to appear in the U.S. Today there were Chambers of Commerce in 48 countries.

In Canada, there were 150 branches in 1945 and this number had risen to more than 670 in 1950. Most of these were in towns and small cities. Of the total, 533 branches were located in towns of less than 5,000 population.

Speaking on what a chamber could do for the town of Campbellford, Mr. Fraser said it could guide the council in matters of policy concerning store hours parking, recreation, industrial surveys, unemployment and many other things.

Rotarian Frank DeCarrol introduced the speaker, and Rotarian Grant Anderson moved a vote of thanks.

Kind Words For Canadian Youth

In his opening address to the faculty and students of Toronto University this year the President, Dr. Sydney Smith, said some kind things about Canadian youth. We reprint two paragraphs from his speech:

I must confess that I am somewhat weary of the repeated utterances of Jeremiahs and Cassandras of an older generation who bemoan the weakening of the fibre of Canadian Youth. Ignorant, irresponsible and paganistic are some of the adjectives that are applied to you. You no doubt have already learned that in every succeeding older generation many persons have wailed that youth is not as good as they were when they were young. To the harsh critics of modern youth I sometimes retort that throughout history youth were never in the eyes of many of their elders very promising. Baldness, bulges, bifocals and bridges have a tendency to produce forgetfulness of the critics' own juvenile shortcomings.

It is my considered testimony that you are better prepared than we of an older generation were. You are, at least, as responsive to rich ideas and high ideals as my high school class in 1911 was. Those who criticize schools and colleges are frequently parents who might well re-examine the measure of their discharge in their homes of their educational responsibilities.

* * *

These are generous and kindly words, and if it is necessary to take sides in the argument, we have no hesitation in allying The Examiner with Dr. Smith. It is very hard for people—particularly middle-aged people—to form a fair opinion of youth; we all have a trick of pretending to ourselves that we were wiser twenty years ago than we really were. And it is easy to see the foolishness of youthful enthusiasm but it is hard to recapture the high spirits which gave rise to that enthusiasm. And there is no denying that young people are tiresome and silly—almost as tiresome and silly, sometimes, as the middle-aged and the old.

* * *

Dr. Smith's remarks give us an opportunity to repeat an opinion which we have expressed before in these columns. We do not believe that intelligence increases with age; we believe that it is a constant endowment, and that the sage of ninety was just as intelligent when he was twenty, though he was certainly not as rich in wisdom about the ways of the world. It is not true to say that young people will get sense as they grow older; if they lack sense in youth, nothing will give it to them. They will learn to hide their foolishness in middle-age—at least in part—but when they grow old, and their grip on life relaxes, their natural folly will reassert itself. We have never seen a case in which a fool of a young man ever grew into a wise middle-aged man.

* * *

But what passes for folly in youth is often no more than high spirits; as Dr. Smith has pointed out, young people can show themselves serious and responsible when the need arises, as it does in time of war. But when there is no need to be serious, why waste the glorious days of youth in pulling long faces? What is to be gained by such conduct except the approval of the sillier sort of old people? Paradoxically it may be said that to pretend to be sedate and farsighted at twenty is the worst folly of which youth is capable.

Don't Count On Revolution

Mr. Paul G. Hoffman has retired after two years as administrator of Economic Co-operation in Berlin; the following statement is attributed to him: "If conditions in Eastern Berlin as I saw them and had them described to me are indicative of conditions in other satellite areas, then sooner or later the day will come when the peoples of those lands will rise to the heights of heroism and throw off the yoke that oppresses them."

Our reluctant comment on this must be: Don't count on it.

During the last war there were repeated rumours and assurances that the Germans were about to revolt against Hitler, or the Italians against Mussolini; everything in Germany and Italy seemed to point to it. But there were no such revolts. The one thing that looked like a revolt was an attempt to kill Hitler by some officers, which failed.

People do not revolt easily. Populations will tolerate extreme hardship for decades without getting any nearer to revolution. And prolonged hardship itself acts as a damper on revolt, for wretched people whose chief concern is to get enough food to keep alive, and to live in such a way as to keep out of trouble, have no spirit for revolt. It is during times of comparative prosperity, as in America in 1776, and in France in 1792, that revolutions begin.

We hope that Mr. Hoffman is right, but it would be foolish to expect anti-Russian revolutions for decades to come. Oppressive regimes come very close to being self-perpetuating, as history shows. It is when the oppressors begin to quarrel among themselves, or when they become soft through easy living, that the revolutions arise. And the Russians are remarkably well-disciplined, and remarkably tough.

Everyman And The Common Man

We are interested in a suggestion made in a letter to the Manchester Guardian that the phrase "the common man" be dropped, when speaking of the average citizen; it has an unpleasant sound, and suggests that the average citizen is a cringing, not very intelligent fellow; the writer of the letter thinks that the English word "Everyman" might be used instead. If what is now called "the common man" is to be renamed "Everyman", we think that it should be widely understood who Everyman was and what happened to him.

The fortunes of Everyman are described in an old English play which dates from the early sixteenth century. We have not a copy of the play at hand, but as we recall it this is what happened. Everyman meets Death, who tells him that he will soon be called upon to present an account of himself to God. Everyman is alarmed, and asks if he may take his friends with him; Death says that he may, if he can find any friends hardy and faithful enough to bear him company. Everyman then calls upon his relatives Kindred and Cousin, and finds them unwilling to go. His friend Fellowship is no more eager. His powerful friend Riches cruelly repulses him. And Strength, Beauty and Fivewits are all powerless to help him. So at last he is driven to seek the aid of Knowledge and Good Deeds, whom he has shamefully neglected, and these worthy friends go with him even to the door of Death.

This story is as apt now as it was five hundred years ago. If "the common man" is to be renamed Everyman, it will not be amiss to remind him who Everyman was, and what he learned. For the common man is no more interested in Knowledge and Good Deeds than Everyman was. It is an unhappy fact that each generation has to learn all the important things anew, as though no one had ever lived before.

The Fate Of The Pugilist

Within our recollection Gene Tunney is the only first-class boxer who has known enough to retire while at the peak of his career. Joe Louis has just given another example of the usual fate of the champion; he keeps on until he is beaten, and then he goes on until subsequent beatings force him into obscurity. Rarely does he end his career with much of the money which he has made in the ring.

There are reasons why this should be so. The qualities which make a man a great boxer are not the qualities of prudence and balance which enable him to make money. When he is champion, or on the road to championship, he has hosts of friends, many of whom need help, and it is traditional that a champion should be generous. The government takes big pieces of his winnings. Quite understandably he wants to live in a certain degree of luxury, and luxury is no friend to a boxer. And every year brings him nearer that point where, however good his training, he is too old to keep his champion's crown.

In boxing, as in every sport, this time comes early in life. When the professional man is just getting into his best and most productive years, the boxer is near the end of his tether. What lies before him? If he is a hard worker he can start a private gymnasium, training other boxers, or helping sedentary office workers to keep down their fat. He may get a few jobs as a trainer for a younger champion. But champions in the ring, like champions in many other walks of life, are not necessarily good teachers.

Joe Louis has been an admirable man in many ways. His good sportsmanship and decency have done much to help the Negro people of the U.S.A. But what lies before him? Thousands who have admired him will hope that he has the wisdom to keep out of the ring, and find some work at which he can maintain himself for the second half of his life.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A naked woman hitch-hiker in California was arrested "for having no visible means of support." The visibility of her other attributes was not in doubt.

The Russians are celebrating their invention of the street-car. Much more progress in that direction and they will find that they have invented the horse-omnibus.

ON THE MARGIN:

Obstinacy Of a Poet

COLLECTED POEMS OF W. B. YEATS (Macmillan).

IT is some time since the collected poems of Yeats have been available, and we must be grateful to the Macmillan Company for this new edition. It gives us an opportunity to consider the whole body of his poetic work, and to clarify our ideas about it. Those ideas have, since the death of the poet in 1939, been somewhat clouded and confused by critical opinions of Yeats which have been published in books and periodicals. It is time to get back to Yeats himself, and to judge the critics by him, rather than to judge him by the critics.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE thing which strikes me most powerfully after looking through the "Collected Poems" is the way in which Yeats' work as a poet hangs together. Critics have a fondness for chopping a man's work up into "periods". They like to mark the point at which his thought took a new turn; they like, if they can, to define a time at which his best work was done. There is no doubt that Yeats' work as a poet changed with the years, but its sameness is much more striking than its alteration. The very young man who wrote the early poems had in him all that is evident in the old man who wrote the last poems. The music and the vision and the unmistakeable individuality were there at the beginning and they did not grow or change out of recognition at the end. Yeats' work gives corroboration to the belief that poets are born and not made.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANOTHER game which the critics like to play is the tracing of "influences". They like to mark the point at which a man came under the spell of a new movement, or found an intellectual enthusiasm which left its mark on his work. But "influences" do not make a writer, and their effect upon writers of genius, like Yeats, is superficial. The Irish Renaissance played its part in his development, certainly, but he could have done without it. He was not primarily an Irishman, but a poet. He gave many years of leisure time to investigation of Eastern mysticism, and references to it in his work are frequent, but the foundation of his work is his own genius, and not a borrowed mysticism. The French symbolists left their mark upon him, too, but he was more than the follower of a mode. Indeed, I venture to assert that the symbolism in Yeats has been given an exaggerated importance. He has his difficult passages, and there are places where he appears to have dragged symbolism into his work by the heels, but at his best no poet was ever clearer and more direct in his expression. That is not to say that his work is always easily understood: it is to say that, considering the difficulty of expressing the exact shades of meaning which he sought to communicate, he wrote with great simplicity and clarity. The meaning of his poetry cannot be discovered by puzzling over it; but it surrenders to repeated, receptive reading.

◇ ◇ ◇

IT has often been said that Yeats was the greatest poet of our time. His genius is so plain that it cannot be denied, or very much cut down by captious criticism. Nevertheless many critics since his death have grappled with his embarrassing greatness, attempting to reduce it to that orderly, tabulated form which critics love. It is very hard for a critic—especially if he be a young, businesslike, modern critic with his reputation to make—to admit that there are elements in a great man which may be inexplicable to him, or that cannot somehow be related to a theory. Yeats' mysticism and his interest in the occult have embarrassed many a critic who is not prepared to admit that there may be more in the occult than he knows, or that pondering on fallacious notions may, in a man of genius, be productive of great poetry.

◇ ◇ ◇

YEATS was at certain times in his life interested in astrology, and I cannot remember reading anything which suggested that he ever wholly renounced it. Now astrology, today, in the neat, clean, sanitary world in which critics live, is a despicable thing. Obviously anyone who takes any stock in astrology is a laughable creature. Yet here is William Butler Yeats, the greatest poet of recent times, apparently as interested in astrology as any old woman reading a dream-book in a kitchen. It embarrasses a critic to meet such a contradiction of all that critics hold dear in a man whom critics are obliged to respect.

◇ ◇ ◇

YEATS' mysticism is also a source of trouble to the critical world. A poet, the critics maintain, must have some sort of coherent view of life, and obviously a good poet should have a view of life which a critic can comprehend, paw over, and value. A critic is a kind of aesthetic auctioneer, anxious to set a value upon the goods which come under his hammer. What is he to do with Yeats, who tampered not too skilfully with mysticism, that most elusive and variable of qualities?

◇ ◇ ◇

WHAT the critics are to do is, fortunately, not the concern of the average reader, who either likes a man's poetry or does not like it, and who reads it for what it says to him, and not for what he can say about it. It is such readers who will value the new Collected Poems. In it they will find all of Yeats' poetry which was not contained in his plays, and in that poetic distillment of a noble life they will take endless pleasure. It is too often forgotten that a poet speaks directly to the people, and that the people who listen intently will understand what he says. They will hear very little, of course, if they allow themselves to be deafened by the sharp yapping of the critics—the professional explainers of poets. Yeats was linked — not by a sentimental desire but by his genius — with the bards. The bards spoke to the people, as Yeats will speak to anyone with ears to hear who takes up this book.

ONE OF THE FRUITS OF VICTORY

Letter To The Editor

NOTHING IN THE EXAMINER

Sir: A while back on about page 4, your writer had an article which ran something like this, "Why should women get a pension at 65. Women at 65 and over are able to work as well as men." A lot more along the same line, but this is enough to show to what I refer. Next time suggest to the same writer to advise the government to turn that three million supreme court building into a gas house for old people, or build one along side it. As far as raising the taxes, some people only criticize the old age pensions and let all the rest slip their notice.

A frequent remark I hear concerning the Examiner is "there is nothing in it anyway."

MRS. HANNMELL.

ED. NOTE: The editorial to which our correspondent refers said that there was no reason why women should receive the Old Age Pension at an earlier age than men. We have not changed our opinion.

KEEP THE MARKET IN ONE PLACE

Sir: Will you please give me a space in your paper concerning a matter which, I think, should be brought more directly to the attention of the city ratepayers and of the farmers who produce food for market.

I understand the City Council is taking steps to do away with the farmers' market which, I believe, was set aside by the Crown, to be used as a produce market for the benefit of the citizens of Peterborough.

Is it within the power of the City Council to take this privilege away from the public?

It has been suggested that the outside market be moved to a lot across from the George Street Wharf and that the basket market be left where it is. In my opinion, this would be a very poor set-up.

If a suitable building were erected on George Street across from the wharf, where the whole market would be together, in my opinion, this would be satisfactory.

The public have the privilege of parking on the market square during six days of the week; surely they will not object to the farmer using it one day to market their produce?

Every worker is entitled to a fair living and this privilege of selling on the market should not be sacrificed for the benefit of a few people.

I would like some of the citizens of Peterborough city and district to write to The Peterborough Examiner, regarding this matter.

Thanking you for this space,
Yours truly,
G. N. MONCRIEF.

Valiant Kitten

(New York Herald Tribune)

Cats for thousands of years have charmed and annoyed mankind. The ancient Egyptians regarded them as minor deities. Every old-time witch who amounted to anything had a jet black cat as a matter of course. Then, there was Dick Whittington's cat, which started his master on the road to fame and fortune; also Puss in Boots, another helpful feline. There are many others, including those which get stuck between walls or up tall trees and are rescued by a long-suffering fire department or the A.S.P.C.A.

Just the other day a ten-month-old black and white kitten literally climbed into fame, according to a correspondent of "The Times" of London. This kitten lives in a Swiss hotel on the Hornli ridge, which is 10,820 feet above sea level. One morning the sportive kitten followed a party as they left at dawn to go up the Matterhorn. He was soon left behind but managed to reach a shelter hut where he spent the night. The next day he climbed higher, sleeping above the shoulder of the formidable peak. The third morning, still going strong, he was passed by some climbers who were certain that he would never get up the perilous Ropes, Slab and the Roof. But in due time he reached the very summit of the Matterhorn (14,780 feet) "miauling with tail up," according to "The Times," and shared the climbers' lunch. A kindly guide, realizing that the kitten would never get down under his own power, put the dauntless alpinist in his knapsack for the return journey.

What inspired this courageous feat we cannot fathom. Perhaps, like the bear in the old song, he went up "to see what he could saw."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And, behold, they brought to him a man sick of the palsy, lying on a bed; and Jesus seeing their faith said unto the sick of the palsy; Son, be of good cheer; thy sins be forgiven thee. And behold, certain of the scribes said within themselves, This man blasphemeth.

And Jesus knowing their thoughts said, Wherefore think ye evil in your hearts? For whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise, and walk But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (then saith he to the sick of the palsy,) Arise, take up thy bed, and go unto thine house. And he arose, and departed to his house.

But when the multitudes saw it, they marvelled, and glorified God, which had given such power unto men. (Matt. 9: 2-8.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Then spake Jesus to the multitude, and to his disciples, saying, The scribes and the Pharisees sit in Moses' seat: all therefore whatsoever they bid you observe, that observe and do; but do not ye after their works: for they say, and do not.....

Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye pay tithe of mint and anise and cummin, and have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgement, mercy, and faith: these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone. (Matt. 23: 1-3, 23.)

The Five-Day Week

(Ottawa Journal)

In the ultimate, we have to face the fact that decisions on the five-day week are not to be made in Canada at all. If all the peaceful peoples of the world could work out their future without interference it can hardly be doubted that the five-day week soon would be enjoyed by all, plus longer Summer holidays and other advantages of progress. If the Communist aggression continues we will be confronted with the knowledge that the men in the front line fight every day and at all hours for the preservation of our lives and comfort. So long as we live in the threat of aggression we must consider all our advantages of a transitory nature, benefits we must surrender to the general good if the need arises. Thus it is we must savor the joys of the five-day week when we get it and hope for its extension, but ever keep in our minds that if world dangers become more severe we all may have working weeks of six or seven days. In the battle for survival there are no holidays and we might as well prepare for the challenge with good heart.

WARM HOMECOMING

Three Canadian Destroyers In Port After 2-Week Action

AT A JAPANESE NAVAL BASE, Oct. 4 — (CP)—The Canadian destroyers Cayuga, Sioux and Athabaskan, are back in port, ending two weeks of Korean duty in which they destroyed enemy minefields and bombarded shore batteries and troop concentrations.

Supporting the UN assault on the west coast Korean port of Inchon, they spent two weeks guarding the supply line to the beachhead and escorting ships carrying vital fuel and ammunition to UN land forces.

With units of the South Korean Navy, they formed a task force under the command of Capt. Jeffry Brock of Winnipeg and Vancouver, commanding officer of the Cayuga and senior officer of the Canadian squadron.

Patrolling the southern flank of the invasion area, they kept close watch on enemy activity between Inchon and Kunsan and were prepared to act as an anti-submarine force if necessary.

Throughout the operation, the Canadian ships operated in danger of enemy air attacks on their convoys of oilers and ammunition ships, but none materialized.

But the destroyers still found enough action to keep them busy. Once, during a patrol, the Sioux sighted three floating mines, the first encountered by the Canadian ships since their arrival, and exploded them with gunfire.

Later, the Athabaskan located a minefield in the approaches to Kunsan and detonated five mines.

The Cayuga and the Athabaskan teamed up Sept. 23 to bombard shore installations on an enemy-held island north of Kunsan and inflicted heavy damage.

Tell Grocers To Sell What Customers Want

TORONTO, Oct. 4—(CP)—Ontario retail grocers were told Tuesday they must concentrate on selling what the customers want—not what the grocers would like to sell.

"Be careful about the collar you wear and the way you knot your tie," Mrs. R. M. Kiefer, secretary manager of the National Association of Retail Grocers of the United States, told the foods division of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada (Ontario). "Make sure that apron is clean and your personal behavior is good."

Mrs. Keifer said surveys showed buyers were attracted by clean, well-lighted stores. They wanted food displayed conveniently and prices well marked.

Rule Boy 15 Stand Trial As An Adult

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Oct. 4 (AP)—Husky, 15-year-old Rodney McRae must stand trial as an adult for the brutal sex slaying of little Joey Housey.

While the youth's mother looked on tearfully and his lawyer uncle pleaded for a delay in proceedings. Probate Judge Joseph V. Trombly waived jurisdiction after a brief hearing Tuesday.

"I'm not guilty," the youth said, his voice barely audible.

Judge Trombly ruled: "This is an adult crime, and he should be punished for it as an adult."

Prosecutor Fred Nicholson asked the court to waive jurisdiction over the youth so a first-degree murder charge could be brought.

Victim of the slaying was eight-year-old Joey Housey, whose slashed body was found in a hastily-dug grave near his St. Clair Shores home Sept. 23.

Arrested At Sarnia

Young McRae was arrested early Sunday at Sarnia, after fleeing in a stolen motor boat through Lake St. Clair and the St. Clair River. He waived extradition proceedings after his arrest and agreed to return to the U.S.

Nicholson also indicated he would ask legal action against Rodney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. McRae, if it were found they knew earlier of their son's guilt and failed to report it to police.

George B. Hubbard, lawyer for the McRae boy, demanded a full probate court hearing in the case and Judge Thomas V. Trombly brought the youth into court to testify.

Rodney has insisted he is "all hazy" about the slaying of Joey Sept. 9, and told police only that he had "an urge to kill." Lie detector tests Monday bore out his confession, state police said, but proved "inconclusive" as to whether he had attacked the boy sexually. Such an attack was made, an inquest showed shortly after Joey's body was found.

St. Clair Shores Police Chief Harvey E. Champine and State Police Captain Howard Seiler indicated they would oppose prosecution of young McRae's parents because "they have given us cooperation."

"We are grateful for that and are sympathetic toward them," Seiler said. "We feel they were as victimized as society and can hardly be blamed for keeping ther secret."

Would Make Nursing More Attractive

TORONTO, Oct. 4 — (CP). — Government action to make the fields of nursing and psychiatry more attractive to young women and medical students was advocated Tuesday night by Ontario Health Minister Phillips. Dr. Phillips told the Health League of Canada that the shortage of psychiatrists is becoming serious. The province had 109 doctors for 14,000 mental patients before the war compared with 89 for 17,000 patients to-day.

The new Health Minister paid tribute to the retired and married nurses who returned to duty during the war years, but who now were returning to domestic duties.

"It is up to you and I and the government to put forth a program to attract girls in their teens to train for nursing," he said. "We now are trying to form a new program and policy .... which can become operative in the next two or three years."

Will Suspend 12 Delegates

TORONTO, Oct. 4 — (CP). — The Toronto District Labor Council (TLC) plans to suspend another 12 delegates because of their suspected Communist affiliations, it was learned Tuesday night.

Three suspected Communists were expelled from the Council at its last meeting in a follow-up to a decision at the recent convention of the Trades and Labor Congress to rid itself of Communists.

They were: Sam Lapedes, business agent of the United Garment Workers; Helen Weir, of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees Union; and Reg. Wright, president of a Toronto local of the International Chemical Workers.

It was learned that the Garment Workers Union has withdrawn from the Council because of the suspension of Mr. Lapedes and reports of plans to expel other garment workers delegats.

The Council is scheduled to meet Thursday night when it will probably consider the suspension of the other 12 delegates. Their names have not been disclosed.

Scotch For Today Said "Awfu' Waste"

LONDON —(CP)— Take equal portions of scotch, French vermouth and drambuie, mix with ice, adding a squeeze of lemon peel and you have a "Braemar" cocktail.

This is only one of the many drink mixtures given in a new Scots publication devoted to the merits and history of Scotch whisky.

The book also tells, for the benefit of the many who do not know, the correct way to make whisky toddy:

Take a heated glass, insert a spoonful of sugar and sufficient boiling water to dissolve, add half a glass of whisky and stir with silver spoon, pour in more boiling water and top that with whisky.

"An awfu' waste o' guid Scotch," the recipe writer admits.

Gardener Plans To Defy Frost

Bud Lloyd, 121 Hilliard St., is planning to carry out an experiment with some chrysanthemums which he has grown this year from seed. He has been cutting off blooms this week and is preparing to keep the plants in the ground all winter.

This can't be done, say some of the experts, but Mr. Lloyd, a keen amateur gardener, is going to see if he can defy the cold winter.

The seeds were sent to him this year from an aunt in England and Mr. Lloyd put them in seed boxes in March, transplanting them when firm shoots had developed.

Mr. Lloyd's garden is still sporting a profusion of blooms. He is still picking sweet peas and there is no shortage of flowers for vases in the Lloyd home.

Quarter Sneaks Pay Off PCVS Topples Grove 28-18

A little thing called the quarterback sneak allowed the PCVS junior "A" team to reel ahead in the late stages with Grove of Lakefield Tuesday for two touchdowns to win 18-18.

Peterborough jumped ahead early with two majors in the first as they controlled the play. They added another in the second to make the score 17-0 before Grove began to have its share of the play and scoring. With a driving ground offensive and steady punting they pulled up 17-12 at the half and went ahead in the third 18-17.

Quarterback Bill Stewart for PCVS slipped over late in the third on a sneak to put PCI up 22-18. In the fourth another sneak went for 22 yards putting the Garnet and Grey in position for the fifth touchdown.

Bad Punting

Spencer Hope for the PCI'ers had a bad day in the punting department. On nearly every kick until the fourth quarter the Reds from Grove swarmed over him to smother the attempt. This enabled the Grove crew to be in a scoring position which they took advantage of in the second and third. Hugh Faulkner for Grove saved the day for the prep school with his long punts up the short field.

PCI's ground attack led by Murray Grafstein, Reg Fowler and Dave Langhorne was the collegiate's most powerful weapon. In the first half Grafstein was the powerhouse along with Langhorne. Fowler took care of the long plunges in the second half while Stewart went for yards on quarter sneaks. Robbie Legate and Dave Lister were the main grounders for the Grove.

PCVS' air attack which took them to victory over the Oshawa juniors just wasn't clicking. During the game PCVS attempted 23 passes, six were completed (two figured slightly on touchdowns), 15 went uncompleted and two attempts Stewart had to run when no receiver was open. Both times he went for first downs.

Two Passes

Grove attempted only two passes both in the first quarter. Murray Grafstein intercepted a Frank Pearce pass early in the first and went 59 along the sidelines for the first major which went unconverted.

Late in the first Stewart tried to pass but had to run. He skirted around the end for 30 yards before downed on the Grove 35. Langhorne and Grafstein laid the ball on the one-yard line where Stewart completed the drive on a quarter sneak. Langhorne drop-kicked the extra point.

Early in the second Stewart bullet passed to Dan Griffin for seven yards at the Grove 22. Another pass this time to Hope went for seven yards and Hope carried to the three-yard line. Grafstein ripped through centre for the five points while Langhorne drop-kicked again successfully.

Grove Scores

Grove elected to kick to PCVS and the punt was well into scoring territory. PCVS tried to run it out and finally attempted to kick, the play being smeared with Grove recovering. McCullough went over in two plunges, Lister converting. Later in the quarter Legate returned a Hope punt 39 yards to the PCVS 31. George (Bugs) Jones and Legate carried to the PCVS one-yard line where Jones went over straight through centre. Lister converted just before the half ended to make the half read 17-12.

Early in the third after Faulkner booted to the PCVS 5, the Garnet and Greys fumbled. Outside Pete Irwin booted it towards the touchline where he grabbed it for a major. Faulkner's convert was good sending the Grove griders up 18-17.

Late in the third Hope booted to the Grove line. PCVS took possession three plays later on the 24 Grove. Stewart, Langhorne and Dunn carried to the Grove one. Again Stewart went over on a quarter sneak.

Six Points

In the fourth PCVS on the centre stripe needed only one yard for a first down. Stewart went through on a quarter sneak for 22 yards to set PCI up. Fowler and Langhorne plunged. Stewart passed to Griffin and Fowler went through centre for the last major which Langhorne converted.

PCVS: flying wing, Dunn; halves, Langhorne, Grafstein, Hope; quarter, Stewart; centre, Johnston; insides, Forbes, Outram; middles, Huddard, Scriver; outsides, Griffin, Hollingsworth; alt., Fowler, Armstrong, Hayward, Gilders, Boorman, Turner, Haggart, Russell, McIlwain, Pollard, Patterson, Chevalier.

GROVE: flying wing, Lister; halves, Jones, Pearce, Legate; quarter, Ryder; centre, Moffat; insides, Houston, Minnes; middles, McCullough, Boyt; outsides, Irwin, McGregor; alt., Grant, Faulkner, Powell, Houghton, Whittemore, McNaughton, Shickler, Ross, Hunter.

6 Star Trotters Go To Barrier

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 4 (AP) —Six crack trotters will go to the barrier here tomorrow in the 58th renewal of the Kentucky Futurity for three-year-olds, second richest event in harness racing's grand circuit.

Included among the small, select field for the event worth $56,355 is Hambletonian winner Lusty Song and Star's Pride, second in both heats of the Goshen, N.Y., classic in August.

The winner of the $75,000 Hambletonian has been installed as an early 6-5 choice in the Futurity off performances which have earned him the title of the biggest money-winning colt in the history of the sport.

Owned by Hayes Fair Acre stable, of Duquoin, Ill., Lusty Song as a two-year-old established a bankroll of $47,799. He as added $73,944 to it this year for a total of $121,743.

But the Futurity is expected to develop into a stretch-driving duel between Lusty Song and Star's Pride, owned by E. Roland Harriman and L. B. Sheppard. Star's Pride, to be reined by Harry Pownall, has beaten the Hayes Fair Acre performance in four of five meetings and has been established at odds of 2-1. Del Miller will drive Lusty Song.

Third choice in the betting is Malcolm, from Coldstream stud of Lexington, at 9 to 2 with Tom Berry driving.

Hastings Trims Madoc In Grudge Game 7-5

HASTINGS, Oct. 4 (ENS)—In a grudge game with Madoc, Hastings juniors came out on the right side of a 7-5 score, in a well played exhibition game at Hastings park.

West had his fast one smoking as he fired the third strike past 19 of the opposition, but his support was wobbly, and Madoc built up a four run lead in the first three innings. The local lads tied the score in the bottom half of the third. In the fourth both teams scored once, but Hastings shoved two across in the sixth, one a long homer by Rookie Orr, and that ended the scoring.

Radner started on the mound for Madoc and was replaced in the fifth by Hunter, who showed plenty of speed, but a tendency to wildness.

Oliver receiving for Hastings was injured in the first frame and was forced out of the game.

Fundamental coaching in the early stages by Confederation was evident all through the game as they scored in the first half through Ferguson. Penalty Kick Wins Game

Queen Mary lost their Intermediate tussle on Tuesday afternoon to Prince of Wales eleven by a penalty kick to make it read 2-1 in favor of P of W.

Queen Mary forced the play, but Pince of Wales caught them napping when too far up the field as Johnston shot a long drive below the crossbar. Queen Mary evened up the count as Haig carried the ball down the field and placed Brown in position to score. Five minutes from the end Prince of Wales was awarded a penalty kick that Johnston converted to win two valuable points.

Queen Mary—C. Vincent, goal; L. Staves and W. Hendry, backs; B. Lincoln, W. Haig, and A. Stewart, half-backs: Frank Jobbitt, R. Atkinson, G. Dafoe, R. Hutton, and R. Brown, forwards; subs, R. Brazer, T. Welsh, S. Dinsdale, V. Brisbois.

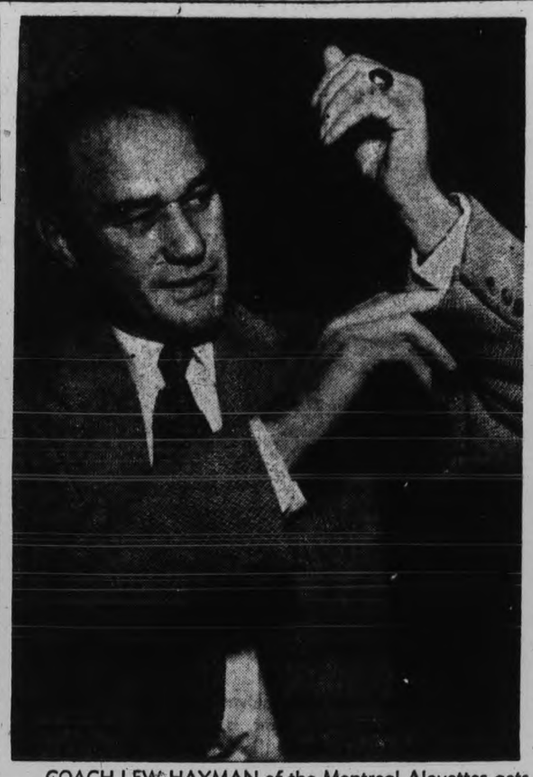
Black Bowls 812 B'nai B'rith Tops

B'nai B'rith bowlers spilled the pins for a high team total of 3238 Monday night in the men's bowling at the YMCA. This total enabled them to take four of the six points from the Canada Packers who rolled for 2995.

The Artists totalled 3048 to take four poin's from the Quakers and Jay Bees took six from the Utilities with a score of 3021. Aberdeens swept four of the six from the Tip Tops.

Other scores over the 700-mark were by H. Siddall of the Canada Packers 717, G. MacDonald of the Jay Bees with 713 and N. Routley of the Artists 700.



N. Routley's 341 was good enough to take the high single while Isadore Black came through with a 324.

Trenton Captures First Of Series

TRENTON, Oct. 4. — Behind the seven-hit hurling of veteran Harry Farr, who claimed 15 on strikes, Trenton Chevies captured the first game of the best-of-five final for the Trent Valley Softball League championship, 10-6, over Frankford Merchants on Monday night.

The Chevies bunched their runs in the fourth and sixth.

The winners were faced at the plate by Lou Carswell with a homer and a double, Lou Istead with a pair of singles, Joe Scott with a grand slam homer and Ernie Curtis with a home run. Don Rogers with a double and a single and Jerry Consoul with two singles led the Frankford attack.

COACH LEW HAYMAN of the Montreal Alouettes gets set to release one of the tricks he had up his sleeve prior to the Hamilton Tiger-Cats fray in the "big city". The Als finally unleashed some of the powers that brought them the Grey Cup last year when they downed the Cats 31-18. Hayman will have to have some more of those tricks up that sleeve if he hopes to make a bid for this season's championship. The Als are in the Big 4 cellar, one game down on the second place position held jointly by Hamilton and Ottawa and two games down on the league-leading Toronto Argos.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

While it is most definitely true that Peterborough has not its Memorial Centre, that grandiose dream of wartime years which has faded with time's passage, yet we do have an arena with artificial ice. And not a bad setup, either. In any case, it serves the purpose, giving local puck fans OHA senior "B" and junior "B" hockey contests, along with all the minor play, and skating. Except in playoff time (and usually then, too) the arena holds the crowd though we feel that a higher brand of hockey in a swank setup like the dormant Centre would bring out far more fans. Folks who want their hockey in warmer surroundings.

* * * * * *

Once again this winter, we'll have two OHA senior "B" teams. The Petes are making big plans and should ice a lot stronger squad than a year ago, if no hitch occurs betwixt now and starting time. The ex-Legionnaires are now sponsored by Don McGillis, Sr.—a gent who takes more than a passing interest, also, in the Orfuns of the ORFU. Not much news leaking out yet from this camp but it's pretty safe to say they'll ice a scrappy and experienced band again. The team won the provincial title two seasons ago and were Ontario finalists last spring. The IOOF will back the junior "B" crew this year, as in the past several winters, and will have Boston Bruins' aid.

* * * * * *

Putting It On Ice

Ice is in now at the arena and there'll be early action one way or another. If only in drills, exhibitions or a district loop operating ere OHA play starts. Also, of course, Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins have exhibitions numbers slated for here, and there was an ice revue last week. Winter is rapidly drawing nigh. A few years ago, little organization work was done in hockey here until November and play never started till well out in December, maybe the week of Christmas. It ended when ice melted in March. Now, we have hockey from early October until late in April. Woe is the lot of today's sportswriter!

* * * * * *

But this is all to the good for youngsters coming up—it gives them much more ice time and may mean a well-paid puck career. It is also good for the fans. They see a lot more hockey, and playoffs are not suddenly whisked away on them at the most interesting time, being transferred to some other lucky centre with artificial ice. Furthermore, it brings in top talent for exhibitions. Like Kansas City last year. Like junior "A" teams. Like NHL outfits, the ones you read about all winter and listen to on the air in stirring duels. Yes, artificial ice is the answer, and we have it here.

* * * * * *

Leafs Are Coming

Which brings us to the subject of Toronto Maple Leafs. The full 1950-51 edition will be on display in Civic Arena this Friday night. All will see action in an exhibition game, the blues vs. the whites or the yannigans vs. the jerkins—or whatever they wish to call themselves. They'll be all there from Goalie Turk Broda out. Turk is not only a stylish stout, he is a mighty stylish goalie. About tops in the NHL. Conny Smythe, Hap Day and Joe Primeau promised to ice the whole classy crowd for the local Rotary Club's aid to crippled children. A big attraction for a most worthy cause, and the arena will be jammed.

* * * * * *

A bit later this month, Boston Bruins will be here for an inter-squad exhibition. This was done by Dit Clapper, now a director of the Bruins. The club will do anything for big Dit, who starred for them for 20 years and coached them for two more ere retiring and staying with his business in Peterborough. Money raised from this game will be turned over to the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association, assuring hundreds of youngsters good equipment for their long winter of play. It, too, is a worthy cause, making for happy and healthy youths — such a contrast to the pasty-faced punks who plague the police and public so much.

* * * * * *

Hockey Not Far Off

This pillar was written in advance—as we figured to be away a few days—and it may not be filled with timely sports news. (Remember the Ghosts-Orfuns' big grid game here tonight.) Yet it is timely enough, as fall soon fades into winter. Summer sports are over and football is in full flower, but it is a short season at best. Hockey is a long one, commencing smack in the middle of the grid campaign and lasting out until big league baseball starts its lengthy schedule of another year. So, it's high time to think of hockey again in these parts as we don't need to wait till the canal freezes over to get out for a skate or a puck workout. No, we just take a bus down to Civic Arena where artificial ice awaits. Sports in the centennial year of this borough have grown up.

Mighty Matter Geohagen Whips Hi Lee

Timothy Geohagen, protege of Ed 'Strangler" Lewis, showed at the Brock last night before a good crowd and disposed of Hi Lee, one of the arch villains of matdom, in straight falls to advance farther up the wrestling ladder.

Geohagen hails from Ireland and boasts an exceptional body and an equally well-trained mind. He is a graduate of Dublin University with a Ph.D., 'tis said.

Prior to the first prelim, Timothy gave an exhibition of control of back and chest muscles that gladdened the hearts of beautiful girls in the pay section and must have caused many males to firmly resolve never again to be seen in a bathing suit. Geohagen is a broth of a boy.

Feats Of Strength

Feats of strength next featured Timothy's personal display as he bent a 16-inch round half-inch rod into "U" shape with his teeth. Next, he twisted an iron strap five feet long by an inch and a half wide, around one forearm. The strip was five-sixteenths thick. To finish his show, he carried referee Dunlop around the ring on a stool with his teeth, using his chest and head for support.

Hi Lee who evidently failed to see all this or if he did took no notice thereof, strode manfully into the ring seemingly determined to end the bout quickly, if possible. It did finish soon enough but the giant lost as he so often does against a smaller but more skillful foe.

Lee punished Geohagen with a series of crushing headlocks and reverse arm-locks but was himself repaid in kind, shortly after hostilities began as Hi soon found Tim faster, stronger and better matman than first appeared. Twice in the early stages Geohagen picked up his 290-pound rival and flung him hard to the canvas.

A series of toe-holds further softened Lee though he fought back to punish Tim with elbow smashes to the midriff and head and some painful locks. Finally, at the 19-minute mark, referee Dunlop disqualified him for illegal tactics in butting Geohagen's head against the turnbuckle awarding the latter the first fall.

Geohagen took the second fall in spectacular fashion at the 12-minute mark as he clamped on his "Irish Sleeper" a hold similar to Watson's unconscious commando and shook Lee so helpless that he was forced to concede.

Lee's rough tactics throughout aroused the ire of the crowd who loudly applauded a popular verdict.

Morgan-Korman

Toar Morgan at 230 disposed of Al "Krusher" Korman in the prelim at the 20-minute mark as he caught the latter off balance with a terrific body-smash from the ropes and pinned his groggy opponent with a front top spread The two had engaged in a very fast duel up to this point with Korman much the more unorthodox of the two

In fact, black Al was downright mean several times as he whaled away at Toar with elbows and fists and twice booted him out of the ring Morgan stuck to fairly clean tactics on the whole Krusher found Morgan fresher than was thought near the ropes after a furious exchange and the latter flored him quickly for a popular win

Pat Flanagan, 225, triumphed over Jack Moore 240 in the semi-final at the 18-minute mark of a bout packed with mat action As usual, Flanagan proved fast and aggressive pitting his speed and science against a heavier, rougher opponent Moore used every knavish trick at his disposal to soften the popular Pat as the two battled on fairly even terms till finally after being driven outside the ropes at the 17-minute mark, Pat jumped over the top rope with the speed of a cat. Moore was bowled over by the force of Flanagan's flying frame as was Dunlop directly behind him and all three hit the deck simultaneously Pat pinned the tired Moore quickly for the count

It was a fine card.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

One of the most famous Yankees of them all—Tommy Henrich—won't be in the line-up or on the bench when the umpire shouts play ball today in the 1950 world series.

"Old reliable," as Henrich is familiarly known to his host of New York fans, was asked to sacrifice himself for the good of the team in the series against the National League champion Philadelphia Phillies.

And his answer was typical of the quiet, unassuming guy who has played most of his years in the shadow of team mate Joe DiMaggio.

"Sure, be glad to, if it will help."

Yankee general manager George Weiss suggested to the 34-year-old Henrich that he give up his world series eligibility in favor of Johnny Hopp. Henrich, a slugging left-handed batter from the day he joined the Yankees in 1937, has been sidelined most of the recent season with knee and shoulder injuries. Pinch-hitting has been his lot during the Yankees' drive to their second straight pennant.

The University of Toronto football squad has elected as captains two men who probably will never again play for Varsity.

The players picked Fraser (Moose) Mustard and Jack Gray

Mustard, an all-star lineman, was ordered to give up the game this year for medical reasons. Gray, a half back, dislocated his shoulder last Saturday in an exhibition game and probably will be out for the rest of the year—his last at Varsity.

Coach Bob Masterson said he will name a field captain before each game.

Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League downed St. Louis Flyers of the American Hockey League 5-3 Tuesday night in an exhibition game at St. Louis.

The Canadian star basketball team Tuesday defeated a British team 64-14 in a tournament at the world Jewish Olympics at Tel Aviv.

The Canadians already have won two matches — against Argentina and Belgium — and are likely to reach the finals of the tournament.

Coach Carl Voyles reached down into junior ranks Tuesday for two players to bolster his ailing Hamilton TigerCats.

Faced with two weekend games against Toronto Argonauts, current Big Four leaders, Voyles called up outside Ed Walker and half-back Floyd Cooper from the Tiger-Cat juniors.

Bill McWhinney of Vancouver, Canadian amateur golf champion, shot a one-over-par 73 Tuesday to qualify for match play in the California open tournament.

McWhinney and two others tied one stroke behind the leaders, Fred A. Jordan of San Francisco. Jordan nabbed the medal honors.

Bill McCormick, 22, of Hamilton, O., will rejoin Toronto Argonauts, current leaders of the Big Four Interprovincial Union.

McCormick, former Miami University player, will replace Bob Heck, United States import recently called by the U.S. Draft Board. McCormick was released a month ago when Argos cut down their Ameerican imports to the league limit of seven.

Tigers Swamp Oshawa 14-2

WATERLOO, Oct. 4. (CP) — Waterloo Tigers were within one game of the Ontario Baseball Association finals today after swamping Oshawa Merchants, 14-2, here Tuesday night.

Tigers now lead the Merchants three games to one in the best-of-seven semi-finals. Fifth game will be played here tonight.

Waterloo took the first game here Saturday 9-4. Merchants, Viaduct Loop winners, came back in Toronto Sunday to blast the intercounty champs, 7-1. The series moved to Oshawa Monday night, with Tigers whitewashing the home team, 3-0.

Southpaw Cy Bricker had a shutout for Tigers Tuesday night until the eighth, when two walks and a single accounted for Oshawa's two runs. The rest of the time, he gave up five hits, including two doubles and two triples, but fanned nine and left the extra-base hitters stranded.

The winners took a 2-0 lead in the first on a double, a single and an outfield fly. The double-single routine added another in the second frame.

Paul Michael left the mound for Oshawa in the fourth and was replaced by Paul Thompson. Before Thompson got the side out, Tigers had added another five runs on three hits and it was pretty well over bar the shouting.

Stouffville Knocks Out Little Britain Team

LINDSAY, Oct. 4. — Making their first start in the Tri-County Baseball League round-robin championship series, Stouffville knocked Little Britain out of contention by handing the Mariposa club their third straight setback, 16-8, in an error filled game.

Right-hander Tom Miller went the route for the winners, and, except for the second and seventh, had the home club hitters under control. He fanned eight. Outfielder Cadieux smashed out four of the 10 hits off the two Britain hurlers, including two doubles. Len Schell poked a pair of two-baggers for the victors.

DECLINES INVITATION

Sydney A. Dawes, president of the Canadian Olympic Association, said in Montreal Tuesday that his organization had declined an invitation to participate in the Pan-American games at Buenos Aires next February.

Maurice Evans Tries Movies To Aid Theatre

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 4 (AP)—This may sound strange, but Maurice Evans is doing his first US movie in order to further the stage.

The famed stage actor of the classics is spending his nights appearing at the Biltmore in Shaw's "The Devil's Disciple" and his days preparing for his film role with Ethel Barrymore in "Kind Lady." He explained why he has finally succumbed to Hollywood.

"The reasons are two-fold. First, I realize the value of furthering one's name by motion pictures. In the theatre, it is no longer possible to travel to every little town when you appear in a play; costs are too high now for that. But if you appear in a movie, you can go to those towns—in a can, so to speak.

"With a movie-created name, you have an added audience to draw from when you appear in a play."

New York Project

Evans said his second reason for doing the movie concerns the New York City Center theatre. He and a number of other stage people put on a successful season of plays there last year and intend to continue. Evans is out to enlist movie names to appear for the company.

Evans sees the Center project as a hope to revive the ailing theatre. "We can put on worthwhile shows by playing two weeks in a big theatre," he said. "Prices run from $1.10 to $3 top, so nearly anyone can afford it.

"That, I think, is the main trouble with the theatre, as with all forms of entertainment—they have become too blamed expensive. People have gotten out of the habit of going to the theatre. We have to find means of drawing them back."

Church Marks 52nd Anniversary

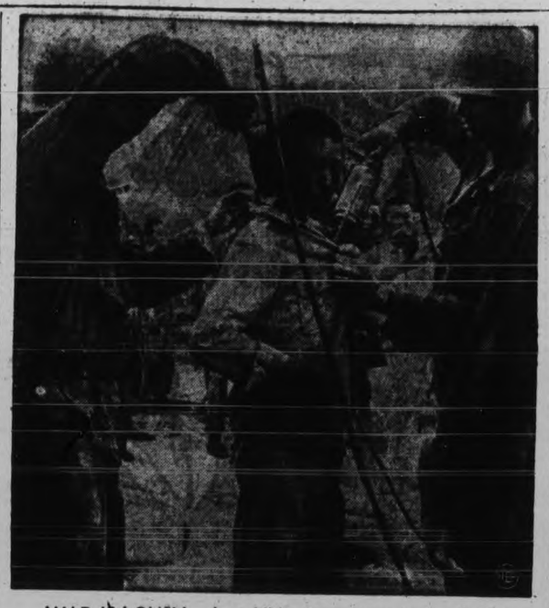
APSLEY, Oct. 4 — (ENS) — Grace Church, Lasswade, observed the 52nd anniversary on Sunday. K. Stuart of Wesley Church was guest speaker at both morning and evening services.

The morning service music was supplied by the home choir with Mrs. John Reynolds at the organ. Mrs. J. Reynolds and Mrs. George Bullied sang a duet and Mrs. Ralph Fitzgerald sang a solo.

At the evening service, music was supplied by the senior choir of Trinity United Church, Apsley, with Mrs. W. Lean at the organ. The choir sang an anthem and Mesdames Herb Tucker, Ralph Fitzgerald, Newt Stephens and Sidney McCauley sang a quartet.

The church was decorated and there were large congregations at both services.

Thanks were extended to Miss Merle McColl for her donation of an electric wall lamp for the pulpit and an electric organ lamp. By special request, Art Wilson and Sidney McCauley played several selections.



Apsley News

Mr. and Mrs. A. Ashenhurst of Uxbridge spent the weekend with their daughter, Mrs. M. C. Tucker and Mr. Tucker.

Mr. Gordon Hendra who has been incumbent in the Anglican Mission for the summer months took services here on Sunday and will come from Toronto weekends to carry on for the time being.

PIONEER RETURNS — The man who made the first two-way air mail flights across the North Atlantic recently arrived in Montreal to look at the landmarks which just a decade ago were the milestones in aviation history. Capt. Jack Kelly-Rogers, now assistant general manager of Aer Lingys and Aer Rianto, Ireland's national airlines, flew the first mail from Montreal's nearby Boucherville airport to Britain and return in 1939.

Four Baptists Plead Innocent

VAL D'OR, Que., Oct. 4 (CP)—Four members of the Regular Baptist faith, led by the Rev. L. T. Heron, were convicted here Monday on charges of obstructing traffic.

They were fined $40 and costs each with the option of two months in jail. The four, who pleaded innocent, elected to serve the jail term.

The Canadian Press Monday night erroneously reported that all four pleaded guilty.

Recorder J. L. Baillargeon, in announcing the conviction and sentence, said if court costs are not paid when the fine-alternative sentences expire, the four will have to serve another two months.

In addition to Mr. Heron, those convicted in connection with religious street meetings are his sister, Miss Isabelle Heron, who recently completed a two-month sentence; Bernard John Holloway, 25, Toronto, and William Leslie Phillips, 20, Brantford.

Get Anti-Tank Guns

OTTAWA, Oct. 4—(CP)— A second step to add to the anti-tank punch of Canada's special force was announced Tuesday by the army. It said the three infantry units of the force, slated to go to Korea or western Europe, are going to be equipped with the 17-pounder anti-tank gun, used in the recent war by artillery units.

Becomes American

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—(CP)—Garry Davis, the 29-year-old former bomber pilot who revoked his American citizenship and proclaimed himself a "citizen of the world" in Paris in 1948, is going to become an American again. His application for U.S. citizenship will be restored in 1952 after normal procedure.

Union Will Apply For Certification

TORONTO, Oct. 4 — (CP). — Local 1000 of the Department Store Employees Union (CCL-CIO) announced Tuesday in a full-page newspaper advertisement that it "is ready" to apply for certification as bargaining unit for employees in the Toronto stores and mail order department of the T. Eaton Company. The company, Canada's largest retail organization, has some 13,000 employees in the Toronto area.

The advertisement expressed thanks to other Canadian Congress of Labor unions which had supported the organization campaign, started in January, 1948.

Hold Conference On Conservation

TORONTO, Oct. 4—(CP)—Reconstruction Minister Winters met Tuesday with provincial officials, including Premier Frost and Lands Minister Scott, for talks on conservation.

Mr. Winters told reporters later the talks were "exploratory."

He said the discussion was largely about forest conservation, including such things as reforestation, insect control, forest management and fire prevention.

Informed sources said that after similar talks with other provinces, the Federal government may announce a policy of assistance to provinces on conservation projects. The Federal government has already announced it and Ontario will share 75 per cent of the cost of two flood-control dams in the province—the Luther Marsh dam north of Fergus and the Fanshawe dam on the Thames river just above London.

Service Station Bylaw Issue Still Not Settled

Judgement in the trial which may determine whether the city's service station open hours bylaw is valid was delayed when Magistrate R. B. Baxter, Port Hope, did not arrive in Peterborough today to announce his decision. The case was adojurned to Oct 18.

It was reported that the magistrate has been sick and has not had time to consider the evidence and the written arguments submitted by Alex. L. Elliott, KC, for the prosecution and T. J. Carley, KC, for the defence.

Evidence on one representative charge against John A. Russelle of selling gasoline Sunday, Sept. 3, contrary to the bylaw was heard two weeks ago.

Evidence at the hearing was that gasoline was sold to several motorists by attendants at Russelle's Service Station on north Water St. Constable Sherman Keliele testified he stood beside the pumps wearing his uniform, and watched gas being sold to customers and took the names of several in the space of about half an hour between 7.45 p.m. and 8.12 p.m.

Constables S. Keliele and John Conlin both said the service station did considerable work for the Ontario Motor League and had a large towing and repair business.

Under questioning by Mr. Carley, City Clerk E. A. Outram said the names of all Peterborough's service stations did not appear on a schedule list detailing which service stations had permission to remain open on certain Sundays in rotation.

Eight service stations were not on the list and four of their owners had signed a petition along with many others, asking for the bylaw.

UE Toronto Men Speak At Gate

As part of their drive for an immediate general wage increase, plus a special increase for skilled and day-rate workers, the United Electrical Workers at noon today brought in two speakers from Toronto CGE plants for a plant-gate address.

Bill Repka, Ward St. plant, secretary of the Toronto Joint Board, and Joe De Mois, chief steward of the Davenport plant, spoke at the noon meeting.

Repka said the Toronto workers at a Sunday membership meeting instructed the Joint UE-GE Negotiating Committee to press for the opening of negotiations with the company.

The Peterborough workers were asked to endorse the Toronto demands for a 15-cents-an-hour general increase and an additional five-cents-an-hour for skilled and day-rate workers, at a membership meeting Thursday night.

Beer Truck Burns

COBOURG, Oct. 4—(ENS)—Caused by a static discharge while the driver was putting gas into the tank, a truck load of beer caught on fire this morning at Prentice's garage. The driver, Wilbert Anderson, of Brockville, tried to move the truck away from the garage but was driven back by the flames. Firemen battled the stiff blaze for about an hour before extinguishing it. The truck was badly damaged and the side of the garage and roof were scorched. The metal trailer protected the beer, 520 cases, but it is believed the heat will make it unfit for consumption.

Thrasher Breaks Man's Leg Caught In Belt

Caught by the belt of a thrashing machine, Leo McManus, 44, Lakefield, about 7:30 a.m. today had his right arm badly broken, his scalp gashed and his body considerably bruised.

His condition was described as "satisfactory" in St. Joseph's Hospital this morning.

McManus was working on the farm of Wilf Nicholls, on the Lakefield-Bridgenorth road about six miles west of Lakefield. He was helping with the thrashing. Several fellow workers were on hand to release him when the accident occurred.

Dr. Lloyd Bailey of Lakefield was called and he drove the man to hospital here.

Police Practise To Improve Shot

City police officers started Tuesday afternoon to practice revolver shooting in a gravel pit on a farm west of Lakefield on the Buckhorn road.

Chief John Thompson, not satisfied with the showing of his men at the Ajax police school last spring, initiated the revolver practice. At the school, the shooting of the Peterborough officers was no worse than other constables, most of them members of the Provincial Police Force.

Four constables went out and shot six rounds deliberate aim and six rounds rapid fire. Although no strict scoring was done, Constable Donald Jones turned in the best performance firing deliberate aim.

Sergeant William Aggas is in charge of the arrangements for the shooting. The police force hopes to hold weekly practice shooting in order that the constables become completely familiar with their weapons and become fairly proficient marksmen.

In the first group of men to try their hands at the practice shooting were Constables Donald Mackay, Victor McConnell, Louis Rodreque and Donald Jones. A second group also had a turn later in the afternoon.

Noted Breeder Former MLA Sam Staples Dies

Samuel Sanford Staples of Cavan township, a former member of the Legislature of Ontario, died suddenly of a heart attack at Newmarket about 1.30 a.m. today. He was recognized as an outstanding authority in the horse breeding industry of this county with special interest in the heavy draft breeds, particularly Clydesdales, and recently in the lighter classes.

Mr. Staples was associated with John Sanders of St. Thomas as inspector of stallions in the Central Ontario district No. 3, comprising ten counties from Hastings to Simcoe. This work for the Ontario Department of agriculture brought them to Peterborough county only last Friday, and they were continuing their itinerary through York this week.

Some weeks ago Mr. Staples had been confined to bed on the advice of his physician because of a heart condition, but since then had felt that he was able to carry on the round of inspections in which he was keenly interested. It was learned this morning that he was stricken at the hotel where he was staying, and died shortly after admission to York County Hospital at Newmarket.

Born in Cavan

Mr. Staples was born in Cavan township, son of the late Joseph F. Staples and his wife, Margaret Howden. Their home was about a mile west of Springville on the Ida road, but in recent years he had been living at the "Wayside," the Staples home on the Port Hope Highway, just south of Scott's Corners.

SAMUEL S. STAPLES

A graduate of Ontario Agricultural College where he specialized in animal husbandry, Mr. Staples had also taken a course at Peterborough Business College. In the provincial elections of 1919 he was nominated as a candidate of the United Farmers of Ontario in the old East Durham riding. He was one of the youngest members of the Legislature and of the government of which Hon. Ernest C. Drury was Premier.

Progressive Farm Home

Mr. Staples was brought up in a progressive farm home which featured Jersey cattle and heavy horses, and from his father he received a thoroughly practical training in the care and breeding of horses.

Further recognition of his knowledge and experience as a breeder was evidenced about four years ago when he was assigned a station of the Hunter Horse Society of Canada. Co-operation of the society and federal government set up a stud at his place for the development of the hunter class of horses in this area. Stallions included Sun Power which traced its thoroughbred lines to the great Sun Beau of the breeding farm of W. S. Kilmer in the United States, the imported San Isador which is understood to have originated in France, and one or two others.

Royal Winter Fair Director

Mr. Staples was a director of the Royal Winter Fair and chairman of its breeding horse committee for five years, retiring a year ago. He was a past president of both the Ontario and Canadian Clydesdale Horse Association, a member of the Ontario Horse Breeders' Association, and also of the Ontario stallion inspection board.

"We thought a great deal of Mr. Staples," said Douglas Wilson, of the Royal Winter Fair Board. "He was very dependable and an outstanding horseman." The members of the board will learn of his death with deep regret."

The local interests of Mr. Staples were devoted chiefly to the Peterborough Exhibition of which he had been a director; the Millbrook Fair as secretary manager until he retired in favor of Bruce Sargent, and he was also interested in the Lindsay Exhibition. He had also been associated for years with the Peterborough Jersey Breeders Association.

Sam Staples loved horses, and it grieved him to have to acknowledge that their place in agriculture had been largely subordinated to the mechanical tractor. He was also a natural showman with a flair for publicity and the winning of public attention and support that first bloomed in his provincial election campaign.

It has been recalled that somebody at that time dubbed him "Sammy The Kid" and he immediately assumed it for his own use.

Widely Known

Mr. Staples was an honorary member of Peterborough Kinsmen Club and had been general manager of their horse show for two years. He was widely known throughout the province, having judged heavy horses at many fairs and exhibitions. In his own community he had been a steward of Springville United Church.

The bereaved members of his family are his wife, the former Mildred Armstrong; daughters, Mrs. Thomas Chadsey (Mary) of Ottawa; Mrs. Eric Fallis (Velma), Millbrook; Mrs. Neil Huggins (Patricia), Mrs. Willon Wildman (Elinor), both of Peterborough; and Barbara, at home; and his sister Miss Helen Staples of Peterborough.

The body is resting at his late residence "Wayside" on the Peterborough-Port Hope Highway. Announcement of the funeral will be made later.

HERE'S ONE TURKEY that's staying on the good side—the outside. He's home free as far as Thanksgiving is concerned, though he might get the chop for Christmas. District turkey breeders and local butchers say there may be a shortage of the birds, but they'll still be cheaper than beef. Prices are expected to range from 59 to 70 cents a pound.

Turkeys Cheaper Than Beef Tho' Cold Causes Scarcity

Will there be plenty of turkeys for thanksgiving? Peterborough butchers gave various answers to this question today. "We expect to have a good supply of turkeys for Thanksgiving," one butcher remarked. Another said he believed that the cold damp weather will result in a scarcity of the big birds. "It's a bad year for turkeys," he said.

One breeder said "We won't have any turkeys for Thanksgiving. I understand some breeders have a few, but we won't have any ready until Christmas.

"I guess you could blame the shortage on the weather. It's been pretty damp and cold. Some breeders we knew have lost quite a few birds."

Most of the birds sold here will be freshly killed, and of the white variety. But if the fresh-killed supply runs out, orders will be filled with frozen birds.

Cheaper Than Beef

This weekend, it will be cheaper to eat turkey than beef—that is, if you get a turkey. Though beef prices have fallen and are expected to drop further this week end, prices are expected to remain above 70 cents a pound, the expected top price for turkeys. Turkeys will sell as low as 59 cents a pound.

For those who prefer other fowl for Thanksgiving, supplies of chickens, geese and ducks are good. Most of these fowl are frozen, and only a few will be freshly killed.

Chicken prices range from 45 to 60 cents a pound, while geese are expected to sell at 59 cents and ducks at 57 cents.

This Thanksgiving, the outlook may be as cold for turkey lovers as for the turkeys.

September Cool? Not On Average

It was a cool September, you think. Maybe so, but not as cool as last year, and here are the official Peterborough statistics to prove it.

The average for September 1949 was 55.2—1.2 degrees cooler than last month's average.

September '49 was more versatile: maximum temperature was 81 on the 4th, compared with this year's high of 77 on the 9th; minimum temperature also outdid September '50—25 degrees compared with the '50 figure of 34 degrees on the 17th.

September '49 had 2.92 inches of rain while the comparable month this year had only .96 inches.

Week's Notice To Vacate Market Stalls

Farmers selling on the market report that their tenancies have been reduced to one week on notice from City Clerk Outram.

For their information, also, is the action of the council Monday night in adopting the following recommendation of the board of works which was published a week ago.

"That the City Engineer be authorized to take all necessary action to prepare for the installation, on their delivery, of the parking meters on the former market square, and that this authority include the necessary asphalt surface for the square and any other works required to assure the successful operation of the square as a parking lot, and that any costs be charged to the property committee, and to be liquidated by the revenues from the meters set up on the market".

Other Market Site

Significant phrase in that quotation is "the former market square". One of these week-ends the pending producers are going to find that they are actually turned out of the old nest. It is understood of course that a substitute place is to be provided for them on the city property opposite the George St. wharf, but there is a considerable opinion in the city that farmers show no interest in securing a selling spot for themselves, that only a handful of them ever responded to the city council's invitations in the past to discuss marketing questions, and finally that it is about time the market square turned an expense into a revenue for the city taxpayers.

According to the Monday night action, City Engineer Chalmers is now ordered to get ready for the arrival of the parking meters at the back door of his office.

To Widen Street

The council accepted an offer from James F. Dunn to convey a 33-foot strip of land to provide for the proposed widening and opening of Ford St., south of Frank St., at a nominal price.

James Withers was given an encroachment license for that part of Gilchrist St. on which his garage building encroaches as shown by a survey made by J. G. Pierce, Aug. 23, 1950.

A special committee appointed to arrange for conversion of the horse barn at the city yard Townsend St. into a garage is authorized to proceed with the work of alterations after obtaining plans and specifications, and ordering materials. It is understood that the building is to be used chiefly for repair and maintenance of trucks and cars used in the civic departments.

At the same time there will be an open-air service attended by members of the British legion and soldiers still stationed nearby.

Isadore Black Council Chairman

Isadore Black is the new chairman of the Peterborough Service Club Council. A representative from the B'nai B'rith lodge, Mr. Black succeeds James Marshall of the Lions Club, last year's chairman.

The chairmanship is held in rotation among the member service clubs.

The council was set up to ensure co-operation among the clubs and eliminate overlapping in projects.

Mayor Max J. Swanston installed Mr. Black and complimented the council for its part in sponsoring Brotherhood Week in Peterborough.

Mr. Marshall reviewed the year's activities and stated that one of the major accomplishments was establishing a schedule among the various clubs for the street sale of raffle tickets.

Gil Downer of the Red Patch club applied for membership in the council. The decision was left in abeyance.

The office of Secretary treasurer is vacant and is to be filled by an appointee of the Optimists club. Miss Grace Sargent of the Soroptimist club is the retiring secretary treasurer.

Dominion Census Preview In City To Give Picture Of Business Distribution

Peterborough is to have a preview of the regular decadal census scheduled for 1951. Beginning October 1 enumerators will canvass city retailers, wholesalers, and businesses offering public services, to obtain a local census of distribution. In 1951 there will be a complete census, covering population, housing, as well as distribution. Purpose of this "trial census" in Peterborough is to test new techniques and procedures to be tried in the '51 survey.

Like a professional sports team the enumerators correct their faults from lessons learned in an "exhibition game" before the schedule opens. Other Canadian localities are having a "test census" of population or housing. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics will analyze the results and thus ensure an efficient census next year.

Only Canadian City

Peterborough is the only Canadian city to be checked on retail wholesale and service businesses. The city was chosen, a bureau spokesman said, because it is a representative community. It is composite and has a diversity of business comparable to a metropolitan city.

The "services" include garages, repair shops, laundries, commercial sporting facilities, advertising agencies and business service organizations. Not included in this census will be manufacturing plants, financial institutions (banks, insurance, real estate), hospitals, schools, churches, public utilities, transportation facilities, contractors and professional people.

The enumerators will be prepared to check about 120 kinds of retail business, 60 to 70 wholesale and 125 categories of services. Peterborough is not large enough to have all of these categories of business, but there should be a fair cross-section, enough to test the efficiency of the census-taking technique.

Four Enumerators

Four enumerators are being hired through the National Employment Service and they will check businesses for details of the particular establishment: name and address of the proprietor, address of the head office, kind of business, and its volume of trade.

In accordance with the Statistics Act of 1947, all enumerators will be required to take an oath of secrecy. And each will carry an identification card showing that he is on the official business of the Dominion Statistician.

Commenting on the four-and-a-half-day census of "distribution" businesses in the city, a bureau official summed up:

"These new methods are more economical and efficient and are undertaken so the cost of the 1951 country-wide census will be cut to a minimum."

The business man benefits directly, because the results of these surveys are released regularly by the bureau.

Accident Costs Equal Sum Of Baby Bonuses

Cost of accident claims throughout Canada equals the sum paid out in baby bonuses, R. G. D. Anderson, newly appointed general manager of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association, told members of the Peterborough-Lindsay division Tuesday at the Kawartha Club. This was the first meeting of the 1950-51 season.

Mr. Anderson also stated that the hidden cost of an accident was four times the initial cost due to loss in wages, loss of production and broken equipment.

The new president, C. J. Cameron, received the gavel from Harry Baptie of the Western Clock Company.

C. H. Kerscher, assistant secretary and director of safety for the CGE in Toronto, brought good wishes for the success of the Peterborough-Lindsay division of the Association.

Lou Ingram, vice-president of the Quaker Oats Company, introduced Mr. Anderson.

County Tax Sale Realizes $4,307

Total sale price for lots auctioned at Tuesday's county tax sale was $4,037.46. Bidding was good and the sale price was in line with other years, though $161.35 less than the 1949 figure.

Lots sold are those that have fallen behind in tax payment.

Owners whose lands have been bid for can redeem them up to a year after. There is no profit made by the county. If the land is not redeemed the county clerk and treasurer holds the money, minus the amount for taxes, in a separate account. After seven years it is distributed among the municipalities.

Minimum Of Labor

DELBURNE, Alta. — (CP) — Some farmers can't do anything wrong. In 1948, a barley crop was sown and harvested near here. Last year a good volunteer crop came through from seed accidentally scattered the year before, although the land was due to be summerfallowed. This year, another volunteer crop is under way, and looks as though it may be the heaviest of the three.

Shopping Bag Affected By Dollar Change

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The Canadian housewife as she picks up her shopping bag these days may wonder what it is all about—this talk of a Canadian dollar being worth 95 cents American instead of a previous 90 —or worth some changed number of shillings.

To her and the man who brings home the pay cheque it's the same dollar as it was last weekend.

Perhaps some consideration of the Canadian dollar both within and outside of Canada will help. First, within Canada:

A dollar within Canada is in one sense an unchanging thing; and in another sense it changes every day.

It is unchanging in the sense that it always has 100 Canadian cents in it. But it changes in the sense that it's value within Canada is what it will buy within Canada, and that is never quite the same; it varies as the price of eggs varies and the multitude of other things which make up the cost of living. Some days it will buy more; some days less.

Affected By Exchange

This internal value is not tied directly to foreign exchange, though it is affected by it.

Now, let's take the dollar outside of Canada, for that's where foreign exchange and talk of 95 cents American and so many shillings, francs, pesos, comes in.

These countries want to buy from us; we want to buy from them. To buy from us they must get Canadian dollars; to buy from them we must get their currencies. Just as your desire for groceries must be expressed in money, so their desire to buy from us must be expressed in money—our money; and vice-versa.

If they want our goods badly enough they will bid for our money until it is forced up in price. And just now our goods (which includes products, investments, services), are wanted badly enough that our dollar is increasing in value over what it was worth to other countries a short time ago.

Now, let's take the Canadian dollar both inside and outside our country:

If we had a big wall around us and had nothing to do with other peoples, then the price of meat, for instance, would depend upon how much we produced and how many of us were trying to buy it.

Deal With Others

But fortunately for us, because we have built ourselves up by trade, we have a great deal to do with other people. So the price of meat depends not only on how much we produce and how much we want it, but also on how much other people want it. If Americans, for instance, are willing to pay more for it than we are paying, then our meat producers send it to the United States unless we want to meet the American price.

And how does a Canadian dollar worth 95 cents American affect this situation differently from a dollar worth 90 cents American?

Keeping meat as an example, it will make our meat dearer in the United States, and to that extent less attractive to buy, which may mean that more will be left in Canada.

MP Declares Canada Has Lost Standing

VANCOUVER, Oct. 4 (CP). — Howard Green, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Vancouver-Quadra, said on Tuesday night Canada has "lost standing and has been humiliated in the United States" because she has not sent ground troops into the Korean fight.

In a speech prepared for delivery on the CBC free-time political series, "The Nation's Business," Mr. Green said: "We have been made to appear a people who talk big in conferences, but hang back when there is fighting to be done."

Liberal Candidate Ruled Elected

OTTAWA, Oct. 4 — (CP) — Maurice Breton, Liberal candidate in the Joliette-L'Assomption-Montcalm federal by-election set for Oct. 16, has been declared elected as of Tuesday.

Nelson Gastonguay, chief electoral officer, said that Mr. Breton had been declared elected following withdrawal of his only opponent—Wilfrid Guertin, an Independent.

The withdrawal of Mr. Guertin was announced in Joliette by returning officer A. Belanger.

Mr. Breton and Mr. Guertin were the only persons to file papers in Joliette Monday before nominations closed for the by-election, one of four set for Oct. 16. The others are in Montreal St. Mary's, the Quebec constituency of Rimouski and the Ontario constituency of Welland.

As a result of Breton's election the Commons standing is:

Liberals, 184; Progressive Conservatives, 43; CCF, 13; Social Credit, 10; Independent, five; Independent Liberal, three; vacant, four, total, 262.

He gave no reason for his withdrawal, but it was believed to be due to recent criticism of judges acting as conciliators in labor-management disputes. The Canadian Bar Association at its meeting in Washington last ing the practice.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Would Include Cherish Pledge In Civil Marriage

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 4. (CP) — Incalculable danger in civil marriages, performed by judge or magistrate without a covenant, being unsuccessful is seen by the executive committee of the Anglican Synod of the Diocese of Huron.

In a resolution addressed to the provincial government the executive expresses grave danger and apprehension regarding the form of civil marriage as outlined in the Marriage Act of 1950.

The act decrees that no particular form of ceremony shall be required, except that there shall be witnesses, and that both parties shall declare there is no lawful impediment why they should not be married.

Need Dignity

Explaining that it does not take exception to the institution of civil marriage, the synod executive states that it is convinced the minimum form required should be "dignified, should emphasize and set forth the importance and solemnity of the act, and should require from each of the contracting parties an undertaking to maintain those standards."

The executive asks the government to enlarge the minimum ceremony to include " a promise by each of the contracting parties to the other to love and cherish, and to be faithful to his or her spouse, to the exclusion of all others, as long as they both shall live."

While a covenant may be implied in the act of marriage, the executive submits that "to rely on an unstated implication, in a contract of such grave importance, not only to the parties themselves, but to the children who may be born of the union, is a course fraught with incalculable danger."

Jobs For Over-45s Few and Far Apart

HALIFAX —(CP)— Workers over 45 years of age are having a tough time getting jobs here.

J. K. Macdonald, manager of the National Employment Service here, said recently that the task of finding employment for workers over that age is a real problem and is becoming more serious every day.

He claimed that employers who prefer younger men and women as workers have seriously endangered the position of any person over 45 in trying getting a job.

1950 Fruit Crop Showing Drop

TORONTO, Oct. 4 — (CP). — Estimates of Ontario fruit crops for 1950 are down in all fruits except grapes and strawberries, Agriculture Department statistics show.

Pears show the largest drop from 1949—35 per cent. Apples plums and prunes are down about 25 per cent, cherries, peaches and raspberries lesser amounts.

Grapes show the largest increase—82 per cent. Strawberries are up 60 per cent.

Hail in the Niagara district is given as a major cause of the decline. Weather conditions have been generally good for Ontario vegetables, with cabbage, cauliblower, beets and turpips making the best showing, with the prospect of high wields of good quality.

Announce UK Dollar Reserves Have Doubled Since Devaluation

LONDON, Oct. 4. (AP) — Britain announced Tuesday its gold and dollar reserves have more than doubled since it devalued the pound a year ago.

A Treasury statement said the reserves soared $334,000,000 in the last three months. This increase brought the fund—the international working capital of the sterling area—to $2,756,000,000.

Just before the pound was devalued from $4.03 to $2.80 in terms of US currency Sept. 18, 1949, the reserves were down to $1,340,000,000.

For the third successive quarter Britain and its sterling area partners earned more dollars than they spent, the Treasury said. In the three months ending Sept. 30 the surplus was $187,000,000 — compared with $180,000,000 in the second quarter of the year and $40,000,000 in the first quarter.

Marshall Aid benefits contributed $147,000,000 to the latest jump.

The Treasury statement came as speculation continued in many western capitals that Britain may soon increase the dollar value of sterling.

Rumors in the press and financial circles suggest the government may be thinking of increasing the pound 10 per cent to $3.08 in US funds. Before it was slashed 30 per cent to $2.80 the pound stood for 10 years at $4.04 in relation to US currency.

A main reason for the sustained improvement of the reserve position is said to be the sterling area countries' dollar-saving program. A year ago these countries — Britain, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Ceylon, India, the Republic of Ireland, Burma, Iraq and Iceland — agreed to cut dollar spending by one-quarter.

Another factor has been the increased earnings from the strategic materials which Commonwealth countries produce. Because of the rearmament drive, prices of wool, rubber, tin and various metals have been soaring.

Henrich Turns Down Offer As Manager of NY Yankees

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4—(AP)—Because his passion for his family is far greater than his love for baseball, Tommy Henrich was prepared today to sacrifice a chance to become manager of the New York Yankees.

The 34 year old outfielder-first baseman, in a surprise disclosure, declared he had no managerial ambition whatsoever. One of the brainiest and most popular players ever to wear a Yankee uniform, Henrich generally was regarded as Casey Stengel's successor.

"I have no managerial aspirations," Tommy stated flatly last night on the eve of the world series. "I have no aspirations to become manager of the Yankees. And I most certainly don't want to manage in the minor leagues. I've struggled through years in the minors. I'll never go back, no matter what."

He added:

"This is the way I look at it. I've been playing baseball for 17 years. I'm not getting any younger. It's time I began to think of my happiness and the happiness of my family.

"I have a wonderful wife and three children. They mean all the world to me. Sure, I love baseball. Sure I owe it a lot. But I love my family more and I owe more to my family."

Henrich said he'd welcome a job in baseball. "But not one that will keep me away from my family. Being a manager means staying away from home. I don't want that. I've spent seven months out of every year away from my family. That's much too much."

Tom said he'd jump at the chance to join the Yankee front office "provided it's a responsible position that would meet with my capabilities."

Playing Days Over

Tommy realizes better than anyone else that his playing days are just about over. He received a hint of it Tuesday when he received the bad news from Stengel that he had been placed on the world series ineligible list to make room for Johnny Hopp.

Tom was benched nearly the entire season by a bad knee. It is believed the injury has ended his big league career.

In characteristic Henrich fashion, he defended Stengel's move to replace him in the series with another veteran first-baseman.

"The knee gives me fits," he said. "I can't hit. I can't run. Hopp can do everything better than I. So why shouldn't he play instead of me."

Despite the bad knee and other injuries that plagued him all season, Henrich was a prominent force in the Yankees' pennant victory. He hit only .272 in 72 games, mostly as a pinch hitter. But he drove in 34 runs, hit six home runs, three in pinch hit roles and won several games with timely hits.

Plan a Really Attractive Thanksgiving Dinner Menu

By MARY MOORE

For this dinner we give thanks:

Thanksgiving Dinner No. 1

Cantaloupe and White Grape Cocktail
Stuffed Roast Capon
Apple Jelly
Autumn Succotash (see notes)
Parsley Potato Balls
Gherkins Radish Roses
Peach Meringue Pie (see notes)

Thanksgiving Dinner No. 2

Cream of Tomato Soup with Curry
Roast Leg of Lamb
Mint Apple Jelly
Franconia White Potatoes
Stuffed Celery Ripe Olives
Pumpkin Pie with unsweetened Whipped Cream and Strained Honey
Coffee

✧ ✧ ✧

Directions

Believe it or not a farmer's wife said to me, after I enquired the prospects and prices of turkey for Thanksgiving, "The turkey's aren't ripe yet."

So naturally, thinking she ought to know her business, I respectively suggest using chicken or lamb. Who wants an underripe turkey, anyway?

Succotash is a favorite with me and looks so pretty when you lift the lid of the vegetable dish: half an half fresh kernel corn cut from the cob and baby fresh limas mixed with a little chopped pimiento. Boil the limas until tender, drain; add to the corn which has cooked in top of double boiler with cream and butter for about 10 minutes. Add the pimientoes and salt and pepper to taste.

Take your nerve in hand and try this salad. For those who like distinctive flavors it is a great favorite: one-half head of lettuce, pulled apart with fingers, one-quarter cucumber cut in wafer thin half-slices with skin on, ½ cup wafer thin slices celery, ½ cup little shoe string pieces of cheddar cheese, ½ cup sardines cut in ½-inch pieces, 1 tomato cut in wafer thin slices. At the last moment before dinner is announced moisten this with French Dressing in which a clove of garlic has stood over night. (Do not let the garlic get into the salad though.) Put in wooden salad bowl, and put a generous border of tomato wedges around, and between them tuck a sprig of parsley.

If, to save time, you use canned tomato soup, it makes it interesting if you add some curry powder, just a little, and if you have a half cup of left-over cooked rice, toss it in too, and heat through .

Glazed Sweet Potatoes

Pat pared and halved sweet potatoes in well buttered baking dish. Add mixture of ½ cup corn syrup or ¾ cup brown sugar and ¼ cup hot water and 2 tablespoons butter. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. covered for 1 hour, turning and basting occasionaly.

✧ ✧ ✧

Philadelphia Pumpkin Pie

Two cups strained pumpkin, 3 eggs, yolks and whites separated, 1 cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon each salt, nutmeg, ginger, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, ⅛ teaspoon each cloves, allspice, 3 cups scalded whole milk. To pumpkin add yolks sugar, salt, and spices and mix. Add milk and fold in stiffly beaten whites. Pour into pastry-lined deep pie plate. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then at 320 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes or until custard is set and slightly golden. Serve cooled a little with a small mound of whipped cream on each piece with 1 teaspoon honey dropped in centre.

DOROTHY DIX

One Case Where Spanking Brought Wife to Senses

DEAR MISS DIX: Laugh if you must, but here is a spanked wife who loves her husband. I was the kind of a wife who, blessed with and adoring and perfect husband and three lovely children, thought more of parties and other men than she did of her duty to her family. My house was sadly neglected and my husband and the maid had all the care of home and children. One night the worm turned. My husband followed me to a party and after severely beating the man I was with, brought me home. When we got in he sat down on the first chair he spied and turned me over his knee and paddled me soundly. It was a very painful and embarrassing experience for me, but angry as I was I could see that he was doing right, and from that time I have been a real wife and mother. I loathe a wife-beater, but I think any husband has the right to spank a philandering wife before she goes too far. It cured me and I am glad it happened to me. Am I right or wrong in my belief?

Dorothy Dix

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The proof of the pudding is in the eating, says the old proverb, and if a good spanking brought you to your senses and kept you from wrecking your home it was evidently the remedy indicated for the occasion.

Some Women Need It

Like you, I am violently opposed to wife-beating, but every now and then I come across some woman who is simply crying out loud for a good thrashing. She is acting like a spoiled child and needs to be desciplined like a child. You know the kind of woman I mean. Women with lots of good in them, but who are faultfinding and complaining and never satisfied with anything; women who won't settle down, but who insist on running around to parties every night; women who keep their husbands in debt with their extravagance; women who neglect their homes, their husbands and their children.

These women are selfish, self-willed and determined to have their own way, and they get away with murder because their husbands are so afraid of scenes, but practically every one of them could be turned into a good wife if the men to whom they are married had nerve enough to make them behave themselves. Not necessarily by corporal punishment, though undoubtedly there are many cases in which a razor strop would save a divorce.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I have a very dear friend in another state who wants to take our boy of 14 and educate him and give him a father's care in every way possible. My husband's work takes him away from home nearly all the time, and our son is at an age when he needs a man's guidance. This friends has always loved boys and has no children. He is devoted to our son. He is highly educated and a man of fine character. But this is our problem: His wife is violently opposed to his taking our boy. Says it will break into the privacy of her home. The man says he sees all his life's ambition in the future of our child and wants to keep him in spite of his wife's objections. But I do not want to be the means of coming between a man and his wife.

PUZZLED WIFE

ANSWER: If the wife objects to her husband taking the child, that settles the question, so far as you are concerned. Nothing that the man could possibly give the boy would compensate for the misery he would undergo in a home where he was the source of discord between a husband and wife.

You could not hope that such a woman would treat the boy with even common kindness, to say nothing of giving him any love and tenderness and understanding. What a child needs far more than anything money would buy him are just these things particularly at his time of life. For at 14 boys are enigmas, even to themselves. They are hard to control. Difficult to live with. And they need mothering far more than they did when they were babes.

Far, far better to keep your boy with you. He is your responsibility and you haven't the right to pass the buck to anyone else. Don't regret that you can't give him as much money and as many indulgences as this man can. You can give him love and a peaceful home. And that's the best thing that any child can have.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Should a person contemplating matrimony inform the intended wife or husband that there is insanity in her or his family before the marriage takes place, or should this be kept a secret until after the marriage?

UNCERTAIN

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Every law of decency and honor demands that any man or woman who is marrying should tell the prospective wife or husband of anything that could affect the success of their marriage.

Fall Fashions Go For Glamor

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK —(AP)— New York custom designer showings of the last few weeks have stressed heavily the theme of feminine allure, with maximum exposure and kleig light glitter.

Lille Dache, exponent of glamor with a capital "G", announces the inspiration of her collection as the age of chivalry, when strong men went marching off to war, subsisting on memories of the languishing women they left behind—women attired, mind you, not in tailored suits and sensible shoes, but in filmy floating draperies revealing more than they concealed.

Such is the theme of the upper-crust designers, and such, consequently, will be the theme of the mass-production boys and girls as soon as copies can get into the works.

Mme. Dache, who now does head-to-toe costumes in addition to hats, shows cocktail and evening outfits loaded with glitter, up to and including sequin-embroidered stockings.

Her most dramatic hat is a strictly vampirish model with a "portcullis" veil, designed to shadow the eyes in wicked mystery.

Dramatic Number

Esther Dorothy, designer of exotic furs, tops the season with a for evening gown. This is a strapless affair made of sleek black broadtail with a ruffle of black lace edging the low decolletage. It is worn with a thick rope of white ermine, which the model wears slung about her shoulders, hips or waist as the fancy strikes her.

Miss Dorothy also likes one-sleeved stoles of such luxury furs as mink or ermine, worn over one shoulder, exposing the other, which preferably is bare. The designer advises women to wear their furs "any way except the way they are made." Jackets, she says, should be worn with only one sleeve on, the other draped casually off the shoulder. Stoles should never be worn merely around the neck, but should be draped, wrapped or even dragged.

Hair Dyed to Match

A sensation of her showing is bright red overcoat of clipped fox, worn by a model with green hair. That's right, green hair. Miss Dorothy thinks hair should be dyed to match or contrast with the costume. She wears her own in a deep navy blue tone.

For evening wear, designers are advocating very little above the waist, but billowing layers of cloth and crinoline below. Some of the skirts shown on evening gowns would have difficulty getting through an average doorway, and employ hoops, stiffening and padding to achieve the desired girth.

Hattie Carnegie, Saphie and Dior are among the designers favoring these Civil War skirts after dark.

Even shoes fallow the trend. Shoes for afternoon and evening wear this winter will have jeweled heels, braid embroidery and every kind of frippery in the book, to make women's feet look fragile and expensive.

The jeweled stockings are in line with the rest of the parade. They are shown with sequin clocks or embroidered all over in spangles of various hues, polka-dot fashion.

It looks like a glitter season.

Of Interest to Women

STREUSEL KUCHEN is so versatile that it will do equally well for breakfast, lunch, dinner or midnight buffet.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Can Use Mashed Potatoes In Recipe for Coffee Cake

For many delicious coffee cake recipes you must see "250 Delectable Dessert Recipes," the latest book in The Examiner's series of twenty-four Culinary Arts Institute Cookbooks. This Dessert book is full of tempting, unusual and yet simple ideas for desserts, ranging from fruit desserts, through all the various kinds of custards, mousses, refrigerator desserts, cakes and steamed puddings.

Every homemaker at one time or another wants to make good coffee cake and here is an excellent start:

Streusel Kuchen

1 cup Sugar
5 cups sifted Flour
1 Yeast Cake, softened in ½ cup lukewarm water
2 Eggs, well beaten
1 teaspoon Salt
½ cup Mashed Potatoes
½ cup Potato Water
½ cup Shortening, melted

Mix potatoes, potato water, shortening and ½ cup sugar together. Add 3½ cups flour and softened yeast. Let rise in warm place overnight or until doubled in bulk. Add eggs, salt, remaining sugar and flour; beat thoroughly and let stand in warm place until light. Roll out 1 inch thick and place in greased round or oblong pans. Let rise until doubled in bulk, then spread with melted butter and a mixture of:

1 cup sifted Flour
½ cup Sugar
1 Egg Yolk, well beaten

Rub mixture through a coarse sieve over top of cake. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Makes 3 kuchen.

Mix 1 teaspoon cinnamon and 1/3 cup slivered almonds with streusel mixture.

Sprinkle 1/3 cup slivered almonds and 1/3 cup chopped candied cherries over streusel.

The Dessert book is full of so many ideas that you will certainly want to treat your family to the pleasure of new and different desserts to spruce up your meals. All you need do to obtain the Dessert Book is clip a coupon from any issue of this newspaper and present it with 25 cents to The Examiner Office, your Examiner carrier or Braund's Home Food Markets. Or if you wish to order your copy by mail, send 30 cents (5c additional for postage and handling) and the coupon to Cookbook Department, Examiner, Peterborough.

Buy two packages of Cow Brand Baking Soda at a time. The extra one is so handy in the medicine chest and costs only a few cents. Free booklet of new uses on request to Church & Dwight Limited, Sun Life Bldg., Montreal.

6—In Memoriams

CARL—In loving memory of Betty Carl, who passed away October 4, 1949.
However long our lives may last,
Whatever lands we view,
Whatever joy or grief be ours,
We will always think of you.
—Lovingly remembered by Beverley and Joan Reynolds.

CARL—In memory of Betty Carl, who passed away October 4, 1949.
There the buds from earth transplanted,
For our coming watch and wait
In the upper garden growing,
Just within the pearly gate.
Though our hearts may break with sorrow,
By the grief so hard to bear,
We shall meet her some bright morning,
In the upper garden there.
—Ever remembered by her mother, step-father, brothers and sisters.

CARL: In loving memory of a dear friend, Betty Carl, who passed away one year ago today.
What would I give to clasp her hand,
Her patient face to see,
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more,
In heaven, that happy life.
—Shirley Bloom.

McFARLAND—In loving memory of a dear uncle, Joseph McFarland, who passed away October 4, 1947.
God took him home,
It was His will,
But in our hearts
He liveth still.
—Ever remembered by niece and nephews, Violet, Bert, Gerald and Douglas Edwards.

McFARLAND—In loving memory of dear brother, Joseph McFarland, who passed away October 4, 1947.
Sweet memories will linger forever,
Time cannot change them, it's true;
Years that may come cannot sever
Our loving remembrance of you.
—Ever remembered by Robert and May McFarland and family.

MENZIES—In loving memory of a dear mother, Eliza Adelaide, who passed away Oct. 9, 1941, and a dear father, Charles V. Menzies, who departed this life Oct. 4, 1949.
One by one they go before us,
They are fading like the dew,
But we know they're watching o'er us,
They the good, the fair, the true,
They are waiting for us only,
Where no pain can ever mar,
Dear ones who left us lonely
Watch us through the gates ajar.
There a mother, there a father,
Gone within those gates ajar.
—Ever remembered by family.

Fire Destroys $5,000 Of Grain And Machinery

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 4.—A large driveshed containing farm machinery, tractor and automobile as well as over 2,000 bushels of grain, was burned Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gunn, four miles west of Bellevile on No. 2 Highway. The loss is estimated at $5,000.

Also lost in the blaze was one of a team of horses quartered in the building. Origin of the blaze, which started in the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Gunn, was unknown.

An unidentified passing motorist was first to notice the flames. He ran to the barn and managed to free one of the horses which escaped with severe burns, but could not get near the second animal.

Then the motorist ran to the house, and breaking open the door, telephoned the alarm. By that time others had gathered, but were unable to save the auto, tractor or other farm equipment.

Firemen Race There

The Belleville fire department, under Fire Chief Gerald Vance, raced to the scene with two pumpers and were successful in saving the large frame house situated only 40 feet away.

The frame siding of the house was scorched and firemen had to continually wet the sides down to prevent it catching fire. Fortunately the little wind which was blowing carried embers away from the house.

Farm Cistern Used

A small outbuilding used as storage for drums of gasoline for use in the farm tractor caught fire, but this was extinguished. The large cistern in the Gunn home was used to good stead to replenish the water in the fire pumper tanks, but firemen also pumped water from the bay to extinguish the fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Gunn had been at Peterborough for the day and returned home shortly after five o'clock to find their driveshed ablaze with their farm machinery and year's grain crop lost. It was the largest crop of grain threshed on the Gunn farm in many years.

Very little hay was lost in the blaze as this was stacked in a nearby field. The original Gunn barn had blown down some years ago and the large driveshed was used in its place.

The Gunn hired man was milking the cows in another building and did not know of the fire until he heard the commotion.

Tourist Office At Lindsay Busy Season

Of the 650 requests for route information at the Lindsay Tourist Information Bureau during the past summer season, 200 were to do with the Kawarthas, according to Deputy-Reeve Ada Greaves, chairman of the tourist committee.

Fifty summer resorts and 26 overnight homes were listed with the bureau and it was found that Onio people led the American tourist group by a large majority. Michigan, New York State and Pennsylvania people were well up on the list as well as fewer numbers from other States and six provinces of Canada, besides Ontario residents.

Chairman Greaves in her report to the Town Council said recently that response to the bureau indicated that it rendered a desirable and important service to the community. The brief sketch and maps of Lindsay and Victoria County introduced this year would, she hoped, serve as an introduction to a more complete publication.

Much credit was given to attendant Marjorie Coombs for the efficient operation of the bureau. Many favourable comments from resort operators and general travelling public were made during the summer.

EDMONTON — (CP) — A lumber-yard employee nearly got away with forging checks worth $1,600. After they were cashed, he disappeared. Police only caught up with him when he applied for a job in England and absent-mindedly gave the Edmonton lumber yard as a reference.

House-Building Increases, Costs Up Too

Building permits issued during September at the city engineer's office reveal that there is an increase both in the number of dwellings being built in the city and the estimated average cost.

In September of this year 39 building permits were issued with the average cost of each dwelling approximately $9,400. During this month last year, 21 permits were issued. The approximate average of each dwelling was $6,460.

The majority of these dwellings, 25, are being constructed by the Cobourg Lumber Co. Ltd. on Devon and Brunswick avenue. They are expected to be completed on June 21, 1951. They range in cost from $8,500 to $10,500.

Three dwellings at an estimated cost of $9,000 each will be constructed on Juliet Rd. The contractor is R McEachern and the owner, Sands and Bateman.

Other Houses

The remainder of the permits were issued for single dwellings to J. S. Munroe on Weller St.; F. C. Frost, Engleburn Place; Misses L. and C. Kennedy, Bonaccord St.; Oscar Dumonlin Howden St.; Ethel E. Young Riverside Drive; Ray Irwin, Sherbrooke St.; Jack Buchanan, Sherbrooke St.; Neil S. Sark, Ford St.; R. S. Fuller, Hastings St.; C. B. Muir, Gordon Ave.; Robert Aman, Aberdeen Ave.

Nova Scotian Coast Heads Tourist's List of 'Best Views'

By JACK SCOTT

HALIFAX, N.S. — We've been looking back along the lipstick trail to make up a list of Canada's Best Views.

Our route across country is marked by a bold line of lip rouge (Stormy Pink), on a large map thumb-tacked to the trailer's ceiling, which was the only available space. It's studied best from a prone position on the couch which automatically makes me chief map-reader.

Well, of course, any such list has pretty severe limitations. It's a purely personal selection, covers only the narrow band of the country we saw, is frequently prejudiced by weather conditions and our morale when viewed, and does not include the Gaspe Peninsula or Cape Breton Island, which most people who've travelled extensively in Canada agree is the choice of all scenery. We had to skip them this time because we ran out of summer.

We're all agreed that the most spectacular and breath-taking vista of our particular travels is right here; or, rather, a few miles below Halifax around the region of Peggy's Cove where the open Atlantic rolls in with all its power and glory.

All of today was spent down there, alternating between the small, craggy coves each like an idealized water-color, and the open rock shore where this stormiest of oceans sweeps in, curls and crashes in soray.

This was a windy, bright September day and the Atlantic was an incredible blue, a sight to make your spirits soar.

We had a lunch of sandwiches in a calm and tiny cove where the aged piers and lobster pots and fishing boats all seemed meticulously arranged for any visiting landscape artists, then drove out to a promontory and walked down to within the orbit of the flying spray where we stood, leaning into the wind, and letting the roar of the ocean work its hypnotism.

The Lakes

Next to this Atlantic panorama I'd put the view from the middle of Vancouver's Lions' Gate Bridge out to the Gulf of Georgia. Sentimentally, of course, that would head the list, but I'm bound to report that in all the years I've lived beside the Pacific I've never seen it with the depth of color or the sheer grandeur of this ocean.

Any list of favorite trans-Canada views would have to include a favorite lake and that, again, is largely a matter of personal experience.

In our own case, each of the hundreds of beautiful lakes on either side of the highway through Northwestern Ontario would qualify. They are not only exquisite gems of coloring, but when you've come across the dry, dusty prairies, almost any blue water-hole is a treat.

Still, I think the most beautiful lake of all is Lake Kalamalka, just outside Vernon, BC, which is named for the Indian word meaning "many colors" and is well-nigh unbelievable. Secondly, I think, would come the Lake of the Woods, which we hated to leave behind.

There was a thrill, too, in coming over the crown of a hill and getting our first sight of Lake Superior just before sundown with Port Arthur and Fort William standing like an etching in the foreground and the great inland sea stretching away to the horizon.

Another case of a view dramatized by the time of day, and, too, by meteorological factors, was our unforgettable first glimpse of Regina.

In this case there had been a violent thunderstorm. The sun broke through in the early dusk and everything seemed suddenly to be in an unearthly focus so that you could almost count the leaves on a cottonwood a mile away. Then we saw Regina in the distance, standing as if it grew out of the grain fields and with the sun turning the tall buildings into golden castles.

On the whole, however, the prairies' kind of scenery appealed to us only for the sense of space and sky it gives and is not so much a memory of a view, but a feeling.

And Man-Made

Our vote for the most attractive man-made object is, of course, the Houses of Parliament with Quebec's Chateau Frontenac coming second. The best view of the captial is from Hull, across the river, and the best of the Chateau is from the ferry that plies the St. Lawrence to the town of Levis.

As for lofty vistas, I'd put first the mountain goat's view from the lookout on Mount Revelstoke, looking across to the glacier of Mount Begbie and sharply down into the town of Revelstoke and the Columbia River, a scene with a very Swiss flavor to it. Next would be the magnificent green valleys and peaks of the Rockies, seen from the top of the chair lift of Mount Norquay at Banff.

The farm country we thought easiest on the eyes was down the St. Lawrence from Quebec, very Continental and, I suppose, backward, but very beautiful, too, in the tidy simplicity of the farm buildings, almost always with bright flower gardens about them.

The view which gave us the deepest emotional feeling toward Canada would be, I think, from a point a few miles west of High River, Alberta, where we parked the car one early summer's day on a country road and looked west to the green foothills and beyond, the mauve-blue bulk of the Rockies and then, looking east, saw the fields of ripening grain stretching away to where the land meets the sky and for more than a thousand miles beyond.

There's a lot that's ugly along that lipstick trail, mind you, but, even in the short-term retrospect, it's surprising how you remember—and vividly—only the things of beauty.

Lord Elgin May Give Papers To Archives

OTTAWA, Oct. 4 (CP) — Lord Elgin is stopping at the Lord Elgin today.

The grandson of the man who governed Canada from 1847 to 1854—and got pelted with rotten eggs by a Montreal mob—came to town for discussions with CBC officials.

He is staying at the hotel which was named for his grandfather, governor of an important era between the 1837 insurrections and confederation and a big name in the evolution to Canadian responsible government.

The present Lord Elgin told a reporter he thinks many valuable letters and papers that came down from his grandfather will eventually go to the Canadian Archives. But there is nothing immediate about it, he said.

Howe Believes Dollar Will Continue To Rise

WINNIPEG, Oct. 4 — (CP)— Trade Minister Howe Tuesday expressed confidence the Canadian dollar will continue to rise and "perhaps eventually" reach par with the United States dollar.

He said he is looking forward to a decline in the cost of living with the rise in the Canadian dollar's international value.

The only way to find the proper value of the dollar was "to let it free to find its own level." It has been "undervalued" at 90 cents.

Placing the Canadian dollar on the open market would "bring down the price of everything valued on the American dollar"—such things as coal, petroleum, wheat and meat.

Man Convicted On Lesser Count

HAMILTON, Oct. 4—(CP)—A charge of attempted murder, laid against John Matetich, 34, was dropped today and he was sentenced to three years on three lesser charges.

Matetich was charged with trying to kill two unwed mothers, Betty Albert and Ann Boyko. The lessers charges were of having possession of a firearm capable of being concealed and two of administering "a noxious thing" to the girls.

Miss Albert, 23, said in court yesterday that Matetich is the father of her child.

She and Miss Boyko testified that Matetich drove them to a lonely road and offered them a choice of dying by gas or a gun. The three got into the front seat of the automobile and Matetich started the motor, Miss Albert said.

All three passed out from fumes piped from the exhaust. When she regained consciousness the car motor had stopped. Matetich appeared ill and asked Miss Boyko to go for a doctor. When she had gone Matetich threw a gun into the bushes, Miss Albert said. Matetich and Miss Albert were found by a passing motorist.

Indian Paper Says Chinese Will Fight

BOMBAY, Oct. 4 (Reuters).— — An Indian news agency dispatch from the Chinese Communist capital Peiping Tuesday predicted there would be a clash in North Korea between Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces and the Chinese Communist army.

A staff correspondent of the agency, The Press Trust of India, said that this was the consensus among diplomatic officials in Peiping.

There was no evidence of tension in the Chinese capital, still in festive mood celebrating the first anniversary of the Communist regime, the correspondent said. But it was generally felt that momentous decisions affecting the trend of events in the Far East were taking place behind the scenes.

Competent diplomatic observers, discussing the next phase of the Korean war, drew pointed attention to Chinese Premier Chou En-lai's recent warning that the "Chinese people absolutely will not tolerate seeing their neighbors being savagely invaded by imperialists."

New Radar Sets Will Aid Airline Pilots

By AFTLEY HAWKINS

LONDON, Oct. 4 —(Reuters)— British scientists are well on the way toward eliminating the nightmare of all pilots—flying through turbulent cumulo-nimbus those towering "cauliflower clouds" which toss airliners about like butterflies.

Research staffs of British airlines have spent years analyzing pilots' reports to find out the best way to fight cumulo-nimbus. Now their best advice is: Avoid it.

Latest equipment to go into airliners of the British Overseas Airways fleet is a radar set which can scan conditions up to 40 miles ahead of a pilot in flight and give early warning. These cloud formations are built up thousands of feet by ascending air currents violent enough to throw the largest aircraft out of control.

Collision Warning

The radar, swinging 75 degrees on either side of the line of flight, will also provide "collision warning," giving pilots flying blind advance notice of high ground or other aircraft.

But primarily, this sensitive new apparatus will enable pilots to seek the best weather routes, giving their passengers smooth travel as free as possible from those violent "bumps" frequently found in the middle of big cloud masses.

Contrary to a general public fear, there is no authenticated case of severe damage to a well-built aircraft by lightning, although there have been many cases of minor damage.

Nevertheless, developments are underways to make an aircraft in flight invulnerable to lightning by fitting special conductors and other protective devices.

Smallwood Reinstates Member In Party

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Oct. 4 — (CP). — A Liberal member of the Newfoundland Legislature was expelled from the party on Tuesday night, but reinstated after he withdrew statements charging that the Cabinet made all decisions on legislation and policy.

Premier Smallwood ordered the expulsion of Sam Drover, the member for White Bay, after Mr. Drover charged the government with "gross neglect" of his district and failure to carry out election promises.

In a statement later retracted, he said all party members were expected to vote without question after the Cabinet had made its decisions.

After Mr. Drover retracted this statement, Premier Smallwood ordered the expulsion statement killed.

When he ordered the expulsion Mr. Smallwood said such a public expression of doubt in the sincerity of the Liberal Party was "an inexcusable violation of party discipline."

Told To Drop Charges Officer Says

Crown Attorney's Men In Windsor Dictated Withdrawal

WINDSOR, Oct. 5—(CP)—Evidence that officials of the Windsor Crown Attorney's office dictated withdrawal of liquor charges laid in court by police was brought today before the Windsor Police Commission.

Sgt. George Browne, head of the Police morality squad, told the Commission that he had dropped several cases which appeared certain of conviction.

One of these, a charge of keeping liquor for sale against Alex Shincariol, was dropped at the request of Crown Attorney E. C. Awrey, who was dismissed from his post in September following publication of a report by two Provincial Police inspectors who investigated law enforcement in this border city.

The morality squad was strongly criticized in the report, which found widespread vice and gambling in the city.

Gives Record

Chief of Police Claude Renaud gave the commission the record of arrests made of Shincariol, who owns a place called the "Blue Roof" in Windsor.

The records showed a series of liquor charges laid against Shincariol since 1926. Judge Archibald Cochrane, chairman of the commission, said the records showed that the man had never been sent to jail although he had been fined.

"If I told you the Crown Attorney has no power to direct the police in the laying of charges, would you be surprised?" Judge Cochrane asked Sgt. Browne.

"I never knew that," Browne replied.

"I think you will find that from now on you will see that that practice has ceased," the Judge told him.

Judge Cochrane and Magistrate Roland A. Harris were appointed to the police commission in September following resignations by two previous members. Mayor Arthur J. Reaume remains the third commissioner.

Gas Workers In London To End Strike

LONDON, Oct. 5 — London's striking gas workers tonight decided to go back to work Monday and end a wildcat stoppage which has cut off supplies to many areas for the last 21 days.

The decision was taken at a mass meeting of about 1,400 striking maintenance workers after 10 of their leaders had been given one-month jail sentences.

At the same time 96 navy technicians moved into two of the affected gas works to replace striking maintenance men.

Another 1,244 soldiers and sailors stood by for duty in 15 other plants if needed.

Demaning Raise

The strike, involving 1,400 men, ended its third week today. Gas supplies to 2,000,000 residents of North London have been cut off or seriously depleted by the walkout. The men are demanding a pay raise of three pence an hour.

A lawyer for the 10 defendants said they would appeal their conviction.

The walkout has forced the closing of many factories in the affected area, including some engaged in production of vital export goods.

Red Demonstrators Halt All Vienna Rail Traffic

VIENNA, Oct. 5—(AP)—Communist demonstrators halted all rail traffic in and out of Vienna today. The Federal Railway Administration said no trains are running into or from the Austrian capital in any direction. Crowds of shouting Communists, apparently angry over the failure of their general strike call Wednesday initiated blockade of both rail and road traffic at St. Poelten in the Russian zone. This halted western rail traffic running into Vienna's west station. North station traffic was cut by demonstrators at Stadlau in the Russian sector of Vienna. Traffic into the South station was cut at Brunn-Enzersdorf, between Vienna and the Russian military headquarters at Baden, 20 miles south of the capital.

Police, despite Russian orders not to innterfere tried unsuccessfully to stop the demonstrators.

Seize Buildings

The Reds occupied two federal post office and telephone exchange buildings and were driven off by police in an attempt on a third. Other bands roamed Vienna streets, stopping street car traffic and fighting with car operators.

The Communists early today seized the post office at Baden, the Soviet military headquarters. Wednesday night they occupied the communications centre in Wiener Neustadt, also in the Russian zone.

The Austrian News Agency reported that Red squads also tried to seize the federal post office in St. Poelten, 30 miles west of Vienna, but the "demonstrators were driven away and dispersed" by police.

The Ministry of Interior reported that the Communists also had blocked three secondary railway lines in the Russian zone.

A sabotage attempt was reported at the huge Donawitz steel works in Graz, in the British zone, where Communist workers doused the fires in all the blast furnaces. The fires were immediately rekindled by other workers. Their action, plant officials said, saved six months production. Three Communists were arrested.

S. Koreans Meeting Strong Force

U.N. Troops Massed To Cross Border If Allies Need Help

TOKYO, Oct. 6—(Friday)—(AP) — Beating down the strongest resistance yet encountered in North Korea, the Korean Republic's 3rd Division Thursday seized Changjon, 60 air miles north of the 38th parallel.

U.S. Eighth Army headquarters estimated that a Red infantry division and a company of Red Marines made a stand three miles south of that east-coast town.

AP correspondent William Jorden, with the fast-moving Republican Division, said the town fell to the South Koreans after an all-day fight. His information evidently was several hours more recent than that at Eighth Army headquarters.

Thirty-five miles south of this deepest penetration of North Korea the republican capital division engaged a bypassed force of about 1,200 Reds in the hills west of Hwangpo.

The first notable show of Red defence came as United Nations army of up to 175,000 troops was massing to yank down the iron curtain all alo-g parallel 38 and wipe out Communist resistance in all of Korea.

The non-Korean allies, who have been kept south of the artificial border, stood ready to cross and join South Koreans who have already pierced the curtain and probed 60 miles or more into the Communist-ruled northland. Gen. MacArthur's headquarters made it clear that all his forces are ready to go into North Korea as needed.

Non-Korean troops had been held south of the 38th parallel since the South Koreans stabbed across Sunday.

Non-Korean troops had been held south of the 38th parallel since the South Koreans stabbed across Sunday.

The question of their crossing from liberated South Korea was considered only as a military issue, MacArthur's headquarters said, and not as a political hurdle at this stage.

The United Nations at Lake Success Wednesday night directed MacArthur, in effect, to use any means at his command to unify Korea.

Parallel 38 was drawn originally to designate American and Russian zones for acceptance of the Japanese surrender after the Second World War.

The Allied political aim is a unified, independent Korea. Indoctrinated and armed by Russia, the North Koreans plunged across the parallel June 25. The historic initial U.N. armed peace-enforcement action crushed the Red invaders in three months.

Ignore Ultimatums

The Red regime continued to ignore surrender ultimatums first aired by MacArthur last Sunday and repeated since.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5—(AP)—The Philadelphia Whiz Kids tied New York Yankees, 1-1, in the fifth inning of today's second world series games on singles by Mike Goliat and Ed Waitkus and Richie Ashburn's fly ball.

After a close 1-0 loss Wednesday, the Phils had 20-game winner Robin Roberts on the mound facing New York Allie Reynolds whose season average is 16 and 12.

The odds-makers rated the Philadelphia whiz kids as 5-to-1 underdogs after Wednesday's loss and that means its all the more of an uphill battle for the National League team.

A stiff breeze, blowing across the field from left to right, promised to make it tough for the home run-minded righthanded hitters.

Starting Lineups

NEW YORK—Gene Woodling, lf; Phil Rizzuto, ss; Yogi Berra, c; Joe DiMaggio, cf; Johnny Mize, 1b; Bobby Brown, 3b; Hank Bauer, rf; Gerry Coleman, 2b; Allie Reynolds, p (16-12).

PHILADELPHIA—Eddie Waitkus, 1b; Richie Ashburn, cf; Dick Sisler, lf; Del Ennis, rf; Willie Jones, 3b; Gran Hamner, ss; Andy Seminick, c; Mike Goliat, 2b; Robin Roberts, p (20-11).

Umpires—Bill McGowan (American League), plate; Dusty Boggess (National League), first base; Charlie Berry (American League) second base; Jocko Conlan (National League), third base; Bill McKinley (American League), left field foul line; Al Barlick (National League), right field foul line.

First Inning Yankees

Woodling beat out a slow bounder for a single. Seminick took Rizzuto's foul pop behind home plate. Berra punched a looping single into short left and Woodling advanced to third. Goliat took DiMaggio's lazy pop behind second. Woodling attempted to score after the catch but

Egypt Offers To Contribute Army Of Million If UN Will Supply Arms

Stipulate British Troops Must Be Withdrawn As Egyptians Prepared To Defend Own Soil And Strategic Suez

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 5—(AP)—Egypt was reported today to have offered to contribute an Army of 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 men as part of a permanent international force if the United States and other United Nations members will supply the arms and equipment. Informed quarters said the offer was made by Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohamed Salah-El-Din at a private luncheon given Wednesday by Secretary of State Dean Acheson for heads of the Arab U.N. delegations.

The offer was understood to have been made on the condition that British troops are withdrawn from Egyptian soil.

4 Major Points

The Egyptian suggestion contained these major points:

1—Egypt is a vital strategic area. The protection of the Suez is essential to international peace, but should not be left in the hands of Britain.

2—Egypt is a country of 20,000,000 population and is capable of raising an army of 1,000,0 or 2,000,000 without difficulty, provided the arms and equipment are supplied from the outside.

3—Egypt is willing to make this force available as part of an international force and to assume the responsibility for protecting the Suez until reinforcements could be sent in by the United Nations.

4—An Egyptian force is the most logical choice for the defence of the Suez, since the troops would be fighting not only in the name of the UN, but would be defending their own homeland.

Australia Expects General Election

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 5 (Reuters)—Newspapers today forecast an early general election following the sidetracking of the government's anti-communist bill by the Labor-controlled Senate Wednesday.

The Senate shelved the government's anti-communist bill and substituted a private members' bill for a referendum to re-establish government control of prices.

Premier Menzies had said that if the Labor party blocked the Communist bill he would take the issue to the country in an election.

Let Travellers Take $50 Without Permit

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 —(CP)—The finance department Wednesday night announced that no special permits are required to take $50 or less in U.S. currency out of Canada.

A traveller crossing the Canada-U.S. border may take up to $50 U.S. and $50 Canadian without a permit.

As previously announced, the limitation on pleasure travel to the United States is no longer limited to $150 in a 12-month period. This limitation was imposed in November, 1947.

However, a form H travel permit must still be obtained and surrendered to customs at time of leaving Canada if a traveller is taking more than $50 in U.S. funds or more than a total of $100 in both U.S. and Canadian funds.

Can Take $500

"Banks and other agents of the foreign exchange control board will, however, be authorized to aprove from H permits for amounts up to $500 per trip for business travel and up to a total of $500 during the calendar year for travel for other purposes," the announcement said.

"Applications for larger amounts may be referred to the board and will normally be approved for genuine travel expenditures in any reasonable amounts, having regard to the duration of the proposed journeys."

There is no change in the regulation prohibiting the mailing of money from the country without a permit. As before, such funds must be mailed through the banks.

Sought Two Years Man Held For Slaying

SUDBURY, Oct. 5 — (CP) — Sought two years for questioning about the slaying of a 60-year-old retired railroader in a lonely bush cottage, Henry Beaucage was arrested Wednesday at nearby Lake Wahnapitae.

Beaucage was charged with breaking and entering camps and summer cottages in the Lake Wahnapitae area.

The body of John Margis, who lived alone in the bush, was found in the charred wreckage of his cabin Oct. 25, 1948. He had been shot through the chest with a shotgun and a .22-calibre rifle.

World Series Absorbs UN

LAKE SUCCESS, NY, Oct. 5—(CP) — Delegates to the United Nations Wednesday concentrated on a world problem just as absorbing as Korea—and they were just as divided.

L. B. Pearson, who describes Philadelphia Phillies as a "kind of farm team for Toronto (Maple Leafs)," sat in the lounge to watch the game with Brig.-Gen. Carlos P. Romulos of the Philippines. His choice of the whiz kids, the Canadian External Affairs Minister explained, was a display of partisanship for which he thought Brooklynites would forgive him.

Romulos, who used to play the game at shortstop, which he said was often "more short than stop," is a Yankee fan.

Other delegates watched the proceedings on the television set in the plush lounge with expressions ranging from the polite bewilderment of the French delegation to the boredom of some of the Far Eastern delegates.

Pearson, growing gloomy as the ninth inning waned and his favorites were still trailing by a run, waved aside a receptionist who had a call for him.

"The privilege of a foreign minister," he explained.

Four Prisoners Escape After Football Game

SUDBURY, Oct. 5 (CP)—Four prisoners escaped from nearby Burwash Industrial Farm Tuesday night after a prison football game, it became known Wednesday.

The four broke ranks from the form-up after the game. Prison guards hunted them through the surrounding country.

One of the four has escaped on two previous occasions from Guelph Reformatory and once from Burwash. He is Abraham Schuiler, 32, of London, Ont., who was serving a two-to-four-year sentence for robbery with violence.

With him was Fred Morton, 28, of Toronto, sentenced to from two to 2½ years for auto theft.

The other missing prisoners are Daniel Christopher, 24, of Ottawa, sentenced to from 24 to 25 months for breaking entering and theft and Ray Hazelwood ,21, of Orillia, serving from 12 to 15 months for theft.

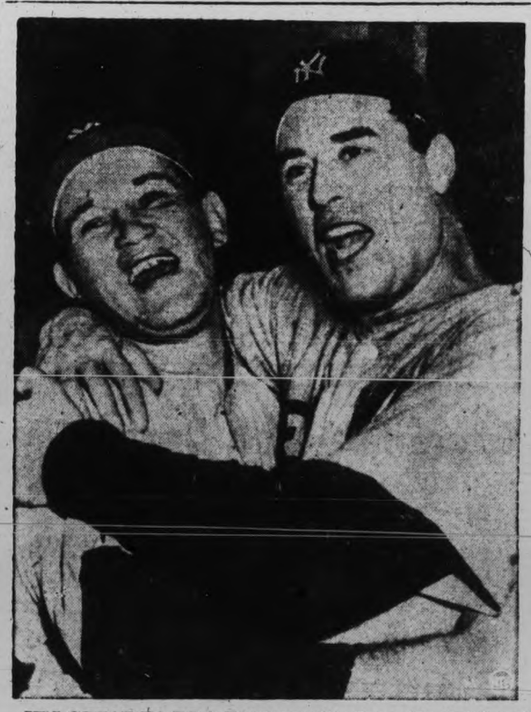
Draft Adopted For Aid Plan

LONDON, Oct. 5 (Reuters) — Commonwealth ministers have unanimously adopted a draft report detailing six-year $5,000,000,000-aid plans of India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Malaya, Singapore, Sarawak and North Borneo, they announced today.



The announcement was made in a treasury communique on the 10-day secret talks, which ended on Wednesday, among Commonwealth ministers and representatives of South and Southeast Asian countries.

Hugh Gaitskell, British economic minister and chairman of the conference, today told a press conference the talks were "remarkably successful."

Gaitskell would give no details of the draft report until it is examined by the Commonwealth governments concerned.

Commonwealth countries represented at the talks were Canada, Britain, Australia, New Zealand, India, Pakistan and Ceylon.

Canada's representative was Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew.

36 Czech Miners Die In Blast

PRAGUE, Oct. 5—(Reuters)—Thirty-six miners were killed in an explosion in a colliery in the Ostrava area of Moravia, Czechoslovakia, Wednesday afternoon, it was officially announced today.

The announcement said several dozen miners escaped the explosion and were rescued.

The explosion occurred in the main centre of Czechoslovakia's hard-coal mining area and also the country's most important heavy-industry area, near the Polish frontier in Northern Moravia.

Czechoslovakia's minister of industry, Gustav Klement, immediately left Prague for the scene.

Make Certain Changes In Treasurer's Dept.

SUDBURY, Oct. 5—(CP) — Mayor W. S. Beaton announced today that "certain precautionary changes" are being made in the routine of the treasurer's department while disappearance of close to $1,200 from the office is under investigation.

The money disappeared last Wednesday, after it reportedly had been locked in the vault at the end of the day.

Mayor Beaton confirmed that five persons in the department are known to have the combination to the vault.

Mine Sweeper Sunk By Floating Mine

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—The United States Navy announced today the mine sweeper Magpie has been sunk by a floating mine near North Korea. Twenty-one men are missing.

It was the third U.S. ship to hit a mine in Korean waters. Two destroyers— the Brush and the Mansfield—were damaged by earlier collisions with mines and 11 men on the Brush were lost.

The Magpie hit a mine Sunday near the city of Ch'uksan-dong. Twelve survivors were picked up by a sister ship, the minesweeper Merganser and carried to Pusan, Korea.

The 136-foot wooden hulled Magpie struck the mine on her starboard side and sank about two miles off shore.

2nd Afghanistan Invasion Reported By Pakistan

KARACHI, Pakistan, Oct. 5 — (AP) — Pakistan said she was chasing Afghanistan forces back to their mountain homes today after a new crossing of this country's northern borders. The shooting followed two years of bickering and some violence between the neighboring countries.

The defence ministry said Afghan tribesmen and regular troops had entered Dobandi, some 450 miles south of Karachi, last Saturday and occupied Bogra Pass.

The comunique said the invaders sought to seize the strategic Quetta-Chaman railway in the Khojak area, but they fell back when Pakistan troops and civil forces, with air support, engaged them at the foot of the pass Monday. It added that the home forces s pursuing the invaders "with the bjective of expelling them from akistan territory."

This is the second scrape between the two lands in the last few months. Earlier the Pakistan government charged that Afghan troops had entered this country June 16 and clashed with border guards at Gamazha.

The two countries have been at odds for the last two years over Pathanland, a chain of barren hills extending from Pamirs to Baluchistan and inhabited by the warrior Pathan tribesmen. The tribesmen, backed by Afghanistan want to set up their own state of Pushtoonistan, or Pathanistan. Pakistan claims the territory as its own.

UN Will Use Western Peace Plan

Will Take Chance Chinese Reds Will Stay Neutral

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Oct. 5—(AP)—The United Nations moved full steam ahead today to put into effect a western plan for the future of war-torn Korea.

The plan, which grants tacit permission for U.N. forces to cross the 38th parallel, won 47-to-5 approval in the 60-member political committee Wednesday night. There were seven abstentions. Only the Soviet bloc, which supported a rival resolution, voted against the proposal.

Supporters of the proposal shrugged off fears that the Chinese Communists may intervene in the Korean war because U.N. military occupation of North Korea will be necessary to enforce its decisions.

State Secretary Acheson told a press conference that any group looking to the world for recognition and for admission to the UN would hesitate to challenge UN principles. Communist China is fighting for the UN seat held by Nationalist China.

Four Main Aims

The peace plan—sponsored by Britain, Australia, Brazil, Cuba, The Netherlands, Norway, Pakiston, and the Philippines—has four main aims. They are:

1—Action— including holding of elections under auspices of the UN—for establishing a unified, independent and democratic Korea.

2—UN forces should not remain in any part of Korea longer than necessary to achieve this united government. This was taken to mean that those forces could pursue North Korean aggressors anywhere in the country north or south of the 38th Parallel.

3—Economic rehabilitation of Korea. Supporting delegations hope Korea will be a "pilot project" to show what the UN can do in this line.

4—A new UN Commission of seven members to see that the plan's provisions are carried out.

Superficially Similar

The Soviet plan, defeated 46-5 with eight abstentions, was superficially similar to the majority proposal, but was attacked by the French delegate Jean Chauvel as placing North Korea and South Korea on an equal footing and attempting to ignore North Korean aggression "and thereby escape its consequences."

The committee also voted on Wednesday night to take up Monday a plan submitted by Acheson which the secretary's Republican adviser, John Foster Dulles, called the "logical sequence" following discussion of Korea.

It would keep the General Assembly on 24-hour alert to meet whenever the Security Council failed to act concerning a threat to the peace. It would also request members to earmark part of their armed services for UN duty.

The aim is to provide a force ready to meet future aggression immediately and to prevent Russia from hamstringing anti-aggressive action through use of the veto in the Security Council.

Beef Prices Due To Drop

TORONTO, Oct. 5—Beef prices are due to start dropping this weekend but how much is in doubt.

One retailer estimated it would be five or six cents a pound on the better cuts. Earlier reports that beef was due to drop 15 to 18 cents this weekend he labelled as "crazy."

"Beef prices are headed down," he said. "They will probably continue on down during the month. In that period they may fall 18 to 20 cents from present prices. But they won't take any drastic drops this week."

He said decreases will largely be limited to the better cuts. "We can't cut the cheaper meat much. We've already taken a beating on it," he said.

A packing house official said a downward trend in beef prices began about 10 days ago. The market was further upset this week by the new exchange ruling.

In one of the few remaining actions in South Korea, American marines punched northward Thursday from rubbled Uijongbu, 20 miles south of 38 and about 11 miles northeast of Seoul. Resistance was scattered.

On the east coast, the South Korean 3rd Division was 60 miles north of the Red border. It was within 25 miles of Tongchon, where the Communists might attempt a stand in defence of Wonsan, an industrial centre some 25 miles farther north.

By Thursday morning, at least 20,000 Korean republican troops were already in Communist territory—the capital division inland and the 3rd on the sea of Japan coast.

Other South Korean divisions totalling perhaps 30,000 men were either across the boundary or arrayed along it.

There had been speculations—official and other—as to whose orders sent the republican forces across the boundary Sunday. But if this had been a hot potato, it evidently had cooled enough for handling by American military sources. They said:

"Gen. MacArthur had as much authority over the South Korean forces as he does over an American division."

On New Bases

Moving forward with Allied ground forces, seven squadrons of jet and other fighter planes now are on new bases. From these points closer to Parallel 38, the air force said, any target in North Korea is within easy range of airborne rockets and jellied-gasoline fire bombs.

The air-battered Communist territory hitherto has been mainly the hunting ground of heavy bombers based in Japan and Okinawa. They already have wiped out big industrial centres, but their assaults on rail lines continue, although with diminishing targets.

Behind the Allied forces gathering south of Red territory, trapped and widely-scattered North Korean remnants are turning increasingly toward vicious guerrilla activities.

MacArthur's spokesman noted the increase of Red raider action and said it might create a serious harassment of rear areas.

Red atrocity murders have reached an estimated total of 25,000. Of the victims, more than 10,000 were reported killed in and about Seoul during the Communist occupation and in the final fighting days before the capital's liberation.

Bevin Routs Critics Of Foreign Policy

MARGATE, England, Ocmt. 5 (Reuters)—Within a few hours of returning from New York Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin today routed critics of his foreign policy at the Labor Party Convention here with a 6-to-1 vote.

The critics sponsored a resolution urging the government to call a five-power conference, to make renewed efforts for friendly relations with Russia, to outlaw the atom bomb, and to end dollar dependence by 1952.

After Bevin had defended his policy in a speech lasting more than an hour the convention rejected the rebel resolution by 4,861,000 votes to 861,000.

Bevin also told delegates he wanted to nail the lie that the United States would ever be aggressors.

The lie was "sent out by Russia to try to blind the people of the world, and unfortunately a lot of weak-minded people keep repeating it," Bevin told the annual convention of the Labor Party.

"I do not believe the United States will ever be aggressors. There is no sign of it."

Tried To Be Friends

Bevin, cheered loudly, said, "I have tried ever since I took office to be friends with Russia."

"There is no one who has stood at this rostrum who would stand more insults, more abuse—who has put up with more than I have from Molotov and Vishinsky.

"I have looked beyond Molotov and Vishinsky and have looked for peace and I will carry on, whatever they said.

"I have discussed these problems with Joseph Stalin at Moscow. I offered on behalf of the government a 30-year treaty of peace. I asked why a little country like Turkey should for five years be in a war of nerves.

"In Berlin we were very near to war. Without one word to us, 2,500,000 people were suddenly cut off from food.

"We saw it through, that was aggression."

The foreign secretary said that in Korea the Security Council did the only thing they could do—"they resisted."

Find Mild Selling Reducing Some Gains

TORONTO, Oct. 5 (CP)—Mild selling appeared as the session progressed on the Toronto stock exchange today, reducing some early gains.

A handful of low-priced mining stocks held most of the trading limelight.

Paper stocks featured industrials, continuing yesterday's sudden strong late advances. Gains ranged from fractions to more than a point. The heavy demand brought out a flood of rumors on Bay Street of increases in the price of newsprint.

Steels, agricultures, foods and liquors were ahead in the groupings while utilities and several constructions sagged. Early advances ranged up to almost two points but were pared to fractions later.

Several gold stocks traded briskly for good gains. Villbona Mines was a feature and Ryan Lake in its first appearance attracted brisk dealings. Paymaster, yesterday's feature, slumped on profit-taking. Other golds weakened quietly.

Base metals firmed with Golden Manitou and Quebec Manitou again in the spotlight.

Western oils sagged over a solid front. Losses ranged up to 15 cents.

RELEASED FROM CUSTODY

John D. McIntosh, Windsor, charged with breaking, entry and theft from the home of Jack Sinclair on Walkerfield Avenue on February 9, was remanded on his own recognizance until October 11 in Police Court today.

Rizzuto sent a high soft fly to Ashburn.

Cost-of-Living Hits New Peak During August

OTTAWA, Oct. 5—(CP)—Still on the rampage, Canada's cost of living index climbed 1.3 points during August to take up a new peak of 169.8.

Of six classes of commodities taken into consideration by the Bureau of Statistics in compiling the index also climbed to record highs. It cost more for food, fuel, furnishings, clothing and rents.

The index, based on 1935-39, equals 100, now is 7.5 points higher than it was a year ago. It now costs 69.8 per cent more to live than it did in August, 1939.

Sharpest climb during August was shown in the food sub-index, as prices soared for beef, pork, lard, coffee, sugar, butter and eggs. Despite a decline in the price of fresh vegetables, the food index rose to 218.8 points from 216.7. The latest figure represents a rise of 11.8 points in the last year.

Following adjustment after a quarterly survey in rents, the rent index went up 0.6 points to 135.5 from 134.9 a month ago and now is 11.6 points higher than its level in August last year.

Push Up Index

Fuel and light increases pushed that sub-index to 140.8 from 138.4, so that it now is 10.7 points ahead of last year.

Until recently, clothing prices had been moving down, but in August the clothing index leaped to 182.3 compared with 180.9 a month before. The latest figure, however, was 1.2 points below August, 1949.

Home furnishings and services index was 171.1 compared with 168.9 a month before and 167.4 a year ago, while the miscellaneous group, which includes transportation and gasoline costs, moved up 0.3 points to 132.8 from 132.5. Last year it stood at 128.9. Contributing to the latest boost were higher street car fares at Hamilton and high gasoline prices at Toronto.

Parents Go To Jail For Starving Son

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—Guy Scielzo, 30, was sentenced today to five to 10 years in prison on conviction of manslaughter in the starvation death of his son, Guy, Jr.

His wife, Mary, 30, pleaded guilty to the same charge and received the same sentence Wednesday.

The husband and wife were indicted soon after the little boy was carried from the father's vermin-infested apartment last November. The child died a few hours later. A four-year-old emaciated daughter recovered.

Great Horseman Dies

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5—(AP)—Al Sabath, 57, owner of the famous Alsab farms racing stable and the great horse Alsab was stricken fatally today in a downtown hotel. Sabath died of coronary thrombosis before he could be taken to a hospital.

Retire Chief Keeper

KINGSTON, Oct. 5— (CP).—Maj.-Gen. R. B. Gibson, Commissioner of Penitentiaries, announced today that Chief Keeper James E. Atkins of Kingston Penitentiary, has been retired. The ruling followed an investigation of the escape of convict trusty Boynton St. John on September 15. St. John was recaptured in Brockville September 17.

Ontario Group Rejects Live Grading Hog Proposal

TORONTO, Oct. 5—(CP)—The Ontario Hog Producers Association Wednesday expressed disapproval of a proposed vote to substitute live grading of hogs for carcass grading. Some Western hog producers have been seeking legislation to permit grading of hogs before they are slaughtered. Carcass grading was made compulsory in Canada since 1940.

A meeting of the Association executive and country presidents said top-quality production was essential for today's domestic and export markets. The best way to ensure this was continuance of carcass grading, the meeting decided.

Urge Pork Board

At the same time, feeling that the Dominion Meat Board might go out of existence if bacon contracts were not renewed, association members felt it would be wise to give some thought to formation of a Pork Marketing Board. Such action would be taken if the Dominion Board, which has been the agency handling movement of surplus pork products, were to be eliminated.

In this suggested move, the association urged that legislation be set up in such an eventuality to permit a pork marketing board to explore markets, make sales in any country and be the exporting agency for Canadian pork products.

Another important resolution passed at Wednesday's session asked the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Ontario Veterinary College to set up an accredited herd plan for swine. This was aimed at facilitating purchase of disease-free stock by commercial breeders.

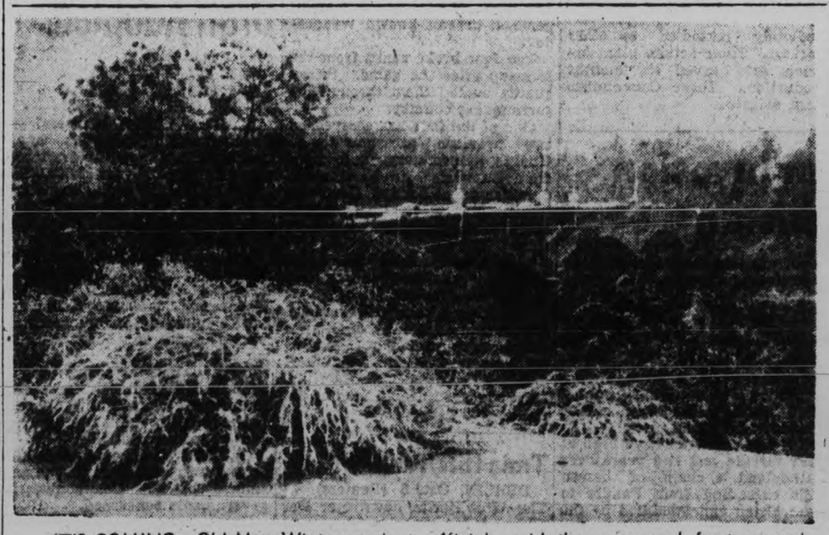
Storm Misses Nova Scotia



HALIFAX, Oct. 5 (CP) — A tropical hurricane whipped past Nova Scotia early today after changing its course. It had been expected that the storm, with winds up to 90 miles an hour would rake the Nova Scotia coast.

However, winds of 70 miles an hour in gusts were forecast for southern Newfoundland as the blow swept northeastward.

Forecasters said Wednesday night that if the storm continued in the path it was taking at that time, it would hit Nova Scotia about noon today. They put out warnings to fishing vessels east and west of Sable. Just a month ago, a hurricane swamped a fishing boat and five men were drowned.

High Barley Yields

HASKETT, Man. — (CP). — Peter D. Fehr's seven-ace plot of Montcalm barley yielded an average of 66 bushels to the acre. Another Haskett farmer, George G. Elias, threshed 65 bushels an acre of Montcalm barley from a 60-acre field.

IT'S COMING—Old Man Winter made an early appearance in Manitoba Oct. 2, when a four-inch snowfall blanketed Winnipeg and the Red River Valley. Agriculture officials said the snow and frost caused heavy losses to unharvested grain. Here is City Park Bridge in Winnipeg in Winter costume.

50 Injured As Flyer Hits Oil Car

Passengers Escape As Only One Car Swept By Flames

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 5—(AP)—A New York Central railroad flier, clipping along at better than a mile a minute, smashed into a derailed oil-tank car early today, setting off an explosion which rocked mid-town Erie.

Miraculously, no one was killed. Between 40 and 50 were injured but none was burned, although flames from the burning tanker leaped high into the air and lapped at some of the cars on the palatial westbound New England States express.

The engineer of the Boston-to-Chicago express had no chance to keep his train from hitting the tank car. It was hurled into the express' path from a freight train travelling eastbound on a parallel track. Both he and his fireman escaped injury.

Only one of the 14 cars on the streamliner caught fire. It was the dormitory car for dining car employees. More than 10 occupants scrambled to safety through a lone exit which remained open. One unidentified waiter said:

"Everyone just scrambled around. We had been sleeping. Some of us got two left shoes, some got one shoe and some got none. But we all got out of there in a helluva hurry."

Saved Train

Nearly 50 firemen, aided by as many police, were at the scene, only five blocks from midtown Erie, within minutes after the 1.15 a.m. EST crash. They kept the fire from engulfing the train and aided in rescuing passengers.

Nearly 50 passengers were trapped in the only car which overturned.

Twelve of the injured passengers were admitted to hospitals but are not in critical condition.

At least 10 others on the express, including one crew member, were treated and discharged. So were two of the rescuers who battered windows with their bare fists to free the injured.

Upwards of 20 doctors reached the scene within 30 minutes. They treated many persons on the spot for minor injuries.

Eleven cars of the train were cast about like jackstraws. Their all-steel construction not only kept them from catching fire but prevented a catastrophe, said an unidentified crew member.

Prince Of Wales Holds Field Day

Senior champions at the annual Prince of Wales field day held Wednesday were Judy Welch and Pat Detton. Intermediate and junior champions were Jill Chambers and Ken Wagar, and Joan Elliott and Bob Hamilton, respectively.

Competition was on a class versus class basis. Events included running high jump, standing bread jump and soccer kick.

List of winners by rooms follows: 1 Mr. Rutherford's class, 2 Miss Coulter's, 3 Mr. Hill's, 4 Miss Mutton's. Crests will be awarded to champions in the three classes.

Tractor Wrecked In Collision With Gas Truck

COBOURG, Oct. 5 (ENS) — Walter Nazar R.R. 5 Cobourg, was taken to Cobourg Hospital with head injuries late Tuesday afternoon, after his tractor was in collision with a large gasoline truck driven by Bill Grieves of Cobourg.

Nazar had been hauling corn to the field thresher and was pulling his farm wagon with the tractor on a lane to the highway.

Visibility from the east was practically nil, due to trees fringing the highway and traffic from the east could not be seen until the traffic was right on the highway.

The driver of the truck, which was empty, swung sharply to the left in a vain effort to avoid the tractor but hit it squarely on the side and threw the driver of the tractor off his seat.

The truck then went into the ditch, taking off a telephone pole and upsetting. Grieves emerged unhurt.

The tractor was split in two with the engine being tossed several yards away from the body of the tractor. Provincial Constable H. Wooldridge of Cobourg investigated.

Lack Of Interest In Skating Club?

COBOURG, Oct. 5 (ENS) — Only 16 out of the 90 members of Cobourg Figure Skating Club turned out for the general meeting. While officers for the coming season were elected, there was some doubt expressed that the club could function if no more interest than that currently shown developed.

Last year's fee of $5 was not sufficient and it was thought that it might have to be raised to $15 in order to permit the club to hire a qualified professional.

Shirley Luffman, formerly with the Canadian tour of the Barbara Ann Show, had offered to coach the skaters at a fee which could be split up between Cobourg and Port Hope figure skating clubs.

The following officers were elected for the coming season: President, Jean Roberts; vice-president, Ed. Bovay; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. J. Allen and directors, Mrs. Oliver Kerr, Allen Field, Mrs. A. Kerr and Ernie McCrum.

Hockey Players Under Arrest

PRAGUE, Oct. 5 — (Reuters) — Several leading Czechoslovak hockey players arrested last March after Czechoslovakia withdrew from the world championships in London, went on trial before a state court today.

Proceedings opened in secret and neither the exact number of defendants nor the specific charge against them was known.

It was believed that four members of the team were being charged with slandering the State, resisting the security police, and possibly also with planning to leave Czechoslovakia illegally.

Czechoslovakia withdrew her team on the eve of the championships as the players were gathering at Prague airport to leave for London.

The next night nine members of the team were reported to have been arrested after an incident with security police in a Prague bar.

Girl Sleeps 40 Hours Awakened By Siren

CHICAGO, Oct. 5 — (AP) — A 10-year-old old girl was aroused from a sleep of more than 40 hours Wednesday by shrieking fire siren.

The girl, Patricia Kenerney, lapsed into a fitful sleep Monday night from which she could not be awakened.

Her father recalled that in August, 1949, Patricia slept for 14 days finally was awakened by the sounds of a siren as fire engines passed her home.

Kenerney late yesterday explained his daughter's condition to Fire Lieut. John Mahoney. The fireman drove a fire truc to the Kenerney home and parked under the window of Patricia second-floor bedroom.

The siren screeched and Patricia awakened.

Wildcat Strike Break Reported

DETROIT, Oct. 5 — (AP) The Ford Motor Company today reported a break in a wildcat strike that had threatened a complete shutdown of its plants.

Strikers began reporting for work at midnight at three rolling mills of Ford's big steel plant in suburban Dearborn. Production on the midnight shift was restored to 30 to 50 per cent of normal a Ford spokesman said.

If the back-to-work movement continues today, the company said it would cancel plans for a series of layoffs that would eventually have affected 125,000 workers.

A bottleneck caused by the unauthorized strike over a question of premium pay of less than 900 men in the steel plant forced the company to lay off 700 men in the fender and door departments of the pressed-steel unit yesterday.

The rolling-mill workers Wednesday defied pleas of United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) leaders to end the strike. Union officers, however, renewed their efforts to get the men back to wor kwith appeals over the radio asking them to abide by the union's contract with Ford.

Tells Purpose Of Thanksgiving

BETHANY, Oct. 5 (ENS)—Mrs. William Cavano entertained the United Church Women's Association Tuesday, with Mrs. T. J. Jackson presiding.

Mrs. R. Carr read the 95th Psalm. Mrs. Ona Thorndyke gave Lesson Thoughts. The roll call was answered by 22 members.

The business session was entirely taken up with plans for the 50th anniversary of the church, which will take place October 15 with a supper on the following evening. Committees were appointed to look after the supper details.

In the absence of Mrs. L. Millson, Mrs. Wellington Fallis was appointed as secretary.

Mrs. Herb Coppins gave a paper on Thanksgiving, stating that the day had become so commercialized as a holiday that its religious meaning was almost overlooked. It should be a day of true thanksgiving from the hearts of everyone, for the very essence of life itself—a day in which to pause and give thanks for all the blessings of the land in which we live and to the Creator of all.

Mrs. T. J. Jackson told the history of the British and Foreign Bible Society, through whose activity the Bible is now translated and published in more than 700 languages.

Lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Harold Sanderson, Mrs. Ona Thorndyke, Mrs. Ernest Stacey and Mrs. Herb Coppins.

The Korean War Has A Lesson For Us About Russia

When Foreign Secretary Bevin returned to England yesterday from the Washington conference of Foreign Ministers he said: "Russia pushed North Korea into it," (the war). He did not think that Russia wanted an all-out war, at this time: "I doubt that they ever do. But if they can expand cheaply at the same time they will do so. Therefore we have to be alert and firm". Mr. Bevin is in a position to know what he is talking about, and in his Southampton statement he gave the core of the lesson which the Korean war teaches.

* * *

By the end of July when Moscow announced her intention of returning to the Security Council, it was clear (as it had not been before) that she would not intervene directly, and was playing for limited stakes. But it is also clear that she valued those limited stakes. Korea is not a minor item in the Soviet policy of universal expansion. For five years she bent her efforts, at cost to herself and at a sacrifice of a favourable diplomatic position, to build up the North Korean regime, so that the North Koreans would be in a position to conquer the whole country. Moscow flouted international agreements, the United Nations and international good-will in order to do this. The North Korean invasion was a deep-laid plan. Now the plan has gone sour. The North Koreans are defeated, and Russia has therefore suffered a defeat. Now Russia is writing off her losses and once again cultivating international good-will where formerly she had collected ill-will.

* * *

This sort of political conduct is understandable only if we remember that we are dealing with Communists who will pursue a calculated policy ruthlessly, caring neither for good-will nor loss of prestige. Their plans have been defeated in Korea; they can shrug their shoulders and turn their attention to another, and probably similar plan elsewhere in the world.

* * *

Berlin was a preview of the Korean conduct. In Berlin the Russians also played for big stakes, but within limits short of general war. In Berlin they went as far as they could with their ruthless tactics and bad faith, without any regard for the hostility they aroused. When the American-led airlift blocked their Berlin plans, they abandoned that scheme—for a while at least—and made a show of being amicable and reasonable again.

* * *

Berlin and Korea teach that the Russians will go to any length in their expansionist efforts, any length short of outright war. They show that the Russians are unwilling at this time to risk war for such objectives as Berlin and Korea. They will withdraw in the face of determined, superior force.

* * *

Berlin and Korea also teach us that it is useless to try to get concessions from Russia by appeasement, but it is possible to exact them by toughness. As one able student of present-day international affairs says—Sebastian Haffner—"There is no danger of 'provoking' Russia, and no great risk of war, as long as there is sufficient force to make war look unpromising to Russia. There is, on the other hand, no prospect of making Russia friendly by whatever concessions and acts of faith."

* * *

As Mr. Bevin said yesterday, the West has to be alert and firm. The stronger the West becomes the better is the prospect that Russia will make the withdrawals and concessions which are necessary for world peace, as she is now doing in the limited issue of Korea.

But Who Says The Word?

We are aware that newspapers are supposed to know everything. Nevertheless we admit frankly that there are some things which we do not know and cannot find out. One of these is the way in which the value of the Canadian dollar is established.

Last weekend the Government relaxed its hold on the exchange rate; the dollar is now permitted to find its own value. But somebody must say what that value is. We have been old that the foreign departments of the chartered banks have a good deal to do with it, and as all the banks quote the same rate, they must work together. But how? And where? And when? And by what means do they determine the daily value of the dollar?

Supply and demand, we are informed, has a lot to do with it. But how? What means is used to relate the supply and demand for Canadian currency all over this country and the U.S.A. (not to speak of other countries) quickly enough to strike a price every few hours.

We should like to know. We do not think that there is anything fishy about it, or that it needs investigation. We should just like to know how it is done.

Very few people really understand what money is. We all know what money can do, and some people are very clever at making money multiply, but only a few people understand what gives money its value, and what makes that value alter from day to day and sometimes from hour to hour. Economists can give answers, of course, but too often their answers are so vague or so theoretical that they are of no value. But there must be a few people in the country who understand money thoroughly, and who estimate its value—the value which we all accept without question. We should like to know who these people are.

The Sensitive Ear

We have written very often on a topic which has recently been discussed in the Arnprior Chronicle, in these words:

School teachers are blaming parents, and parents, teachers. Employers are concerned at the apparent failure of both. We do not know who is at fault, but certainly the spoken and written word of our rising-generation is being marred far too frequently by a slovenly disregard of the elementary rules of grammar and spelling.

We have a special concern in this matter, for every year a number of young people come to us who want jobs as printers or writers; it may justly be said that a majority are poor spellers and that those who know any grammar have learned it by ear.

Now it is perhaps better to learn grammar by ear than out of a book. But it is only possible for a child to learn grammar in that way if his home is one where the English language is treated with respect. Schoolteachers know that it is very hard to correct a child's grammar in school if his home influence is against it. And it must be said that grammar which has been learned by ear is always better if it is bolstered with a reasonable amount of theory.

We do not blame schoolteachers for this state of affairs. But we blame the people who work out curriculums, and who regulate the Boneless Wonder which is modern education. Too much has been done to rob children of formal instruction in the subjects which must form the foundation of any future learning—and grammar is one of these. Anyone who wishes to see what the lack of attention to grammar leads to may find it out by reading a pamphlet, or a report, or a minute, written by one of the educators who opposes the teaching of grammar. These people cannot write good English themselves, and whether they realize it or not they are anxious to pass on their intellectual deformity to a generation of Canadian children.

Grammar is more than a system of rules for the use of the English language; it is a mental discipline which leads toward clarity of thought. If a man understands the use of a language, he is not likely to slip into the vague and foolish writing which is so common, and so infuriating, today. The question which is always at the back of his mind is not "How am I saying it?", but "What am I saying?" And his ear becomes sensitive not only to grammatical niceties, but to niceties of reason and expression.

The sensitive ear—the outpost of a sensitive intellect and a sensitive conscience—is too rare in Canada today. Those who have it have acquired it, in all likelihood, at home. Our educational system not merely neglects it, but is hostile toward it. And for that the directors and heads of that system must bear the blame.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The meek may inherit the earth, but only after the unmeek have made a mess of it.

In twenty years no girl has been born on Fair Isle, Scotland, though there have been plenty of boys. Pretty soon they are going to face a crisis.

An Illinois man wants a divorce because his wife chews tobacco. His chances of sympathy are not so good as if she merely chewed the rag.

An Alabama man has invented a vibrating bed, which puts you to sleep by vibrating 600 times a minute. A house near the railway tracks gives much the same effect.

Some restaurants are now charging 15 cents a cup for coffee, or 50 per cent. more than a glass of beer. We shall be driven to drink beer as an economy measure.

The Sadness Of Song

By IVOR BROWN
(Famous British Journalist and Essayist)

MR. HERBERT MORRISON, discussing the probable continuance after 1951 of London's Festival Fun-fair in Battersea Park, has said that he wants people to be happy; furthermore, he wants them to sing.

Few of us want the people unhappy; but do we really want them to sing? In Wales, perhaps; for there they can sing in tune, but not in England and Scotland, where public singing chiefly occurs after drink taken and is a discordant and melancholy howl.

Mr. Morrison has made the usual inaccurate connection of song with glee. But song has usually been born of suffering and there is far more of willow-waly than of fol-de-rol in its history. Since the introduction of crooning it has become more lachrymose than ever.

✧ ✧ ✧

DANCING of the most fashionable kind is now a funereal shuffle and the melodies and lyrics which accompany it are a long series of moans. If I turn on the wireless between 11 and 12 at night to get a little light refreshment for the ear, all I hear is the splintering of broken hearts and the whispered microphone regrets that the singer is bewitched and bewildered. Why all this muttered self-pity? Because somebody's baby has done him wrong, a remark which does not refer only to naughtiness in the nursery.

There is nothing new in this. Folk song is far more of a plaint than a paean. My own nation, the Scots, have a concentrated passion for the composing of laments. The Gaels are justly famous for their age-old airs, but, even in love, they seem to be "aye greeting", which means, for the Saxon, cry-babies. The Eriskay love-lilt, with all its beauty, is as sad as a wet day at Fort William. Few songs of the Isles want to make you throw your bonnet over the Minch; most minstrelsy that is born of the soil only invites us to the indulgence of a good, long cry.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE beauties of nature may gladden the heart, but, whether they are described in the Mountains of Mourne or Old Man Mississipi, amid the bonny braes familiar to Annie Laurie, or beside the boatman's Volga, they evoke, not lyrical ecstasy, but ululation of a very sombre kind.

If it be argued against me that man likes to sing in his bath, I can only surmise that he is expressing a deep dislike for soap and water. Deep waters do, indeed, provoke a certain amount of maritime booming about the pleasure of navigation in the repertory of concert-party baritones, but the oceanic event which chiefly stirs the great heart of the people is the prospect of being rocked in the cradle of the deep.

If the spring invites us vocally to gambol we are dancing with tears in our eyes. If Mr. Morrison does indeed expect community singing in Battersea Park, it will be no more hilarious than the dirge-like noises produced—I admit harmoniously—by Welsh football crowds.

✧ ✧ ✧

WE cannot even try to rejoice in song without some sinister reminder of our doom. That very popular voice of the people, Mr. Donald Peers, infectiously invites us to felicity. "Enjoy yourself", runs his song of the moment, and then gloomily adds, "It's later than you think". The grey hair mingles with the brown, the foot that would dance a jig is half-way to the grave, and the Atom Bomb is round the corner. Merry madrigal indeed! What a call to jubilation!

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE are two aspects of the universal sadness of song. One is the aforesaid and ubiquitous melancholy of the minstrel. The other is the misery that he evokes by the din that he raises. Music is the most selfish of the arts because it is imposed without stint or mercy on all around. As I write these words a soprano at a school of music is calling all Fleet Street to mourn with her. I once lived next to a malefactor who professionally encouraged aspirants to grand opera. He had whole-time pupils all the week and then devoted Saturday and Sunday to the kind of frustrated folk who feel that earning an honest living is insufficient; they must devote their leisure to giving Verdi to the world. Never did I hate Italy so much.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN my opinion all teachers of song and melody should be compelled by law to work in deep shelters or otherwise insulated buildings. The painter with his canvas or the writer with his pen may be as gloomy as they please and give no annoyance. But the torn heart of an intending tenor bleeds with such frantic outcry that the phrase "Committing a Nuisance", is altogether mild for this messenger of woe.

Let the people be as happy as they can in the Morrisonian heaven of 1951; but may they chortle without cantos and find glee with no more din than roundabouts create—which is surely plenty. For they cannot sing without sobbing incessantly themselves and provoking unmentionable oaths and passions in others. The Briton, ordered to be blithe, may have a song in his heart; but we shall all be much happier if he resolutely keeps it there.

Good Hunting!

(Dept. of Lands News)

Ontario sportsmen may enjoy the best all-round bird and small game shooting in years this Fall, if predictions of officials of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests come true.

Partridge are approaching the top of their cycle, according to Dr. W. J. K. Harkness, chief of the Fish and Wildlife Division. Over 10-year periods, partridge for some unknown reason reach a peak of plenty, and then decline almost to the vanishing point. Hunting isn't responsible for this—rather it is nature's own way of regulating the birds.

From Eastern Ontario come reports that Hungarian partridge are plentiful and already complaints are being received from farmers who declare jack rabbits are girdling their trees.

THE LOOKOUT

Letter To The Editor

COONS AND PARTRIDGE

Sir: The picture of the coons at Selwyn (Monday's Examiner) prompts me to write and tell you of wild-life we saw on a Sunday car trip when we were taking in the glories of our autumn colourings last week-end. Between Burleigh Falls and Buckhorn we almost had to stop the car as two coons took their leisurely way across the highway. They did not seem to be frightened. We did stop to look at them for several minutes.

Near Bobcaygeon on the same Highway 36 we got out of the car to look at the colouring of the sumac. Not 300 yards from the road we saw in the space of five minutes six partridge. One kept walking along a woodland path just ahead of us for fully a minute before he took flight.

Is wild-life particularly plentiful? And they seem very tame though when the hunters get their open season probably they will lose their tameness.

Yours sincerely,
A. T. M.

TAXI BUSINESS COSTS

Sir: I would like you to print an open letter to the public, and the city council, and would appreciate an open answer in your paper from the City Council.

In regard to a new taxi bylaw passed by the council, below is the operating cost of a 2 car taxi business:

2 girl dispatchers, $20 per wk.	$ 40.00
1 man dispatcher, $30 per wk.	30.00
6 drivers, $40 per week	240.00
	$ 310.00
To show a monthly basis wages	$1,344.16
Rent $45, light $1.50, phone $12, heat $8, business cards $1, passenger insurance $40, fire, theft, collision $2.50	110.00
Gasoline and oil, one month	339.83
Depreciation on cars $83.33, running repairs $15.00, tires $64	162.33
Overhead expense for one month	$1,956.32

This may seem a very high operating cost, but our new bylaw calls for this number of employees which accounts for $1,344.16 which is the governing factor in the expense account.

To cover this each car must travel approximately 6,378 miles per month. I allow for 18 miles per gallon which I think is good in city driving. Each car would do over 76,000 miles a year which accounts for high depreciation.

I think I have put very reasonable wages and values in this account. At present taxi owners cannot afford to pay drivers the money they deserve. Some as low as $32.50 per week. I think it should be $40-$45.

The public want reliable and responsible drivers, the insurance companies want men over 25 years if possible.

There are 13 taxi businesses in the city run by veterans, some of them can never do ordinary work, so it means their living.

I can only see three things that may happen from the bylaw: 1, Raise the fare to $1.00; 2, Abide by the bylaw and go broke in six months; 3, Stay as we are and try to cut expenses.

A VET. TAXI OWNER.

Why Editor Left Town

(Brooks, Alta., Bulletin)

A Southern Alberta editor, just about to go to press, "pied" a couple of articles, one concerning an auction sale and the other a write-up of a wedding. He asked the office devil to get the two articles together, and here's how he did it:

"William Smith and Miss Lucy Anderson were disposed of at public auction at my barn one mile east of a beautiful cluster of roses, and two white calves, before a background of farm implements too numerous to mention in the presence of about 70 guests including two milk cows, six mules and a bob sled. Rev. Jackson tied the nuptial knot with 200 feet of hay rope, and the bridal couple left on one John Deere gang plow for an extended trip with terms to suit purchasers."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then said Jesus unto his disciples, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. (Matt. 16: 24.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature....And these signs shall follow them that believe: In my name shall they cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues; they shall take up serpents; and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them; they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover. (Mark 16: 15, 17, 18.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Now we exhort you, brethren, warn them that are unruly, comfort the feebleminded, support the weak, be patient toward all men. See that none render evil for evil unto any man; but ever follow that which is good, both among yourselves, and to all men. Rejoice evermore. Pray without ceasing. In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you....

Prove all things; hold fast that which is good. (I Thess. 5: 14-18, 21.)

Unconsidered Trifles

A young surgeon received a telephone call from a colleague who invited him to make a fourth at bridge.

"Going out, dear?" asked his wife, looking at him suspiciously as he started to put on his coat.

"I'm afraid so," was the resigned reply, "and it's a very important case. There are three doctors there already."

✧ ✧ ✧

A young student from an agricultural college was in conversation with an old farmer.

"Do you know," said he "your methods of cultivation are a hundred years behind the times? Why, I'd be surprised if you made $50 out of the oats in that field."

"So would I," replied the farmer; "it's barley."

✧ ✧ ✧

Some years ago, a railroad engineer and his "rookie" fireman were on top of a water tank preparing to fill the engine's boiler, when the excited rookie fell into the tank.

Peering down at the floundering fireman, the engineer shouted: "Just fill the boiler with water, Sonny. No need to stamp the stuff down!"

Ontario's New Schools

(North Bay Nugget)

Speaking in New Liskeard the other day, Premier Frost said that between 600 and 700 new schools have been built in Ontario during the past six years. That's an extremely commendable achievement and one that will do much to maintain a high standard of living in this province. Right-thinking people will agree with the provincial government's policy of placing education on a pedestal far above industrial and other expansion. As the premier points out, "In Ontario, four and a half million people have made more progress in education during the last six years than in all America, indeed all the world."

"If they nationalise iron and steel I expect master's mares will get free shoes like we get free teeth."

140 Head of Holstein Cattle Exhibited At Madoc Fair

MARMORA, Oct. 5—(ENS) — Madoc fair was attended by 9,000 people on Wednesday.

With the exception of swine, all animal classes were finely represented. Holsteins predominated in the cattle section.

The 12th Hastings County Black and White Day was a feature of the fair. There were 140 head shown by Jack Max and Earl Burnside, Percy Broadworth, Kenneth W. Caskey, Philo Harris and James Pitts of Madoc; David L. Hollinger, Stirling; Ronald Longwell and Herbert Watt, Foxboro; Allan B. McComb and Sons, Belleville; Harry E. Neal and Edward Shannon, Marmora; A. N. Pyear and Son, of Frankford, and Finch and Son, Bateman and Son and G. Ketcheson late entrants.

An award goes to each exhibitor according to standing. Some outstanding successes were noted. Jack Burnside's first for bull three years and over which brought him the senior championship.

A. B. McComb and Sons, senior calf bull, was judged grand champion and junior champion. Max Burnside's entry in that class was reserve grand and reserve junior. Carl Thompson took reserve grand and reserve junior with his heifer, two years dry. The judge was James R. Henderson of Kingston, who had been a judge at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Herefords and Ayrshires

There were also Hereford and Ayrshire herds in the main cattle exhibits and Fred Holmes of Queensboro, showed his Black Poll Angus herd. Dorsets and South Downs stood out in the sheep classes:

"Horse entries were never better," said one committee man. "Poultry is only average," said another.

Domestic science, other ladies' work and vegetable and floral exhibits on the whole were good. There was an artistically arranged honey display by A. R. Hollands of Eldorado in this building.

The cheese exhibit was the greatest in years, no less than 62 new cheeses being entered.

Grandstand Show

While hundreds lined the race track another large crowd surrounded the grandstand for the three hours' program, and Campbellford band played.

The crowd was also entertained by the antics of a four man clown band from Napanee, led by Don Scott, who was also M.C. The Ripleys of Toronto, presented thetr ihrilling balancing act, and Bill Davies, also of Toronto, was entertaining as a ventriloquist.

Eleven ladies entered the nail-driving contest and winners were: 1, Mrs. David Howard, Belleville; 2, Mrs. E. Vathour, Bird's Creek; 3, Mrs. J. H. Brethour, Bancroft.

Four young men came forward to be measured for tallest man on the grounds. Ed Hensell of Crookston, who is 6' 5½" tall, was half an inch taller than his closest rival.

Carey Burns of Consecon, was crowned king of the freckles, as Frances Spratt of Tweed was his queen. George Wickens of Madoc and Eileen Roy of Bancroft, tied for third place. There were nine unsuccessful contestants.

Log Sawing Contest

Log sawing proved to be as popular as ever, 19 teams trying their luck. Prizes went to the following: 1, C. Roy and B. Parks, Bancroft; 2, Freymand Brothers, Bancrof t; 3, E. Alaire Cooper and E. Canniff, Queensboro; 4, E. Alaire Cooper and W. Canniff, Queensboro.

When entries were called for step dancing, five ladies came forward and ten men, so it was decided to hold two instead of one contest. The results were:

Ladies: 1, Mrs. James Gaffney, Bird's Creek; 2, Mrs. V. Lyons, Verona; 3, Mrs. C. McCormick, Bird's Creek.

Men: 1, Ted Palmateer, Ormsby, (12 years old); 2, William Reynolds, Madoc (12 years old); 3, D. Lyons, Verona (to own fiddle accompaniment).

Although no prize was given for the oldest person present, doubtless that honor went to James McGuire, 96, of Huntingdon township. He has never missed a fair in these grounds, which opened in 1926, and in the former fair grounds on the old Marmora road. He has not been an exhibitor but his son John has. Father is there every year to see how his son's Holsteins, sheep and hens fare against competition. His wife, fifteen years his junior, also attends.

The midway was popular with the crowd.

Prizes went to the following:
Ottawa Journal Prize—Gerald Fluke of Marmora, 98.00.
Highest scoring cheese—1 Murray Heath, Rylstone, 97.85; 2 Gerald Fluke Marmora, 97.80.
Largest exhibit—Charles Blair 97.20
Best finished—1 Roy Huffman, Beulah; 2 Murray Heath, Rylstone.
Madoc Cheese Board Prize—1 Gerald Fluke, Marmora 97.80; 2 Charles Clarke, Madoc 97.65; 3 Athol Dudgeon 97.40; 4 Charles Blair 97.30.

SEATTLE, Oct. 5—(AP)—Siamese-twin pigs were born Wednesday to a 600-pound Chester Whitle sow on the W. D. Begis farm some 20 miles north of Seattle. STILL SOARING — Canada's cost-of-living index continued its upward trend during August to reach a record 169.8 on Sept. 1 according to the latest figures announced Wednesday. It was 168.5 on Aug. 1. This latest increase was attributed to higher costs for food, fuel, rent and furnishings. This Dominion Bureau of Statistics graph shows in heavy black line the trend of the index during the last two years. The light dotted line shows the trend of the United States cost-of-living index during the same period. By Aug. 15 it had reached 173.0. These are not comparative figures but merely indicate the trends of the two indices.

EYE TOPICS

GALILEO
Searcher of the Heavens

The life of Galileo was colorful, dramatic. The drama of Galileo's career centers about three great scenes.

1. The episode of the cathedral lamp (1583). He watched the swinging lamp in the cathedral, deduced that the oscillations of a given pendulum always take place in equal time no matter whether the swing is small or large. Rushing out of the cathedral, Galileo makes the first timepiece having a pendulum, becomes in fact the father of grandfather clocks.

2. The episode of the falling stones (about 1590). The scene is the famous Leaning Tower of Pisa. Galileo drops a light stone and a heavy stone — proves that both reach the ground at the same time.

3. The episode of the telescope (1609). Hearing rumors from Holland of the magic to be accomplished by lenses in a tube, Galileo sets to work at once constructing with his own hands what is virtually the world's telescope. From his observations of the starry sky he asserts that the earth is not the centre of the universe but goes around the sun.

The central fact about Galileo's life was vision. To every life there come thousands of opportunities for discovery and advancement — opportunities that we often miss because, as the saying goes, "we can't see farther than our noses."

Mother Nature Interrupts Ghosts Edge Orfuns 5-0

By DON GRANT

Ghosts danced to the bagpipes at Morrow Park Wednesday night. The ghosts were not the type that haunt houses on dark, thundering, rainy nights but the Ghosts of the human flesh type. And with a good reason did these human Ghosts do their song and dance while the bagpipes played the Orfuns' Sad Retreat. A miserably wet, slippery ball had sailed from the hands of Peterborough's snap, Gord Beatty, well over the local kicker's head past the Peterborough line. There Bill Douglas, who today was most likely made mayor of Cobourg, dropped on the ball for a touchdown with five seconds left to play.

Not only did the five little points give the win to Cobourg but allowed the Galloping Ghosts to take a healthy four-point lead in the local senior B ORFU group. They forced the Orfuns to remain in a second place tie with the Oshawa Red Raiders. A win for the Orfuns would have placed them in a first place tie with the Ghosts.

For 59 minutes and 55 seconds Chuch Paul for the Orfuns and Bob Cooper of the Ghosts had engaged in a punting duel, one of the best exhibitions of punting seen here this year. A slight breeze which brought a misty rain late in the fourth helped the Cobourg cause.

A quick kick by Cooper with two and a half minutes to go caught the Orfuns cold. Matthews raced back and managed to squeeze out to the one-yard line. There on three downs they plunged for a first down. Two more attempts for yardage failed and they were forced to attempt a kick with five seconds left. Then the ball went haywire and the game went to the Ghosts as Douglas dropped on the ball for the major score. Cooper's drop kick attempt for the extra point failed.

The Orfuns' line rescued the squad early in the first when a fumble was recovered by Keith Hawkins on the 19-yard line. A Cooper-to-Medhurst pass and plunges by Douglas and Jamieson put the ball on the two. Douglas was smeared by Bill Huntley and Babe Levantis for a loss of two on the third down. Paul booted the ball into the centre zone.

The Orfuns' first chance to tally was late in the half when Paul uncorked a 60-yard punt, Beatty nailing Jamieson on the one-yard line. Cooper after two downs kicked out to the 35 Cobourg. Two Orfun plays failed to bring results and Paul kicked again, this time behind the line. Hamilton just got out before he was hit by Masters and Lynch. Cooper again freed the Ghosts with a kick for 45 yards as the half ended.

In the third Cooper and Paul continued their battle and the play was centred between the 25-yard lines. Early in the fourth Bill Huntley tried a placement from the Cobourg 23 which went astray. Bob Bevan was hit on the kick at the three-yard line. Cooper ended the Orfun scoring threat by kicking the ball for 50 yards.

Both teams did little forward passing. Cobourg's Cooper tried six forwards, two completed and the Orfuns' Paul tried four, only one being completed that in the fourth.

Ernie Darragh and Bob Bevan led the Cobourg ground attack, both earning yards throughout the night. Bevan in the third put on a display of broken field running for 25 yards which was brilliant.

Bill Huntley again behind the steady driving of the Orfuns' line drove hard on plunges throughout. Chuck Paul also provided fancy footwork while carrying the ball helping to execute several end runs.

Athletics Crush Crescents 13-4

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 5 — (CP)—St. Catharines Athletics Wednesday night forced a seventh game in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior finals by crushing Owen Sound Crescents 13-4.

The deciding game will be played in Fergus Friday night. The win tied the best-of-seven series at 3-3.

Nelson, Teatro and Smith each got a pair of goals for Athletics. McNulty, Teather, Frick, Croft, McMahon, Myers and Damico got the others.

Smith, Allum, Slater and Foote scored for the Crescents. Owen Sound played a tight defensive game, and passed up several chances on Bill Whitaker's net.

OBA Playoffs Billed For Here Saturday

Secretary Al Watkins, of the Peterborough Minor Baseball Association announces three OBA semi-final playoffs here this Saturday afternoon. There is also a good possibility that Len Symonds' local juveniles will play in Ottawa on Saturday and back here in Riverside at three p.m. Monday, it also being a semi-final series.

Ed Woodcock's bantams tangle with Ottawa at three Saturday afternoon in Riverside and must win or they are eliminated. A third, if necessary, will be in Perth on Monday. Bill Post's local peewees play Ottawa twice in the Bowl on Saturday afternoon starting at 1.30, third game if needed being in Perth on Monday. Ottawa peewees get no home game on account of failing to show up here a week ago for a scheduled playoff.

Central Wins; Others Tie In School Loop

Two smart school soccer aggregations—Confederation and Central—met in a public school game on King Edward Park, Wednesday afternoon, and the latter won 3-0 in an excellent display of the code.

Both elevens opened up at a terrific pace to harass the defense time and again, Confederation's combination playing havoc on Central half back line. Eventually Brooks gained possession about 20 yards out to send in a lightning drive to open the scoring. On resuming, play was of the highest order around the goals, with the defensive methods holding them in check. Confederation forwards added pressure at this point, to leave their full-backs away out of position and Gardner took advantage as he broke through the full-backs to register the second counter. Gardner added another goal from scrimmage in front of goal to make it read 3-0.

Confederation—J. Brown, goal; D. Goldie and R. Linsey, full-backs; D. Sloan, V. Hamilton and S. Graves, half-backs; C. Simmons, B. Chamberlain, R. Miller, D. Mein and B. Floyd forwards.

Central—B. Bye, goal; J. Matthews and R. Rowe, full-backs; S. Brooks, D. Martin and B. Patten, half-backs; B. Gardner, J. Smith, P. Lunn, R. Butler and D. Patterson, forwards. Subs, R. Gray, P. Brown, R. Gibbs, R. Freeman, C. Crayme.

Referee, Mr. Weir.

A 1-1 Draw

Queen Mary and Prince of Wales met Wednesday in a senior game in Exhibition Grounds to split the points in a one-all tie.

Combination plays prevailed to advantage to bring out the superb defensive tactics of the full-backs on each eleven. Brady kept intercepting the P. W. attack to finally send his centre man, Dafoe, through to split the defense with a rocket drive to score. On resuming, Coach Rutherford instilled a splendid system of attack that paid off when Chambo evened up the count; while Queen Mary boys missed their objective through over-eagerness to score.

Queen Mary—H. Stinson, goal; R. Graham and K. Beck, full-backs; R. Deck, R. Brady and R. Brown, half-backs; O. Schweirs, R. Dubay, D. Nisbett, D. Horton and D. Hillier, forwards. Subs, G. Putnam, D. Friar, J. Dafoe, F. Boyle.

Prince of Wales— J. Peirson, goal; T. Northrop and W. Brown, full-backs; G. Hunt, J. Heron and C. Whitney, half-backs; J. Bowen, B. Godfrey, D. Coit, G. Downer and N. Clark, forwards. Subs, G. Hancock, J. Bonner, F. Chambo.

Referee, Mr. Corbett.

Scoreless Draw

Q.A.-Q.E. and King George battled to a no score tie on Wednesday afternoon, in Exhibition Grounds, in a senior game to split the points.

Play ran from end to end at a rapid pace to find the custodians master of the situation in every attack as they cleared their citadel. In fact the King George goalie was brilliant. In the second half, exchanges were even throughout, with the forwards missing open goals.

Q.A.-Q.E. — W. Macklin, goal; F. Anderson and R. Dillman, full-backs; C. McMillan, W. Whitnell and R. Ward, half-backs; R. Whitton, W. Harrison, J. Johnson, G. McClennan and W. Whitton, forwards. Subs, K. Brown, R. Druce, R. Kicks, D. Frise, W. Kemp.

King George—W. Wilson, goal; P. McIlmoyle and A. Harding, full-backs; G. Ellis, E. Roote and K. Barker, half-backs; C. Butcher, B. Simpson, P. Harding, J. Rogers, R. McKenzie. Subs, F. Roberts, D. Johnston, B. McNaughton.

Bickels Roll High In Major Bowling

Bickels rolled high pinnage of 3,478 at the Major Bowling League in Playfair this week, as well as compiling high single game for teams with a 1,270 mark. M. Caccavella led in triples with 813 as G. Masters topped them all in singles with his nifty 344 roll. Other good scores were: G Masters 798 in three, and singles by M. Doris 326, M. B. McCarrell 325, C. Lusttic 320, H. Mowry 316, C. Milheron and M. Mackay 300.

Plazas blanked McWilliams, Kingsmen took McLeod's 6-0, while Caccavella's skunked Wood's and two other shutouts were hung up by Hunt's over Kawartha and by Edgewater over Wonder's. Parkway beat Bassell's 4-2 as simflar wins were racked up by Elliott & Browne over Calvert's, Bickel's against Campbell's, Post Office over Modern Tailors, Mongrew over Wade, Cherney's against Odeon, and Selkirk's over Crowley's.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Just got back from a rather long week-end in Detroit—it's easy to have a long week-end there—and ready for the regular routine again. Ball fans there still blame their top three or four hitters for letting the Yanks slip by them in the final week. They don't blame the bonehead play by their catcher—it only cost one game—nor their pitchers. They had been hurling over their heads in the pennant drive. But, apparently, the dependable clouters had to slump during the money drive, and that was that. The offensive end of ball is stressed so much in the major loops that a hitter who doesn't come through in the clutches is "it". Some of those Tiger thumpers had better not seek a raise next spring.

* * * * * *

However, like this writer, we won't write the Tigers off at any time. You can't do it, or couldn't for many years. A great baseball city and the club, if it isn't winning a pennant, is up around second or third place. Beat out Boston and Cleveland handily this year and, with a bit of bolstering, will take the Yanks in '51. New York, of course, has some 6,000,000 and terrific gates, while Detroit is a busy city of around 2,000,000 and pretty good average gates year in and year out. We found it a busy spot in which to drive, especially up Grand River with those stop-and-start city buses and those blinkety-blank checker cabs hitting at you from all sides. Still, 'twas lots of excitement and fun.

Timothy Hath "It"

Sorry we missed the famous Timothy Geohagan—it's pronounced Geohagen—in the pro mat match here Tuesday. The guy must be terrific. A huge man with considerable Irish dignity—even in the mat game—he has an university degree and specializes on the side in hypnotism and strong-man acts. Like tearing telephone books and railway spikes apart, or toting people on chairs around by his teeth. An odd occupation, but of course he is not advertising this as a means of transportation (Chinese Ricksha Local 147,113 wouldn't go for that)—he is just showing how strong he is. Hi Lee, a villainous grappler of nigh onto 290 tough pounds, will agree that this Irisher, regardless of his education and his side lines, is a hard gee.

* * * * * *

Perhaps as a postscript to the pro grapple game today, we might add that we were interested to learn that Toar Morgan was the new ice arena manager at Lindsay. Since two or three of our OHA clubs may see some action there this coming cold spell. Morgan is a Tennessee heavyweight who has earned some fame in the mat ring. He married a Lindsay girl and makes that fine town his headquarters. He spent some time in the Yukon, like the famous Sam McGee from Tennessee that Robert Service wrote about—but Toar wasn't burned up. We don't think anyone will try to crash the gate at games when Morgan is on the job, as he's a tough baby, and even the Scugog centre cops will agree to that. The guy is really strong.

Those Lucky Ghosts

Our grid Orfuns certainly mustn't live right. And, by the same token, those ghostly gridders from Cobourg, must live like plaster saints—no, no, not plastered! It was 5-0 at the end of the senior "B" struggle at Morrow Park last night for Cobourg, but less than half a minute before game's end 'twas 0-0, a good indication of play in a gruelling match. A high snap with a wet ball on Orfuns' 10-yard chalk and, zoom, Bill Douglas was in there to swoop on the loose pigskin and give the Ghosts an unconverted touchdown. It happened with 59 minutes and 45 seconds of the game gone. Those kind of losses are heart-breakers. Orfuns play in Oshawa on the holiday, and have two more home melees later in the month.

Civic Arena has not been sold out yet for the Maple Leafs' big exhibition puck game here tomorrow night. Doug Miller advises us that approximately 1,000 tickets were available shortly before noon today at Tem, and ducats will be on sale there until about seven p.m. Friday, the remainder then being sold at the arena. Only enough tickets to fill the place were printed and, of course, reserve seat pasteboards were grabbed up fast. But there should be quite a few available yet tonight and tomorrow. It'll be a swell exhibition by two Leafian NHL squads, every player hustling to latch onto a safe berth, with proceeds going to the Rotary fund for crippled children.

Another referee's signal for infractions of the rules is the offside pass, a horizontal arc of either hand chest high.

An offside pass is made when the ball is knocked with the hand or arm, or is handed or thrown towards the opponents dead-ball line. A lateral or onside pass is made when the ball is thrown or handed by a player in any direction other than towards his opponents dead-line.

The exception to the rule is when on the play from the scrimmage and on his own side of the line of scrimmage, the player who receives the ball from the snap may without penalty hand the ball in an offside direction to any player of his side who was not occupying the position of wingline player when the ball was handed to him.

If a player makes an offside pass within the field from a play originating from a scrimmage, the penalty depends on whether yards have been made or not. If the offence occurs and yards are not made, the play will be re-scrimmaged by the offenders with the loss of one down from the origin of the pass. If the offence occurs on the third down in this case the penalty shall be loss of ball.

On the other hand if the violation occurs after yards have been gained, the ball shall be rescrimmaged by the offending side, as a first down, at the origin of the pass. Where the offside pass goes into touch, the offending side shall scrimmage the ball 10 yards in from the touch line and 10 yards back from a point where the ball went into touch or where the ball was last touched in the field-of-play, whichever point which happens to be closer to the goal-line of the side entitled to possession. A first down will still be awarded.

If an offside pass is committed by the attacking team (they gained possession without scrimmaging the ball) the penalty shall be the same as when the offence occurs and yards made.

If an offside pass is committed by a team behind its own goal line, the opposing team shall be awarded one point or either of two options; (i) a scrimmage as a first down 10 yards out from the offending team's goal line, or (ii) any ground gained or score legally made during the play.

Perks To Head The Petes Senior "B" Club

Reg Perks has been named president of the Peterborough Hockey Club for the 1950-51 season, with Dave Wilson vice-president, Baz Phelan secretary and Gene Sheedy the treasurer. The executive committee consists of Ed Riley, Bob Gamble, Ed Foley, Johnny Russelle, Spiro Zakos, Ed Alberico, Don Gravelle, Jim Guiry, Sam Micelli, Drake Jopling, Dr. Howes and Fred Scates.

No coach has been appointed yet, while the managerial duties will be handled by Red Creighton and Ed Foley. The club will be sponsored this season by Benny Swartz, George St. business man who has been keenly interested in Peterborough sports for some years. He formerly sponsored some topnotch men's softball teams which went into OASA playdowns. The team is expected to be much stronger in OHA senior "B" play this season than a year ago.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

About 40 skips of the Peterborough Curling Club attended a special meeting Wednesday evening, in the club's parlors, and while the attendance was somewhat smaller than was expected, it was nevertheless a good meeting. The main idea of the meeting was to talk over the activities for the coming season. S. Lowe, property chairman, gave a brief summary of what his committee is doing, and Dr. C. McKee, bonspiel chairman, outlined the details regarding the big 3-day open bonspiel Dec. 4, 5, 6. He asked for the co-operation of all members to help put this across the biggest of its kind in the province.

Dr. M. M. Cortney, membership chairman, reported for his committee.

Many suggestions were brought forward and passed on to the committees. The meeting expressed the desire that the schedule be carrid on the same as last year and they also left the choosing of the Tankard and District Cupj skips with the board of directors.

As next Tuesday is the date set apart for choosing the schedule rinks it is important that all applications be in the hands of secretary Ira Moore by then.

Many of last year's members have not as yet signed up and they are requested to send their applications along at once.

PCVS Seniors Victorious As TCS Drop Annual 29-11

By DON GRANT

Coach Bev Goulding's PCVS seniors are like Indian rubber balls. Wednesday afternoon they bounced back from the 62-6 lacing by East York last Friday to down the Trinity College firsts in Port Hope 29-11.

This game was the annual meeting between the two schools and was not only an exhibition of football but of true sportsmanship. Not one penalty was handed out during the game except for three offsides.

The Garnet and Grey's passing began to show for the first time this year, but it was still so-so even though touches resulted from three. Bryan Young, PCVS quarter, flipped 22 forwards, nine completed, two intercepted and 11 incomplete. Most of the completed passes all figured in the three major scores.

Whenever the forward passing faltered, the PCI'ers returned to the ground attack where Roy Armstrong, Bob Gandy, and Bus Jensen were the strongest. Timmons, Currie and Smoth headed the ground offensive for the TCS boys.

Wright for TCS and Al Northcott for PCVS matched kicks throughout the game. Many times Wright pulled the Trinity crew away from danger with a long punt. Wright also passed for the Port Hopers connecting on two, having three interceptions and missing 10.

Passing combined with plunges in the early first for the PCI'ers. Armstrong from the kickoff ran back to the Trinity 45. After a Warren-Brown plunge for four yards, Young passed to Al Northcott. Plunges by Armstrong and Brown placed the ball on the one-yard line. Young passed to Northcott again for the touchdown which went unconverted.

Late in the second Northcott punted the ball well into Trinity territory. Wright tried to clear the ball after two downs failed to make yards. His kick went to the 45 Trinity from where Armstrong first and then Northcott carried the ball eventually to the TCS 10. Gandy went around the end for the major which Young converted.

In the third PCVS began to roll for another major from the Trinity 41. Young passed to Northcott and then later to Galley well over the line for the five points. Galley caught the ball with a drive about six inches off the ground. Young converted to make the score 17-0.

Timmons with nearly perfect blocking by the linemen and the backfielders put the Trinity gridders back in the game late in the third. Starting at the TCS 40-yard line Timmons began a rally with two plunges for first downs. On an end run Muntz broke into the clear, but was caught at the PCVS 12 by Armstrong. Timmon in two plunges went to the one-yard line. There Wright went over on a quarter sneak. Clark converted. In the fourth Muntz again started a TCS scoring play when he intercepted a Northcott pass at centre and raced for 45 yards. Later Timmons reeled over for Trinity's final points.

Several plays later Young passed 15 yards to Bus Jensen, who broke loose into the clear. He jogged 53 yards for the major which Young converted. While trying to edge closer to the PCI-ers late in the game Trinity attempted passes. Bob Craw intercepted one, and went 37 yards for the final major. Young converted.

PCVS started to roll for another score on another intercepted pas and then a Fortner-to-Buckland pass but the time ran out.

Friday night the PCVS seniors meet Toronto Western Tech at Morrow Park under the lights at 8:30. The preliminary game will start at 6:30 between the Lindsay Collegiate juniors and the PCVS junior A team..

The line-ups:

PCVS — Flying wing, Northcott; halves, Brown, Gandy, Armstrong; quarter, Young; snap, Frise; insides, Grant, G. Burns; middles, Telford, English; outsides, Galley, Thompson; alternates, McIlraith, Craw, Buckland Clapper, Curtis, Cunningham, Facendi, Fortner, Jensen, Mongraw, Northey, Nicholls, Sanders, Ward, White Knox.

TCS—Flying wing, Smith; halves, Humphreys, Muntz, Timmons; quarter, Wright; centre, Watts; insides, Dolph, Arklay; middles, Rumball, Bonnycastle; outsides, Clark, Cosgage; alternates, Martin, Brierly, Phillips, Emery, Marshall, Gordon, Currie, McKim, Harris, Seagram, Robertson, McCullagh, Farley, Hunt and Cooper.

GRAZIANO WINS

Rocky Graziano, former world's middleweight champion, administered a one-sided lacing to Gene Burton, New York welter weight at Chicago Wednesday night before knocking him out in the seventh round of their scheduled 10-round bout.

Oshawa Loses Chance At Title

WATERLOO, Oct. 5—(CP)—Waterloo Tigers meet Niagara Falls Fords tonight in the first game of their best-of-seven series for the Ontario senior baseball championship.

Tigers, Intercounty League champions, earned their berth in the final Wednesday night with a 2-1 victory over Oshawa Merchants, who headed the Viaduct Loop. Waterloo took the series, four games to one.

Al Dumouchelle got credit for the win, although he gave up seven hits to four for Merchants' Tony De Laurentis.

Three of the hits De Laurentis gave up, however, came in the fourth frame, when Tigers scored both their runs. Two singles and a walk filled the bases, and another single scored two men. Tigers' only other hit was a single.

Oshawa spoiled Dumouchelle's shutout in the sixth with two singles combined with a walk.

Merchants were close to the tying run both in the eighth and final innings, but fast outfield relays cut men off at the plate.

FIERY, ITCHING TOES AND FEET

Here is a clean, stainless antiseptic oil that will do more to help you get rid of your trouble than anything you've ever used.

Its action is so powerfully penetrating that the itching is quickly stopped; and in a short time you are rid of that bothersome, fiery torture. The same is true of Barber's Itch, Salt Rheum, Eczema—other irritating unsightly skin troubles.

You can obtain Moone's Emerald Oil in the original bottle at any Tamblyn Drug Store, or any modern drug store. It is safe to use—and failure in any of these ailments is rare indeed.

Columbus Wins 'Little' Series Against Orioles

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 5 (AP)—The Columbus Red Birds Wednesday night racked up a second major conquest for manager Rollie Hemsley in beating Baltimore Orioles 6-3 in the final and winning game of the Little World Series.

Hemsley, who piloted American Association Red Birds to four victories in five games with the International League champions, managed the Nashville Vols when they won the Southern Association pennant last year.

Even before the Little Series victory, there was speculation that Hemsley, a former star catcher, was slated to succeed Eddie Dyer as manager of the parent St. Louis Cardinals. Unconfirmed rumors say Dyer is on his way out and that either Hemsley or manager Johnny Keane, of Rochester, will replace him.

No Mean Accomplishment

The Red Birds' conquest of the International League team in the Little Series was no mean accomplishment. The Birds were fifth in the association in July, finished third in final season standings and eliminated Minneapolis and Indianapolis in the post-season playoffs.

In Wednesday night's game, the Birds knocked out Karl Drews—the only Oriole pitcher to win a series game.

The victory was sweet, also, for hurler Cotton Deal of the Red Birds. A "hero" last year, Deal had a spotty season until the playoffs. He didn't lose a single game in that series, and accounted for two of the four triumphs over Baltimore.

The last-game victory was a batting spree for Columbus. The Birds hammered out 12 hits, with everyone but Deal and Bill Sarni getting into the act. But only 3,827 fans braved the chilly night to see the series end. Crowds for the first three games in Baltimore averaged around 20,000.

GRID GREATS—Virgil Wagner, left, in typical stride and Frank Filchock completing a pitch. It's quite evident that the ball didn't bowl over the camera or its operator. "Wag" is going after the scoring leadership again. He has won it four times. They look pretty fit for Alouettes in their two-game set-to with the Rough Riders this weekend, at Ottawa Saturday, Montreal on Sunday.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

A promising hockey career has been renounced by 22-year-old Floyd (Butch) Martin because of his religious beliefs.

Martin, defenceman with the Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen in the Ontario Hockey Association senior league last year, said in Kitchener Wednesday he is retiring permanently from the game because of "deep-seated religious views."

He signed a professional contract with New York Rangers of the National Hockey League last year.

His spiritual adviser, the Rev. J. H. Hess, associate pastor of the First Mennonite church here, said in a statement: "He begged to be released from his contract due to certain doubts as to the legitimacy of professional sports for a Christian."

"The Rangers complied and loaned Butch to the K-W Flying Dutchmen for one season, hoping that such convictions might change. This year the New York team sought to reclaim him. But with courage Butch informed Manager (Frank) Boucher that as a Christian his conscience would not permit him to give his time and primary concern to commercialized sport.

"Manager Boucher respected his convictions and change of heart."

Montreal junior Canadiens Memorial Cup champions, dropped a 6-1 decision to Oshawa Generals Wednesday night in an exhibition hockey game.

Canadiens scored the only goal of the first period, on Don Marshall's pass to Mackay, but Oshawa then went to work. Herve D'Jordy fired three goals and Lou Jankowski scored twice. Delviccio got the other Oshawa goal.

Bill Gregus, Hamilton Tiger-Cats' best plunger, was ordered Wednesday to report for duty with the United States army Oct. 16.

Coach Carl Voyles said, however, Gregus "may get a deferment for at least a couple of weeks." Deferred or not, Gregus will be able to see action in three more football games before the call-up date.

He is the second American in the Big Four to be called up in less than a week. Bob Heck, Toronto Argonauts' outside wing, left for Chicago Saturday for service with the U.S. Marine Corps.

Vic Raschi both won and lost in the world series Wednesday. The New York Yankee hurler defeated Philadelphia Phillies 1-0 in the opener but his hotel room was looted while he pitched two-hit ball. Two suitcases were taken containing 140 world series tickets, clothing, jewelry and a diamon studded watch.

One of the suitcases was found later in an alley. It still contained 80 series tickets.

Still missing from the suitcase Raschi said, were 20 reserved seat tickets for each of the three games at New York.

The Yankee pitcher said he had purchased the tickets for friends and relatives. It is customary for players of the contending teams to be permitted to buy a certain number of tickets for each game.

Hockey teams were busy in exhibition games Wednesday night. At Stratford, Adam Brown scored two goals to lead the National Hockey League Chicago Black Hawks to a 6-3 victory over Cleveland Barons of the American League. Boston Bruins meantime defeated the A.H.L. Providence Reds 4-1 at Providence, with Dave Creighton, Johnny Peirson, Pete Horeck and Sylvio Bettio scoring for the N. H.L. club. At Quebec, New York Rangers swamped the Aces of the Quebec Senior League 10-2, with rookie Reg Sinclair scoring two goals and an assist. In an exhibition between two A. H. L. teams at Niagara Falls, Ont., Pittsburgh Hornets blanked Buffalo Bisons 4-0.

2 Teams Placid After First Series Game

By TED SMITS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5 (AP)—The dressing rooms of the New York Yankees and the Philadelphia Phillies, after the first World Series game, reflected four things clearly:

1. Both teams were still emotionally spent from the hot pennant races.
2. Both teams realized they were over the hump in winning the big cash prize.
3. Neither team is yet fully fired up with eagerness to become world champions—that comes in a day or two.
4. Above all, the Yankees, old professional campaigners, take victory as a matter of course.

Both dressing rooms were placid after the brilliant pitching duel in which Vic Raschi of the Yankees bested Jim Konstanty of the Phillies 1-0. The Yankees sat on two long benches against the wall of a narrow room, looking at each other in silence. The Phillies moved around a little but accepted defeat more calmly than might be expected from such a young team.

Simple Reason

The reason for this is fairly simple. Ball players first of all set out to win the league championship. That means a cut in the World Series prize. For each player on a winning team in a series such as the present one it means about $5,500 in cash; for a player on the losing team about $4,250.

But if the Yankees or the Phillies had finished second in their league races—and both came close to it—the prize money would have been only $1,000. Third place players get about $750, fourth place $350.

So when the Yankees and the Phillies clinched the pennants it meant they had a chance to win $5,500 in the series, but could not get less than about $4,250—a bit different from $1,000. That's why the final games of the pennant race were charged with so much dressing-room excitement.

The series excitement comes as the climax is approached.

Wednesday was a story of pitching craftsmanship.

Said Dick Sisler, Phillies batting hero:

"Raschi had good control. He gave me nothing good to hit at. Brother, I was really reaching for them. He had my number."

Said manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees:

"Both men pitched a good game. Course I think my man pitched a better game."

Identify Body

BOWMANVILLE, Oct. 5 — An aged man killed by a car on No. 2 Highway near Oshawa recently was identified Wednesday as William John Turner, 75, of Lake St. Peter, Ont. Ontario Provincial Police here learned of the identity through fingerprints. Lake St. Peter is 27 miles north of Bancroft.

Sawyer Loses Big Gamble As Phils Bow To Yanks 1-0

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5—(AP)—Robin Roberts must stop the New York Yankees today — or else. That is the consensus of opinion at world series headquarters as the Phils' 20-game winner prepares to meet Allie Reynolds (16-12) in the second game.

Manager Eddie Sawyer lost his daring gamble on Jim Konstanty in Wednesday's 1-0 opener, but not before his relief ace turned in a pitching game that long will be remembered. Vic Raschi simply threw too hard for the dazed National League champs, despite Konstanty's heart-tugging effort.

Now it's up to Roberts, 20-year-old wonder boy of Sunday's pennant clincher. Well rested after his strenuous 4-1 victory against Brooklyn, Roberts must win, or the 1950 series may not come back to Philadelphia.

An Uphill Job

The Phils face an uphill job, reflected by the 5-to-1 odds in man to man betting. Reynolds is a 7½-to-5 choice over Roberts in the second game. Few want to wager that the Phils will even win two games after watching Raschi handcuff them with two singles in the opener.

Raschi's brilliant job couldn't dim the near-miracle of Konstanty. The 33-year-old bullpen veteran, who hadn't started a game since 1948, deserved a better fate. He allowed only four hits in eight innings before giving way to a pinch-hitter. It took two fly balls to convert one of the hits into the only run of the game.

"I don't mind losing on base hits," Konstanty said. "But when a couple of fly balls beat you, it's pretty tough."

Only Extra Baser

The base hit—a double down the left field line by Bobby Brown in the fourth inning—was the only extra-baser off Konstanty. According to Jim it was a "slider at least a half foot inside." But that was the ball game when it was backed up by two fly balls that permitted Brown to score.

Sawyer showed up at the press room Wednesday night with some of the Phil officials.

"Now we can't go into New York leading 2-0," he said. "It will have to be 1-1."

Sawyer worked 33-year-old Konstanty Wednesday in a daring gamble to give Roberts more rest. Roberts started three games in five days last week as the Phils wobbled down the stretch.

Essentially a fast-ball pitcher like Reynolds and Raschi, Roberts has the poise of a Grover Cleveland Alexander. It is doubtful if he will be awed by a world series after his fine job in 40 regular-season games.

Reynolds, series veteran of 1947 and 1949 and a real hero last fall, hasn't started a game since Sept. 25.

Sit In Stands

Curt Simmons and Tommy Henrich, two stars who might normally be sharing the headlines, sat in the stands as Raschi outdid Konstanty in Wednesday's beautiful pitching duel. Simmons, inelegible, was on leave from the army. All he did was pitch batting practice and dream of the way it might have been. Henrich, hobbled by a bad knee, was replaced on the active list by Johnny Hopp.

Hopp came up with a nice stop of a ninth-inning rap by Richie Ashburn that might have meant trouble for Raschi. Johnny had replaced big Jawn Mize in the eighth for defensive reasons.

The big Phil chance came in the fifth, when they collected both of their hits. Raschi retired 13 men in order until Willie Jones singled with one out in the fifth. After Gran Hamner flied out, Andy Seminick laced a single to left, then Raschi bore down to strike out Mike Goliat.

His Only Pass

Raschi walked Eddie Waitkus, his only pass of the game, with one out in the sixth and proceeded to mow down the next 11 men in succession.

"Shudda been a one-hitter," said Raschi. "That single by Jones—I thought it was hit real hard and I got out of the way. It was just a dribbler."

It was the third straight 1-0 opening game, following Johnny Sain's 1948 sparkler for Boston Braves and Reynolds' two-hitter against Don Newcombe last year.

SPORTSMANSHIP IN "CANADA UNLIMITED"

It was Sept. 22, 1949. At Little Rock, Ark., Toronto Tip Tops were matched with the Clearwater (Florida) Bombers. Tip Tops had battled their way undefeated through the cream of North American softball teams—with the world title as their goal.
Faced with the Bombers' ace hurler, the Toronto team trailed from the 3rd to the 7th inning—then tied it up, 1-1. For the next 10 frames the teams battled a deadlock. Suddenly Tip Tops rallied. In the 18th they blasted two men home . . . and became the first Canadian team to win the world softball championship.
Close teamwork has won many firsts for Canadian sportsmen. And teamwork, with sportsmanship, can help you, too—in work and play. Together they keep your scope for opportunity in Canada . . . unlimited.

Use War Vets In Latest Johnson Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 5 (AP)—In his current picture, Van Johnson is being supported by a sales manager, a land agent, a news reporter, a psychology student, a custom agent and a nursery gardener.

No, it isn't tough to find actors out here. But the cast members of "Go For Broke" have been recruited from many walks of life. The reason: Most of them are Japanese-American war veterans.

"Go For Broke," which means "shoot the works" in Hawaiian slang, is the story of the 442nd regimental combat team. The outfit, composed of Japanese-Americans, saw action in Italy and France. It's members fought with such distinction that the survivors were presented at the White House in June, 1946.

Van Johnson, who plays an officer of the outfit, is the only star in the picture. Most of the performers are actual veterans of the 442nd.

"They are responding very well to coaching," says Robert Pirosh, writing and directing the film.

No Glamor

Pirosh, who wrote "Battleground," said:

"My idea has not been to glamorize the men. For instance, there is a goldbricker in the outfit, just as there was in any other. But the picture will show that some of them have unusual problems.

"For instance, some of them are bitter because while they are fighting, their families and sweethearts are in relocation camps on the west coast."

Pirosh explained why he sought real veterans instead of Hollywood names: "I think it detracts from the realism of a war picture if a face like Gregory Peck's or Dean Jagger's suddenly appears in the middle of a battle."

D-Day Table, Chairs Listed For Auction

LONDON —(CP)— A table around which the allied joint chiefs-of-staff drew up their plans for the D-Day offensive against Germany, is to be sold.

For nearly three years, the table which was used by Generals Eisenhower and Marshall, has been housed in the executive offices of the American Overseas Airlines in London's Mayfair district. With its 10 Chippendale chairs it is to be offered to the highest bidder, from the starting price of $15,000.

A plaque at each end of the table states: "In constant use October, 1943-May 1944, for the deliberations of General Eisenhower, Allied Commander-in-Chief, and his staff, who were then planning the victorious Allied advance in Germany."

WI Told About Dress, Personality

NORWOOD, Oct. 4—(ENS)—The Women's Institute conference on Personality and Dress was held in Norwood town hall on Monday. Mrs. Fred Gardner, the president, introduced the speaker, Miss Nora Crayke, who discussed personality, which she described as "all that makes you different from everyone else."

"Basic characteristics for a fine personality are honesty, self-control, self confidence, sincerity, dependability and sense of humor," the speaker declared. She illustrated how one could develop these characteristics.

She outlined methods of achieving a pleasant tone of voice. She suggested obtaining a book on etiquette to improve manners and to give self-confidence. She said one should have a hobby and should read two daily newspapers and also well-written digests to widen scope of thought and improve vocabulary.

At the afternoon meeting exercise sheets were distributed and Miss Caryke explained the exercises and gave demonstrations. She spoke of carriage and posture. She also demonstrated right and wrong ways of sitting down.

She spoke of facial expression and stated that frowning is sometimes caused by physical discomfort and sometimes by mental dissatisfaction. One should try and improve the condition and wear a pleasant smile.

Analyse Clothes

She told her listeners to analyse their clothes as to color composition line, proportion and texture. Good clothes should last three years and a woman should have a three year plan in buying matching clothes and should buy good materials, good classic lines and generous cut garments. They were told to avoid bargains that were not bargains; also attractive clothes that do not match other clothes and also fads in clothes. Colors should be tested with the skin, eyes and hair and they should flatter the face. Two women tested colors and showed how they suited them.

The speaker then explained how the different style of dresses affected the figure.

She then described a regular healthy routine. Two women demonstrated make-up and several recipes for beauty preparations were given.

Mrs. Earl Armstrong thanked Miss Crayke and those who attended from Havelock, Belmont, Trent River and Westwood.

Members of Norwood Women's Institute served a lunch.

UN Counselled Leave Fon Alone

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 5 (AP)—The UN was counselled Wednesday to leave the 81-year-old Fon of Bikom alone with his troubles, maintaining that a man has his hands full handling a hundred women at one time.

This admonition came in the Trusteeship Committee of the General Assembly while discussing a petition concerned with the household of the Fon of Bikom. Awni Khalidy, delegate of Iraq, said there had been much misunderstanding on this matter, which was "more private than public."

The Iraqi maintained that "multiple marriages in Africa is a form of social security," and, in addition, "the ladies do not seem to object."

He added:

"We should leave the man alone; it is enough to handle 100 women at one time . . . May God give him strength in his arduous task!"

"How are you feeling—think you can make it?"

Danes Help Save Historic Church

ASHINGDON, Essex, England —(CP)— Once enemies, Danes and Saxons are jointly contributing funds needed to save a 920-year-old church, built by Danish King Canute to commemorate his victory over the Saxons.

Cost of repairing the church was estimated at £2,000 ($6,200). The vicar, the Rev. C. A. Evelyn-White, had raised only £500, so he sent an appeal to the press.

The Danish newspaper Berlingske Tidende published it and funds already have been received from Denmark. Contributions have also been received from many parts of Britain.

The vicar has built a home-made "thermometer" to register the daily rise in contributions.

Expect Fairly Stable Market For Potato Crop Grown In 1951

OTTAWA, Oct. 5—(CP)—Based on present crop expectations, a fairly stable market for the lowly Canadian spud during the next year is indicated.

Government agricultural experts naturally won't hazard a guess as to the price trend either to the producer or to the consumer, but they do point to reports that blight is reducing the potato crop.

If that happens, the feeling here is that producer prices, at least, won't go below what they are now. At present they are about 25 cents a bushel lower than a year ago.

Final estimates of the 1950 harvest won't be available until mid-November, but a preliminary survey issued by the Bureau of Statistics three weeks ago placed the crop then at 55,363,000 hundredweight against 53,518,000 last year.

Since then, however, there have been reports of blight infesting the country's potato-growing areas, bringing the possibility of reduced yields and a steady—if not higher—price range. The extent of blight will be shown in the November estimate.

May Cut Exports

Washington reports indicate that lower United States prices for potatoes this year may reduce Canadian exports to the American market. Canada normally exports about 10,000,000 bushels, both of table and seed variety, to the U.S. each year.

Potato experts here agree that the U.S. market may be less attractive this year. However, a reduced Canadian crop would avert the possibility of any price-depressing surplus at home.

There is at present no price-support program for potatoes, though the government supported the price two years ago when surplus conditions developed in the Maritime provinces.

Quebec and Ontario are the biggest potato-producing provinces, but they also have a large local market and consume all of their own crop. Quebec, for example, is expected tentatively to produce 15,295,000 hundredweight this year against 12,800,000 in 1949, while Ontario's preliminary estimate is 12,091,000 against 11,232,000.

The Maritime provinces, particularly New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, are the exporting provinces, both to Ontario and Quebec and the United States. This year their preliminary estimates are down—New Brunswick at 9,884,000 against 11,298,000 and P.E.I. at 6,314,000 against 8,151,000.

Neither province had a large local market and both must export.

Production in Nova Scotia this year has been placed at 2,930,000 hundredweight against 2,904,000. The harvest in the four western provinces, which consume their own product, has been reported at around 2,000,000 each.

PLAQUES UNVEILED —Two plaques—one in English and the other in French—were unveiled at Quebec's citadel to commemorate the Churchill-Roosevelt conferences during the Second World War. Governor-General Alexander unveiled the plaques which were draped with the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes before the ceremonies.

Food Minister, Butcher Trade Blows In Britain

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Oct. 5—(CP)—Something is sizzling these days at Britain's Ministry of Food, but hardly anybody believes that bigger and better beefstakes are on the fire. All that is cooking seems to be another dispute between Food Minister Maurice Webb, who once staked his regime on a sausage, and some 26,000 master butchers. Webb is angry at the butchers, the butchers are angry at Webb, and the public is, as usual, hungry.

It started last week in Leeds. Webb told a press conference a special drive would be launched against butchers who cheat housewives. He said there are two ways of committing larceny among the lamb chops:

1. Selling grade B meat at grade A prices.

2. Charging housewives more on the pretence of giving more meat than the ration allows. (The ratio now is 1s. 7d. worth of meat a week, or about 25 cents worth, but the price varies according to the cut.)

Webb also stimulated the salivary reflexes by promising "a much larger share of good meat produced in Australia than ever before" under a 15-year agreement about to be signed with the Commonwealth government.

Webb's blast at the butchers brought a reply from an organization representing some 35,000 butcher shops. It said that the government itself had caused public annoyance at the poor quality of meat by classing inferior meat as grade A to reduce the margin of government subsidy.

"The minister has been trying to discredit the meat trades and pass the blame on to them for tough meat," said organization president J. F. Baldwin.

As for the promise of better meat from Australia, at least one commentator refused to bite. The independent economist noted that the agreement with Australia hasn't even been signed yet, and added:

"...A beginning is soon to be made in laying several hundred miles of the railway which will some day give access to the grass which will one day be grazed by the stock which will one day multiply into the herds which will one day be available as the beef which will one day be shipped to these islands."

Top Exhibitors At School Fair

HAVELOCK, Oct. 5—(ENS)—Joyce Wrightly, of Preneveau, and James Wallbridge, of Blairton, were winners of the special prizes of $2.50 for the girl and boy receiving the largest number of points at the annual No. 2 school area fair in the Township Hall. Schools entered from Victoria, Blairton, Rockdale, Cordova and Preneveau.

There were a large number of exhibits, including vegetables, home canning, home baking, sewing, knitting, embroidery work, poultry, animals, grains, writing and art.

Public School Inspector Birkin was present and judged the writing and art. Mrs. William Harris and Mrs. George Wright were judges for the home baking and canning, etc., while Harold Russell of Blairton, James Cummings of Belmont Lake, and Everett Toms judged the poultry, cattle and grains.

A program of sports was held during the afternoon which included a ball game between teams from Preneveau and Cordova schools with the former winning by a score of 5 to 4.

The ladies of S.S. No. 2 operated a booth on the grounds, realizing a profit of $20.29 which will go to Preneveau school for sports equipment.

Those in charge of the booth were Mrs. R. Wrightly, Mrs. Everett Toms and Mrs. C. Hopkins.

Red Youths In Germany Posing Problem

By ADRIAN SECKER

FRANKFURT, Germany (Reuters)—The rift between East and West German youth is widening as the "cold war" battle for the young men and women of this divided country is waged with mounting intensity.

West German authorities, with the full backing of the western occupying powers, are striving with steady success to implant the ideas of a free political democracy in the minds of a still partly-skeptical western youth.

The East German Communists' recipe for the Soviet Zone youth is much simpler. In many ways, it resembles Hitler's.

Blue-shirted legions of Communist-sponsored "Free German Youth" march, drill nad rally all over Eastern Germany. They are enthusiastic, well disciplined and highly organized.

Western efforts are directed at avoiding mass youth movements which contain the seeds of Nazi and Communist fanaticism. But rising tempers have led to clashes between anti-Communist West German youth and East German blue-shirts.

Ban Mass Meetings

Red-sponsored blue-shirts in West Germany are organized along the same pattern as in the east, and allowed fairly free reign. But mass meetings are banned.

American officials in Frankfurt estimate the active blue-shirt membership in West Germany at 40,000. The blue-shirts themselves claim 100,000.

Allied-supported youth schemes include numerous types of sports, hiking, and cultural clubs, Catholic and Protestant groups, Scouts and Guides, hobbies, and students' associations.

But some western observers here consider that some proposed schemes draw far too freely on Nazi ideas. The Free Democratic Party (Liberals) recently proposed a comprehensive cultural and political program aimed at centralizing youth activities in the hands of the government or of an official body.

It called for an annual all-German youth cultural and sports rally, reminiscent of Hitler's great Nuremberg festivals, as well as a voluntary labor service, which was a cardinal and compulsory part of the Nazi youth movement.

Guards Return In New Movie

Few British films have created as much interest in Europe as "They Were Not Divided" which deals with tank action over the victory routes. The film had its first showings in the Western Hemisphere as part of Canada's Army Week celebration but it also opened on the same day in Holland and several Canadian cities. This was September 17th, the anniversary of Arnhem, and the premiere of the picture was held at the Palace Cinema, Arnhem, a spot familiar to many Canadian ex-servicemen. Members of the First Airborne Division returned to Arnhem again for the event and in the flood of wartime reminiscences to which the occasion gave rise, there were many references to the part played by Canadians in the liberation of Holland.

In Belgium, where much of the action of the film was laid, "They Were Not Divided" is setting records in one of Brussels' largest cinemas. Six Welsh Guardsmen in scarlet tunics and bearskins attended the premiere. Captain R. N. J. Evans, who played the part of the adjutant in the film and who was in charge of the Guards men, was in one of the first British tanks to enter the city in the liberation of Brussels. The detachment took part in the Liberation celebrations and was given a special place of honour on the saluting base for the military parade.

Discover Letters Replacing Colorful Brands Of Old West

EDMONTON (CP)—A few decades ago a brand was just an idea to identify stock and protect the rancher against rustlers. But now it is a necessity in the everyday life of a modern farmer or rancher.

Every brand, and there are more than 28,000 in Alberta, is registered with the recorder of brands at the livestock branch of the provincial agriculture department. Through these the government can be sure every animal is sold by its rightful owner.

Many brands are quite distinctive. Ones like the U rocking bar, weathervane, cloverleaf, swastika and wine glass have survived from the old days. The more modern brands combine regulation symbols and letters to give the bar HD, a lazy B and countless others.

The first brand filed in the Northwest Territories was back in the 1880s when Charles Lyndon of Meadow Creek, Alta., recorded the circle L, an L within a circle.

First Brand Book

In 1885 the first brand book appeared in the Claresholm district of Alberta and illustrated about 600 registered brands. As the West progressed, brands became more popular and ranchers devised many weird designs.

Hats, bells, keys, keyholes, revolvers, spurs, boots and just about everything a cowboy could think up was used as a brand. But that's all in the past now.

Modern branding consists of letters, usually the initials of the owner, combined with certain standard symbols. There's the bar, half-diamond or quarter-circle, all either above or below the letters, or a running bar in front or behind, giving countless combinations.

Besides this, the letters can be lazy (on their sides), reversed, or coupled with another letter. Then, a prospective brand owner can have his choice of spots, either the hip, rib or shoulder on either side of the animal. Thus, the livestock branch makes sure there are no two brands alike.

Labor Troubles Hitting Yugoslavia Steel Industry

By RONALD PRESTON

BELGRADE, Oct. 5 (Reuters)—Labor troubles, aggravated by poor management and austerity living conditions, are hitting Yugoslavia's key mining, iron and steel industries.

These difficulties come at a bad moment. The summer drought, the cominform's economic blockade and acute shortages of foreign currency to pay for vital imports, have already combined to make economic prospects for the coming winter grim.

Much frank criticism has appeared in the Yugoslav press recently about the way industries and mines are being run in the all-out effort to keep pace with the ambitious targets of Marshal Tito's five-year industrialization plan.

This frankness is new to Communist Yugoslavia. Until recently the country adhered to Russian and Soviet satellite practice of keeping economic information, particularly unfavorable developments, more or less on the secret list.

Absenteeism Serious

The chief bugbears of mining and industry here at present appear to be absenteeism and an abnormally-high rate of labor turnover, aggravated by a labor shortage.

Rad, official organ of the Yugoslav trade unions, recently held these factors responsible for failure of the country's coal mines to reach production targets.

Manpower difficulties are also crippling steel production.

The Yugoslav official press generally attributes "this unjustified absenteeism" and high turnover of labor to "bureaucratic methods of management," poor working conditions, lack of accommodation and welfare facilities, and failure of Communist party members to instill sufficient enthusiasm for the five-year plan.

Western observers here are of the opinion that present austerity conditions and the fact that the worker can buy little for his money also have something to do with it.

Jury Acquits Man In Friend's Death

MONTREAL, Oct. 5 (CP)—Jean Massicotte, 33, native of Cochrane, Ont., was acquitted Wednesday of manslaughter in the death of his friend, Roger Langlois.

The death followed a fight between the two men early last Aug. 19. The two argued over paying expenses of a motor trip with three other persons. Massicotte wanted to pay his share. The fight began in the car and continued on the sidewalk. Langlois died in hospital nine days later.

Massicotte testified that during the day he spent about $15 on liquor and "we all had quite a bit to drink."

The jury deliberated an hour. Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure told Massicotte: "In future when you drink be more careful. You came pretty near this time."

Injunction Extended Against 7 Union Men

TORONTO, Oct. 5—(CP)—Mr. Justice D. C. Wells Wednesday ordered the extension to Oct. 12 of an injunction restraining a union organizer and six employees from picketing the Belleville Lock Co., Ltd., in Belleville.

Some 100-odd members of the United Electrical Workers (Ind.) walked out Saturday in what the company calls an illegal strike. The workers protested the dismissal of about 80 employees a week ago.

The union has been trying for eight months to re-negotiate a new bargaining agreement with the company.

The company was granted a court order, prohibiting union organizer Douglas Tyner and six employees from interfering with anyone seeking to enter or leave the plant.

We have lots to be thankful for here in Canada: For our rich soil and abundant crops; For our capable farmers and their families who grow and harvest the fine foods we enjoy; For our fine cities, homes, schools and churches; For a country whose natural resources become ever more apparent; For a people with the will to do things, offering bountiful rewards to those with personal initiative. Yet, Let us give thanks for what we receive . . . May God make us truly thankful.

Gov.-General Will Visit Kingston Friday

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 (CP)—The Governor General and Viscountess Alexander will visit Kingston Friday, it was announced Wednesday.

They will travel from their summer residence in Quebec and will arrive in Kingston at 1.25 p.m. EST.

During the visit, the Governor General will officiate at the placing of a corner stone for the main building of the Kingston community memorial health and recreation centre.

In city park, he will unveil two tablets in memory of members of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery killed during the Second World War.

Liquor Board Planning Clinics

TORONTO, Oct. 5 — (CP) — Ontario's Liquor Control Board is going to establish clinics in Toronto and Kingston and later at other places for the study of alcoholism.

Handling and treatment of alcoholics will be studied, the Rev. John Foote, deputy commissioner of the board, Wednesday told the Optimist Club. The problem will be tackled from both the physical and mental sides.

Major Foote said the clinics will operate under the provincial Department of Health and details will be disclosed in a few days.

Coincident with the clinics will be a research program in which the universities will be asked to assist.

"The great and basic problem," said Major Foote, "is why one person in 20 becomes alcoholic."

Bride, Groom Safe But 17 Others Drown

MOMBASA, Kenya, Oct. 5 — (Reuters)—A bus carrying a wedding party overran a ferry and plunged into 40 feet of water here Wednesday, killing 17 persons. The Indian bride and groom escaped with six others, but three of the groom's sisters drowned.

Labor Dept. Hoping Judges Will Still Act

TORONTO, Oct. 5—(CP)—A spokesman for the Ontario Labor Department said Wednesday night the department has no immediate plan to draw on resources other than Supreme Court judges for chairmen of conciliation boards.

The spokesman was commenting on a report that Ontario Supreme Court judges might follow the lead taken by Mr. Justice W. D. Roach, who announced Tuesday his withdrawal from the chairmanship of a recently-appointed conciliation board.

The department hoped that judges would continue to act as chairmen of such boards.

LATIN AMERICAN DEATHS

TEMPER TANTRUMS: "My little daughter (18 months) has developed the most terrific temper tantrums. She screams when we take anything from her, throws her toys on the floor and stiffens out as if she were going to have a fit. What can you do with a child that age with a temper like that? And it's come on suddenly."
Baby doctors say that with the development of the child's personality comes this desire to show off, to dominate and generally raise the roof. It's a phase, like everything else in the child's life, and, say the experts, can best be handled by completely ignoring these temper tantrums. Don't fight the child physically, say the doctors, and do try to remain calm and unruffled.

MEAT BUYING: "My husband is on a take home salary of $38 a week. There are five of us. What meat can we afford?"
Hamburger, sausages, chuck steak, pork liver, brisket, wieners and stewing beef are all good and economical buys.

WEDDING ATTIRE: "My husband and I are going to a formal wedding. I have a suitable long dress but he insists on going in an ordinary business suit. I'd rather stay at home than go looking conspicuous."
You won't. Ten to one long dresses will be in the minority and 20 to one nine men out of 10 will be wearing their best business suits.

Taxi Men May Ask Council Quash Fingerprint Order

A rejuvenated Peterborough Taxi Owners' Association Wednesday afternoon elected a new executive and made preparations to try to soften the blow they feel was inflicted on them by the new taxi bylaw which came into effect Saturday. Clare Donnelly was elected president; John Clark, vice president and William Kemp, secretary-treasurer. Nineteen taxi owners were present.

It is no secret taxi operators generally object to several clauses in the new taxi bylaw. They don't like the clause which demands that each driver be fingerprinted. And a number of them object to the substantial insurance required in the bylaw to cover injuries to passengers and property damage in case of accidents.

President Donnelly asked that each taxi owner submit his opinions on the question of fingerprinting and insurance in writing to the secretary before the meeting of the Police Commission a week from today.

Armed with the factual results of this poll, a committee representing the association will probably ask the commission to reduce the amount of insurance required and quash the fingerprinting order. It will also ask the commission to clarify the clause setting out city boundaries based on a 1946 map used in setting rates.

One small cab owner produced a letter quoting $780.45 as the premium price he would have to pay for two cabs to carry the insurance specified by the bylaw, $10,000 and $20,000 personal and $1,000 property damage. The high rate was a result of two accidents in which his taxis were involved, and that insurance companies simply did not seem to be at all interested in handling taxi business.

A tentative suggestion was made that the association as a group try to obtain lower insurance rates for the members.

Good Weather Aids Building Of Hydro Plant

Good weather is favoring construction of the Lily Lake hydro-electric transformer station, seven miles northwest of Peterborough. One transformer is already servicing this district and another should be operating by the end of the month.

The station has two main purposes: reduce from 220,000 to 110,000 volts the power coming from the Cheneau generating plant on the Ottawa river; and also step down from 110,000 to 44,000 volts the power servicing this district (two lines to both Peterborough and Lindsay and one to Port Hope).

Complete By November

Work began on the project in the summer of 1949 and it should be completed by the end of November. Since then 120 men (construction men, carpenters, and laborers) have been employed under the direction of District Superintendent G. R. Cribb and Job Superintendent Harry Bury.

The giant control room with adjoining offices is nearing completion and should be in full operation by late fall or early winter.

One of the 110,000 volt lines goes to Toronto and the other to Oshawa, but these two circuits are not yet in operation.

Instal Breakers

Wednesday afternoon workmen were installing the giant pipetone "breakers" made by CGE. The "breakers", that function much like a switch, were being lifted off flat cars by a crane, and were being hauled away on four-by-four wooden skids.

As hydro demands increase the project will be enlarged. Already another power line from the source of power in the Gatineau hills is envisaged.

More than 1,000 former members of the famous Hasty-Pees are expected in the city for the three-day reunion.

Masons Buy Historic House For Temple, Lodge Purposes

One of Peterborough's oldest and best known houses, the Hamilton home which occupies the block on Rubidge St. between Brock and Hall Sts., next to St. Peter's Cathedral has been bought by Peterborough Masons for a lodge and temple. The stately stone home set off with tall while pillars along the front was built 103 years ago by R. M. Grover. On the block almost an acre in size he bought in 1846 from the Crown.

Now the city's Masonic Lodges will build a temple and a banqueting hall adjoining the main building and make other smaller changes.

For the past 99 years, the house has been owned in succession by two of Peterborough's best known families, the Nicholls and the Hamiltons.

After building the house in 1847, Mr. Grover sold it to the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. The IOOF soon ran into financial difficulties and after mortgaging the house, finally sold it in 1851 to Robert and Charlotte Jane Nicholls.

Peterborough has many reminders of the civic interest and generosity of Mrs. Nicholls. The Nicholls Hospital for many years was her best-known gift to the city. Nicholls Oval is another example of their generosity.

After Mrs. Nicholls died, W. H. Hamilton bought the house and property from the estate for $12,000. Mr. Hamilton, until his death, owned the W. H. Hamilton grocery store on Simcoe St. east of George St., one of Peterborough's oldest established grocery stores.

His daughter, Miss Margaret A. Hamilton for some years has been living in the house. Miss Hamilton recently decided to sell it to the Masons. Wednesday afternoon the deed was signed and the property registered in the name of the Masonic Order.

Granaries Full As Harvest Ends

Farmers of Ontario have finished the harvest, although there are probably a few stragglers here and there who adhere to the policy of dilatoriness while their neighbors are getting the job done in good time and order.

"It has been a long drawn-out session, but the granaries are filled to overflowing". That's in Grey county, as reported to the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Dufferin reported Monday there was still a considerable acreage to be harvested.

The Grey verdict on the year's work was: "It has been the largest grain harvest ever reaped in Grey county".

North Simcoe says feed supplies on hand are 30 per cent above the average. Most of Northumberland's silos will be full.

York reports buyers offering only 60 to 65 cents a bag for potatoes "which is very discouraging to growers".

Harvest of corn is far advanced; the fall wheat crop is putting forth growth. These are days when the forage harvester is continuing his inning and earning. The cattle market is active in the eastern counties, especially for dairy cows. The Grenville corn crop is the best in years—"pastures are abundant and livestock should go into stable in good condition".

NoMoneyBarrier To Joining YM

YMCA membership canvassers rough-mapped their coming two-week campaign Wednesday night at the Y and learned they were expected to bring in about 500 new members.

Membership committee chairman Stan Payne told them the committee wanted about a 25 per cent increase in membership to bring the total from 1,195 to 1,500. He told the canvassers their help would be needed more this year because the new staff — Charlie Forsyth, Fraser Wade and Bill McFarlane—were not yet familiar with the city.

Mr. Forsyth, the new general secretary at the Y, said that boys and young men who wanted to join should be taken in regardless of their economic level. If they could pay 25 or 50 cents at a time, he said, the Y would be glad to have them.

"It's the kind of thing that has given meaning to the association," he remarked.

About 45 membership canvassers were present at the dinner meeting.

Former Minister Dedicates New Lights

The Very Rev. W. L. Armitage, 80-year-old dean who was first minister at the parish of All Saints when the mission, preceding the present church, was established in 1896, dedicated the new lights in the church Wednesday.

The lights, which are modern lanterns hanging from the roof of the church, were dedicated as memorials to 14 men and women who were members of All Saints and one was the gift of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Doughty.

Those in whose memory the lanterns hang are James Armstrong, Susanna and James Ball, Gerald Dawson, Clara M. and James S. Fanning, Kenneth Jarvis, Charles Lacheur, Agnes Helen Logan, a former organist at the church; Herbert Edward Moore, Kenneth James Nice, Annie Viola Price, Lewes Harold Brooke Rye and J. Frederick Williams.

The dedication ceremony took place three days after the church was re-opened following interior redecoration.

After the dedication by the dean, the Rev. Dr. Ramsay Armitage, principal of Wycliffe College, Toronto (no relative of Dean Armitage), delivered a sermon.

"It is not for your pleasure or advantage, but rather these lanterns are to be your token of Him who is the very light of the world" the principal declared.

"Our Christian faith uses things that are material to set forth the things that are spiritual" he said. "That is why in the holy community we have the outside signs of the spiritual graces."

Clergymen in the chancel during the service, in addition to the dean and Principal Armitage, were the Rev. Horace Ashmore, formerly of Peterborough, who has spent the past 20 years as a missionary in north Saskatchewan; the Rev. J. S. Harrington, secretary of the Upper Canada Bible Society; Archdeacon C. W. Balfour of St. John's, Peterborough; and the Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite, rector of All Saints.

When Dean Armitage came to Peterborough in 1896, he was curate at St. John's and was placed in charge of a mission in what was then the south section of the city. It was he who suggested All Saints as the name of the new parish. He stayed in Peterborough until 1904 and five years later, the present church was built.

Some time later he was appointed dean of St. John's, Saskatoon. He has lived in retirement for several years.

Grew Flowers For Patients William R. Parker Dies

For more than 15 years William Robert Parker distributed flowers, ice cream and his own brand of cheerfulness to patients at Civic Hospital and St. Joseph's Hospital.

His hobby of growing potted flowers at his home, 522 Charlotte St., supplied many hundreds of invalids with bright spots of color for their hospital rooms. When his own flowers were scarce or out of season, he brought cut flowers and ice cream to patients.

On Wednesday, William Parker died at his home after a lengthy illness. He will be missed by his friends and many people who knew him only by sight, and who thought of him as a kindly man.

Mr. Parker was born in South Dummer, the son of the late Robert Parker and Jane Fife. He lived in Peterborough for 36 years, many of them spent on the staff of the customs house. He retired in 1945.

He was a member of Trinity United Church, of Corinthian Lodge and of LOL 522, South Dummer.

He is survived by his widow, the former Margaret Jones; one son, Allan Robert of Peterborough; one grandchild, Robert George; two sisters, Mrs. James McConnel of Kelowna, B.C., and Mrs. Hanna Howland of Moose Jaw, Sask.

A Masonic funeral will be held Friday at 2 p.m. from the Belleghem funeral home to Trinity United Church. The Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon will conduct the service and burial will be in Norwood Cemetery.

Mayor, Alderman Decision To Run Ensures Contest

Prospect of a mayoralty contest in the municipal elections was foreshadowed today with Mayor Swanston and Alderman Hurrell Dodds as candidates.

"So many citizens have spoken to me during the last three weeks and especially during the last week, urging me to offer my services again, that I have decided to accept nomination, Mayor Swanston said.

"I have practically committed myself to so many people who have been asking me to be a candidate that I had made up my mind to enter the field for the mayoralty," Mr. Dodds said. "I had not intended to make a definite announcement at this stage, but it might as well be known now as later. I said a week ago that I was thinking it over, and so I was, but I had gone further than that because I felt that six years' experience in the council was a qualification for mayor if I could be elected."

Aldermanic Experience

The statement of Ald. Dodds was that six years in the council had given him a thorough knowledge of the city's business.

"I have been chairman of the board of works for three years, and before that I was chairman of the parks and property committees," he said. "My feeling is that with that background I am entitled to seek the mayoralty. I have all the time that is required for the city business. Besides I don't feel like disappointing all those who have been asking me to stand."

Mayor Swanston and Ald Dodds are Ashburnham residents, and according to their present intentions a mayoralty contest is looming between candidates from across the river.

Projects To Complete

Mayor Swanston said he was deeply interested in the many projects which the council of 1950 had begun, and his inclination was a desire to see them through to completion.

"A great deal of work had accumulated because of the city's expansion, and this year's council undertook them. It is only natural that I would like to see them finished. That was the personal feeling. The main influence was the large number of ratepayers who have been urging me to leave the matter to the voters. If they want me as mayor in 1951 I am willing to do my best if they elect me."

Newsboys Play Essential Part

Newspaper carrier boys are playing an important part in maintaining an essential service to the community, Prime Minister St. Laurent said on the eve of National Newspaper Boy Day, Oct. 7.

In a letter received by H. B. Cowan, Jr., circulation manager of the Peterborough Examiner, the prime minister extended good wishes to these boys "who can well be proud of the part they are playing not only in the business life of our country but also in keeping Canadians well informed."

"A well-informed people is one of the greatest bulwarks against forces which are hostile to our democratic way of life," Mr. St. Laurent said.

Fowl Prices Climbing Range From 45c to 75c

Turkey and chicken prices in Peterborough today are as variable as the birds. The oldest and toughest are the cheapest. In a survey of prices in eight different retail stores, the lowest price quoted for hens was 45 cents a pound, the price given in our story yesterday. They ranged upward to 67 and 70 cents for capons. Some capons were quoted at 59 cents. The price range on ducks and geese was from 57 cents to 65 cents in one store.

Turkeys, not too plentiful in the shops, for the big demand is at Christmas rather than Thanksgiving, varied in price from 57 cents a pound for Grade B, not grown locally, to the very highest quality of local medium-sized birds, freshly killed for the market, at 75 cents. The average price for the average A quality turkey was around 75 cents.

Dealers expect prices to go higher before they go lower. Toronto and Peterborough wholesale prices indicate this rise.

8-Pound Pickerel

One of the biggest pickerel landed in the district this year fell to the rod of William Wolff of Cleveland Wednesday. The fish weighed an ounce short of eight pounds, and was taken just above the dam at Lakefield.

Mr. Wolff, who is staying with his wife at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Hendren, was using a minnow for bait, and landed the big one after a 15-minute battle.

The Wolffs have been holidaying in this district for the past 16 years, and Mr. Wolff says their fishing luck has always been good.

Plans Started For Bypass On West Side

In the routine of authorizing works and projects considered and reported in committee, City Council acted upon the recommendation of the town planning committee for a west-side bypass.

This is the minute: "That the city engineer be authorized to have the necessary survey made of the ground, in accordance with the plan he has submitted, which has been approved by the planning board, for a bypass highway from Clonsilla Ave. to Park Hill Road."

Also: "That the city solicitor be authorized to prepare the necessary bylaws and other legal documents for the expropriation of land required for the bypass highway, and that particular effort be made to secure immediately the land necessary for the right of way south of Sherbrooke St."

That is the action of the Council, accepting the city planning committee's proposal, and authorizing action. It is understood that this bypass will leave the Peterborough - Port Hope highway somewhere in the vicinity of Second or Third Avenue, to cross Sherbrooke St. and continue northerly east of Civic Hospital and on to Park Hill Road, around the northwest end of Jackson Park and then easterly to the Lakefield highway.

Such is the present information on the projected road around the city to divert "through traffic" from the commercial area. It originated from the Faludi city planning design and report.

150 Outboard Hands Go On 36-Hour Week

The 36-hour week, which started this week for some 150 assembly and machine shop workers at the Outboard Marine plant, is a temporary measure brought in because of a shortage of materials, a company official told the Examiner today.

The short week is expected to last until Oct. 15, the official said.

Outboard Union Surprise Vote CCL Affiliation

Members of the Independent Outboard Marine Workers' Union have voted to affiliate with the Canadian Congress Labor. This decision was made after a tentative agreement for the coming year had been reached between the independent union and the company.

The vote was taken Tuesday night at a special membership meeting called by the union executive to ratify or reject the negotiating committee's contract revisions.

At least one union member, James Higgins of the negotiating committee, describes the subsequent motion of affiliation "unconstitutional." And he says it was a surprise move.

"The special meeting was called to discuss one thing, and one thing only," says Mr. Higgins. "And that was whether the workers would accept or reject the negotiating committee's recommendations."

"Workers Were Fooled"

"Our constitution says that at a special meeting 'no business other than that stated in the call shall be transacted at such meetings.'"

"The workers were fooled," said Mr. Higgins. "They thought they would be voting on acceptance of a contract—and it was a good contract—but they did not get a chance. Because of this, the workers are going to lose the gains and the extra pay amounting to an average of 12 cents an hour."

Joseph McGuire, president of the IOMWU, stated that if a sufficient number of the membership signed CCL cards negotiations on the new CCL contract could begin in 10 days' time.

Unanimous Vote

The vote at the controversial meeting was unanimously in favor of affiliation, the executive claims. Mr. Higgins says two or three were against it, and 172 workers were present, not 200 as claimed by the executive.

(Main provisions in the tentative agreement between the company and the independent union were: reduction of the work week from 45 to 43 hours with maintenance of take-home pay, and a seven-cents-an-hour straight increase. This 12-cent package would bring the lowest male starting rate up to $1.03 an hour with progressions up to $1.10 after a year. The lowest hourly rated male would earn $1.10 and the lowest male piece-worker $1.16).

Mr. Higgins said he was not pro-UE nor pro-company and he favored eventual affiliation with the CCL.

"We spent about $700 of the workers' money getting a good contract and now they won't be

SPECIAL SERVICE VOLUNTEERS

Families and friends of Peterborough men who have enlisted for service with the 25th Brigade (Canada's Special Force to serve the United Nations), which is now being organized and trained, are requested to furnish their names in writing to the City Clerk.

It is the desire that an accurate record should be kept at the City Hall of all Peterborough personnel in this Brigade and a record of their service, in order to add to the chapter of Peterborough's military history.

The co-operation of the citizens in this matter will be appreciated.

Men's Fashion Council Begins Drive To Get Males Better Dressed

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Men, there's a drive on to make you more fashion-conscious.

It's not as bad as it sounds—it just means that the people who make and sell men's clothes have formed an organization whose objective is to see that you get better value for your money; and whose hope is that, getting better value, you will buy more.

The organization, called the Men's Fashion Council of Canada, includes representatives of virtually everyone who handles men's apparel — manufacturers, retailers, designers, mills, shirt, hat and shoe men; and representatives of such organizations as the National Council of Clothing Manufacturers and the Retail Men's Wear Association of Canada.

The council was formed only last July, but it already has campaign under way, with a spring-and-fall slogan of "Blue's the Hue."

168 Shades

That means you are going to be under considerable pressure to buy blue, but in case you have any idea that blue is dull—well, there are 168 shades of it in men's suitings alone; quiet, bright or almost flashing.

The council doesn't really care whether you buy blue—they just want to step up your interest in clothes.

The men in the council have thrown overboard the idea that men don't like to be well-dressed. They know that almost every man, maybe in the evening, maybe only once a week, is called upon to dress up, even if he doesn't need to do it as a daily thing in his job.

Good Foil

There is, for instance, the woman angle—whether the girl friend or wife; and they are being appealed to with such gimmicks as this:

"To a well-dressed girl, blue on her escort is as good a foil as a cushion of black velvet to a diamond ring."

That piece of advertising copy may be a bit off base, because men may not like being compared to a piece of black velvet. However, it's the subtle feminine influence they are appealing to in that one, and it's not to be laughed at; for experts reckon that women, directly or indirectly, have a hand in the selection of 75 per cent of all clothes men buy.

A spokesman for the council, outlining its purposes, said:

"We shall try to improve the standard of men's dress, but also the standard of merchandise. It is not so much a matter of how much a man buys as how he is guided."

The decision was taken after discussion of recent arrests of Regular Baptists at Val d'Or, Que.

OSHAWA, Oct. 5 (CP)—Skipper, an 18-month-old collie, Wednesday was ordered destroyed for attacking a 4-year-old child "and nearly taking his life." Dr. Elizabeth Martin said one bite had bared the boy's jugular vein. Owner William Blint, who said children had been throwing sticks at the dog, said he would appeal the decision.

Keep Painting Out Of Sight

LONDON. — (CP). — For more than two years, Wandsworth Council has ben grappling with the problem of what to do with its controversial picture, "Triptych in Blue."

Valued at $6,500, it was given to the borough by a Czech artist, Eugen Hersch, in gratitude for hospitality extended after he escaped from the Nazis during the war.

Measuring 24 ft. by 12 ft., it shows 12 unclothed young men and women cavorting on the grass, some of them dancing.

When the Council accepted the picture it was insured for £2,000. But Council members were in sharp disagreement where to put it.

Some insisted it was a major work of art and should be given a place of prominence in the town hall or one of the public libraries. Others argued it was far too indecent and undignified for public display. Certainly, it could not go to a library where children would see it.

So for more than two years the picture has remained in secluded nook of a seldom-used town hall corridor. It is protected by a dust-sheet and the door to the passage-way is usually locked.

When public functions necessitate use of the corridor, the dust-sheet is pinned down securely to hide the charms of the prancing dancers from prying eyes.

OIL PRODUCTION

There was a total of 1,608 operating oil wells in Alberta in July, 1950, compared with 970 at the same time in 1949.

Rats Invading South Australia

SYDNEY, Australia—(CP) — Hordes of rats have invaded outlying stations south of Cooper's Creek, near Lake Frome, South Australia. The influx is believed partly due to an exceptionally wet season.

The rats have not invaded homes or caused any noticeable damage as yet. They are spread over an area of hundreds of miles, and people from stations around Lyndhurst and Copley report that the rodents can be seen all over their stations.

Ben Burton, lands department fence inspector, said that at one time the rats could be seen travelling in millions toward Lake Frome.

He said: "The grass is about a foot high in the area, and they couldn't be seen clearly, but their movements gave the grass the appearance that it was continually moving in a southward direction."

Bill Leslie, part owner of stations at Moolawatana and Mount Fitton, said the rates had apparently subsided in recent weeks, but might be nesting.

"A few weeks ago," he said, "they were to be seen in millions during the day on our properties. However, in the last couple of weeks they have started to nest and can be seen only at night.

"Fortunately, they haven't troubled our homes yet. However, this is due to the fact that there is plenty of natural feed about for them."

Founded Town Frederick Schumacher Has Art Hobby

COLUMBUS, Ohio —(CP)— Frederick W. Schumacher, 86, for whom the town of Schumacher in the Porcupine gold-mining district of Northern Ontario was named, is living quietly in retirement here in a luxurious home filled with art treasures.

He went to Northern Ontario about 40 years ago to look for a silver mine. He found no silver but discovered traces of gold and developed the mine of Schumacher. He sold the Schumacher property to the Hollinger interests in 1922. Fourteen years later he sold another claim to Dome. Proceeds of these transactions are said to have netted more than $3,000,000.

Born on an island in the Baltic Sea, he moved to the United States as a child with his parents. At 13, he went back to Europe to complete his education and lived in Lubeck with his grandfather, who wanted him to stay there and enter one of the professions. Instead, at his mother's urging, he went to Texas, worked as a drug store clerk and later founded in Waco a wholesale drug firm that still is thriving. Then he moved to Columbus.

Interested in Mining

Reports of big mineral discoveries in Canada—it was about the time of the excitement over silver finds at Cobalt, Ont.— attracted his attention. Soon he became interested in the Porcupine goldfields, then on the verge of development.

In his retirement, he has continued to make periodic visits to the Timmins-Schumacher district, where the residents know him as a quiet-spoken man with white hair and a square mustache. At Christmas time, he sends presents to the schoolchildren of Schumacher.

Dr. W. Balfour Dies

TORONTO, Oct. 5 (CP)—Dr. Wallace Balfour, 66, medical officer on the staff of the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board for the last four years, died Wednesday. He is survived by his widow, a son and five sisters, including Mrs. Catherine Cornish, St. Thomas.

Crosby's Father Dies

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Oct. 5 (AP)—Harry L. Crosby, 79, father of Bing, died Wednesday at his home after suffering a heart attack. Bing, who sped by car down from his home in Pebble Beach, arrived at the bedside just before his father died.

Father Lamontaque Saves Man's Life

PADOUE, Que., Oct. 5—(CP)—Charles Deschenes, in whose home fire that destroyed a section of this village in Matapedia county is believed to have started, owes his life to the Rev. Albert Lamontagne.

(The Canadian Press Wednesday erroneously identified Father Lamontagne as Father Albert Lamont. The error was due to difficulty of communication with this isolated village.)

The priest of St. Antoine de Padoue de Kempt parish didn't let his wooden leg interfere with saving from death his parishioner, who was trapped in the burning house.

After Father Lamontagne turned in the alarm, Deschenes who was working in the church, rushed to his home thinking his wife was trapped inside.

He was overcome by dense smoke and was thrown into the cellar when the floor caved in. Father Lamontagne limped into the house and pulled Deschenes to safety.

When Deschenes revived, he learned his wife had been away on an errand all the time.

P.C.'s TEA PARTY was held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. W. C. Tatham when more than 200 Conservatives met Mrs. Leslie Frost, wife of the Premier of Ontario. LEFT to RIGHT: Hon. W. A. 200 PC's Meet Mrs. Leslie Frost In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 5 — (ENS)—The home of Mrs. W. C. Tatham, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Campbellford, was the scene of a large tea party on Wednesday, when more than 200 people, mostly women, gathered from all parts of the county to attend the reception for Mrs. Leslie Frost, wife of the premier of Ontario.

Mrs. Frost, Mrs. G. Arthur Welsh, wife of the Provincial Secretary, Mrs. Cameron McKenzie, President of the Central District Women's Advisory Committee, and Mrs. Wm. Goodfellow, wife of the Hon. Wm., Goodfellow, received with the hostess

The speakers were Mrs. Cameron McKenzie and Col. G. Arthur Welsh. Mrs. Tatham, the president, welcomed the guests, and throughout the remainder of the meeting, the Hon. Wm. Goodfellow occupied the chair.

Mrs. Cameron McKenzie, who is chairman of the Progressive Conservative Associations in Ontario, outlined what was being accomplished by women's groups throughout the province. Mrs. McKenzie, who is active in municipal affairs in Beaverton, urged women to take an active interest in their own municipalities. In so doing, they not only added greatly to their personal knowledge, but also were capable of making worthwhile contributions to community management.

"Good leadership," she continued, "is always needed, and by keeping organizations functioning actively, the community benefits and develops."

Col. G. Arthur Welsh, Provincial Secretary, who is also Co-ordinator for Civil Defence, spoke about Civil Defence. He compared the freedom and comfort we in this country enjoy, to the rigid discipline and restrictions imposed upon countries throughout Europe and Asia.

"The measure of safety that Canadians have grown to expect and accept in previous wars, might be considerably lessened in the future, if hostilities became widespread," he said. For this reason, all communities, large and small, would be called upon to play an imortant part in dealing with emergencies. This district, for example, would become a "cushioncentre," in such a case, and would be required to provide facilities for evacuated wounded from the larger centres, and to provide volunteers for fire fighting, police and other Civil Defence Forces.

Prepare For Worst

Col. Welsh went on to say that the enemy counted largely upon the effect of confusion and panic amongst the civilian population, and at the moment, it was wisdom on our part to hope for the best, and to prepare for the worst.

Other speakers at the meeting were Gordon Fraser, MP for Peterborough West, and Major Earl Drope.

Dr. W. B. Butt of Toronto, who is on the Ontario Executive of the Conservative Young People's Association, covering ridings east of Toronto, spoke briefly on the work of the young people's groups throughout the province. They are, he said, formed mainly to give the young people an insight into the workings of the government, and to promote an active interest in practical politics, but not petty politics.

Mrs. Ruby J. Meggs proposed a vote of thanks to the speakers, after which tea was served.

Find Malnutrition Startling For New Zealand Children

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z. — (CP) — One of the healthiest countries in the world, New Zealand is concerned over a report of a startlingly high rate of malnutrition among children.

The report was made by Dr. A. W. S. Thompson, government health officer, after an investigation in Auckland. Noting that New Zealand presents "almost ideal conditions in which to bring up a child," he reported:

"Breakfasts nutritionally poor in value are eaten by 36 per cent of children, poor lunches by 25 per cent and poor evening meals by 8.5 per cent. The day's menu, considered as a whole, is poor in quality in nearly 35 per cent of cases.

"These are staggering conclusions about a population such as ours, in a land of plenty, where the actual expenditure on food is so high, and especially when it is remembered that the survey contained no single case of unemployment, or a slum dwelling, or of actual neglect."

Not Interested in Food

Dr. Thompson considers the basic cause of the trouble is that New Zealanders are not interested enough in food. "The average mother is not interested in cookery for its own sake," he says, "and takes too little pride in her own efforts. Also in our special way of life she is subjected to excessive strain and gets very few opportunities to relax, and is simply too tired and harassed to break out of the rut."

Hotel meals in New Zealand were all the same—substantial, badly cooked and served, unimaginative, inexpressibly English, and dull as a wet Auckland Sunday, Dr. Thompson added.

Strong on Teas

New Zealand housewives expended far too much energy and thought on their afternoon teas. "If they ask you to tea, they produce a remarkable display of wonderful cakes and pastries, but if they invite you to dinner, which is not often, they just give you a meal, and you might as well have stayed at your hotel."

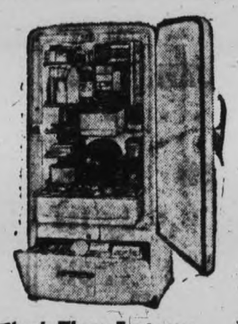
It was significant that there was no New Zealand national dish. New Zealand housewives should be led gently away from cakes and pastries toward the cultivation of the proper and delightful art and science of gastronomy.

Other Recommendations

Other recommendations by Dr. Thompson toward reducing malnutrition were:

1. The domestic burden of women should be lightened. They should have a "real holiday" (not camping) every year.

2 Breast feeding should be encouraged, unhealthy tonsils and threadworms taken seriously, and babies protected against whooping cough.



3. More attention should be given to good breakfasts and lunches.

At the same time as Dr. Thompson made his criticisms, A. R. McKegg, president of the New Zealand Dental Association, told the association's annual conference: "We have in New Zealand a strange partnership — a people with the worst teeth in the world and yet with the highest expectation of life. Our aim must be to remove the blot."

Mr. McKegg recommended dentists co-operate by instructing patients how to avoid dental disease. Especially they must convince parents that sweets, cakes and biscuits must be kept as "party food" only.

Jam Making for Diabetics Can Be Done Without Sugar

By MARY MOORE

After making the slightest reference to some work I was doing on jams and other canned products for diabetic patients, I received so many letters asking for more details and recipes for sugarless jams, I am left in no doubt that they are wanted very much.

At the outset I want to disclaim any connection with the company manufacturing the sweetener I am using in these recipes. I do not work for the company who manufacture them. This is purely and simply a service to our readers of this column.

Since there are so few recipes available I have been testing a sugarless jam from whatever fruit is in season, all summer. When I produce one that satisfies me and some of my diabetic friends who act as guinea pigs, I print it.

Some of those for which you can still find the ingredients on the market are printed today—plus the black currant jam which some readers want for next year's crop.

✧ ✧ ✧

Sugarless Peach Jam

Four cups, well packed, chopped, fully ripened perfect peaches. (Peel peaches by dipping for 1 minute in boiling hot water); 16 sucaryl tablets, 4 ounces glycerin.

Simmer peaches over low heat for 30 minutes, then add remaining ingredients and simmer 10 minute, stirring frequently. Using sterile spoons and others equipment, pour into pint jars which have been sterilized by boiling in boiling water 20 minutes with rubbers, tops and rings—all sterilized Seal tight, invert until cool.

✧ ✧ ✧

Lombard Plum Jam

(This recipe may be used for Prune plums too.)

Six cups washed Lombard plums, well packed—after they have been stoned and cut up. Do not peel the plums.

Boil gently over low heat for 35 minutes, stirring often to prevent sticking. After 35 minutes add 12 tablespoons (¾ cup) glycerin, 36 sucaryl tablets, and boil gently 15 minutes longer, stirring almost constantly.

If you think your jam is not thick enough for jam consistency boil 5 minutes longer, stirring. However, when the jam is cold it is much thicker than when it is hot.

Pour into sterilized pint jars and seal with sterile rubber rings and glass tops.

✧ ✧ ✧

Sugarless Black Currant Jam

Wash, drain and mash 4 cups ripe black currants with potato masher. Simmer gently in flat-bottomed saucepan 15 minutes. Add 18 sucaryl tablets (to be bought in large drug stores, 6 tablespoons glycerin and ½ teaspoon certo crystals. Stir over low heat until juice is a little thickened. Pour into sterile jars and seal perfectly.

✧ ✧ ✧

Chili Sauce, Sugarless

Eighteen medium large fully-ripe tomatoes, 3 cups chopped one half hour and discard it. 4 cups spirit vinegar, 24 sucaryl tablets, 1 teaspoon each ground allspice, black pepper and cayenne pepper (reduce these last three ingredients to half if you want very mild chili sauce), 2 tablespoons salt. Peel tomatoes after scalding, cut in quarters. Let excess liquid drain off for Peel and chop onions, wash and chop celery in ½-inch pieces. Add them and all remaining ingredients except sucaryl tablets and boil over medium heat one and one-quarter hours. Add sucaryl tablets, stir for 5 minutes over low heat. Pour into sterile pint jars and seal with sterile tops. Seal with great care.

Appoint Woman Chairman Of Labor Party

MARGATE, England, Oct. 5—(Reuters)—Alice Bacon, 40-year-old school teacher, has just been put in charge of her biggest class. She'll serve as chairman of the Labor Party for the next 12 months, following her election to the post Tuesday at the party's annual conference here.

She'll be nominal leader of 6,000,000 party members during a crucial year which may see Labor's next struggle for re-election.

A party executive member for nine years and member of parliament for industrial Northeast Leeds since 1945, Miss Bacon is the fifth woman to hold the office. Most recent was Education Minister "Red Ellen" Wilkinson who died in 1947.

Daughter of a Yorkshire miner, Alice Bacon has come a long way in politics since she joined the Labor Party and made her first political speech at the age of 16.

She has represented her party at meetings and conferences in Canada, the United States, Russia—where she met Prime Minister Stalin in 1946—Austria and Palestine.

Miss Bacon has a fluent platform manner with a straight-from-the-shoulder speaking technique that audiences like.

She succeeds Sam Watson, an executive of the national Union of Mineworkers, in the Labor Party leadership.

Televised Styles Put Women Back on Pedestal

LONDON, Oct. 5 —(Reuters)—British women sat in their homes Monday and looked at the latest Paris fashions.

The fashions, latest creation of top designer Christian Dior, were televised from London. Six picked mannequins displayed 38 models from the Dior autumn and winter collection.

Dior's latest look is the "pedestal look" — featuring 18-inch waists, accentuated busts, bare shoulders, diamante - studded white tulle, and deep-red roses pinned to the waist.

Dior's idea this year is to place the modern woman right back on a pedestal.

Ballerina-length gowns, recently believed to be on the way out, were much to the fore in this collection, which also upheld the natural shoulder line.

The straight-across neckline, featured throughout, was the one severe line in an ultra-feminine display.

Large pockets — some of the evening gowns showing slit pockets—nutria fur and floating panels were some of the details effectively stressed.

Grey was the color emphasized for day wear. One outstanding ensemble was a dark-grey woollen dress and matching coat lined with nutria fur.

Coats were tightly belted in three-quarter length, worn over slim-fitting dresses. Cocktail and evening gowns were almost exclusively strapless, as were evening "coats."

Tulip planting time is here again . . . once again it's time to think of your springtime garden . . . and how to plant this fall for the best results with your tulips. Tulips should be planted before frost hardens the ground . . . planting time usually extends to the middle of November, but in warmer climates planting should be delayed until Thanksgiving or even later. Tulips like a place in the sun in a rich, loamy well-drained soil . . . some prepared compost should be dug in deeply . . . manure should never be in contact with the bulbs . . . Best method of planting is to take out the top five inches of soil and set it aside . . . dig compost into the area below to a depth of six to eight inches . . . level surface with a rake after sprinkling bone meal or superphosphate . . . set bulbs on this surface from five to six inches apart and cover with top soil that was originally removed . . . Urges WA To Study

Bridgenorth W.A. members were guests of Mrs. C. Hartman Wednesday for the Thanksgiving meeting. Mrs. E. Wand, president of Peterborough presbytery W.A., was speaker for the occasion, and explained the workings of the presbytery which, she said is the link between the local organization and Dominion Council. Morris introduced Mrs. Wand, and Mrs. J. Jopling conveyed the thanks of the group.

In absence of the president, Mrs. P. Pettersone, presided, and at the opening asked for a minute of silent prayer giving thanks for blessings received. Cards of thanks were read by secretary Mrs. K. Hardill. A plea from the Red Cross for workers was heard, and will be discussed further at a future meeting. It was decided to give $50 to the Church Board as an anniversary offering and $50 to the Missionary and Maintenance Fund.

Mrs. Jack Jopling conducted the devotional period with "Thanksgiving" as the theme. Rev. Mr. Morris led in prayer; Mrs. J. Smith read the lesson thought and Mrs. K. Hardill read a Psalm. Mrs. Wallace Nichols invited the group to her home for November meeting. The ladies also enjoyed a social time with refreshments served by the social committee.

Turandot Opens Opera For CB Company in 1950

By GLENNE CURRIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

"Something new, something big—popular stuff, too" seems to be the idea behind the 1950-51 season of the CBC Opera Company.

Striving for a varied and balanced schedule, music producer Terence Gibbs has come up with something for practically ever operatic taste for the company's third season.

The six operas to be heard this season, with their dates, are:

"Turandot," by Puccini, Oct. 18; "Rigoletto," Verdi, Dec. 13; "Albert Herring," Benjamin Britten, Jan. 10; "Madame Butterfly," Puccini, Feb. 7; "Faust," Gounod, March 7; "Cosi Fan Tutte," Mozart, April 18. Faust will originate in Montreal, the others in Toronto.

The "something old . . ." business is a sort of unwritten company policy, the way producer Gibbs tells it.

Try Big

"We try to start off with a 'big' work," he says. "Last year it was 'Peter Grimes'; this year it's 'Turandot'. The same goes for the final production—'Cosi'."

"Turandot," new to Canadian listeners, certainly is a big production on paper. On hand will be nine soloists, a chorus of 50, 12 choirboys and a 60-man orchestra, including seven percussion players.

Comedy and novelty will be supplied by the hilarious "Albert Herring," based on de Maupassant's "Madame Husson's May King". Popular acclaim brings back "Madame Butterfly" for a repeat performance. Then there are the better known operas—in this case, "Rigeletto" and Faust".

In the early stages of planning, it was a toss-up between "Turandot" and "Aida" for the opening production. Aside from difficulties in casting the latter (policy is to stick to Canadian artists; no "outsider" yet has appeared in any company production) there was the feeling that they would have a hard task to match the job done on "Aida" last season by Toscanini. As it is, CBC officials are wondering how their production will stack up against the New York City Opera's recent presentation of "Turanot".

Operas in English

There'll be one distinct difference, however. While the New York audience heard the opera in the original Italian, Canadian listeners will hear it in English. "Cosi Fan Tutte" also will be heard in translation.

There are some people who object to the translation of opera into English, but Gibbs isn't one of them. He's a fervent believer in the practice. Given good translations, he'll use them as often as he can.

"Everywhere in the world you go," he told The Canadian Press "you'll hear opera sung in the language of the country it's being played in. 'Peter Grimes,' for instance, has been sung in Dutch, Swedish, German and Italian.

Good Translations

"There's no reason why you shouldn't sing in English. The big thing against it has been the fact that most translations have been appallingly bad. Lately, however, serious writers, many of them musicians, have been turning out some very good translations.

"It's an absolute fallacy to say that opera suffers when sung in English. It only suffers when either the singer or the listener can't speak English."

Put like that, it's hard to disagree with him. But there's one conversation he recalls that may have strengthened his attitude towards opera in English.

After an English production of Mozart's "Don Giovanni," he was talking to a woman who didn't approve of the practice. She couldn't stand it at all. "'Don Giovanni,'" she said, "should always be sung in the original German!"

Newton-Parnam

HAVELOCK, Oct. 5—(ENS)—The home of Mrs. Robert McMillen was scene of a wedding of interest when Marion Naomi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Parnam of Toronto was united in marriage to Howard Stewart Newton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Newton of Belmont township.

The Rev. F. R. Vanderburgh performed the ceremony and the wedding music was played by Miss Barbara Pollock, cousin of the bride During signing of the register Mr. Donald Pollock, sang "The Voice That Breathes O'er Eden".

The bride wore white taffeta, trimmed with lace. Her veil was held by a bandeau of orange blosoms and she carried Bettertime roses and gladioli. Miss Coleen Parnam as bridesmaid was attired in rose taffeta, with trimming of lace and carried a bouque of pink and white gladioli. Mr. Harry Newton was groomsman for his brother.

A buffet lunch was served to relatives and friends. The bride's mother received dressed in a navy taffeta with a corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother who wore green crepe with corsage of red roses.

The couple will live in Lansing.

Markets Glutted Sardines Return Pleases Portugal

By LUIS TIEVES

LISBON—(Reuters)—Sardines, after an absence of 2½ years, are back again off the Portuguese coast in such numbers that the market is glutted.

The canning industry and domestic consumers are unable to keep pace with supplies; the surplus is being sold for manure.

Some days, so many ships arrive in port laden with sardines that fishermen are unable to sell them, even for fertilizer. The people do not want to take them away even free of charge.

Sardines are sold in the local "lota" (fish market) by the fisherman as soon as they have landed their catch. Priority of purchase goes to the canning factories. When these have taken all they want, the remainder of the catch is loaded on trucks to be taken to towns and villages throughout the country.

On days when the surplus is large, the trucks race each other along the roads in order to arrive first at the market places.

The return of the sardines to Portuguese waters has caused widespread satisfaction in Portugal, for sardines are one of the most important items in the country's economy.

Major Industry

Some 20,000 men are engaged in fishing sardines; another 20,000 workers, mainly women, are employed canning them—and the whole population eats them.

Most of the 182 canning factories had been idle since last January until the sardines returned in the latter part of August. Now, all the factories are working to capacity, many of them for 24 hours a day.

Business is good. Most factories are selling their output to American importers who pay higher than normal prices to ensure priority of delivery.

The sardines which the Portuguese are now eating are the sort they like best—the small ones. They consider that the small ones are the most tasty. They have a proverb which says: "Among women and sardines, the smallest ones are most sought after."

There are differences of opinion as to the accuracy of this proverb regarding women—but opinion here is unanimous in so far as sardines are concerned.

DOROTHY DIX

Boy Asks How He Can Know His Father Better

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a boy of 18, going to college away from home. I have a fine father and mother and a brother of 20. My father has worked hard and has been fairly successful.

Dorothy Dix

He has been very good to us, but he has been so busy he has not had time to talk with my brother and myself about our problems. I long to confide in him, but when I try to talk to him I go dumb. Now I want to talk over the girl proposition with him. He thinks I am too young to go steady with a girl, and that I should go with lots of girls and have lots of friends. He says that I have plenty of time before I should think seriously about girls. But both my brother and I disagree with him on that point. How can I get close enough to my father to tell him anything I want to?

A CONSTANT READER.

ANSWER: I doubt if children ever really get to know their fathers well enough to talk freely to them unless they begin their acquaintanceship when they are babes. If the father has never chummed up with his boy in childhood, a wall of reserve that neither can break down is built up between them. This is a great misfortune to both, for the father is nearly always more anxious for the boy's confidence than the boy is to give it, but he is as paralyzed when it comes to approaching the boy as the boy is when he tries to make advances to him.

Problem Is Widespread

It is literally true that there are thousands of children whose only speaking acquaintance with their fathers consists in asking for something. They have never sat down and had a talk with their father in their lives. They have no idea of what Father thinks about anything on earth. It would amaze them beyond measure if they were told that Father would be pleased to death if they would show him the slightest sign of affection; that they would feel more honored if Johnny and Susie would give him their confidence than he would with an audience with the President. No doubt your father feels this way about you. I urge you to take your courage in both hands and tell him just exactly what you have written me. I'll bet that he will meet you more than halfway, and, after you have broken the ice, you will find that he is the most sympathetic and understanding person in the world to you.

His advice to you and your brothers about girls is the very essence of wisdom. At 18 you are too young to know what real love is. It is just a passing fancy that you will get over and you will be so glad if you are not messed up in any entangling alliance.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have a friend who should be happy as the day is long. Has a lovely home, a good husband, two beautiful children, scores of friends, yet she is so miserable she is contemplating suicide. And what do you think she is brooding about? She wants to be the thinnest person going, starves herself, hasn't eaten a square meal for ages and is so snappy she can't speak a kind word even to her little girl. I know this is a mental state, though what brought it on I could not say. If she could only be jarred out of it I would be glad to do the jarring, but I don't know what to do. Can you suggest anything?

MONICA.

ANSWER: Of course, what's the matter with her is hunger. People on a diet are always irritable as sore-headed bears. Semi-starvation has the same effect on humans as it does on other animals. It makes them snappy and snarly. We have to be well fed in order to be amiable.

Your friend seems to have an aggravated case of the living-skeleton complex and I doubt that there is any cure for that, since once a woman gets obsessed with the mania for reducing herself to a bag of bones she is deaf to the warnings of her physician and the pleas of her family, and blind to the ravages that malnutrition is making on her looks.

The only suggestion I can make to you about dealing with a woman who is willing to wreck her health and her family in order to be thin is to send for a psychiatrist and have her head examined. Perhaps the idea of sending her to a home for the feeble-minded might jar her into using a little intelligence, if she has any.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have promised to marry a young man the first of next month. He is the main support of his widowed mother. There are two married daughters, but for some reason she doesn't go to stay with them except for an occasional week-end. The mother expects my fiance to take care of her. He makes a very small salary. I don't mind that, but I don't like the thought of having his mother with us all the time and having to take care of her as she is sick a great deal. What about it?

ANSWER: I think you should decide this matter very definitely before you marry and have it thoroughly understood whether the man's mother will make her home entirely with him, or if she will divide upu her time between her daughters.

Don't wait until after you are married and then consider yourself a martyr because you have to take care of a poor old sick woman. Either don't marry him, or be a sport about it.

Education Head Appointed For Garment Union

MONTREAL — (CP) — Miss Yvette Charpentier is a pioneer of sorts. She is the first woman to be appointed director of the educational department of the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union.

Starting young as a "midinette," Miss Charpentier is a veteran needleworker. It is the experience that will help her to satisfy the hopes and needs of the 10,000 girls she will guide and assist.

At a press conference, laughing, humorous Miss Charpentier said she hopes to make the life of the many needleworkers more pleasant and more gratifying; and because she is one of them, she knows what they want.

Interested in Personality

Although she is greatly interested in the cultural and scholastic courses being offered by her department, her main enthusiasm lies in the personality class.

She is a firm believer in the power of charm and poise as a morale-builder. Miss Charpentier will open a library of the works of Canadian authors this autumn.

The main courses offered by the ILGWU for its women employees are English, conducted by Miss Dolores Beaudry; French, by Miss Imma Nassa; singing, by Miss Simone Quesnel and drawing and painting by Remi Arbour.

Other classes will be poise and personality, dramatics and public-speaking, trade-labor relations, fine needlework and arts and crafts.

CWL Suggests Fund to Assist Immigrants

HALIFAX, Oct. 5—(CP)—An emergency fund to assist stranded immigrants at Halifax and other Canadian ports of entry was suggested Wednesday at the 30th annual convention of the Catholic Women's League of Canada.

Sister Gillis, supervisor of the Sisters of Service, said many persons arrived in Canada without enough money to buy meals while en route to their new homes across the Dominion.

Mrs. T. H. Hay of Ottawa, in her report on immigration, told of the league's work in helping immigrants find employment and teaching them English.

Organization reports showed increased memberships in all sections of the league.

able to reap the benefit of these negotiations until the new union is certified by the Labor Board and a contract signed with the company after fresh negotiations."

Three Months' Delay?

He suggested it might be three months before this came about and he doubted the company would pay retroactive wages.

"Until that time the workers will be losing 12 cents an hour," said Mr. Higgins. "Our union money was used to do the job of a CCL organizer."

Mr. Higgins summed up his position:

"I think affiliation with an international union is a step in the right direction, but in the meantime the workers should have the privilege of working under the gains of the new contract. Certainly they should have had the democratic right to vote on whether or not to accept the contract."

Driver Found Guilty, Pays $25 Fine

Crashing a taxi into a parked car and then a house cost Fred C. LaPlante, 22, of 293 Westcott St., a $25 fine with $6.75 court costs when he was found guilty in police court today of careless driving.

A second charge laid by taxi owner Geoffrey Feeley, that LaPlante took the cab without his consent, was withdrawn.

Constable Sherman Keliele testifid that Saturday morning shortly before five a.m., he investigated an accident in which LaPlante, driving on the wrong side of Romaine St., crashed into a parked car owned by Herb Payne, 273 Romaine St.

The taxi then turned sharply south across a lawn, through a small wooden fence and hit the house, 273 Romaine St., gouging out holes in the cement.

The Payne car parked with the hand brake full on, was driven ahead by the impact 60 feet, two inches, scraping a tree on the way.

Constable Keliele testified witnesses told him there was a girl riding with LaPlante, but when he asked LaPlante about it, LaPlante told him there had been no girl in the car with him. The constable found a woman's green purse in the cab and sent Constable Douglas Stark searching for her.

Constable Stark found Maureen Kelly, 22, YWCA, in a back room of Feeley's Taxi office on Aylmer St. She was bleeding from the mouth and appeared to be suffering shock. She was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital for treatment and released the next day.

Constable Keliele said although it had been foggy that morning, there was a street light hanging over the centre of the road about five feet behind the payne car. The Payne car had been parked with the left rear tire over the curb a few inches.

"I have no hesitation in finding the accused guilty," said Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C. He said there was sufficient evidence to warrant his drawing an inference that LaPlante was speeding and was not keeping a proper lookout.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said he had advised Feeley to drop the charge against LaPlante of taking the cab without his consent. And since Feeley had left the court room only a minute or two before he was "apparently content with that."

Bail $1,000 On Theft Count

A Barrie man, Gorman Ritchie, was found guilty in police court today of a charge of vagrancy. He was remanded on a second charge of breaking entry and theft, on $1,000 bail.

He is charged with breaking into a store at Charlotte and Louis Sts. used by women's church groups to hold rummage sales. It is alleged he stole 16 shirts, some dresses and other clothing from the store the night of Sept. 27. He elected trial by a higher court.

Testifying on the vagrancy charge, Constable Allen Edmison said he had picked up Ritchie on Aylmer St. He said Ritchie admitted not having any money and had no place to go.

Ritchie said in his own defence, that he had been waiting for his girl friend and later he intended to go to his sister's home in the city. He admitted that although he had arrived in the city five days before, he had not been to his sister's home. He spent one night at least sleeping on a verandah. He said he had received $10 from the Department of Welfare.

Britain Sending Man To U.S. To Ease Deadlock

LONDON, Oct. 5 — (AP—The United States has objected to a British request for money to help finance Britain's three-year re-armament program, informed sources reported Wednesday.

Hugh Gaitskell, Britain's acting treasury chief, is flying to the United States Sunday, to attempt to meet the American objections, the informants said.

Britain in response to an American request last August laid down a £3,400,000,000 three-year defense program. She said she could achieve its targets without reverting to a full war economy only if the U.S. helped with raw materials, equipment, and freely-convertible dollars.

Britain asked for about $1,500,000,000 worth of direct assistance for arms in the next three years. Other Atlantic pact countries put in similar requests for help.

Discussions Lag

Since then, high U.S. and British officials have been discussing the British program. The United States told Britain it would be difficult if not impossible to persuade Congress to provide more freely convertible dollar help—over and above that given through ECA — to assist either British or European rearmament.

Main burden of U.S. criticisms of the British program has been that it aims at doing too little too slowly.

American officials reportedly have argued that Britain still is placing more stress on economic recovery than the United States thinks is justified in the present tense world situation.

Gaitskell presumably will try to resolve the conflicts between Britain's recovery spending and her defense expenditures when he visits Washington.

Rules City Support Child

TORONTO, Oct 5 — (CP). — The Ontario Court of Appeal has ruled that the city of Peterborough is responsible for the support of a child whom the city regarded as a Peterborough County responsibility.

The court found that the city is responsible because the child was taken into custody at the courthouse in the city.

City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, KC, argued September 27 that the county should pay, since child was taken from a residence in the county area where he had been placed by his mother.

The appeal was from an order by a family court judge, W. R. Philp, KC, requiring the county to pay $1.61 a day for the child's keep.

Drug Scheme Causing Grave Shortages

By LOUIS L. LECK

SYDNEY, Australia —(CP)—A week after the Australian free drug scheme began early in September, a shortage of rare and expensive drugs was reported.

Under the scheme, "life-saving and disease-preventing" drugs are dispensed by pharmacists at government cost on doctor's prescription. Only drugs named on a special government list are dispensed free.

Supplies of costly drugs are running low, say manufacturing drug houses. They blame the number of prescriptions being issued under the scheme.

Spokesmen explained that previously the drugs were available only to people who could pay for them, but now the doctors prescribe them whenever they believe they will be of use.

One spokesman said supplies of aureomycin were precariously low. Under the free scheme, there was a considerable increase in demand for the anti-biotic, which has to be imported from the United States.

At the end of the first week, there was insufficient aureomycin in Australia to supply every chemist with even one bottle of 16 capsules—one bottle is not enough for a single treatment.

Health Minister Sir Earle Page has warned that disciplinary action will be taken against doctors who use the plan to prescribe drugs "without discretion."

Lawyer's Many Tickets For Parking Confuse

"I appear on behalf of the accused," said Emmett F. Sheehy when Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., called out the name of E. F. Sheehy in police court today.

The court had two charges of parking infractions against Mr. Sheehy. The accused said he had already paid one parking ticket.

"I'm prepared to pay one of them, but I don't know which one,' he said.

The cases were adjourned to give Mr. Sheehy and the police department time to find out which one, if any, Mr. Sheehy had already paid.

Alberta Opens $90,000,000 Oil Pipeline

EDMONTON, Oct. 5 — (CP)—Alberta oil is flowing east to Regina following the official opening Wednesday of the $90,000,000 interprovincial pipeline.

A vital factor in Canada's drive toward self-sufficiency in petroleum products, the line eventually will carry oil 1,127 miles to Superior, Wis., for tanker shipment through the Great Lakes to Eastern markets.

The pipeline was officially opened when Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta spun a big valve wheel at the pumping station four miles south of Edmonton. The big storage tanks there are fed by a 30-mile line from the Redwater oil field, Canada's largest.

Also attending the ceremony, Federal Trade Minister C. D. Howe described the silent underground transportation system as "an essential factor in our preparedness program for the defence of Canada."

Stop Economy Drain

Mr. Howe said it will "stop a drain on our economy of at least $150,000,000 a year, now being spent for foreign crude."

Travelling at the rate of about 17 miles a day, the oil is expected to reach Regina refineries by November 1. When it arrives there the pipeline will hold 840,000 barrels of oil worth about $2,419,200.

Preceding the oil in its journey three feet under the Prairie is a "pig," a 350-pound metal-and-rubber cylinder which clears refuse and air pockets as it is forced along by the steady flow of petroleum.

Takes Six Months

Canada's first major crude-oil line began operation just six months after construction started last spring. It is laid under two rivers and across property of 2,100 landowners. In many places, farming operations are conducted over the sprawling giant.

It will replace some 800 railway tank cars that have been used to move oil between Edmonton and Regina. Pipeline shipping rates will be about one-third of railway rates.

Rates will range from 3½ cents a barrel from Redwater to Edmonton to 56 cents a barrel from Edmonton to Superior. Crude oil loaded aboard lake tankers at Superior will be subject to an additional charge of 3½ cents a barrel.

By the end of November the Alberta crude will be flowing through the next 336-mile leg of the line to Gretna, Man. The last section of Superior will begin operating about the end of December.

Exhausted South Koreans Straggle Into Red Country

By HAL BOYLE

IN NORTH KOREA, Oct. 5 (AP)—Here is what it is like above the 38th parallel in North Korea:

An exhausted South Korean soldier sleeps in a muddy ditch, his unheeding head pillowed in the yellow dust of the roadway.

Two lines of bone-weary South Korean soldiers limp past over the stones and ruts of the road they have trudged along for more than a fortnight from deep in South Korea.

The stones have torn to tatters the rubber-soled shoes of some soldiers, and they have replaced them with peasant slippers of rice straw.

But they manage a sweat-stained grin as they pass. A battered truck wheezes by—so decrepit it seems held together only by the morale of the men in it. But troops jammed in it are singing, shouting and waving small black-red-and-white flags of the Korean Republic.

Look Enviously

The marching troops look at the riders enviously then turn their heads to the yellow road and break into the shuffling trot typical of their infantry.

Marching with them and shouldering part of their equipment are 20 or more boys less than 10 years old. They are camp followers attacked by the joy of going with the winning army—and getting a bowl of free rice.

Behind the column slowly stumbles a line of cvivilian laborers. Each is burdened with a wooden pack to which is tied a fresh-cut log almost as wide as the road and more than six inches thick. The logs are used to bridge streams. They appear heavy enough to break the back of a longshoreman but the Korean workers apparently can tote them for miles.

Soldiers Stragglers.

And behind them for hours come soldier stragglers —men too worn out to keep the killing pace, middle-aged men limping painfully, young wounded men with blood-stained bandages on cheeks arms and legs.

But they want to catch up with the column, for there are no kitchen trucks in this army to wheel back the rice ration.

Some distance back is a large sign lettered in a language the South Korean soldier doesn't understand. The language is English and the sign says:

"You are crossing the 38th parallel. Courtesy of the third ROK (Republic of Korea) division. We were first."

Memo to HUNTERS...

Now is the time when all over Ontario sportsmen enjoy the thrills of hunting. In marshes, fields and forests, hunters make full use of our abundance of wild game.

Now, too, is the time to consider what this implies. If we think for a moment, we must realize that our supply of game is not inexhaustible. That's why we must observe the game regulations.

Game laws are designed to protect our sport—not to restrict it. If we all consider the importance of conservation at this season, and take only what we can use, we'll have better sport tomorrow.

Conserve today for tomorrow's holiday.

Development Of Ungava Seen As Five-Year Job In Quebec

By ALAN RANDAL

MONTREAL, Oct. 5 —(CP)— A summer's throbbing probe of the Ungava-Labrador wilderness has about ended.

And today key moves in this creation of a new "kingdom of iron" in Northern Quebec are taking place in the cities, in the private councils of Big Money.

This is, perhaps, private enterprise at its biggest.

Involved are millions of tons of high grade iron ore in the Ungava-Labrador "trough." The problem is to get this iron to market economically. The answer—before ever a nickel of profit is made from Ungava's wealth—is "more money."

Already the probing for and charting of iron deposits has involved hundreds of millions. Needed are many millions more for construction of mine establishments, a $100,000,000, 360-mile railway and shipping docks.

Five Year Job

At best it is a five-year job. But indications today are that the financing now is a matter of tying up the loose ends. Then back to the schedule which calls for mining and shipping of at least 10,000,000 tons of iron ore a year out of the Ungava area by 1955.

Already the green light has been given for construction of the railway from Sept Iles on the St. Lawrence River to the iron range on the Quebec-Labrador boundary. Cartier Construction Company, Quebec, has been awarded the contract. Associated with Cartier are Fred Mannix and Co. Ltd., of Edmonton and Vancouver; Morrison-Knudsen Corp., Boise, Idaho; and McNamara Construction Company, Toronto.

The 360-mile line will be known as Quebec North Shore and Labrador Railway Company, wholly owned by the iron ore interests — Labrador Mining and Exploration Co. Ltd., and Hollinger North Shore Exploration Company.

Start on Railroad

Work on the railroad will start immediately with the rushing of a temporary dock at Sept Iles to handle construction equipment. This gear will be distributed during the winter over the first 100 miles of the road and by spring the cutting of tunnels will be about completed. Ten airfields are to be built for servicing the road-builders.

Definitely there now is no doubt that what is probably the biggest gamble in Canadian mining history has developed a champion. W. H. Durrell, general manager of the Labrador Mining and Exploration Company, explained that at the end of 1948 there were 323,000,000 tons of high grade iron ore "in sight." More was uncovered last summer.

Through 1948 the diamond drills cut into iron deposits which were previously known. During 1949 the field campaign was confined largely to catching up on geological mapping so that 1950's drilling could be a search for new ore.

Haven't Figures

"We have not our figures of discovery for this summer, but certainly we have enough ore in sight to satisfy everybody that the field is tremendous," said Mr. Durrell.

During the past summer 13 drilling crews, involving some 300 men, worked out of headquarters at Burnt Creek, about 320 miles north of Sept Iles. The drillers will come out for the winter, leaving their operations which extend 200 miles through the "trough" and only a maintenance crew of 30-odd men will remain. Spring will see the country come to life again.

"It would be a waste of time to go on with further drilling before mining starts," said Mr. Durrell. "Exploration now can be carried on more economically when integrated with active mining operations."

He explained it is planned to chart each year as much ore as is mined, to keep a reserve of some 400,000,000 tons continuously ahead.

Village Trying New School System

TORONTO, Oct. 5—(CP)—A full-scale experiment, believed unique in educational circles, is being carried out in the five schools in suburban Forest Hill village.

The system, started two years ago, has been described as "sensible applied psychiatry for every student."

It has the active interest and support of the Dominion and Provincial governments, the University of Toronto, the Canadian Mental Health Association, and parents and leaders of the village itself.

Bases of the experiment is a form of "bull session" in which pupils from grades four to 12 participate, under the leadership —but not the direction—of a trained psychologist. Students at these sessions talk on any subject they wish.

If a boy or girl has a serious problem which cannot be resolved in the general discussion the case if referred to a "counselling team" composed of psychiatrists, psychologists, perhaps a doctor and a social worker, the school principal and all teachers who know the pupil's background and difficulties.

If necessary, the case is referred on to a clinic, headed by Dr. Lila Maltby, full-time staff psychiatrist. She makes a full investigation and applies the best of modern methods to the child's problem. Her findings are kept strictly confidential.

Selected teachers from other parts of Canada spend a year learning something of the system and then return to adapt the techniques to their local situations.

Stassen Asks Stalin Meeting

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(AP) —Harold E. Stassen announced Wednesday he has written Prime Minister Stalin of Russia suggesting a face-to-face meeting in an effort "to stop the drift toward war".

The state department quickly disowned Stassen's move as having any official status. A spokesman said, however, that Stassen would undoubtedly be granted a passport if he asks one to carry out his proposed mission.

Michael J. McDermott, state department press office, told reporters that State Secretary Dean Acheson was informed of Stassen's letter two days ago, but he declared:

"The state department had no prior knowledge. I understand the letter was sent in Mr. Stassen's private capacity. It had no official inspiration.

Stassen told a press conference he wrote Stalin Monday, strongly urging the Soviet dictator to change the Soviet Union's present policy "and move toward world peace and freedom for mankind."

Stassen now is president of the University of Pennsylvania. A former governor of Minnesota, he was an aspirant to the 1948 Republican presidential nomination that went to Thomas E. Dewey.

Hamner's Error Aids Yanks Tie Game In Thrilling Eighth

Yanks Score First Run In Third Inning But Philadelphia Ties It In Sixth As Both Teams Fight Close Battle

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—(AP)—Mike Goliat sent the Phillies out front of New York Yankees 2-1 at the end of seven innings today with a single scoring Gran Hamner from second base. It was the eighth hit off Ed Lopat in this third World Series game. The Yanks had four off Ken Heintzelman in a battle of lefthanders. Ennis' double followed by Sisler's Texas League single to left produced the first Phil run in the sixth. The Yanks nicked Ken Heintzelman for a run on a walk, stolen base, error and single in the third.

Heintzelman, a grey-thatched "softball" pitcher, won only three games in the regular season, losing nine. He didn't win from May 8 to September 15.

Lopat has a season's record of 18 wins and eight defeats.

It was clear and cool in the Stadium as the game started. Some of the crowd which almost filled the centre-field seats two hours before game time, had been in line through the night.

Shuffle Batting Order

With lefthander, Lopat, pitching for the Yanks, the Phils shuffled their batting order but not their line-up. Third baseman Willie Jones moves up to third place and leftfielder Dick Sisler drops to fifth.

With a lefthanded pitcher on the hill for the Phils, Casey Stengel changed his line-up. Clipp Mapes went to right field with Hank Bauer moving into left, replacing Gene Woodling. Billy Johnson was on third base instead of Bobby Brown.

This meant benching his two top hitters for both Woodling and Brown were hitting .375. However, that was against righthanded pitching. Both hit lefthanded.

Phil Rizzuto was back in his old spot as lead-off man. Gerry Coleman moved up from eighth to second in the order.

First Inning Phillies

Waitkus drilled a ground single into right field. Ashburn struck out. Jones tapped lightly in front of the plate and was thrown out by Lopat. Ennis rapped a sharp grounded right at Johnson who threw him out.

2 Power Boats Collide, Pair Rescued

ALEXANDRIA BAY, N.Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—Andrew F. McNally, 64, of Chicago, chairman of the board of Rand-McNally and Company, was injured Thursday in a collision of two power boats in the St. Lawrence River.

Also hurt was Clarence Manneau, 46, a resident of Wellesly Island in the St. Lawrence. Both are confined to hospital in this river village.

The hospital said McNally, who has a summer home on Wellesly Island, was suffering from a brain concussion, face cuts and exposure, and that Manneau suffered shock.

Manneau was piloting a 26-foot craft in which McNally was a passenger. It collided with a 35-foot heavy work boat owned by Julius M. Breitenbach, wealthy Brooklyn medicine manufacturer who has a summer home on Maple Island.

Maple and Wellesly Islands are in the 1,000 Islands group.

Boat Sinks

Breitenbach was not aboard his boat which was piloted by Charles Olsen of Maple Island. Olsen and two passengers escaped injury.

The craft carrying McNally and Manneau sank almost immediately after the crash and the two men were pulled from the water by Cecil Houghton who came out from Wellesly Island in another powerboat.

Olsen said he threw life preservers to the two men and then proceeded to shore with his boat which he said was sinking.

Manneau said McNally was stunned by the impact and that he held him on the surface by his overcoat collar until Houghton arrived.

1 Canadian Destroyer To Return In December

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 (CP)—At least one of Canada's three destroyers in Korean waters is slated to be posted home around the end of the year, navy headquarters said today.

But a spokesman said, the Korean situation is so fluid now that nobody knows just what is going to happen to the three destroyers although there are hopes they can come home a lot sooner than originally expected.

The tentative plans are that the Sioux will come home around the end of the year, the Cayuga early in March and the Athabaskan late in March.

Two east coast destroyers have orders to sail for the Pacific and eventually go to Korea. The Nootka is due to leave Halifax late next month, the Huron in February.

Fight To Halt Fire At Village

BATHURST, NB, Oct. 6 (CP)—Weary fire-fighters concentrated today on saving the homes of 20 to 30 families who Thursday evacuated a third tiny settlement in the face of a large forest fire 12 miles from this northern New Brunswick town.

The village of Lincour was abandoned just a day after 125 persons fled the neighboring settlements of St. Rosette and St. Charles South. This evacuation brought to 200 the number of villagers who have left their homes since the fire started Saturday.

About 150 women and children are under Red Cross care in the Parish Hall at St. Therese. A hall at West Bathurst holds 25 more, and the others are with relatives.

The weather forecast held no prospect for much-needed rain.

Lone Gunman Holds Up Bank Grabs $1,000 From Teller

Glass Firms To Pay $44,000 Fine

Smaller Companies Pay Lower Sum For Price Fixing

TORONTO, Oct. 6—(CP)—For operating as a price-fixing combine for 20 years, nine Ontario and Quebec glass companies today were fined a total of $44,000 and court costs estimated at $15,000.

Three were ordered to pay $10,000 each and costs, the maximum penalty. Five others were fined $2,500 each and costs and the ninth, described as an individual jobber, was fined $1,500 and costs.

T. N. Phelan of Toronto, Federal prosecutor, had suggested that the companies be fined $10,000 each and required to share costs of the investigation.

Mr. Justice W. R. Treleaven of the Ontario Supreme Court imposed the maximum penalty on Hobbs Glass Ltd., London, Ont., and on Pilkington Brothers (Canada) Ltd. and Consolidated Glass Ltd., both of Toronto. He said these firms were the largest in the group and gained more than the others from the combine's operations.

He said the five he was fining $2,500 each and costs were smaller firms and that the penalties in their case would not be so high that they would be forced out of business. They are Advance Glass and Mirror Co. Ltd., Canadian Plate and Window Glass Ltd., Excelsior Plate Glass Co. Ltd., and Queen City Glass Ltd., all of Toronto, and J. P. O'Shea and Co. Ltd., Montreal.

In the case of Lloyd's Glass Company of Hamilton, described as an individual jobber, the fine was $1,500 and costs.

The companies, in a surprise move at their trial Sept. 26, all pleaded guilty to the charge, laid under the Combines Investigation Act.

In admitting their guilt, they claimed they had done no injury to the public. The Combine had "brought the industry out of chaos" and "enabled it to serve the public better."

The government took a much more serious view. The Federal prosecutor, T. N. Phelan, said at the trial the companies had submitted identical bids on at least 153 separate tenders.

Even the maximum fine would be "entirely inadequate," he said. He asked the court at that time to order the nine to pay the costs of an investigation by Fred A. McGregor, former Combines commissioner.

A Nice Party

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—(AP)—Two hundred United Nations delegates, staff members and their wives dined and danced Wednesday night in the Rainbow Room at Radio City as guests of the Rockefellers. Only the Russians failed to attend from the list of invitations that included all 60 U.N. members.

Fast Police Work

HAMILTON, Oct. 6—(CP) Police Thursday recovered an automobile stolen from Guelph and arrested its two teen-aged occupants.

The driver gave his name as Raymond Fennell, 16. The other was unidentified. Both were from Guelph.

Police said they recovered the car before the owner knew it had been stolen from a lot in Guelph.

The car was spotted when it failed to stop at an intersection. The boys were charged with car theft and returned to Guelph.

Police Board Promises Windsor Action

WINDSOR, Oct. 6 (CP) — The Windsor Police Commission Thursday ended four days of intensive investigation of police administration and law enforcement in this border city with the promise of more to come when it reconvenes Oct. 16.

Judge Archibald Cochrane, commission chairman, indicated the three-man board is not prepared yet to draft a reorganization of the police department, but added: "We won't make recommendations—we act."

Meeting since Monday, the commission has questioned top police officials in its investigation which was touched off by a report on police conditions in Windsor by two provincial police inspectors.

List of Withdrawals

Sgt. George Browne, head of the police morality squad, gave evidence Thursday of the relationship between his squad and the Windsor crown attorney's office.

Producing a sheaf of court records, Sgt. Browne outlined a series of prosecutions against various persons in which the crown office ordered withdrawal of a serious morality charge in favor of a lesser one.

He said that requests for withdrawal of charges had been made by either Crown Attorney E. C. Awrey or the Assistant Crown Attorney, E. A. Duchesne.

Mr. Awrey was removed from his post in September when the provincial police report was made public.

Questioned by Judge Cochrane, Sgt. Browne said he conferred with the Crown Attorney's office in each morality squad case, obeying directions given by the Crown.

The sergeant expressed surprise when Judge Cochrane told him the Crown Attorney had no power to direct police in laying charges.

"I think you will find that from now on. That practice has ceased," the Judge said.

Examine Records

The Commission examined court records of the men: Alex Schincariol, John McCauley and Umberto Caverzan.

Judge Cochrane noted that each had been charged originally with keeping liquor for sale after raids by the morality squad. In each case, the charge was withdrawn

Convicted Of Carrying Concealed Weapons

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (CP)—Vladmir Varbue of Sudbury today was convicted of carrying concealed weapons—five sticks of dynamite — with which police said he intended to blow up the Toronto home of his estranged wife.

He was remanded to Oct. 13 for sentence.

Police said the 38-year-old miner had the dynamite—enough to seriously damage a city block—when arrested. He was carrying also detonator cap and fuse wrapped in absorbent cotton.

Deputy police chief M. M. Mulholland said Varbue wrote his wife a letter warning her what would happen if she didn't return to him.

Police Watch Border After Escape From Stevensville

STEVENSVILLE, Ont., Oct. 6—(CP)—A masked gunman stole about $1,000 from a Canadian Bank of Commerce branch here today and escaped in an automobile in which three accomplices were waiting.

"This is a holdup," the six-foot gunman snapped, thrusting a revolver into the face of teller Nancy Mewha, 25. "Hand over all the money in that cage. Be quiet and nothing will happen to you."

The girl handed the bandit all the cash in a drawer. As he fled, she fainted.

Police immediately converged on this community of 500 persons, eight miles east of Welland and midway between Welland and the border town of Fort Erie, Ont.

They soon established that the getaway car, the licence number of which was jotted down by a passer-by, had been stolen earlier in the day in Welland.

Watching Border

Police came from Niagara Falls, Welland, Fort Erie and Ridgeway. A close watch was placed on the border points of Niagara Falls and Fort Erie, through which it was though the thieves might try to escape to the United States.

In the bank besides Mrs. Mewha, were manager R. W. A. Ferguson and ledgerkeeper Mrs. Harold Lake.

Liquor Control Shake-up Hinted

TORONTO, Oct. 6 — (CP) — A Toronto paper says today in a newspage story that "a major shake-up in the provincial liquor control system that may be as "sensational as the Windsor police inquiry" will be announced shortly.

It quotes "a high government official" as saying that irregularities complained of "were on the part of lower officials connected with liquor administration" and that Liquor Commissioner Welsh, Maj. J. W. Foote, V.C., Deputy Commissioner, and Judge W. T. Robb, chairman of the Liquor Licence Board, had no part in them.

"However, it is indicated they will be affected in the shake-up," the paper adds. "It is learned that the present system of two boards, one in charge of sale and the other in charge of licences, will be scrapped and the whole liquor sale system placed under one liquor control czar.

New RCAF Base At North Bay

OTTAWA, Oct. 6—(CP)—A new RCAF flying station will be established at the Transport Department's airfield near North Bay, the Defence Department announced today.

The Department said that, in addition to the construction of a group of buildings, runways at the field are to be extended. The RCAF expects to occupy the station by the end of 1951.

The Department said work is to start immediately to set up a regular RCAF base complete with barrack blocks, headquarters building and married quarters. Construction contracts are to be let shortly by the Canadian Commercial Corporation, which handles defence purchasing.

The field will be used for operations and training in connection with the expansion of the Air Force, Mr. Claxton said.

During the war, the field served as an RAF training station. Later it was turned over to the Transport Department, which has since operated it as a landing point for Trans-Canada Air Lines and Canadian Pacific Air Lines. Its use by the RCAF will not affect the commercial operations.

International Control

OTTAWA, Oct. 6—(CP)—International Control of the prices of primary products as a means to hold down the cost of living has been urged on the government by the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions. The confederation was formed last year to replace a Russian dominated international labor body. Its resolution has been forwarded to the government by the Canadian Congress of Labor, the C.C.L. announced today.

Japanese Launch New Appeal To St. Laurent

OTTAWA, Oct. 6—(CP)—Representatives of Canada's Japanese have launched a new appeal to the government for an increase in compensation awarded for losses in the Second World War.

The Japanese-Canadian Citizens Association, has submitted a 3,000-word brief to Prime Minister St. Laurent. The brief says the $1,372,000 which the government now is distributing is not enough to meet "the injustices and hardship" suffered by Japanese-Canadians.

But there is no certainty that the government will give the new appeal any more attention than the others received during the last few months.

It is indicated the Association will be informed that the recommendations of the Royal Commission were final. No further compensation will be made.

The official thinking is that though the Japanese suffered, war brought suffering to others, too. Few were spared. The Japanese were no exception.

22,000 Uprooted

Some 22,000 Japanese in British Columbia were uprooted in 1942 from their homes, farms, fishing vessels and stores and shifted inland. They included women and children born in Canada, naturalized Canadians and Japanese nationals.

The Association says the government recognized that injustice had been done when it appointed a Royal Commission three years ago to investigate the claims of those caught up in the exodus.

Although the Commission recommended the payment of an additional $1,372,000 to Japanese over and above what they received in property sales, it was insufficient to cover all of the losses sustained. The money now is being distributed among 1,300 claimants from the government's Vancouver office.

Dudley Malone Dies

CULVER CITY, Calif., Oct. 6—(AP)—Dudley Field Malone, internationally-famed lawyer and former collector of the port of New oYrk died Thursday night at hospital. He was 68. Death came of a heart attack, hospital attendants said. Malone was an associate of the late Clarence Darrow in the famous Scopes evolution trial in 1925.

Reds Have Crushing Defeat In Austrian Fiasco, One Of Worst In Europe

50,000 Strikers Return To Their Jobs As Vienna Back To Normal; Purge Of Communist Leadership Likely

VIENNA, Oct. 6—(AP)—Communism today was considered to have suffered one of its most crushing recent defeats in Europe as Austria returned to normal after two days of Red terror. Trains were running on schedule again. Street cars operated unhindered and 50,000 striking Reds went back to work. Communist efforts to foment a general strike to terrorize the country, to isolate its capital and perhaps to set up a rump government were abandoned at midnight Thursday night.

The Communist leaders called off their ineffective two-day general strike and within minutes Red demonstrators took down barricades which yesterday closed all but one of Vienna's main rail lines and froze traffic from the capital into the Russian zone.

The Communists gave up in the face of calm resistance by the rest of the Austrians, who since the 13th century have sat the crossroads of the east and west and repeatedly have thrown back eastern aggression.

Ignored Strike Call

The bulk of the country's laborers ignored the Communist strike call.

The non-Communists battled fanatic young Reds for control of factories, power plants, transport facilities and government buildings.

Although Soviet troops and commanders aided the terrorist campaign, the Russians carefully avoided any action that might have caused an international incident.

The Austrian Reds said they called off their strike because of "Western pressure."

A purge of Red leadership is definitely in the cards as a result of the fiasco, but that is of secondary importance. More important is the fact that Austria safely remains the west's easternmost stronghold on the fringes of Russia's defence line in Europe.

The failure of the Communist attempt shows that only direct aggression by Russia might win the country to the Red fold. For this the Russians apparently are not ready.

Britain Hints Soviet Breached Big 4 Pact

LONDON, Oct. 6 (AP)—Britain hinted today she considers that Russia breached the big four Austrian occupation pact by backing Communist-led strikers against the Vienna government.

Austria has made such a charge in notes to the four occupying powers—Britain, France, Russia and the United States. A foreign office spokesman, referring to the Austrian protest, said the 1946 control agreement binds all occupying powers to help the government maintain law and order

South Koreans Record 20-Mile Advance

TOKYO, Oct. 6—(AP)—South Korean troops swept 20 miles deeper into Red North Korea today on the Sea of Japan coast.

They reached and passed a point more than 75 miles above Parallel 38 where the bulk of 175,000 United Nations troops were reported cocking a massive follow-up blow for a knockout.
